Rent control in La Verne?—first in state if OK'd

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

The first rent control ordinance in the state is coming up for consideration Monday night by the La Verne City Council amid protests by mobilehome park owners.

The owners want the council to delay passage of the regulation pending more study, or until the state passes its own law.

But the council feels the five months it has spent considering the proposal is enough time.

The proposed ordinance calls for a roll back of rentals charged to mobile home owners to Dec. 31, 1976, and sets up a hearing officer who would consider not only appeals but also request for rent increases.

Mobilehome owners contend that the park operators have been "gouging" them during the past three years with "unreasonable hikes" on the spaces the mobilehomes occupy.

Denis Thomas, chairman of the newly formed "Concerned Property owners of La Verne Committee," has attacked the ordinance as unfair, charging that it is an "arbitrary decision."

City Manager George Caswell said that while the state also is considering a rent control law so far the bill has not gotten out of the Assembly.

He said the local ordinance would be a "stop-gap" measure until the state law is passed.

The council also is scheduled to consider a tentative budget Monday that calls for a $5,231,418 expenditure for next year, $1,150,145 more than for the year just ending.

But Caswell said the tax rate is expected to stay $2.4137 per $100 of assessed valuation, the same as the current rate.

Space shuttle test a success

Enterprise carries 2 astronauts aloft

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE (AP) — In a flight prolonged by a balky communications system, the nation's Space Shuttle "Enterprise" carried its first man aloft Saturday for a series of nearly flawless tests high above this space test center in the barren Mojave Desert.

Perched atop a modified Boeing 747 jumbo jet, the two astronauts aboard the 150,000-pound shuttle ran through the rigorous tests under the control of the Johnson Space Center in Houston.

"The systems all worked very well and we accomplished the things just as we set out," said shuttle commander Fred W. Haise Jr. "I just can't tell you how elated I am to be at this point that we've been waiting for for so long."

"We had an extremely smooth flight," said Air Force Lt. Col. Gordon Fullerton, the shuttle pilot.

"The view from up there was spectacular," he added. "Looking down from where we were, you couldn't even see the wings (of the 747) ..... It was like being up there all alone."

Haise said the flight was marred by two minor problems early in the 56-minute flight. A vent valve that was supposed to open and lower cabin pressure as the shuttle ascended failed to operate, and an alternate device had to be used.

The other problem was caused when a local broadcasting station interferred with transmissions from the shuttle, causing some test data not to be received by Houston. Those tests had to be repeated, causing the flight to be extended 14 minutes beyond its scheduled 42 minutes.

Veteran astronaut Donald K. "Deke" Slayton, commander of this phase of the shuttle tests, admitted that the project managers were testing hard the new, untried electronic avionics devices. Some congressmen have criticized the project for pushing the equipment too hard.

"Yeah, we've been pushing and will keep pushing ..... but we're not gonna do anything until we're ready," Slayton said. "Everything certainly worked very well today."

Avionics includes all airborne electronic devices ranging from guidance systems to computers.

The shuttle, the size of a DC9 jetliner, is intended to serve as the workhorse of America's space program into the 21st Century. It is designed to carry scientists and materials into space for such projects as building space stations and conducting experiments. The 60-by25-foot cargo bay can carry 65,000 pounds of equipment.

The next in the series of four manned tests is scheduled for June 28.

The shuttle was carried to 14,970 feet above sea level and held at a steady speed of 209 miles an hour during most of the morning flight.

"Those speed brake tests looked good and all the other tests looked good so far," Houston control radioed to the Enterprise 37 minutes into the flight.

"Okie Doke," replied Haise.

No-fault insurance 'works'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new federal survey of no-fault automobile insurance plans in 16 states concludes that no-fault provides quicker and more equitable benefits than does the traditional liability system.

"No-fault automobile insurance works," said the Department of Transportation.

The report said the 16 states with full-fledged no-fault insurance plans "would appear to confirm the basic soundness of the theory and the feasibility of the theory's implementation."

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, released the DOT study. He said he will use it in hearings beginning June 27 on his proposal for federal no-fault minimum standards.

"The DOT study confirms that good no-fault laws are working efficiently and effectively to compensate auto accident victims," Magnuson said. "Perhaps now we can enact a uniform, sensible statute and stop this foot-dragging."

Compensation for injuries or damage in auto accidents traditionally is funded by liability insurance. Under that system, blame has to be fixed on one party whose insurance then compensates the victim. Both parties often have to hire attorneys and wage long, expensive legal battles before any benefits are paid out.

The delay in payments, inequitable benefit awards and a large build up of court cases led to a movement to substitute no-fault for the liability insurance system. Massachusetts was the first state to pass a nofault plan in 1970, 15 other states have enacted comprehensive no-fault plans and other states have adopted parts of the no-fault concept.

Carter's Father's Day message:

Hope for American family

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter says the government ought to give married working couples the same tax benefits available to unmarried working people who, live together.

He also says the government should remove from welfare programs the economic encouragement for fathers to desert their families.

The President, in a philosophical Fathers Day interview with The Associated Press, discussed the problems of the American family in 1977 and what the government might do to help.

Away from his imposing antique desk in the Oval Office, he relaxed across the room in a salmon-colored wing chair. He talked of the problems his own success has created for those close to him — the aides who spend so much time at the White House that he's had to order them to see their families.

Carter, husband for almost 31 years, father of four, spoke of his own family life as a child; of his joy at being a grandfather; of his support for working mothers, including his wife, Rosalynn. Sending her on a diplomatic mission to Latin America "proved to be one of the better things I've ever done," he said.

Then he talked of his hopes for the American family.

In almost every program that his administration puts forward, he said, "the integrity of the family ought to be a factor." Then, pausing almost wistfully, he added, "I would be inclined to put it as a much greater factor, perhaps, than some others."

Even the tax laws discriminate against the most traditional family value: marriage. Federal income taxes total less for two working single people who live together than for a married working couple.

Congress has voted this year to reduce the difference, but it still exists.

"And I would like to eliminate the disparity altogether," Carter said.

The welfare laws, he said, "quite often benefit handsomely the divided family. If the husband works full-time at the minimum wage, he makes a certain income for his wife and children. But if he leaves home or pretends to leave home and continues to work, and his family draws welfare payments, their standard of living can be greatly enhanced."

This, Carter said, "is a divisive force that the government artifically imposes on the family system."

But what will he do if he finds it expensive to eliminate laws that make it financially beneficial for welfare families to break up?

Carter replied, "We're struggling with that question now. I don't think it would cost a whole lot more to keep families together."

The reporter turned the discussion to homosexuality, a topic of discussion around the country following repeal of a Florida ordinance banning discrimination against homosexuals.

Q. Let me ask you a question that has become troublesome in the last few weeks in Florida and has become a national issue. I wonder if you think homosexuality is a threat to the family. Should they be able to adopt children and teach school? And marry?

A. I don't see homosexuality as a threat to the family. What has caused the highly publicized confrontations on homosexuality is the desire of homosexuals for the rest of society to approve and to add its acceptance of homosexuality as a normal sexual relationship. I don't feel that it's a normal interrelationship. But at the same time, I don't feel that society, through its laws, ought to abuse or harass the homosexual. I think it's one of those things that is not accepted by most Americans as a normal sexual relationship. In my mind it's certainly not a substitute for the family life that I described to you.

Q. Do you think they should be able to adopt children or teach school? Would you be upset if you knew Amy was being taught by a homosexual?

A. That's something I'd rather not answer. I don't see the need to change laws to permit homosexuals to marry. I know that there are homosexuals who teach and the children don't suffer. But this is a subject I don't particularly want to involve myself in. I've got enough problems without taking on another.

Carter said that he thinks political life in the capital puts special strains on marriages. "I think in Washington there is a particular conflict between ambition and the desire to do a good job, which is legitimate on one hand, and the obligations to hold your own families together and meet the needs of your spouse and children on the other. I don't think the two are necessarily incompatible."

State to have bigger say on water—Brown

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — California will have more say in federal water projects in the state, Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. said after a breakfast meeting with Vice President Walter Mondale.

"We're getting much closer to resolving our water differences. There is clearly a new policy at the federal government level of giving due and appropriate weight to what the state wants," Brown said.

At an impromptu news conference in a hotel lobby after their one-hour private breakfast, Mondale deferred all water questions to Brown, who repeatedly cited what he described as "a new spirit of cooperation" with the Carter administration.

Brown said no specific agreements were reached over such sticky questions as whether the state may impose conditions on federal water projects or require that the federal government guarantee a minimum water flow in the SacramentoSan Joaquin Delta.

"We just had a Saturday morning breakfast chat. The point is not to arrive at some complicated, negotiated agreement, but rather to improve the lines of communication and bring the federal and state government closer together," Brown said.

"Over the years, the state Water Quality Control Board and the federal Bureau of Reclamation have been at loggerheads. They've been constantly fighting. For the first time, the Secretary of Interior (Cecil Andrus) has indicated very forcefully that the views of California are going to be considered.

"The first thing Vice President Mondale said to me was in reaffirmation of that principle, that the states shall be given due weight and deference in their policy determinations," Brown said.

L.A. address

Mondale defends energy program

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Carter's energy program aims at creating "a society that runs on clean, durable, abundant energy supplies, free from the threat of scarcity and energy blackmail," Vice President Walter Mondale told a Democratic group here Saturday.

Mondale said U.S. dependence on imported oil means that "as a nation, we're playing a deadly game of Russian roulette with oil imports," but said domestic oil supplies could not make up the shortage.

"We've already found all the oil that's easy to discover and produce in this country," Mondale told an energy crisis meeting sponsored by the Democratic National Forum.

Mondale said the United States must find alternative energy sources to avoid a situation where "this nation's energy lifeblood will be in the hands of foreign nations which will have the power to bring our economy to a halt with the turn of a valve."

The vice president praised Carter's energy program, which had been attacked earlier in the meeting by consumer advocate Ralph Nader and Ohio Sen. Howard Metzenbaum. Metzenbaum criticized Carter's plan for allowing higher fuel costs, while Nader faulted it for not placing more emphasis on developing solar energy.

Mondale said that, despite expected fuel price increases, the administration doesn't "believe the oil and gas companies should reap billions in windfall profits at the expense of the American people."

He criticized a recent vote by the House Commerce subcommittee to take controls off the price of natural gas, saying it would add $71 billion to fuel costs by 1985.

Mondale said that domestic energy supplies could be developed without harming the environment.

"We reject the idea that the answer to the energy crisis is to rush ahead with an unplanned, crash program to develop domestic energy reserves regardless of the costs," he said. He added that state government should have a voice in any new oil and gas leases.

Meteor lights up western sky

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A brilliant flash of blue light, apparently caused by a meteor, filled the Western sky early Saturday morning and triggered hundreds of calls to police and sheriffs.

Authorities in Fresno said they received more than 250 calls from residents who reported a blue light streaking northward through the San Joaquin Valley skies at 2 a.m.

The flash of light — which lasted about four seconds — was also reported by residents in Nevada and Arizona.

Teacher-author takes poke at establishment

'New Africa High' is underground classic of sorts with teachers

EDITOR'S NOTE: He was a social studies teacher in an inner-city school. Now he's teaching in another school — transferred, officials said, for his safety. He says it's because of a little book he published at his own expense that's most unflattering to the school system.

By HARRY ATKINS
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — A book which characterizes school administrators as inept and schools as chaotic has become an underground classic of sorts with teachers across the country.

But Detroit school officials, fictionalized in the account, don't think it's accurate, and publishers apparently don't view it as saleable.

The author of "New Africa High" is Dr. Evan Keliher, 45, who was head of social studies at Detroit Mackenzie High until last February, when he began to promote the book on Detroit-area talk shows.

The day after his first appearance on a local radio program, Keliher was transferred to an integrated high school, where he teaches three English courses.

School administrators told the bearded, soft-spoken Keliher, a teacher for 21 years, that he was being transferred from all-black Mackenzie for his "personal safety."

"Actually, I'm in exile," says Keliher, who is white and classifies himself as a "gadfly."

In the 172-page book which he wrote and paid to have published, Keliher uses hyperbole to describe the problems he sees in public high schools. He sees the problems as ranging from inept administrators to violence in the halls to just plain poor education.

"I wanted to say something about our schools," Keliher says. "To be candid, our schools aren't worth a damn. They're just a total shambles."

Things are especially bad in Detroit, he says, where reading and math achievement scores — well below the national average for years — continue to decline.

But Keliher says the problems he describes in "New Africa High" are common in every large city school.

"You could lift the whole staff of Mackenzie and drop them into a Chicago school and they'd never know they had left the block," he says.

Last year Keliher paid the printer of a weekly newspaper $2.25 apiece for the first 550 copies of "New Africa High." He now has sold more than 4,000 copies, mostly by mail, to teachers in places as far away as West Virginia and California.

He still hopes to find a New York publisher, but even now in its third printing, he can't entice an agent to handle the book.

For $3, the reader of "New Africa High" can glean Keliher's views on:

—School board members: "All candidates for the post should be required to pass a sanity test — if they manage to get by the literacy test."

—Incorrigible students: "We must recognize there are a few students (40,000 or so) who are truly incorrigible and should not be allowed to attend school with real kids."

—Sex: "I would urge we pay more attention to sex in public schools, but the kids really don't seem to need any encouragement."

—Parent-Teacher groups: "These people should not be permitted on school property — even as visitors."

—Truancy: "Pay every kid $10 a day to come to school."

—Grades: "Personally, I pass every kid who doesn't hit me."

"I don't have many solutions in the book," Keliher says, "But I didn't intend to. I was just trying to call attention to the problem. Something should be done about it. But as long as school administrators go around saying things are fine, nothing's going to be done about it."

Bruce Carr, a teacher at Mackenzie, describes Keliher as "competent, popular among students" and says his transfer "has become a joke at school."

It's no joke with Helen Moore. Mrs. Moore is head of Black Parents for a Quality Education, and her group wants Keliher fired.

Mrs. Moore despises the street dialect and speech patterns Keliher attributes to black students in "New Africa High."

"Every child that speaks in his book is put down because of the way he says they talk," Mrs. Moore says, "and they do not talk that way."

The students, however, had a different reaction.

Dan Wallace, a ninth grader who was sent to Keliher once for discipline, thinks "he's a cool dude."

Wallace adds: "It seems that every time we get a good teacher who's trying to do something for us, the school's administration tries to get rid of him."

Pope proclaims first American male saint

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI proclaims John Nepomucene Neumann as America's first male saint today before thousands of U.S. pilgrims, including two Pennsylvanians who believe they owe their lives to the intercession of Philadelphia's "little bishop."

Papal spokesmen said more than 20,000 Americans — including U.S. Vatican representative Henry Cabot Lodge, Philadelphia Mayor Frank Rizzo and eight American cardinals — are expected to jam St. Peter's Square to hear the Pope order Bishop Neumann "inscribed in the Catalogue of Saints."

Among those arriving Saturday were Michael Flanigan, 19, of Philadelphia and J. Kent Lenahan, 46, of Villanova, Pa., whose miraculous cures led to the 19th century bishop's canonization.

Vatican spokesmen said Flanigan developed terminal bone cancer at age 6. and doctors decided his case was hopeless. His parents took him to the bishop's shrine in Philadelphia to pray, and today his only reminder of the disease is a slight limp in his right leg.

"I remember going to the shrine, but there wasn't much commotion at the time over my cure," he told reporters.

Lenahan, a music teacher, was 19 years old when his head was nearly crushed against a utility pole while he was riding on a car running board. The comatose youth recovered after his parents touched him with a piece of the bishop's cassock.

"They couldn't explain what happened," Lenahan said in a recent interview. "So I guess it was the man upstairs."

The third "miracle cure" attributed by the Vatican to Bishop Neumann involved an 11-year-old Italian girl who recovered overnight from peritonitis, an inflammation of the abdominal lining, after a nun touched her with a picture of Bishop Neumann. Eva Benassi is now 65 and was also expected for the canonization, Vatican spokesmen said.

Previous Americans canonized are two women — Mother Cabrini, declared a saint in 1946, and Mother Seton, canonized in 1975.

In 1921, Pope Benedict XV declared Bishop Neumann "venerable" — the first degree of sanctity — because of "the simplicity of his works," his service to the poor, and his promotion of the parochial school system in the United States. He was beatified in 1963.

The bishop was born in 1811 in the village of Prachatitz in what is now Czechoslovakia. After considering careers in medicine and law, he decided on the priesthood and at age 25 immigrated to the United States in search of a bishop to ordain him.

Bishop John Dubois of New York, eager for German-speaking priests, welcomed the young man and assigned him to a 9,000-square-mile parish in western New York state.

Within four years, the pace of work in the huge frontier parish brought Father Neumann, frail and barely 5 feet tall, to the point of physical collapse. He joined the Redemptorist Order and began a career of service to German-speaking immigrants in New York, New Jersey, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland and Virginia.

In Baltimore, Father Neumann became a U.S. citizen and helped save an order of black nuns, the Oblate Sisters of Providence, from extinction. There he also became the private confessor of Archbishop James Patrick Henrick, who had transferred from Philadelphia.

The archbishop recommended Father Neumann as his successor in Philadelphia, and despite his own reservations, he was consecrated bishop of what was then America's largest diocese on his 41st birthday.

The three previous bishops had all been Irish, and there was resentment over appointment of a bishop who spoke English with a thick German accent.

"The Rev. Neumann does not speak English well, and I fear his election would find very little favor with the American people," warned Bishop Michael O'Connor of Pittsburgh.

Although his simple dress and unpretentious style were scorned by the city's urbane rich, Bishop Neumann won the loyalty of the common people and the poor, who dubbed him "the little bishop" because of his short stature.

Farrah Fawcett defends motive in report of 1970 shoplifting

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Television star Farrah Fawcett-Majors was acting not as a shoplifter but as a "self-help consumer advocate" when she took items of clothing from two shops several years ago, her lawyer said Saturday.

Responding to a report in the New York Post that Miss Fawcett-Majors was twice arrested and found guilty of shoplifting, lawyer Elliot Abelson insisted that his client "is not a thief and not a kleptomaniac."

He said she was upset at having purchased what she later found to be inferior merchandise from the shops and merely exchanged them for articles of similar value when the shopkeepers refused to do so.

"She did not take anything that did not belong to her," Abelson said. "She never meant to misappropriate any items, and I consider her one of the first self-help consumer advocates."

Miss Fawcett-Majors, 30, was arrested in August 1970 on petty theft charges and found guilty of taking two dresses from Judy's Boutique in Los Angeles, Abelson said. The nation's newest sex symbol, a model at the time, was fined $125.

In November 1970 she was again arrested on petty theft charges and found guilty of taking two coats from a San Fernando Valley shop, he said. She was placed on 18 months probation and fined $265, but the fine was suspended on condition that she undergo psychiatric treatment.

Miss Fawcett-Majors visited a psychiatrist for six months, Abelson said, but he would not reveal the name of the Los Angeles doctor.

"I represented her in both cases in Los Angeles Municipal Court," Abelson said.

Ontario man shot in leg

Lupe Rangel, the victim, told police he was standing at the location when a brown car containing two Latins drove by and stopped. Rangel said the passenger in the car stepped outside the door and shot him.

Board adopts tentative budget

26-cent O-M school tax hike

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

Despite strong objections from one board member, Ontario-Montclair school trustees have adopted a tentative budget that calls for a 26-cent tax increase.

Trustee Sam DiGiovanni strongly protested the tax hike which would boost the school rate to $3.0740 per $100 of assessed valuation. He voted against the budget, but it was approved on a 4-1 vote.

Deputy Supt. George Duerr explained the board could have legally raised the tax rate 16 cents last year under state formulas, but decided against it. The board also can raise the rate an additional seven cents this year because of declining enrollment in the district.

The district teachers' association was critical of the board last year for levying a $2.82 tax rate that was below the legal maximum.

But DiGiovanni indicated property taxes already are too high in the district, and "I can't bring myself to vote on this. We have to tell Sacramento to stop mandating programs without providing the district money to pay for them."

He added that "it's not right" for school districts to levy permissive tax overrides which are not subject to voter approval.

"We're putting taxpayers in bad shape because of Sacramento. Maybe we ought to run the district on a deficit or at the brink of bankruptcy to show the state."

Board President Rose Kelber argued that children would be hurt if the district budget was not financed properly.

"I don't feel bankruptcy (in the district) will wake up anyone in Sacramento," said trustee Richard Pearson.

Duerr said the total $21.9 million tentative budget calls for a $2 million increase in expenditures over last year. Inflation is the biggest reason for increased costs, he noted.

The budget contains reserves from which salary increases for classified (non-teaching) employes are expected to be drawn. It also includes 5 per cent raises for teachers already approved under a two-year contract last year.

Duerr said enrollment is expected to be up to 15,312 next year, compared to this year's 15,067. He estimated an 8 per cent increase in assessed valuation.

He cautioned that the budget is still tentative, and could change "depending on what happens in Sacramento." A final budget will not be approved by the board until the first week of August.

Chaffey College budget cut set

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

Chaffey College trustees have adopted a tentative 1977-78 budget of $18,164,385, down $538,467 from the current budget, yet including a 6.5 per cent wage hike for staff members.

The salary boost, affecting some 263 employes, was approved in a separate action and was an addition to the budget of $17,711,110 adopted by the board this week.

The 1976-77 budget is $18,702,852.

At the request of a representative of the Chaffey College Chapter of the California School Employes Association (CSEA), action on a salary and benefits package for classified staffers was deferred.

CSEA attorneys for the chapter, which represents 328 employes, have requested time to evaluate the contract. Classified staff members wish to review the contract and vote on its acceptance. The contract also features a 6.5 per cent pay raise.

To accommodate the CSEA, the college board set an adjourned meeting Wednesday noon.

While the official assessed valuation figure on which the budget is based will not be available until the end of June, Robert E. Totten, assistant superintendent of business services, estimates a 5¾ cents increase in the tax rate, based on a 15 per cent augmentation in assessed valuation.

By his conjecture, the tax rate would come to .6887 per $100 of assessed valuation, compared to the present 63 cents.

Totten explained that the reduced budget for the year ahead reflects a drop in the number of full-time students attending Chaffey College this year. The average daily attendance factor (ADA) determines the amount of state aid to the college.

This year's shrinkage in students resulted in a loss of $1.3 million in state support for next year's budget.

Another result of the balancing of the budget was notice of termination of eight nontenured staff.

Outstanding expenditures, other than those for pay and benefits, in the 1977-78 budget are $2.2 million for the construction of an automobile shop-technical laboratory and a vocational education building; $280,000 for possible transfer to Riverside City College for Corona-Norco students who choose to enroll there on the basis of an inter-district attendance agreement; and $186,812 for a 10-year lease purchase of a Stromberg Carlson telephone system to replace the antiquated equipment presently in use.

There will be additional refinements in the fiscal program at a July 14 board meeting (publication budget) and on Aug. 4 (final budget).

24th Annual Youth Safety Run

SAFETY RUN COMPETITORS

Three young drivers, representing Explorer Scout Post 160 of the Pomona Police Department, display a proclamation marking Monday the start of the annual Youth Safety Run. The youths are, from left, Dean Willhite, 16, Garey High School, Jeff Raisbeck, 15, Ganesha High School and Owen Franklin, 17, Pomona High School. Drivers face 846-mile trip.

From Pomona to Yosemite

Youth safety run slated

Thirty-seven valley young persons will participate in the 24th annual Youth Safety Run from Pomona to Yosemite National Park and back which begins early Monday morning.

Forty-four 1977 autos, driven by car club and Law Enforcement Explorer Scout Post teams from Southern California and Nevada will follow a still-to-be-disclosed route to the national park and return.

Key elements of the run are safety and economy, especially at this time when fuel economy is becoming vital, Officer Ron McDonald, of the hosting Pomona Police Department said.

The annual run is sponsored by the Police Advisory Council for Car Clubs (PACCC), an organization of law enforcement officers from 18 Southern California cities who work with young drivers from these clubs. The Arcadia Civitan Club, R.G. Canning Diversified Companies Unlimited and Union Oil Co. co-sponsor the event. The cars are supplied by dealers and must be stock.

The drivers, ranging from 16 to 21, must have good driving records. There are five fuel stops along the 846-mile route.

This year's run is being named in honor of Sgt. Larry Harnois who is retiring from the Pasadena Police Department. Harnois was one of the original officers who were instrumental in founding the PACCC.

The run gets off at 4 a.m. from the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds, this year's impound area. Teams should begin arriving at Yosemite at about 4 p.m. One day will be spent sightseeing and the young drivers will head back to Pomona Wednesday.

There are seven classes, ranging from subcompact four-cylinder cars to luxury V-8s.

Winners will be feted at an awards banquet at the Pomona National Golf Club in Walnut Friday night.

Local young persons representing valley police agencies are:

Dean Willhite, Owen Franklin, Tim Romero, Norbert Duran, Judy McConnell, Lori Pimental, and Teresa Martinez, all of Pomona, and Jeffery Raisbeck, Diamond Bar, Peter Kern, Azusa, and Mary Gardner, Diamond Bar.

La Verne — Steve Spurlock, Joel Amico, Bill Witzka-Witzka, Bob McMahon, Ken Morris, Ron Bateson, Lynda Knipping, Darla Johnson and Clara Alvarez.

San Dimas (Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department — Armando Tapia, Marc Ugreite and Pam Walsh.

Montclair — Kim Thompson, Pat Libertone, Fred Dominguez, Cindy Lopez, Cathi Doran and Debra Leach.

Ontario — Farlan Clutters, Steven George, James Deaton, Tedd Nickerson, Tom Skropos, David Lee, Stacy Pond, Priscilla Gonzales and Lori Clark.

Auto dealers supplying new cars for the competitors are: Fair City Ford, University Lincoln-Mercury and Pomona Dodge, all of Pomona; College Chevrolet of Claremont (two cars); Bryant Pontiac, of Covina; Royce Barnett Pontiac, Montclair; Graydon Murphy Oldsmobile, Ontario; Mark Christopher Chevrolet, Ontario; and Hemet Dodge of Hemet.

Hughes heirs agree to settlement

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Heirs of industrialist Howard Hughes have agreed to a division of his estate in an out-of-court settlement, a Montgomery newspaper reported in its Sunday editions.

Alabama Journal reporter Virginia Gibson wrote in a copyright story appearing in a joint edition with the Montgomery Advertiser that the agreement was signed last weekend at a Destin, Fla., resort.

The settlement, subject to court challenge because of suits filed in several states over the authenticity of a number of purported Hughes wills, was reached "to prevent years of litigation," according to attorneys for the heirs, the Journal said.

Under the agreement, the largest share of the estate — 23 and five-sixths per cent — would go to Hughes' aunt, Annette Gano Lummis of Houston, the newspaper said. Mrs. Lummis' son, William, is chairman of the board of Hughes' multimillion-dollar conglomerate, the Summa Corp.

The rest of the estate, according to the Journal's account, would be divided in this manner:

—Each of three granddaughters of Hughes' uncle, the late playwright and movie producer Rupert Hughes, would receive six and one-third per cent. They are Barbara Hughes Cameron of Los Angeles, Elspeth Hughes Depould and Agnes Hughes Roberts, both of Cleveland.

—Nine and one-half per cent would be divided equally between Avis Hughes McIntyre of Montgomery and Rush Hughes of California, step-children of Rupert Hughes.

—Sixteen maternal first-cousins would share the remaining 47 and two-thirds per cent, with none to receive more than four and one-sixth per cent.

The maternal first-cousins are Annette Gano Lummis Neff of Boston; William Rice Lummis and Richard C. Gano Jr. of Los Angeles; William Kent Gano, Doris Gano Wallace, Annette Gano Gragg and Howard Hughes Gano, all of Texas; Arlene Lummis Russell, Frederick Rice Lummis Jr., John McIntosh Houstoun, Margo Fleming Houstoun, James Wilkin Houstoun and Richard Alexander Houstoun, all of Houston; Janet Houstoun Davis, Sara Houstoun Lindsey and the estate of James Patrick Houstoun Jr.

Trial is scheduled Aug. 15 in a Clark County, Nev., court on a petition by Annette Lummis seeking to invalidate the socalled "Mormon will" purportedly written by Hughes.

Wallace says he'll run for Senate

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace said Saturday he intends to run for the U.S. Senate seat held by veteran Democrat John Sparkman, who has not announced whether he will seek re-election.

The governor, speaking at the annual meeting of the Alabama Associated Press Broadcasters Association, said he was not making formal announcement of his candidacy, but "it's the most formal one that I have made. I intend to announce that I will run."

Wallace said that because of his involvement in national politics he has come to know many people in national government, including President Carter, and "I'd like to use that for the people of Alabama."

There have been rumors that Sparkman will retire at the end of his term, and Wallace said he did not believe the senator would run again.

"I won't be an anti-Sparkman candidate," he said.

Couple parked in car near prison robbed

A Chino couple parked in their car near the women's prison on Remmington Ave early Saturday morning were the victims of a strong arm holdup.

West End Sheriff's deputies reported that the couple were sitting in their car when they were approached by two white male adults in their early twenties accompanied by two white females either juveniles or young adults.

The four robbers took a gold and ruby ring valued at $1,856 and a half gallon of vodka from the couple.

Deputies are looking for a 1965 Cadillac in which it is believed the four robbers were traveling. It was last seen headed toward Corona.

Upland growth hearing slated

The Upland City Council has scheduled a public hearing at 7 p.m. Monday in the City Hall to consider adoption of proposed resolutions pertaining to its Growth Management Plan.

The residential element of the growth management plan includes limitations on the biannual and annual numbers of proposed dwelling units to be considered for approval.

Also to be discussed are a specific rating system proposed for the evaluation of residential projects and a proposed development fee consisting of the consolidation of existing fees and charges with new fees and charges for new residential developments.

City Manager Lee Travers said the meeting is open to all interested persons who wish to address the council on the proposed resolutions.

CHP officer shot in check on stolen car

BARSTOW (AP) — A 26-year-old California Highway Patrol officer was shot and critically wounded early Saturday morning when he stopped a car on Interstate 15, officers said.

John A. Lopez of Barstow was listed in critical condition at Loma Linda Medical Center. He was shot twice, in the upper chest and lower abdomen, the highway patrol said.

Lopez, a 5½-year CHP veteran, stopped a car containing two men for a routine speed check about 7:50 a.m. at Field Road 30 miles north of here, officers said. He discovered the vehicle was reported stolen from West Covina and that the two occupants were wanted on armed robbery and kidnaping warrants.

According to CHP dispatcher Carol Martinez, the men fled in their car but it overturned about 10 minutes later. The pair then took another car and drove south on Interstate 15 until a truck driver, who heard of the chase on his Citizens Band radio, spotted the car and ran it off the road about 20 miles north of here about 8:20 a.m.

One of the men was shot in the groin by a San Bernardino County sheriff's deputy and is listed in critical condition at Barstow Community Hospital. The other was taken into custody. The two men were not immediately identified.

Lopez is married and the father of two small children.

Minorities on increase in California — Dymally

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Minorities are increasing so fast in California that it will soon be the first "Third World state," says Lt. Gov. Mervyn Dymally.

Dymally, a black born in Trinidad, released a report Saturday which said minorities had risen from 20.4 per cent of California's total population in 1970 to 34.7 per cent this year.

"If the present trend continues, by 1990, California minorities will comprise a staggering 60.7 per cent of the total population," said the report prepared by interns sponsored by Dymally's office.

Dymally said the report was conservative.

"Most ethnic leaders believe that the population is anywhere from 38 to 41 per cent, and I find myself in this category," Dymally said.

"Neither the media, the government, nor private interests are preparing for this emerging phenomenon and will consequently be unprepared to meet the challenge," he said.

The report listed the principal minorities in California as Mexican-Americans 4.2 million, black 1.6 million, Japanese 350,000, Puerto Ricans 350,000, Portuguese 350,000, Chinese 300,000, Filipinos 300,000, American Indians 239,000, and Koreans 150,000.

In addition, the report said, there are 80,000 Cubans, 80,000 Vietnamese, 78,000 Caribbeans, 50,000 Samoans, 40,000 Guatemalans, 30,000 Indians from India, 30,000 Guamanians and 25,000 Panamanians.

The total is 8.3 million minority members in a total population of 24 million, according to the report.

Drug abuse clinic to seek help

Operator of a drug abuse recovery house will appeal to the Pomona City Council Monday night hoping to stay in business.

John Owsley, representing People's Coaltion, which operates the recovery house at 998 W. Ninth St., will ask the council to overturn a recent Planning Commision denial of a conditional use permit for continued operation of the center.

The recovery house was first granted permission to operate at the location in 1975 and twice had its permit renewed before the commission rejected renewal last month.

In refusing to renew the permit, the commission cited opposition to the center by neighbors, its close proximity to Hamilton Elementary School, and the fact that the center does not have a live-in director.

Other agenda items for the 8 p.m. meeting will include a request from Paul's Yellow Cab Co. to hike taxi rates in the city.

Three force way into car, rob driver

An Ontario man was robbed by three gun and knife wielding assailants Friday evening around 6:40 p.m.

The victim told police the three robbers forced their way into his car at the intersection of Euclid Avenue and De Anza Circle. They threatened him with a pistol and two knives, took his money and threatened him some more forcing him to drive around until they eventually jumped out of the car at the intersection of Mission Boulevard and Bon View Street.

The robbers were all described as male Mexican adults.

10-year agreement

Council to study pact

A 10-year agreement between the City of Claremont and Pomona College for use of the college's facilities, including the baseball and football fields, will be discussed by the Claremont Parks and Recreation Commission Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the council chamber.

Under the proposed agreement, the college would lease the baseball field from May this year through July 1987 and would allow the city the use of the football field for its annual Fourth of July fireworks show.

In return, the city will pay the college $2,400 for the installation of a scoreboard at Alumni Field.

The agreement allows for the city's use of the baseball diamond between May 10 and July 31 of each year, but the city may use it 20 days a year, with a maximum of three games in any one week.

City Recreation Supt. Ron Hagan stressed that no taxpayer's money will be used, and that the funds will come out of fees paid by the teams and from admission to the fireworks show.

Hagan said that Pomona College would like a year-to-year agreement, because the college is rewriting its field use policy.

"They don't want to bind themselves to a long-range contract," he said.

Hagan said that the five-year agreement that expires with the college this year cost the city $1,200 for the installation of outfield fencing.

Communist proposal

Mexico rejects clergymen vote

By KERNAN TURNER
Associated Press Writer

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A Communist party proposal that clergymen be allowed to vote and otherwise participate in Mexican politics has been rejected by the government.

Government secretary Jesus Reyes Heroles called the suggestion "risky, negative and against history."

He said Mexico's long tradition of church-state separation "has permitted peace, coexistence and social development. There is no reason to change a constitutional principle that cost the country so much in previous decades."

The idea was initiated by Arnoldo Martinez Verdugo, secretary of the central committee of the Mexican Communist party. He urged that the Federal Election Commission consider reforming the electoral law in order to make full citizens of religious leaders.

The Mexican constitution prohibits Roman Catholic priests or the clergy of other Christian denominations or other religions from voting or engaging in political activities. Mexico is a predominantly Catholic country.

Martinez Verdugo said the law makes priests "citizens of exception" without full rights.

The Election Commission has been instructed by President Jose Lopez Portillo to recommend electoral law changes which would allow minority political organizations to participate openly in national politics.

Lopez Portillo apparently based his political reform on the idea that leftists would be less likely to turn to terrorist activities if they were allowed to voice their opinions in the electoral process.

Martinez Verdugo got the support of the official opposition party, National Action (PAN), but received a hostile reaction from the capital city press.

Excelsior, the prestigious Mexico City morning daily which often reflects the government position in its editorials, said Mexico's banning of priests from political action, first considered as sacrilege, was now "admired throughout the world."

"The worldly clerics who descend from the altar and mix in political action don't support the state, honor the church or serve the people," the newspaper said.

The Mexican government is formed mostly of members of the Institutional Revolutionary Party (PRI), which has been in power for nearly half a century. Two other parties, including the PAN, are legally registered and others are tolerated but not allowed to participate in the elections.

Reyes Heroles was asked by reporters why, in his opinion, the Communist party had spoken out in favor of church political action.

He said he believed it was a case of "political opportunism" using the Spanish and Italian Communist parties as models.

Mexico was dominated by church influence during its early history. The War of Independence from Spain in the 18th century was touched off by a Catholic priest who rallied the masses.

However, the Roman Catholic Church was first prohibited from participating in state affairs in the mid-1880s, and the clergy stopped from voting by the constitution of 1929.

Puppeteer lives in fantasy land

ATLANTA (AP) — Jan Williams Matthews may be 23, but she still believes in fairy tales.

As a puppeteer she spends her work days in the magical world of such fairy tales as "Jack and the Beanstalk" and "Sleeping Beauty" at the Atlanta Arts Center, where she is a member of the resident company.

A recent graduate of St. Andrews Presbyterian College, Laurinburg, N.C., she says that her interest in puppets began during a puppetry course taught by DQR. Arthur McDonald, chairman of the theater department at the college.

As teaching assistant for the class, she drew on her as a director of an arts and crafts program in Greenville, S.C., and her enjoyment of making things.

"I've always loved to make things," she says, "but when I was a child, I somehow felt that making puppets was beneath me."

After completing the course she organized a puppet show, "Man of La Mancha," with the help of other St. Andrews students. Using simple rod puppets, which are easier to control than marionettes, Jan took the show to five area schools last fall.

Jan, a native of Greenville, completed her studies at St. Andrews and began work with the Vagabond Marionettes here under the direction of Vincent Anthony.

"It was scary at first," she recalls. "The puppeteers stand on a two-foot-wide catwalk suspended 12 feet up in the air. The marionette, which weighs anywhere from five to ten pounds, is strung for ten feet. To move the characters across the stage, I had to lean out across the stage, reaching and straining to arms' length.

"With 13 shows a week, it can be really tiring and it is a physical strain," she says. "During this past winter I reached the point where I would consistently go home from work and go to sleep before eating or socializing."

Usually two puppet shows are performed in the morning and Jan spends the afternoon dealing with tehnical aspects of the production.

"The audience is mainly school children," the puppeteer says, "but on Saturdays, the only time the show is open to the public, I would estimate that half the audience is adult."

The job, she admits, does not allow for much free time, but along with the hard work comes the glitter of stardom.

As the youngest member of the company, she thinks she will never grow too old to be a puppeteer.

But Jan, whose husband, Gary, graduates from St. Andrews this spring, hopes in the not-too-distant future to be entertaining her own children.

Its magnetism for outsiders still undiminished

Arizona boom goes booming along 'despite' roadblocks

EDITOR'S NOTE: Over the past year, Arizona has received a lot of national attention of the sort its Chamber of Commerce could hardly have welcomed. The time of troubles notwithstanding, there's something about Arizona that's kept its magnetism for outsiders undiminished.

By MIKE McCLOY
Associated Press Writer

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — No matter that water bills soar as water tables plunge ....

No matter that investors have been bilked of half a billion dollars in the last decade by crooked land developers ....

No matter that there are six times as many people seeking jobs as there are working ....

No matter. The Arizona boom goes booming along. This is the fastest growing state in the union. It has topped 2.2 million people, and the figure mounts like a pocket calculator with the multiplication button stuck.

From the lush green lawns of Phoenix to the red rock monuments of Sedona and Oak Creek, from the forested summer resort of Pine Top to the high chaparral of the Tucson desert, tourists and new residents are flocking in.

"Out in Arizona where the bad men are ..." began an old ragtime tune, but the gunslingers are gone now. Former reputed Mafia chieftains live on the ranches around Tucson, coming here as more common folk have, to share the Arizona lifestyle, to make money off the land and to generally enjoy a kind of comfortable pioneering.

A 23-part series by Investigative Reporters and Editors, Inc., on corruption in the state dealt mostly with associations of politicians and underworld characters. The investigation stemmed from the bombing death last June of reporter Don Bolles of the Arizona Republic.

Arizona has grown by 25 per cent since 1970, and "we're not expecting any tapering off" says Brent Brown, director of the state Office of Economic Planning and Development.

Certainly the bad publicity has had little or no effect on the Californians and Midwesterners who visit or keep second homes in Arizona.

The heart of the Arizona boom is not the tourist, but the would-be settler who comes to Arizona to live and work.

Frank Naylor, research manager of the state's Department of Economic Security, says his office still gets some 50 inquiries a week, mostly from people looking for work in construction and education.

But in Arizona's construction industry, job seekers outnumber workers 10 to 1, and the state's unemployment rate is a shade above the national average. Except in nursing, management and engineering, prospects are dim.

The state warns prospective Arizonans that they should come financially prepared to endure three to five months of unemployment.

They come, their hopes undimmed. Almost all say they want to enjoy the "lifestyle."

The state has an abiding problem with water.

In Tucson, where water is pumped from underground pools that have sunk 100 feet in the past 28 years, the average monthly residential water bill this summer will be $22.

Several city council members were recalled for raising the rates, but their successors quickly abandoned promises to roll back the rates when faced with the reality that $14 million will be needed to buy farmland and underground water rights through 1983.

An Arizona Supreme Court decision affirmed longstanding state policy that water rights remain with the land that the water flows over or under. The decision also reversed sentiment of many Tucsonans against the $1.6 billion Central Arizona Project, which will carry 2.8 million acre-feet of water to Phoenix and Tucson in the mid 1980s.

In April, the legislature passed a law allowing cities and mines to buy land, retire it from agriculture and "mine" underlying water for use elsewhere. Court challenges are expected, however.

Meanwhile, Prescott, in western Arizona, awaits the outcome of litigation by neighboring ranchers over water use, and Flagstaff, to the north, faces perennial problems with barely adequate reservoirs.

While some "no-growth" candidates capitalized on the water crisis in 1976 elections, no conclusion can be drawn, says Tom Clark, deputy director of the Arizona Water Commission.

"Tucson is using about five times as much water as is being replenished," Clark says. "If we cut out agriculture in the area entirely, they would still be using twice as much water as is being replaced."

There will have to be a lid on growth, "but you can't really tell where the

The Arizona real estate market slowed along with the national economy two years ago, but it started recovering in the last half of last year, and now it is at its highest level in history.

One of the best known lid comes down," he adds. developers in the state is Del E. Webb Corp. With a population of 40,000, Webb's 17-year-old Sun City retirement community was host to 300,000 visitors last year.

Eight hundred housing units were sold in Sun City in February, says Webb President John W. Meeker, compared with 882 in all of 1976. Production was raised to 50 units a day, and sales totaled 742 in March and 545 in April.

"With thousands of people retiring early on substantial pensions and other income sources, we see a continuing positive trend," he added, announcing plans to expand Sun City's population to 64,000 by building on an additional 12,000 acres of former desert.

But all is not bright. McCulloch Oil Corp. announced in November that it would finish developing Lake Havasu City, with its dicted in this case. However, on May 27, from a hospital bed where he had been confined since February with a heart ailment, he pleaded guilty to state land fraud and bribery charges which had

Portland plan for energy saving

Voluntary conservation won't work; rules needed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Install a special nozzle in your shower. Limit the expansion of your city's largest employers. Mothball those gas guzzlers and slow down to 45 miles an hour.

These and other recommendations make up a proposal designed for Portland, Ore., as a model of what can be done to reduce energy consumption in the nation's cities and suburbs.

The federally funded study concludes that voluntary conservation won't work and suggests stricter housing and commercial building codes, energy-efficiency standards for industry and federal gas rationing for motorists.

The Portland plan is a mix of 42 local, state and federal programs designed to cut area energy use by 34 per cent in the next 20 years, according to the private consultants who drew it up.

The proposal, drawn up under a $240,000 grant from the Department of Housing and Urban Development, is the first federally funded study of the energy needs of a major city.

"It's a good, solid program. We'd like to see if it can work," says Marion Hemphill, assistant director of the city's energy conservation project. He said a citizen task force will review the plan this year and make recommendations for changes in local, state and federal laws.

But Portland officials concede that much of the plan, such as gasoline rationing or reduced state speed limits, is not likely to win needed federal or state approval without a crisis atmosphere.

Aside from urging legislation to mandate such energy savers as new thermostats that automatically lower the heat at night and special nozzles that restrict the flow of shower water, the plan also would require some major changes in the Portland area economy.

According to the plan, the city should "sponsor legislation and lobby for a state program to attract low-energy using industries and restrict the development of energy-intensive industries."

Among the examples of "industries that would be discouraged," are two of Portland's largest — paper products and chemical products. Favored industries include iron and steel, lumber and wood products, and ceramic products like clay or glass.

The Portland plan urges gasoline rationing to 50 per cent of a family's current usage and lowering the local highway speed limit from 55 to 45 miles per hour.

The plan also calls for tough housing standards ranging from insulating ceilings and walls to a reduction from 14 per cent to 11 per cent in the allowable window area for a single-family home.

The study of energy use in the Portland area found that industry accounted for 36 per cent of energy consumption, followed by transportation, 27 per cent, and residences, 21 per cent.

At the current rate, energy needs in Portland are expected to increase by 27 per cent in the next 20 years, while the population is expected to rise by 40 per cent.

"Thus a decrease is projected in per person use of energy," says the Portland study. "The trend is explained by the availability of more efficient cars, stiffer building codes and shifts in the economy towards more labor-intensive, and less energy-intensive, employment."

"Between 1975 and 1995, the region will experience reduced growth in industrial employment, loss of jobs in the lumber and wood products industry, and an increase in office and service employment. These shifts will reduce energy consumption."

According to Hemphill, an analysis of the impact of President Carter's energy plan shows it would reduce energy consumption in the Portland area by only about 7 per cent.

Hemphill says the Portland plan goes further than Carter's in several areas, most notably in cutting use of fuel for transportation and residential purposes.

Additional savings would be possible through stepped-up use of solar power to provide heat and hot water or by designing houses in such a way that sunlight can be used for winter heat and shade trees used for summer cooling.

Implementing the conservation programs designed by the planning firm of Skidmore, Owings and Merrill for Portland would eliminate the need for one and a half new 1,000-megawatt electric generating plants, the consultants said.

The firm says that $300 million spent for energy conservation would save the equivalent of the output of a 1,000 megawatt plant costing $1.7 billion.

Also, the plan would provide $700 million per year for investment locally that otherwise would have been paid to energy producers.

Such savings for local investment would protect nearly 20,000 local jobs, the firm said. Conservation programs would result in the loss of 2,200 jobs while a doubling of the region's energy bill, as projected without conservation, could result in the loss of 22,000 jobs locally, the firm concluded.

been filed in Maricopa County Superior Court in Phoenix. He also withdrew his appeal of a 1975 federal extortion conviction. He is under guard at his Phoenix home awaiting sentencing in state court.

The collapse of Cochise College Park and several other fraud-ridden Arizona developments, along with convictions of several land crooks and stiffer laws, have brought a virtual standstill to remote subdivision developments, state officials say.

Clark says a new law requiring developers to transplanted London Bridge on the Colorado River, and the Fountain Hills community near Phoenix. But after that, it will go out of the land development business.

Lake Havasu City shares the same desert that has seen dozens of subdivision developments spring up and die in the past decade. Most notable was Cochise College Park, which bilked 10,000 investors of $40 million before it collapsed in 1972.

Six persons connected with Cochise College Park were convicted of fraud on May 23, and 11 more are awaiting trial. Ned Warren self-proclaimed "godfather" of Arizona land schemes, who was mentioned in company correspondence as a director of the firm, was not indisclose the availability of water also has helped.

Attorney General Bruce Babbitt and former U.S. Attorney William Smitherman, who now heads a joint legislative task force on organized crime, say the state is gaining control.

Arizona's first statewide grand jury indicted 30 persons last year and the state has not lost a case, Babbitt noted.

Among notables named in true bills was Robert H. Fendler, founder of U.S. and Lincoln Thrift Associations in Phoenix and Tucson. Some 20,000 investors deposited $52 million before the firms were shut down by the U.S. Securites and Exchange Commission and federal court in 1975. Investors may get back 10 cents on the dollar when assets are distributed by court-appointed trustees, officials say.

Fendler is accused of stealing $1.5 million from the thrift firms to finance American Bank of Commerce in Phoenix.

Smitherman, who will use a $600,000 appropriation in an attempt to close loopholes in state regulations, concedes that "more fraud and conspiracy cases have been filed in this district than any district in the nation."

Armed with subpoena power, the task force will examine narcotics and pornography. "I'm going to see where the Mafia kinds of criminals are, what they're doing," says Smitherman.

"And I'm sure we're going to find deficiencies in the state's ability to regulate insurance, banking and real estate. Then there are things like the racing industry."

Businessmen have complained that over-regulation stifles them. But Smitherman says, "What possible advantage could these ripoffs be to Arizona? We don't need an army of crooks in business to grow."

However, pinpointing what is needed for orderly growth remains a problem.

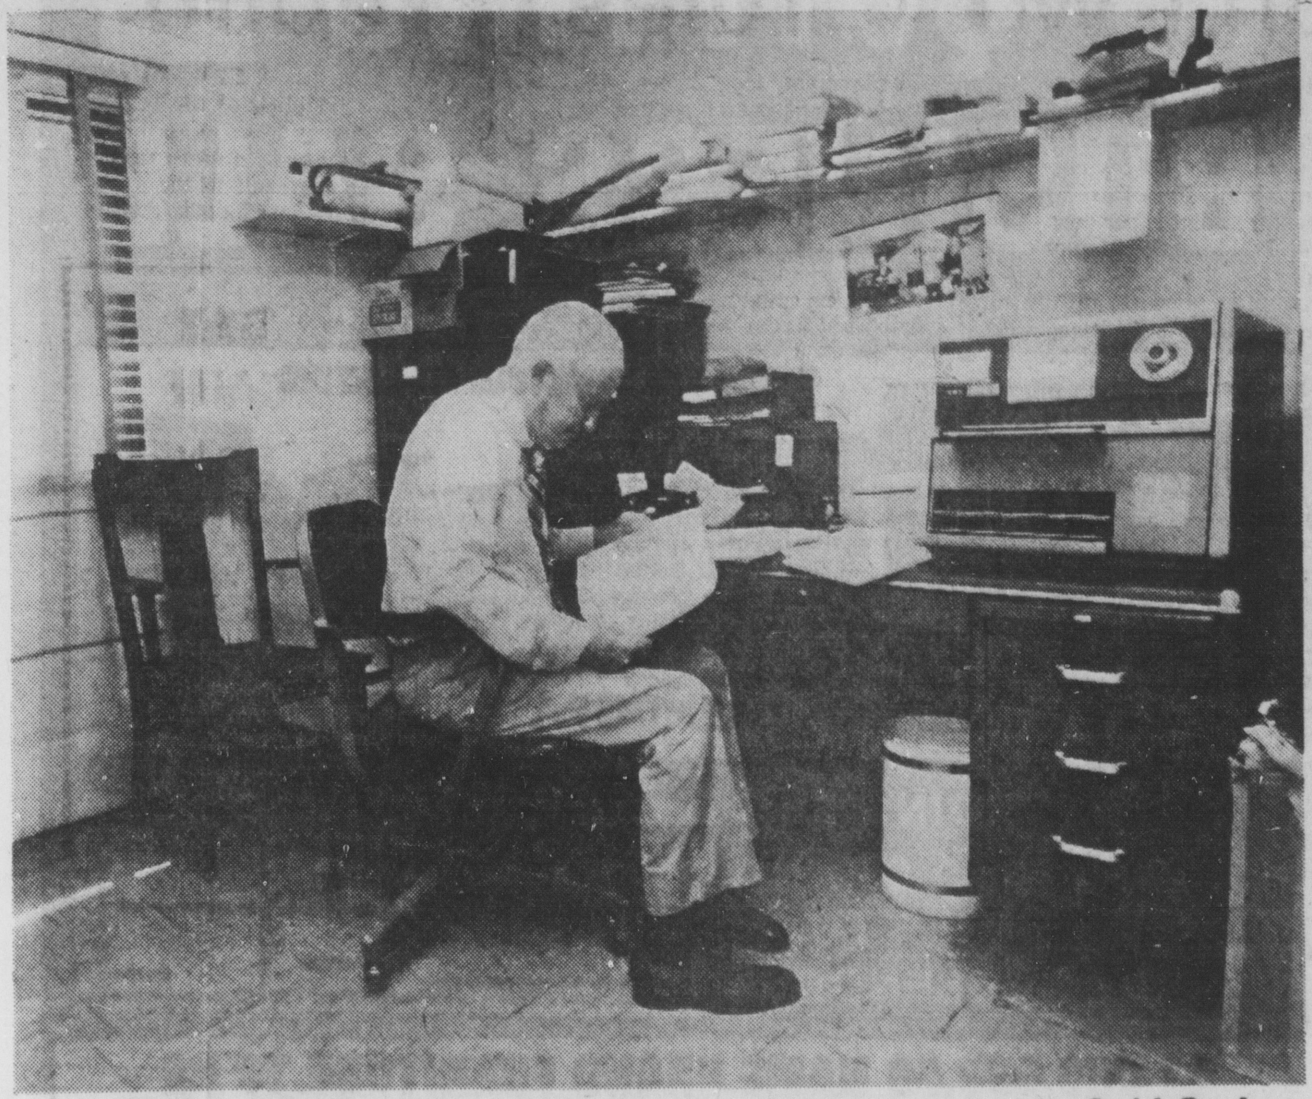
Plugging Cold Springs' (water) leaks

Arthur Sylvester: man once big in big government runs a small one



MAYOR ARTHUR SYLVESTER, tends village business in Cold Spring

EDITOR'S NOTE: When Arthur Sylvester's phone rings these days in the small hours, it isn't a Pentagon alarm but a citizen complaining about a noisy dog. When Sylvester worries about leaks, it's not Washington secrets but his town's water system. At 75, a man once big in big government now runs a very small one.

By TERRY KIRKPATRICK
AP Newsfeatures Writer

COLD SPRING, N.Y. (AP) — Peer through the storefront window of the yellow village office on Main Street and most mornings you'll see Mayor and Police Chief Arthur Sylvester — smiling.

Few outside official Washington may remember him. But in one of the Cold War's last grave dramas he spoke for the government and lied. Then he defended the falsehood by saying government had the right to lie when the nation's survival was at stake. The reaction was fierce.

For six years, Sylvester was assistant secretary of defense for public affairs under Robert McNamara, and he was the source of much of what the nation learned from the Pentagon about the Cuban missile crisis and the early course of the Vietnam war.

He was tough. He took much of the flak against the war and returned it in good measure. He was paid to be out front, and he earned his pay.

This quiet village of 2,200 is far removed from the passions of those years. Still, his phone rings incessantly. He's been mayor only two months, and already he's found a reprter to bicker with. And to defend when another official wanted something kept off the record.

News leaks don't worry him anymore, but the village water system is leaking nearly 100,000 gallons a day. And Sylvester has learned that dealing face to face with neighbors car, be just as trying as facing a skeptical press corps every day.

He was a reporter and Washington correspondent for 34 years before joining the Pentagon in 1961, but history will tag Arthur Sylvester as a man often accused of trying to manage the news.

Editorials in the '60s called him "Chief Commissar of the Ministry of Truth," and "omniscient manipulator of public opinion." "Artless Art" he was called. His old buddy and sometime adversary, Congressman Edward Hebert, then chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, once told him, "You run the best propaganda shop in town."

It's hard to reconcile that image with the man seated in the tiny back room, competing for desk space with a copying machine and losing. At 75, he is patient and courteous. His white hair is trimmed close, his face is ruddy, his gray-green eyes clear. On a sticky hot day he is cool in a long-sleeve shirt.

A reporter called Sylvester in 1962 as the Cuban crisis was building to a climax and asked if reports of Soviet missiles in Cuba were true. Sylvester conferred with Defense Secretary McNamara, who talked with other officials, and the answer came back: No. It wasn't true.

"I believe in advancing your line, your story. But you don't advance something that's not true. It will be found out. I've always believed any government must be truthful and factual. One exception — the Cuban missile crisis."

The calls today are less alarming. "Where is the building inspector?" "Why is my water bill so high?" "Can I get a fishing license for the reservoir?"

"Government close to the people is likely to be the worst, because it's hard to take an action against your neighbors and friends," he says. "McNamara. He was chicken-hearted, as I used to tell him, because he didn't like to move against people who were incompetent. It's the same way here."

He and McNamara, who now is president of the World Bank, were fast friends and still see each other occasionally. "I think he's getting over the Vietnam war," Sylvester says. "He's adjusting. He took it very much to heart. He's a highly sensitive man, highly competitive. He doesn't like to make mistakes. I find him much more reconciled to judgments of all kinds. But he doesn't talk much about it."

They parted in 1967. Sylvester settled in New York City, then moved north 45 miles to the Cold Spring area seven years ago because of its natural beauty — rolling hills, now hidden in spring foliage, cradling the Hudson River running narrow and deep by the foot of Main Street. West Point, the U.S. Military Academy, is just across the river.

"I got sucked onto the zoning board," he says. "If you want to make friends, don't join the zoning board. I covered them as a reporter. They haven't changed much."

The former mayor asked him to run for the office this year. Sylvester, who reported every presidential campaign from 1944 to 1960, knocked on 362 doors, promised to be on the job regularly, and edged his nearest opponent by 15 votes.

"We've always thought that if you were going to live in a community and have the right to complain about it, then you ought to get involved."

For $1,700 a year, he's mayor, the chief of the seven-man police force, and tries to keep the water and sewer systems running.

He hopes to expand the village office. "I'd like to see more people come to the trustee meetings and look down our backs and raise the devil with us. People are ill-informed about what's happening."

He's kept his promise to be available, according to Jack LaDeau, editor of the weekly Putnam County News and Recorder. "On a part-time job, he's working full time." The paper duly noted Sylvester's past during the campaign — "They ran all my trash," Sylvester says.

CIVILIAN AUTHORITY — Arthur Sylvester, who for six years butted heads with men in uniform and civilians alike as chief spokesman for the Pentagon, talks with officer Mike Frieary, one of his seven men in uniform in Cold Spring, N.Y. Sylvester serves the tiny community north of New York both as mayor and police chief.

Sylvester runs his village government with straight talk and truth. That official lie of his far-off Washington days is something required only once or twice a century, when the nation's existence is at stake, he feels. The right to lie is held in check by the honesty of public officials.

"We talk of a government of laws," he says, "but there must be a government with people of integrity to administer the laws."

Traces of reporter Sylvester and Pentagon official Sylvester linger. It is the newsman in him that argues against a trustee's effort to keep comments in an open meeting off the record. It is the government man in him that takes issue with a reporter's coverage of the meetings.

And occasionally, recalling a reporter he tangled with in Washington, that old temper flares, a moment of fire in Arthur Sylvester's otherwise genial demeanor.

"If you talked to my wife, she'd tell you that people are fooled by that pleasant manner and that smile. Underneath, there's a heart of steel."

Father's Day—a particularly fine time for reflection

Valley dad's earn a day of respite

Stand-in dad's merit cited

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

It's Father's Day — the one chance in the year when dad gets the opportunity to sit back and reflect on what a fine job he's done without being accused of bragging too much.

This Father's Day, two valley men have been cited by local hospitals as outstanding volunteers who share their time and talents with exceptional children.

But, contrary to the image of boastfulness, both men are rather reluctant to be singled out. Each says he feels he receives more from his activities than he gives.

Both men have a number of things in common. Both are

Mom 'launched' dads' day

Dad has only one person to thank for Father's Day. And that someone is Mom.

Not just any mama, mind you. But a particular lady from Spokane, Wash., who thought Dad was long overdue for accolades.

Pop might claim that Father's Day is the natural reward for the lifetimes of service and care offered by a legion of dedicated Dads, but it just isn't so.

Father's Day is the baby, so to speak, of Mrs. John Bruce Dodd, says Hallmark researcher Sally Hopkins. Mrs. Dodd, the mother of one son who was named "ideal father of 1952" by the Washington Post, came up with the idea for Father's Day in 1909.

She had attended a Mother's Day church service and was prompted to question just what was in the works to honor dear old dad.

"Her father raised six children singlehandedly after his

A 56-year-old Pomona grandmother, Mrs. Maria Perez De Rios, this June is seeing six members of her family achieve rewards in the academic world.

Without exception, they credit her as the "focus" of the pursuit for education in the family, and say, "she has helped us all in very special ways."

As a child growing up in Texas, Mrs. Rios was deprived of an education. As a married woman, she started her family in Texas, then moved to Pomona. She has five daughters and three sons and in each has instilled the desire to get an education.

Members of her family obtaining degrees this month are:

. . .Rachel Rios Madrigal, 43, a daughter, who was just graduated from Claremont Graduate School with a Ph.D. in education administration.

. . .Marian Madrigal, 22, a grandaughter, (daughter of Rachel), just graduated from Cal State Fullerton with a B. A. degree in political science.

. . .Joseph Madrigal, 17, a grandson (son of Rachel), just graduated from Ganesha High School and drafted for the Oakland "A's" baseball team.

. . .Karlene Madrigal, 24, a daughter-in-law and wife of Tony Tios Madrigal, just graduated from Chaffey College in Alta Loma as a registered nurse and already hired at a local hospital.

. . .Paula Rios, 25, a daughter, just graduated from Humbolt State University with a B.A. degree and selected Outstanding Senior Woman at graduation.

. . .David Trujillo, 18, a grandson, (son of Lupe Rios Trujillo), just graduated from Garey High School.

Rachel Madrigal, is a graduate of Pomona High School via the adult education program. She received her A. A. degree at Mt. San Antonio College, B. A. at Cal State Fullerton and M. A. at Sacramento State University.

She received a full Fellowship award in 1972 which enabled her to complete her first graduate work. She was awarded the Democrat of the Year citation for her contribution in the field of politics in the 65th Assembly District.

She is involved in developing Sonrisa Bilingual Publications, supplemental materials for Spanish-language children. She is employed as a program evaluator by the Pomona school district.

Marian Madrigal, a graduate of Ganesha High School, attended UCLA two years and received her B.A. degree from Cal State Fullerton. Her career goal is to become a lawyer. She is employed as a financial officer at San Bernardino State University.

Fact-finding panel to study RTD's service

A fact-finding committee has been appointed to review a request from the cities of Claremont, Pomona and La Verne who wish to withdraw from the Southern California Rapid Transit District.

The committee formation was the result of a meeting Thursday of representatives of the three cities with the Los Angeles County Transportation Commission's Technical Advisory Committee's bus operators subcommittee.

Claremont Deputy City Manager Paul Brotzman will represent the three cities on the committee, which also will contain representatives from the Southern California Association of Governments (SCAG), the county Transportation Commission, the RTD, and the San Bernardino County County Transportation Commission, which also is SANBAG. Wes McDaniel, executive director of SANBAG, will serve on the committee.

The meeting was attended by Claremont Mayor Bertye Smith, Pomona Mayor Charles Bader, La Verne City Councilman Melvin Belcher, David Ormiston, manager of the Pomona Chamber of Commerce, and Brotzman.

Brotzman said the bus operators subcommittee was "not opposed to the three cities' request."

He said the subcommittee has a need to know the impact that can be expected on RTD if the request were approved, the financial capabilities of the three cities, and the means of developing a coordinating of the Omnitrans system in San Bernardino County with the RTD system.

Brotzman theorized the three cities probably would contract with Omnitrans for local transportation and with RTD for regional transportation.

Some suffer as cities gain

It hardly amounts to a reversal of the trend of the past few decades, but for a variety of reasons more and more middle-class whites are moving back into the cities. And in an ironic twist to the usual pattern, they are displacing residents who had filled the vacuum left by the previous generation's flight to the suburbs.

The phenomenon is occurring in a number of major cities but is especially evident in Washington, D.C. Reported to be 71 per cent black in the 1970 census, Washington has begun gaining white population again, mostly young, college-educated and affluent.

Unfortunately, in the process of reviving decaying neighborhoods and turning dilapidated tenements into fancy townhouses, the newcomers are forcing out people who can't afford the stiff new rents.

According to one news story, "Like displaced war refugees, thousands of the poor are floating from one neighborhood to another. A rain of eviction notices is falling on tenants . . . spreading fear and resentment. Many will move a short distance, only to be evicted again as the reclamation moves deeper into the black and Hispanic areas."

The problem was the major topic of discussion at the recent annual meeting of the National Association of Neighborhoods in Pittsburgh, where one community leader from Columbus, Ohio, asked: "Who are we rehabilitating neighborhoods for? For the people who are there or for the middle class moving back in?"

On the one hand, the middle-class influx boosts sagging tax bases and enables a city to afford better police protection and other services. It leads to a commercial revival. This, after all, is what urban renewal is supposed to be all about.

But for the "refugees" it can be tragic, and some of them are beginning to form resistance groups to fight real estate practices that evict them without providing help in locating new housing. It is not that they don't welcome the improvements the affluent invasion brings in its wake; they just want to share in them.

The challenge facing the cities used to be that of halting creeping decay, and in most cases still is. It would be encouraging to think that in coming years the challenge will be just the opposite: how to direct urban renewal in a way which results in improving the life of every citizen.

Our cities should have worse problems.

A help to youth job picture

Each June, millions of new job-seekers spill out of the nation's schools. Many graduates, of course, plan to go on to college or other post-high school training. But many others face bleak prospects in a job market that is becoming increasingly tighter for teen-agers who lack special skills.

This year, however, the teen-age unemployment total will be about 1,000 persons smaller than it might otherwise have been. That is the early report on the number of youths who signed up for a new program initiated by the U.S. Army Reserve.

Under the Pre-Graduation Program, qualified high school seniors could join the Reserve within 90 days of graduation. During this period, they started learning a skill in a job field of their choice — more than 400 choices were available — by attending Army Reserve training sessions for 16 hours a month, usually on weekends. For this training they earned as much as $50 a month.

Now following graduation come a few weeks of basic training, and then during the next four months or longer (depending on the job specialty), the reservists will continue their instruction in one of the scores of top-caliber Army schools around the country. Throughout this period of active duty, the recruits will receive full Army pay and benefits, which means $374.40 a month to start.

When active duty is over, the reservist will return home to civilian life and continue learning in his or her chosen field at regular monthly meetings as a member of a unit based at a local Army Reserve center.

While it is too late to sign up for this year's program, members of the class of 1978 might want to look into it.

Thoughts

And I did not listen to the voice of my teachers or incline my ear to my instructors. — Proverbs 5:13

You cannot teach a man anything; you can only help him to find it for himself. — Galileo, Italian astronomer.

I myself am satisfied about you, my brethren, that you yourselves are full of goodness, filled with all knowledge, and able to instruct one another. — Romans 15:14

The good that is in you is the good that you do for others. — Roger Babson, American statistician.

Reasons for lawyer ubiquity

Dear Editor:

Regarding your recent editorial on the litigiousness of society and the ubiquity of judges and lawyers, law scholar Archibald Cox of Harvard University points out that more than a century ago de Tocqueville remarked that hardly a political issue arises in the United States that is not converted into a legal question and taken to the courts for decision.

Cox asks, "Where else would one find a court charged with deciding whether prayer should be said or the Bible read at the start of the day in the school house? Whether Negroes were entitled to equal public accommodations? Or how the seats should be apportioned in the state legislature? Where else would a court undertake to apportion the waters of a great river system, thus determining the relative opportunities for agriculture and industrial development in vast regions, as our Supreme Court did in apportioning the waters of the Colorado River?"

We have developed the extraordinary habit of casting critical aspects of social, economic, political and philosophical questions in the form of actions at law and suits in equity.

A great democratic revolution in this century is by the courts. The courts established the principle of one-man one-vote; enforced the right to vote; ordered districts to be equalized as to number of votes; ordered the elimination of discrimination based on race, color or religion; ordered equal educational opportunities based on ability. These improvements, all done by the courts, are giving representative democracy a new lease on life.

The late Robert McCloskey of Harvard and Marson Shapiro, both judicial scholars, point out why this is. They point out that "marvelous machine of compromise and mutual adjustment" is busy attending to the squeakiest wheel; that the presidency has "turned its eyes to the international security of American life rather than the quality of what was being secured." The court system is doing what the other two branches of the government are failing to do. In court we can attack political and social wrongs that would otherwise have gone unattended.

Shapiro says there is something compelling about an institution that can say with authority that the South may not preserve slavery any longer, that one man's vote is not to be worth 17 times that of another, that the police, too, must obey the law, that the poor and ignorant are entitled to the same legal protection as the rich and educated and that one man may not tell another man what he may not read or what he must pray. "To say these things . . . because they were somehow right, returns us to the mysterious."

Crucial verdict ahead for FBI

WASHINGTON — The FBI, once the Rock of Gibraltar of government agencies, has been shaken down to its foundations. Several agents have been accused of violating the laws they were sworn to uphold. One veteran of the wars against crime and sedition, John Kearney, has been indicted and faces trial.

This has stirred a great debate in the backrooms of Washington. Most agents have lined up solidly behind Kearney; they believe he has been singled out by the Justice Department as a scapegoat. The people around Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell, on the other hand, warn that agents must live by the laws they enforce.

Both sides have brought us confidential papers. We have listened to their impassioned arguments. The outcome could determine whether the FBI will survive as a formidable law enforcement agency.

As the bootleggers and gangsters of the 1920s gave way to the drug traffickers and revolutionaries of the 1970s, the FBI stood unscathed. Its minions developed a reputation for vigilance and integrity. The greenest agent in the field became accepted in his community as a fearless, incorruptible bloodhound.

But increasingly the FBI devoted an incredible portion of its manpower, its budget and its priorities to spying on citizens who merely exercised the constitutional guarantees of free speech, assembly and petition.

The Socialist Workers party, for example, preaches a peaceful but unpopular Marxist political philosophy. It does not advocate the violent overthrow of the existing system.

The party has every right under the Constitution, therefore, to operate in this country. Yet some FBI officials, in their zeal, began to look upon themselves as less subject to the laws they required others to obey.

They allegedly burglarized party offices and stole financial records, membership lists and other documents. The Socialist Workers have shown us evidence, for example, that the FBI broke into their headquarters in Detroit in October 1971.

The indicted Kearney, however, headed a special FBI team, which was assigned to investigate the Weathermen Underground. Unlike the Socialist Workers, the Weathermen were violent. They had claimed credit for numerous bombings across the country. FBI sources told us the weathermen were the most dangerous of all political dissidents.

Now, Kearney has been charged with using illegal wiretaps and mail tamperings during his investigation of the Weathermen. His supporters showed us a memo about the case, which makes the following points:

— Former Atty. Gen. Edward Levi, in a decision not to prosecute federal agents for opening mail, said: "Questions of the legality of intelligence methods . . . did not reach the courts until this decade . . . Whatever can be said about the law now, the department believes at the time the potential defendants acted, there was substantial basis for thinking that the law was otherwise."

— Levi maintained that officials "at the highest levels" failed to clarify investigative guidelines. Therefore, "all this would render a prosecution by the government hypocritical."

— Not until 1972 did the courts rule that the president lacks the power to authorize unwarranted wiretappings unless it involves foreign espionage. "In this connection," the document notes, "all the activities alleged in the Kearney indictment precede (this) decision."

— Former CIA chief Richard Helms authorized a surreptitious entry into a Fairfax, Va., photographic studio in a "national security case." Ex-FBI boss L. Patrick Gray also ordered a break-in of the home of a suspect believed to be in league with Arab terrorists. In each case, the Justice Department declined to prosecute. Yet it has indicted Kearney, a lower-level official, on similar charges.

— The courts have also ruled that federal agents can't be held responsible for actions that they believed were proper and had the approval of superiors.

Strange things, these fathers

A father is a thing that is forced to endure childbirth without an anesthetic.

A father is a thing that growls when it feels good and laughs very loud when it's scared half to death.

A father is sometimes accused of giving too much time to his business when the little ones are growing up.

That's partly fear, too.

Fathers are much more easily frightened than mothers.

A father never feels entirely worthy of the worship in a child's eyes.

He's never quite the hero his daughter thinks, never quite the man his son believes him to be, and this worries him, sometimes.

So he works too hard to try to smooth the rough places in the road for those of his own who will follow him.

A father is a thing that gets very angry when the first school grades aren't as good as he thinks they should be.

He scolds his son, though he knows it's the teacher's fault.

A father is a thing that goes away to war, sometimes.

And learns to swear and shoot and spit through his teeth and would run the other way except that this war is part of his only important job in life, which is making the world better for his child than it has been for him.

Fathers grow old faster than people.

Because they, in other wars, have to stand at the train station and wave goodbye to the uniform that climbs aboard.

And while mothers can cry where it shows, fathers have to stand there and beam outside — and die inside.

Fathers have very stout hearts, so they have to be broken sometimes or no one would know what's inside.

Fathers are what give daughters away to other men who aren't nearly good enough so they can have grandchildren that are smarter than anybody's.

Fathers fight dragons — almost daily.

They hurry away from the breakfast table, off to the arena which is sometimes called an office or a workshop.

There, with calloused, practiced hands, they tackle the dragon with three heads: Weariness, Work and Monotony.

And they never quite win the fight, but they never give up.

Knights in shining armor, fathers in shiny trousers — there's little difference, as they march away to each workday.

Fathers make bets with insurance companies about who'll live the longest.

Even as the odds get higher and higher, they keep right on betting, more and more.

And one day they lose.

But fathers enjoy an earthly immortality . . . and the bet's paid off to the part of him he leaves behind.

I don't know where fathers go when they die.

But I've an idea that after a good rest, wherever it is, he won't be happy unless there's work to do.

He won't just sit on a cloud and wait for the girl he's loved and the children she bore.

He'll be busy there, too, repairing the stairs, oiling the gates, improving the streets, smoothing the way.

Group should get to issues

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A fledgling public interest organization called New Directions could soon become an influential force in the public debate on a host of global issues — if it abandons its apparent misinterpretation of the biblical proclamation that "a good name is rather to be chosen than great riches."

New Directions is so transfixed by "good names" that it has collected scores of politicians, businessmen, financiers, lawyers, union officials, academics, civic leaders, political activists and assorted do-gooders to adorn its letterhead.

No self-respecting Washington organization lacks a healthy list of "sponsors" or "advisers" to display on its stationery as a means of establishing its credentials and certifying its reputability — but New Directions has carried the practice beyond any logical limit.

The group's first mass mailing seeking new members was encased in a large envelope, one side of which was totally covered with the titles of its big-name backers. The result was a typographical melange neither attractive nor decipherable.

The enclosures in that and several successive mailings contained the names of so many officers and members of the organization's "governing board" and "council" that a special flap had to be added to the stationery to list all the sponsors.

New Directions' most recent mail appeal for members still includes the names and titles of no fewer than 123 such supporters, but they now are listed in smaller type and confined to the back page of a letter which identifies the organization's goals.

The group's decision to emphasize issues instead of celebrities is a welcome change because New Directions is an organization which deserves a chance to gain the stature and support necessary to make it a contribution to the national dialogue on a series of crucial issues.

Washington already has more than its share of citizen groups concentrating on virtually every imaginable domestic issue, as well as a handful of elite organizations working in the foreign policy-national security sphere. But there is no broad-based institution whose concerns are focused on the international arena.

That is the specialty New Directions has chosen for itself, with initial emphasis on the issues of worldwide energy conservation, nuclear proliferation, reduction of indiscriminate arms sales, global food production and expansion of low-cost delivery systems for health, education and family planning.

"When you look ahead now, it's frightening," says Russell W. Peterson, New Directions' president. "All the unresolved problems about energy resources and nuclear development, the population bomb, the arms race, the confrontation between the have and have-not nations."

Adds Peterson, a Republican who was an outstanding governor of Delaware from 1969 to 1973: "All of these issues are inextricably tied to national policies. You cannot separate our problems into domestic and foreign anymore."

Beneath Peterson's name on the letterhead is that seemingly endless list of supporters. Indeed, New Directions wins this year's politics-makes-strange-bedfellows award by alphabetically juxtaposing liberal folksinger Theodore Bikel with conservative politician Shirley Temple Black.

Their colleagues on the "governing board" include officials of such irreverent boat-rocking organizations as Amnesty International and SANE along with senior partners in the "establishment" Wall Street investment houses of Dillon, Read & Co. and Brown Brothers, Harriman & Co.

All of that window dressing probably won't do a great deal of good for New Directions. Just as many Americans have become cynical in recent years about the value of society's once-revered institutions, they also have become less enthralled with the men and women atop those organizations.

New Directions will succeed or fail on the basis of its accomplishments, not its letterhead.

"Please understand that I'm very proud of Indira. But the good career she had begun is being threatened by all this sorry business of muzzling people and stifling dissent . . . If there are no civil liberties and no dissent, then where is the democracy we fought for?" — Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, 76, an early Indian leader and aunt of Indira Gandhi, saying she is "profoundly troubled" at the direction India is taking.

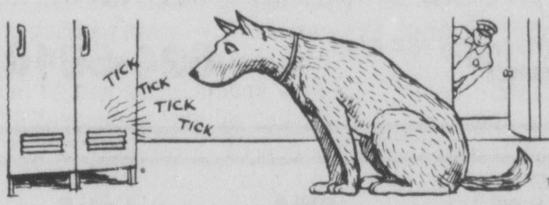
Bomb sniffing title to dogs



DEAR DR. MILLER: I read a paper blurb about a dog trained to hunt for bombs. It says they sniff them? Are they the same, then, as the dogs sniffing for narcotics? How efficient is a bomb dog, really, compared to a man that knows what he's doing? — G.A.

DEAR G.A.: A bomb detector dog may find that hidden bomb 15 to 30 times faster than a human bomb expert. The dogs are capable of intense concentration. That, combined with the acute sense of smell, enables them to outdo human competition. The technique in training, while similar to that for narcotic-sniffing dogs, varies in one important respect — the dog is trained when it finds a bomb to immediately sit in front of it. Sitting is the signal to the trainer. The narcotics-sniffing dog is trained to scratch and/or dig for the narcotics when found. For obvious reasons, it is important that a bomb-finding dog resist any such impulse.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Sure, cats shed hair. Everyone knows that. But I'm worried because my cat is shedding his claws! How serious is this, and what can be done to stop it? — R.L.

DEAR R.L.: Nothing can, or should, be done to stop your cat's claw shedding since this is a natural process. This is, in fact, one of the main reasons why your cat may use his scratching post (or, alsa, your furniture). He's "sharpening" his claws — which doesn't really mean he's sharpening the claws, he's simply exercising them, and should the old outer layer, or sheath, of the claw be loose, these clawing movements will pull away the old nail, exposing a sharp, shiny new claw beneath. Essentially, then, it's a normal claw-shedding, not claw-sharpening process.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I may get some books and learn all about bees, but first I need to know how much setting up a beehive would cost me. Once I learned all about them, can you think of anything else I might need? — L.D.

DEAR L.D.: Figure $50 to $75 for the first hive — that figure should be reasonably close. Once you know all about bees, you won't have any questions. In the meantime, one thing you need (or at least it will minimize many problems if you have it in considerable quantity) is space.

Astrographs

By Bernice Bede Osol
For Monday, June 20, 1977
Your Birthday, June 20, 1977

Someone very interesting may add a touch of glamor to your life this year. You'll find that the two of you have much in common.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Things could go well for you today provided you operate in the open and aboveboard. If you try to get devious, that's another matter. To find out more about yourself send for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) In business today you are both shrewd and impulsive. You might wipe out the good you accomplish with a few ill-conceived whims.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'll make a big hit with friends today so long as you don't try to engage in one-upsmanship. If such a situation arises, extricate yourself.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Give career matters or things that could add to your income top priority today. If you think only of play time, there may be no pay time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't be afraid to think big or to tackle a large project today. Rather than depending on others, however, count only on yourself.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You're likely to be far more resourceful and ambitious in business today than your associates. You should mastermind the operation.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Compromise, charm and tact are your tools today to reshape a negative situation into something positive and profitable.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If something's at stake in a joint venture and the other person is a bit frivolous in managing his end, step in. Make some corrections.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) In one-to-one relationships, people are likely to treat you more generously today than you'll treat them. Try to be equally charitable.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Extremely worthwhile accomplishments are possible today, but be on guard lest someone less ambitious than you sets you on the wrong track.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be sociable today, but don't carry it to extremes. You may pick up the tab for your pals and later resent it.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Subdue any self-interests you might have today. Expand your energies on shoring up the family's security. You'll feel better for it.

Ann Landers

Judge's ruling still valid

Dear Ann Landers: I am incensed about a certain situation and would like to know what you think. My husband and I have been arguing about it for several days. He said if you agree with me he will shut up.

Last September we attended the wedding of a fellow my husband used to work with. I say "used to" because the groom dropped dead of a heart attack during the wedding ceremony.

The minister pronounced the couple man and wife as he lay on the chapel floor.

The bride claimed she was legally entitled to her husband's estate. His parents said she was not. They took the matter to court. The judge declared the couple was legally married when the man died therefore she is entitled to the widow's share of the estate.

There has been a lot of talk about this in our town and I would like to have Ann Landers' opinion of the judge's verdict. — Want To See Justice Done

Dear Want To See: Ann Landers does not second-guess judges. The decision was, I am sure, based on the evidence presented and if the judge ruled the couple man and wife at the time of his death, she is the legal widow and entitled to all the benefits thereto attending. Case Closed.

Dear Ann Landers: What do you think of a man in his mid-50s who's been married for 35 years, owns his own home and has plenty of room to entertain, but when we have special guests he suggests that we all eat at his mother's house or else have her come over here and cook the dinner?

He is an only child. When his father died his mother lived with us for the first 17 years of our marriage. She cooked every holiday meal. Any time we had guests, she took over. I was never able to bake him a birthday cake. His mother always beat me to it.

This morning when we were discussing a dinner party for special friends he suggested his mother's house. I hit the ceiling. When he saw how upset I was he said, "Well then, let's have her come over here and cook the dinner."

I consider it an insult that he would rather have his mother cook for special guests. By the way, I have turned out some excellent gourmet meals on my own. Please tell me what you think of this situation. I admit I'm too close to see it clearly. — One-Upped By Mama

Dear Upped: You are not going to alter the relationship between your husband and "mama." She has the umbilical cord wound tightly around his neck and that's where it's going to stay.

Since you can't change the relationship, change your thinking. Tell him, "Fine — let your mother do the cooking and baking. I'll go to the beauty salon and get beautiful." Then go. And pamper yourself. Get the works.

When the guests arrive you'll be fresh as a daisy and the work will be done. If anyone comments on the food, by all means give your mother-in-law credit. Most of the women will envy you. (How nice to have free catering service!) Moral of the story: When life hands you a lemon, make lemonade.

Erma Bombeck

Checkbook makes a real dad

I have never considered George Washington the father of this country. Maybe I would have felt differently if he had had children.

Somehow, I've always associated this distinction with people like Tom Braden (author of "Eight Is Enough") or Jack Anderson or Harry Reasoner, who head large families.

You can get as sloppy as you want about a mother's love, a mother's tenderness, a mother's tear, but our kids would have been nothing without their father's checkbook.

It began at the birth of our first child. As she lay there in the crib her father said, "She's not only beautiful. She's absolutely perfect!"

"You really think so?" I said hesitantly. "She has an umbilical hernia."

"Can it be fixed?"

"Of course," I said. He got out his checkbook.

With the birth of our son, he said, "This one could whip the world with one hand tied behind his back."

"You really think so? Maybe someday, but for the moment, he needs minor surgery."

He whipped out the checkbook.

The next one toed in and not only needed braces at night, but orthopedic shoes during the day.

Then the fun really began. One had an overbite, the other an iron deficiency, then another was allergic to dust and mold.

They cracked their skulls open, broke bones, were allergic to bee stings, tore cartilage and required stitches.

They contracted rashes, astigmatisms, high fevers and stepped on rusty nails.

When their bodies were finally put together, he had to start supporting their basic psychological needs. "Daddy, I'm the only senior in North America who does not own a pair of earth shoes."

"Ride a bicycle to school! Are you still punishing me for being born Jan. 2 and blowing your $700 deduction for 1959?"

"I know the class ring costs $75, but honest, Daddy, I'll wear it until the day I die."

"Do you expect me to go to a college that is eight hours from the ski slopes? What kind of a degree would that be!"

"If you want a Father's Day present, you'd better give me an allowance."

Sure, George Washington had to provide food and clothing for hundreds of needy troops at Valley Forge. He took office with a country with millions of dollars in debts which the Congress of the Articles of Confederation had been unable to pay. He worked from sunup to sundown managing his 8,000 acres at Mt. Vernon.

But next to today's fathers who have to deal with taffy in space maintainers and insurance on a 16-year-old male driver . . . that was a piece of cake.

Dr. Lamb

Not hypoglycemia, but anxiety

DEAR DR. LAMB — I would appreciate it if you would give me some help with my problem. For some time now when ever I get hungry I get real nervous and find myself getting sick if I don't get something to eat right away. The doctor says I have low blood sugar. Is this a serious condition and is it in any way connected to diabetes?

Is there anything special I should eat or not eat? Please help me if you can.

DEAR READER — There are many people who think they have low blood sugar (hypoglycemia) who really do not. It is an over-diagnosed condition and frequently a self-diagnosed illness. Many people who think they have hypoglycemia really have anxiety.

The only way the diagnosis can be properly made is to demonstrate the low blood sugar level at the time typical symptoms occur. Many normal people have low blood sugar readings with no symptoms at all. There are several books sold to the general public — some by well-known names of people who are self-appointed experts who have no professional background at all — that adds to the public confusion.

If you really have symptoms related to low blood sugar you should avoid all concentrated sweets. Avoid the starches and get your carbohydrates from fresh raw fruit and vegetables. Increase the protein and fat in your diet. To give you more information on what to eat and what not to eat I am sending you The Health Letter number 3-9, Low Blood Sugar: Hypoglycemia. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it.

Real hypoglycemia is a symptom. It can be caused by many different things. It occurs as a complication after some cases of partial removal of the stomach in ulcer patients. This is associated with "dumping" the gastric contents into the small intestine and stimulating a faulty release or over-production of insulin.

A faulty release of insulin, the hormone that lowers blood sugar, may be related to an early stage of diabetes. The faulty release of insulin at the wrong time may be followed by inadequate release of insulin at all and diabetes later on.

Another rare cause of hypoglycemia is a small tumor of the islets of Langerhans, the tissue that produces insulin. When this is the case the hypoglycemia may occur in the fasting state. Many other forms of hypoglycemia occur after eating and are called reaction hypoglycemia, rebound or secondary hypoglycemia. Clearly any meaningful form of treatment must be directed toward finding the real cause and not just treating the symptoms.

Among dietary considerations in people who have reactive hypoglycemia is to avoid sweet liquids, coffee, alcohol and cigarettes. Eating smaller more frequent meals may also help. Fat and protein are emptied more slowly from the normal stomach; that is why they are emphasized instead of carbohydrates.

Nervousness may be associated with a release of adrenaline. The excess adrenaline helps to raise your blood glucose level. But adrenaline may also be released because of anxiety and that is where all the confusion in diagnoses begins.

Dr. Lamb answers representative letters of general interest in his column. Write to him in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

"I hate a show-off," grunted East. Then he conceded the slam.

It was a friendly, all-expert game and South had claimed after winning the trump lead in his own hand.

West made South play it out which he did as follows.

A heart to the king, a spade discard on the ace of diamonds, a spade to the king, a spade to the ace, a club to the eight and bingo.

West couldn't lead a spade. He didn't have any. A club lead would be up to South's King-jack; a diamond lead would let South ruff in dummy and discard his last spade.

If East had played the nine of clubs, South would get the same result by covering with the jack.

You can change the East and West hands any way you wish, but once East followed to that first trump there was no way that the line of play adopted by South could fail to produce the necessary 12 tricks.

SEEN AT A DISTANCE

If you stand on the roof of a 10-story building and look down at the cars in the street below — say at a vertical distance of about 100 feet — they look like toys, much smaller than they really are. However, if you stand in the street and look away at those same cars — likewise at a distance of about 100 feet, but a horizontal distance — they appear of normal size. Why does the human brain compensate for horizontal views but not for vertical views? Most mysterious.

Counseling Corner

Vital marriage built on trust

By R. CLIFF WATERS
Marriage and Family Counselor

"Why did we come to see a marriage counselor?" the husband asked. "Because recently we are fighting all the time. Betty and I have always been happy with our relationship. Sex tends to be solid pleasure for us. We have been open in our love-making and able to talk about our needs to each other."

"Yes!" Betty said angrily. "But now he wants us to have sex with others."

Each occasionally dated others. "After all, we're broad-minded," he pushed on to say. "We're certainly not Victorian in these days, and as long as we're honest with each other, whose business is it, anyway?"

This couple, like many couples today, are facing important questions. Our society has been changing rapidly. What is acceptable marital behavior? What are the rules? Could it be, in this day and age, that unfaithfulness occurs only when the behavior is not known to and accepted by the spouse? The act of infidelity could be construed as disloyalty or as a threat to continuity — or as a kind of basic human right which the loved one ought to be permitted to have, and which the other perhaps wants also for himself or herself.

This couple has a vital marriage. They are deeply involved psychologically in each other and in the aspirations and values which the mate holds. The marriage is essential. It is the most important and sustaining fundamental fulfillment of life.

As they were later able to say, "The things we do together aren't fun in themselves; the delicious joy comes from being together in the doing." The presence of the other is indispensable to the feelings of satisfaction which the activity provides, and they find their central satisfaction in the life they live with and through each other. Sex, for these two, is highly important and their comments demonstrate it: "It's not only important; it's fun" . . . "It seems to be getting better all the time."

I spoke with this couple about the fighting and assisted them to understand that the fighting indicated that infidelity must not have been acceptable to one of the partners. They had built a vital marriage relationship. One of the foundations of that relationship had been trust. To be unfaithful to one another would likely destroy that trust — perhaps ruin this love for one another.

I have never seen contented marital partners where frequent infidelity is condoned. For me, a good marriage must contain intimate communication, passion, friendship, respect and embrace the real meaning and practice of trust.

retired. Both have sons and grandchildren. Both came to California from distant locations. Both have wives who support their outside activities.

And both love children.

Ermer has been a Foster Grandparent at PSH for five years and has enjoyed his role so much he has recruited a dozen other Foster Grandparents.

To qualify as a Foster Grandparent, a man or woman must be at least 60 years old and on a limited income. The grandparents work four hours a day, five days a week, and receive a small stipend plus transportation costs.

Most Foster Grandparents have one child in their care, but Ermer has two "sons," Rudy and Lee. The boys enjoy sharing their time with Ermer who takes them hiking to Rustic camp and participates in other activities on the grounds.

Ermer, a former truck driver who retired 11 years ago in New York City, also umpires for Little League and girls softball teams in the Walnut area.

He spends a great deal of time with his three grandchildren in Walnut and enjoys devoting time to their friends.

Ermer says he's pleased that he can establish close friendships with the youngsters and adds, "they like me, too."

Ermer and his wife, Pauline, will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary on June 25.

Ermer believes "children haven't changed all that much in the past 50 years."

Waszink and his wife, Sarah, came to the valley 22 years ago from The Netherlands.

Until last year, he was supervisor of metallurgy at Kaiser Steel Co. in Fontana. He still teaches a class in metallurgy at the plant for workers who seek to advance.

Waszink and his wife were interested in the Foster Grandparents and wanted to serve as unpaid volunteers, but discovered the program was filled at the time.

"Then someone told us that Casa Colina was seeking volunteers for its Children's Center," Waszink says. Mrs. Waszink started but arthritis limited her ability to handle the children.

"Our two sons are gone from home and the grandchildren live in Florida, so we love becoming involved with other children.

"It has been rewarding to work with certain youngsters at the school and feel that I have been somewhat responsible for their physical development," Waszink says.

He describes a close companionship with one small boy who has changed from a passive child to an eager, confident youth since the two have been playing together.

Waszink and his wife of 37 years are also "foster parents" to a Korean orphan and several children in a school in New Mexico.

The couple recently visited the school, which is assisted by the Save Our Children Foundation. They delivered balls, bats, games and other items to the school children.

"In Holland, families are very close and children get a lot of personal attention. They need to feel loved and secure.

"In this country, families are often separated and children may lack the sense of security they need," Waszink adds.

"I'm glad we have the time to share with the children."

Both men added that working as volunteers give them something to look forward to during their retirement.

They may have retired from jobs — but not from life.

wife's death in 1898," Miss Hopkins said. "Mrs. Dodd worked with her minister to set up the first Father's Day observance on June 19, 1910."

The Father's Day idea was slow to catch on, however. Whereas Mother's Day become an official holiday in 1914, just six years after it was first celebrated, Father's Day didn't achieve similar status for six decades.

Miss Hopkins says that it was another woman, Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, who was instrumental in raising the nation's awareness about the holiday.

President Calvin Coolidge recommended in 1924 that Father's Day be observed in all states but he stopped short of a national proclamation. Two other early attempts to formalize the day were defeated in Congress.

All this led Senator Smith in 1957 to unleash her wrath on Congress.

"As far as I can gather," she wrote in a proposal, "Congress has been guilty now for 40 years of the worst possible oversight . . . perpetrated against the gallant fathers . . . of our land.

"As a daughter, as a woman, and as a United States Senator, I must say as strongly as I know how, that the conduct of the Congress in this regard should cause us to hide our faces in shame . . . Either we honor both our parents, mother and father, or let us desist from honoring either one. But to single out just one of our two parents and omit the other is the most grievous insult imaginable."

Her unminced words apparently stuck in the congressional craw. Father's Day became a national holiday in 1972.

HURRICANE AGNES LEGACY,
a steel wall restrains Susquehanna River

Wilkes-Barre hurricane recovery slow

Era of the flood—Wyoming Valley disaster woes linger

EDITOR'S NOTE: When Hurricane Agnes struck the Northeast on June 22, 1972, one of the hardest hit towns was Wilkes-Barre, Pa., where flood waters reached the second stories of many houses. A reporter revisiting Wyoming Valley finds that the effects of the disaster linger.

The flood left the city of 65,000 with more than $1 billion in damages, with physical and mental scars that still are readily apparent.

"It'll never be over," says Donna Miles, a department store sales manager. "We've rearranged our house so our valuable furniture is stored on the second floor. The Minute the river rises, it all moves up to the attic or out of the valley to friends."

"You could see the long-term effects in Eloise," says contractor Tom Bell, referring to a 1975 hurricane — three years after Agnes — that brought heavy rains but no flooding in the Wyoming Valley, thanks to reinforced, higher dikes on the Susquehanna River. "I never saw so many rented trucks. People were packing up and getting out."

In the '72 calamity, about 100,000 persons were left homeless in the Susquehanna flood. Most were housed in trailers and campers provided by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Only three families live in the trailers today, but there are plenty of other reminders.

"The flood has become an historical date," says psychiatric social worker J. Warren Yarnal. "You can hardly go a day in this town without hearing someone talk about 'before the flood' or 'after the flood.'"

A temporary bridge still spans the Susquehanna. Rubble-filled lots and condemned buildings dot the town. Several streets remain closed to traffic. Elementary school children attend classes in a temporary quonset hut-like structure. The Wilkes-Barre public square is torn up, and the central business district is being rebuilt.

In Chamber of Commerce terminology, all of the flood-related repair is called "redevelopment." While larger chain stores are pleased with the modernization that will allow the central city to compete with suburban shopping malls, many small businessmen say the effort has not meant progress for them.

"I don't know what's been worse for this area — the flood or redevelopment," says lawyer George Ritchie, who like many downtown workers, must detour around various construction sites to get to his office overlooking the public square. "Redevelopment is killing the little guy."

"Between redevelopment and SBA, they put me out of business," says printer Jake Sirotkin.

Of the $800 million the federal Small Business Administration spent on flood-related reconstruction in Pennsylvania, nearly $500 million went to Wilkes - Barre. Like more than half of the city's homeowners and small businessmen, Sirotkin was able to get a loan from the SBA to rebuild his home and business. But the Wilkes-Barre Redevelopment Agency tore down the block where his print shop was and erected a new building, charging four times the previous rent. Sirotkin's business failed. He suffered a heart attack. Now he's put a "For Sale" sign in front of the totally rebuilt house where his four children grew up.

While flood victims expressed gratitude for the favorable terms of their special SBA disaster loans — one per cent interest and a $5,000 "forgiveness" — many question the wisdom of the federal policy that encouraged renovation rather than relocation. Federal disaster loans were responsible for the reconstruction of so many homes in the hardest-hit south Wilkes-Barre area that the neighborhood is referred to as a "government reservation."

'They laugh and think we're oddballs'

Mars gone, Star's fallen but Venus still lives on

By KILEY ARMSTRONG
Associated Press Writer

ODDBALL? — Art Von Seggern is half the population of Venus. 'When people hear we're from Venus, they laugh and think we're oddballs," he says.

VENUS, Neb. (AP) — The neighboring towns of Mars and Star have fallen by the wayside, but the business of a bygone era lives on at Venus. Population 2.

Fresh farm milk and eggs, bolts and nails, livestock feed and a few pairs of size 5 children's shoes line the shelves of the Venus Store, which is kept in mint 1904 condition by owners Ella and Art Von Seggern.

"When people hear we're from Venus, they laugh and think we're oddballs," says Von Seggern. "But when I was in the hospital last year in Omaha, I was homesick. I thought, 'If I could just get back to Venus.'"

Venus, about 200 miles northwest of Omaha near the South Dakota border, was founded about 1879. It boasted a population of 11 in its heyday and had a creamery, blacksmith shop and dance hall.

Farmers still gather in winter around a pot-belly stove fueled with corncobs and wood. "He and I have changed the government a million times," Von Seggern said as he greeted a customer.

Outside, gas pumps of another era stand beside more modern ones, and a fading sign in the window reminds area residents of the Venus Post Office, closed in 1959.

Popularity keeps the store alive, one customer says.

If the Von Seggerns are busy, regular customers like Vincent Jackson, one of 500 people who live in nearby Orchard, help themselves to a loaf of bread or a dozen eggs then write their own charge slip.

"We've seen a lot of shopping centers come and go." says Von Seggern.

"But," adds his wife, "the people always forget to buy things and have to come to Venus."

It's greener on the other side

Skiing: schussing down a grassy mountainside

PITTSBURGH (AP) — If you see someone with ski poles schussing 60 miles an hour down a grassy mountainside this summer, don't be concerned. Your eyes don't need checking.

It might be Francois Reizine, a French-born engineer who can't keep off the slopes — even if it is too warm for snow. He simply trades his skis for wheels.

Reizine, once a member of the French Ski Team and head coach of the Western Pennsylvania Racing Team, hits the slopes with the same gusto in summer as in winter.

Reizine uses European built grass skis. One type, the German made Rollka, is a short ski with caterpillar treads. The other, the French made Skirou, is a short ski with two inflated balloon tires.

Reizine says the Rollka gives the skiier a more realistic edging action but the Skirou has the bounce of a real ski and goes faster. The Rollka is capable of going 35 to 50 miles an hour and Reizine says he often hits 60 m.p.h. on the tire-skis.

Both types of skis are designed for use on a variety of grass surfaces. "Any grass-covered slope, a gentle smooth slope or one with undulating hills and valleys, is ideal," Reizine says.

Reizine says he was introduced to the grass skis about six years ago in France. He claims the sport has thousands of followers in Europe, particularly among professional racers.

"People just don't think they can go skiing in the summer," Reizine says. "But they have exactly the same edging effect as skis.

"You carve a turn just like a good pair of skis. If you want to learn, you won't be distracted by sideways movement. It's very good for racers. You can practice hot-dogging and ballet because the skis are short."

Reizine says he doesn't expect grass skiing to enjoy great popularity with Americans.

"There will be interest from serious skiers and those who are sports-minded and excited by something new. People who want to sit in a chair or drink in a bar won't like it," he says.

But Reizine says the beginning snow skier can get into shape for the winter season with the grass skis. "Often beginning skiers are overwhelmed with the cold weather, the skis skidding sideways and continuously falling on hard, wet snow," he says. "They quickly trade in their skis for a couple of drinks by the fire."

But to Reizine, a hill is a ski slope even in the summer. "To ski down a slope in summer in schuss or gentle curves is a beautiful feeling."

AFTERMATH — This youngster will probably never know a real schoolhouse. She scampers past a temporary classroom errected in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., in the wake of Hurricane Agnes.

"Too many people were forced into massive indebtedness, to reconstruct devastated buildings that shouldn't have been rebuilt, in areas where they would have preferred not to remain," said Fred Anderson, a regional coordinator for HUD in the disaster relief and redevelopment effort during 1972-74. "I feel that the growth of this area would have been much longer-lived had there been more judicious decisions about re-use of the flood plain."

The Flood Victims Action Council, which claims more than 2,000 members in Pennsylvania and New York, lobbied for legislation to preclude forced rebuilding in the flood plain and provide better longrange flood protection.

"All redevelopment did was to pour a lot of money into a lot of pockets in the center city," complained one member. "The government's free ride for big business has only increased our tax burden. Our industry hasn't picked up, and the lot of the average citizen hasn't improved."

Despite all the complaints, Wyoming Valley's residents point with pride to what they consider one positive effect of the disaster: The strong family and community support that helped them survive.

"I was amazed at the resilience of the people," said social worker Yarnal.

Psychologist Carl Nitsche, who studied the psychological effects of the 1972 flooding, found relatively few psychic problems, most relating to the disruption of the environment in the flood-damaged communities. Follow-up counseling has confirmed the value of mutual psychological support among flood victims, he says.

"The support network in some of the hardest-hit communities is so strong that the few who were fortunate enough to escape serious flooding practically feel like pariahs," Dr. Nitsche says.

Residents still debate whether a similar disaster could happen again.

"We're still living in a flood plain," says Anderson, the former disaster relief official. "While people are growing more confident that the river will never flood that way again, because we now have a couple more feet of dike, I'm still worried. I think that as development increases up river, there will be more and more runoff water, and sooner or later this valley will flood again. The worst part is, I don't think we'll survive another disaster."

Retraces blood-stained path through pass

Sunday-only Khyber railway ride not for time schedules

ON THE KHYBER RAILWAY, Pakistan (AP) — The conductor shuffled through the second class coach and idly okayed the 31-cent tickets. And then the train inched its way out of the Peshawar Cantonment Station.

It was 23 minutes late but no one cared.

For time schedules matter little on the Sunday-only Khyber Railway train ride from Peshawar to Landi Kotal, near the Afghanistan border, through narrow passes, beneath towering precipices and around edges of deep gorges.

En route, the train retraces the blood-stained path of the Khyber Pass, the ancient passageway to India made legendary in literature — in countless Hollywood movies.

Many considered the railway project impossible when it was begun by the British in 1920 to ensure their hold on the Khyber. Five years, 34 tunnels, 92 bridges and 2 million pounds sterling later, it was completed.

Travelers learn the Khyber is no mere pass, and the trip is accomplished only by using a number of switchbacks, a series of zigzag tracks up steep hills as high as 3,500 feet.

It goes like this:

9:23 a.m. With a steam locomotive at either end, the yellow and green train slowly rolls through Peshawar, passing little bands of waving children and a herd of grazing goats.

9:28 a.m. The first stop is unscheduled. Before cutting across the concrete runway of Peshawar Airport, the train waits for three small aircraft and a C130 Pakistan Air Force Transport plane to land. Heavy traffic for a Sunday morning.

9:43 a.m. The train rolls across the runway and proceeds toward Jamrud Fort, where the Pakistan Northwest Railway ends and the 26.5 mile Khyber Railway officially begins.

10:06 a.m. Two goats and four heavily armed officers of the Khyber police enter the second class compartment at Jamrud Station, located below the thick round bastions of the fort. Schoolboys in gray smocks and black caps chew cubes of sugar cane and show a fellow passenger their English textbook, "Hamid and His Friend."

The inhabitants of the pass — as well as many of the passengers aboard — are Pathans, descendants of fierce warriors who were a constant headache to imperial authorities when this strategic corner of Pakistan belonged to Britain's empire in India.

The British, never completely subduing them, enlisted men of one Pathan tribe — the Afridis — into the ranks of the local militia known as the Khyber Rifles and paid allowances to others to protect the area's roads.

Holding the Khyber Pass was of critical importance to the British during their three Afghan wars of the 19th and early 20th centuries. Control of the pass, its geography perfect for ambush on unwary army patrols or caravans, was hindered by the Khyber Rifles' refusal to fight for the British in 1897 and 1908.

The Pakistan government, since nationhood in 1947, hasn't been that much more successful with the independent-minded Pathans. Officials have been unable to stamp out such traditional tribal livelihoods as firearms manufacture, opium cultivation and smuggling.

10:43 a.m. Women in black veils that touch the ground carry aboard black chickens at Medanak. Police Subinspector Naik Subadar Noorahman cautions foreign passengers not to photograph tribal women.

10:58 a.m. The train slows to a halt after climbing halfway up a slope. Passengers jump down to watch the tracks switched and then scamper back aboard as the locomotive at the rear begins pulling the train further up in the opposite direction.

11:19 a.m. The train stops at Shangai, having climbed thousands of feet since departing Jamrud Fort. A turbaned old man comes aboard and permits a fellow passenger to examine his 1915 British-made Webley revolver. His leather bandolier contains homemade .45 caliber bullets.

There is no dining car, but passengers do not go hungry.

Tommy John stops Cubs

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES — The Dodgers remained 6½ games ahead of Cincinnati Saturday night with a 2-1 win over the Chicago Cubs.

Tommy John (7-4) kept the Cubs hitting the ball on the ground and allowed only six scattered hits. The Dodgers, despite three errors, gave John good support and made five double plays.

Ron Cey gave John all the runs he needed with a two-run homer in the fourth inning. The roundtripper, the first in two weeks for the "Penguin," was his 15th and gave him back the club RBI lead with 54 to Steve Garvey's 53.

"I was just trying to hit the ball hard and hope it would go in the right place," said Cey whose blast came after Bill Russell had tripled.

As for the two-week drouth in homers, Cey explained it this way.

"Aside from the fact that I wasn't doing much of anything anyway, I'm not built like Jeff Burroughs, Mike Schmidt, George Foster or Dave Winfield.

And I don't play in a home run stadium like Atlanta or Philadelphia. So it would be foolish for me to go up to the plate and swing my bleep off every time."

The Cubs got their lone run in the third inning. George Mitterwald cracked a leadoff double and pitcher Bill Bonham singled him to third. Ivan DeJesus grounded to Cey who checked Mitter walked and then threw DeJesus out at first.

Gene Clines hit a bouncer that glanced off John at the mound and caromed to Russell who couldn't handle it and was charged with an error, Mitter walked scoring.

Bill Buckner ended the inning by grounding into a second-to-short-to first double play.

Double plays also ended the Cubs' sixth, eighth and ninth innings as their was only one outfield putout by the Dodgers in the whole game. That was a nice running catch by Dusty Baker on a Bobby Murcer drive in the fourth.

John's complete-game win was the first for the Dodgers since May 21. He walked only one and struck out two, the last one resulting in a game-ending double play as catcher Johnny Oates threw out Murcer on the hit and run as Jerry Morales fanned.

"I told Oatesy (Johnny Oates), 'let's mess around the first part of the game and throw a lot of sliders and curves,'" John related.

"My ball sinks better when I'm tired, so I threw a lot of breaking pitches the first three innings and my fastball started sinking real good.

"I had an exceptional curve ball tonight," John continued. "But if I go seven or eight innings I've done my job. Complete games don't mean that much anymore because of the bullpens, the way they are now."

Tommy pointed out that the World Champion Reds had only 33 complete games but won 102 last year.

Home plate umpire Terry Tata aroused manager Tommy Lasorda's wrath in the fifth and sixth innings with seemingly inconsistent judgements on pitches thrown by John and Bonham.

In the Dodger fifth when Cey came up the first time after hitting his home run, he was sent sprawling by a high, inside pitch.

Lasorda rushed out to the plate but no action was taken toward Bonham. In the Chicago sixth, John did draw a warning and automatic $50 fine when his first pitch to DeJesus was belt high and inside.

DODGER DATA — Don Sutton (7-2) and Rick Reuschel (9-2) are the pitchers for today's 1 p.m. finale. It's also Camera Day with fans allowed on the field from 11:30 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. to take pictures of their favorite players.

Dave Lopes missed his seventh straight game due to a muscle pull in his left rib cage.

Brewers silence Halo bats

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Three Milwaukee pitchers teamed up for a one-hitter and Sal Bando and Cecil Cooper singled runs across in a four-run third inning as the Brewers ruined Gary Nolan's American League debut with a 4-2 victory over the California Angels Saturday night.

Winner Gary Beare, 2-2, who entered the game with an 8.44 earned run average, yielded a double to Joe Rudi as the Angels scored two unearned runs in the first inning. Beare hurled 7 2/3 innings and Sam Hinds and Bill Castro finished up. Castro earned his eighth save by getting Gil Flores to hit into a game-ending double play with the bases loaded following three walks.

Nolan, 4-1 with Cincinnati before the Angels obtained him just before the June 15 trading deadline, pitched four innings and was tagged for six hits, five in the third inning when the Brewers erased a 2-0 deficit.

Charlie Moore and Robin Yount opened the Brewers' third with singles. Don Money drove in a run with an infield out and, after an infield hit by Sixto Lezcano, Bando and Cooper slapped their RBI singles. The fourth run scored when Von Joshua bounced into a forceout.

The Angels filled the bases in the first inning on a walk, Rudi's double and an intentional walk with two out. Two runs scored when shortstop Yount booted Mario Guerrero's grounder.

With runners on second and third and one out in the Angels' first, first baseman Cooper grabbed Tony Solaita's high hopper and stepped on the bag for the out. Cooper appeared to have a shot at picking Don Baylor off third when he strayed several feet up the line, but Cooper hesitated and Baylor dove back without a throw.

Mickey Scott cut by Angels

ANAHEIM (AP) — Lefthanded pitcher Mickey Scott has been removed from the roster of the California Angels to make room for recent acquisition Gary Nolan, the team announced Saturday.

Scott appeared in 12 games with the Angels this season. He had an 0-2 record and a 5.62 earned run average.

The Angels have 10 days to either make a deal for Scott with another major league team or to assign him to the minor leagues.

Green retains lead

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Hubert Green drifted off into philosophy after his two-over-par 72 was good enough to retain a one-stroke lead Saturday in the third round of the United States Open Golf Championship.

"I'm still leading," he said after constantly fighting nervewracking, downhill putts throughout the hot and humid day.

"That means the rest of them have to come and get me. They have to catch me. They'll have to gamble to do it. This is the U.S. Open. When you gamble in the Open, you can make mistakes.

"You can book bogeys in the Open. They're going to happen.

"I'm not sure I can shoot another 72 and win the tournament," he said and grinned, "but I wouldn't mind it at all if I did."

Green, now only 18 holes away from the major title that so far has eluded him, composed a 54-hole total of 208, two under par on the Southern Hills Country Club course, 6,873 yards of gently-rolling hillsides that was scorched by 90-plus degree temperature and oppressive humidity.

Big Andy Bean, the tour's most noted alligator-wrestler, was the only other man under par after three rounds of this 77th American national championship.

Bean, who, like Green, spent his boyhood summers in weather similiar to that which turned this event into an endurance contest, shot a 68 and was one under par at 209.

Green, who needs only a major title to confirm his status as one of the game's leading lights, grew up in Birmingham, Ala., and the 6-foot-4, 210-pound Bean learned to wrestle alligators in the swampland of southern Georgia.

They were followed by a grab-bag assortment at 210— even par—that included Tom Weiskopf, grimly-determined South African Gary Player, unawed outsiders Gary Jacobsen and Don Padgett, along with Terry Diehl and Tom Purtzer, one of those previously obscure young men who dominated the tour in the early season.

Player, who needs this one to complete a career double sweep of the game's four major championships—the U.S. and British Opens, the Masters and PGA—finished birdie, birdie for a 71.

Purtzer shot the same score. Deihl, in the last two-some with Green, had a 73.

Weiskopf, apparently returned to the form that gained him the nickname Tom Terrific a couple of seasons ago, closed up with a 68 and said: "If I didn't think I could win, I wouldn't have entered the tournament.'

Jacobsen, 24, a mini-tour player from Minnetonka, Minn., and Padgett, 28, who couldn't make it on the pro tour and now is a club pro in Carmel, Ind., were the surprises.

Jacobsen, who has been on a physical fitness kick that includes in its regimen weightlifting 40,000 pounds a week, 150 sit-ups and six miles of roadwork daily, shot a 67.

"I expected to have a good tournament and put no limits on how well I'd play," said Jacobsen. "My position is no surprise whatsoever."

Asked his biggest title so far, he replied: "the Minnesota state junior."

Padgett, son of the national president of the PGA, lost his card after two years of tour activity but unsheathed a magic putter that produced eight one-putts on the glas-slick greens and propelled him to a four-under-par 66, the best round of the tournament.

The quartet at 211, one over par but only three strokes off the pace, was made up of former Open champion Lou Graham, Wally Armstrong, Jay Haas and 44-year-old veteran Rod Funseth, who once had a share of the top spot but fell back and finished with a 72.

Graham, who has played extremely well in recent weeks, shot a 68, Armstrong 70 and Haas 71.

Nicklaus, who normally goes bare-headed, went to a sun visor against the glaring light. But it didn't help his putting. He missed birdies from 10 and 12 feet on the 16th and 17th holes, then three-putted for bogey on the double-tough 18th.

"I had a chance to move into position and then just gave it away at the end," Nicklaus said. "I feel I'm ready to shoot a good round, but I'm not sure I've got one in my bag."

Johnny Miller had a 70-214. Arnold Palmer was 73-215. Al Geiberger, author of that landmark, record-setting 59 last weekend, made triple bogey seven on the final hole for a 75 and a 216 total that apparently took him out of contention.

Ben Crenshaw, Lee Trevino and Masters champion Tom Watson were bunched at 217. Trevino shot a 73, Crenshaw 72, Watson 71. Hale Irwin was 77221. Jerry Pate, the 1976 winner, failed by one stroke to qualify for the final two rounds.

Most of the round was played under a severe thunderstorm watch and the heat and humidity were definite factors.

"It just drains you, makes concentration very difficult," said Weiskopf.

More than four dozen spectators in the gallery of 20,000 were stricken by heat prostration and attended by first aid personnel. The caddy for pro Bob E. Smith collapsed on the 10th hole and was carried from the course. Smith's bag was picked up by a friend who was in the gallery.

"The nice thing about leading is that it's gonna force the other players to come to me," said Green, who really hasn't received the recognition due his 11 tour titles.

"And in the Open, when they start to gamble, they can make mistakes."

F. Robinson reported out

CLEVELAND (AP) — Reports circulated in Cleveland Saturday night that the Cleveland Indians were about to announce the firing of Manager Frank Robinson.

Robinson could not be reached for comment on the latest reports, which said the firing was definite and would be announced soon.

None of the Indians' officials could be reached for comment on the report carried by radio station WERE and by a television station.

There were similar reports a few weeks ago when the Indians were on a prolonged losing streak.

The Indians now have won two in a row from the Detroit Tigers after returning from a road trip on which they lost four straight.

Connors given Wimbledon bye

LONDON (AP) — Jimmy Connors, the Wimbledon men's top seed who has been nursing a badly bruised left thumb all week, has officially been allowed an extra day's grace before playing in the tennis championships.

The first round of the men's singles are normally played the opening Monday, and the American was to have met Richard Lewis of Britain on the No. 2 court then.

But Saturday the Wimbledon authorities said they had allowed Connors to play his match on Tuesday to give his thumb a chance to heal.

Redskins ink Duncan McColl

WASHINGTON (AP) — Washington Redskins Coach George Allen announced Saturday the signing of the National Football League club's top draft choice, defensive end Duncan McColl, to a series of one-year contracts.

McColl, 6-foot-4, 240 pounds, was a fourth-round draft choice from Stanford University and is the Redskins' highest draft pick since 1971. He was a second team All-American and made Pacific Eight Conference twice.

He is the son of Dr. Bill McColl, who was a defensive end at Stanford and for the Chicago Bears. The elder McColl played under Allen when Allen was an assistant coach with the Bears.

Martin, Jackson explode in Boston

BOSTON (AP) — "I treat every ball player the same way, whether he's the 25th player or the top player," Manager Billy Martin of the New York Yankees said Saturday after a near brawl with slugger Reggie Jackson during a 10-4 loss to the Boston Red Sox.

Martin and Jackson had to be restrained by teammates after the millionaire right fielder was yanked from the game in the sixth inning for his appararent lack of hustle in chasing a checked-swing pop double by Boston's Jim Rice.

Jackson seemed shocked when Paul Blair went to right to replace him. Then he jogged to the New York dugout as Boston fans jeered. He shouted at Martin and the manager retaliated as Coach Elston Howard stepped between the angry pair.

With thousands of fans in the Fenway Park stands and a national television audience looking on, Jackson tried to get at Martin. He was restrained by fellow players. Then Martin blew his top, broke loose from Howard but was grabbed by Coach Yogi Berra. Jimmy Wynn held back Jackson, who finally left the dugout and went into the clubhouse.

"Make your own observations," Martin said. "It's between Reggie and me. I don't make observations about my ball players to the press. I don't care if it was seen all over the world. I'm not going to let TV run my team.

"As a manager, I ask only one thing of a player—hustle. If a player doesn't hustle, it shows the club up and I show the player up. Hustle is the only thing I really demand. It doesn't take any ability to hustle."

Martin said "Words were said that I didn't like." However, he added: "I don't see why it can't be repaired. I'll talk to him tomorrow. We won without him last year. He's a good player."

Jackson, signed by the Yankees to a multi-year contract for a reported $2.9 million last November, left the clubhouse before he could be interviewed.

"I just went for a walk," Paul said. "No, I didn't go into the clubhouse. I can't say anything until I talk to Billy and Reggie. I'll wait until they cool off and talk to them later tonight or tomorrow."

The incident was the latest in a stormy relationship that Jackson has had with the Yankees since signing his record contract. The right fielder had feuded with catcher Thurman Munson, captain of the club, over published remarks regarding Munson's leadership qualities. Early in the season, Jackson deliberately avoided the traditional handshakes of his teammates after a home run.

Sun Devils prevail

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Chris Bando cracked a seventh-inning go-ahead home run and Jerry Vasquez checked South Carolina on five hits Saturday night to lift Arizona State to a 2-1 victory in the championship of the 31st College World Series.

Top-rated Arizona State, 57-12, earned its fourth series crown—its first since 1969—in a pitchers' battle before a capacity crowd of 11,876.

Vasquez, a junior right-hander who won two series games, struck out three and retired the last nine men in order after Steve King deadlocked the game with a lead-off home run in the seventh.

In the bottom of the inning, Bando, younger brother of major leaguer Sal Bando, lined an 0-1 pitch over the right field fence to give the Sun Devils the lead again.

Arizona State took a 1-0 lead in the third inning on a two-out single by Rick Peters, a stolen base, a single by Mike Henderson. Then Peters scored when Henderson was trapped in a run-down after rounding first base.

Crystal Water claims Gold Cup

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Hard-hitting Crystal Water held off a strong challenge in the stretch Saturday and won the $350,000 Hollywood Gold Cup Handicap at Hollywood Park.

Winning his fourth straight major race, the 4-year-old Crystal Water got under the wire a neck in front of Cascapedia, the lone filly in the rich event. A nose back in a thundering three-horse finish was Caucasus.

Carrying high weight of 129 pounds, the California-bred Crystal Water was timed in 2:00.0 in the one and one-quarter mile feature.

Crystal Water, given an artistic ride by his regular pilot, Laffit Pincay, collected $210,000 for his owner-breeder, Mrs. Connie M. Ring of Beaumont, Calif., who is known as the grand dame of racing in the state.

Favored by a crowd of 38,875, Crystal Water returned $6.80, $4 and $2.60. Cascapedia, who had won four straight races at Hollywood Park this year, carried 116 pounds, including Donald Pierce, and paid $5 and $3.60. Caucasus, 124, with Fernando Toro up, returned $4.60.

Crystal Water, no stranger to the Hollywood racing strip since he won the rich Hollywood Derby as a 3-year-old last year, included the Santa Anita Handicap last March in his victory string as well the Californian in May at Hollywood Park. In the latter, he carried 128 pounds.

Austin Mittler, who waged a lively struggle for the dubious honor of being the longest shot on the board with Festive Mood, jumped into an early lead, with Crystal Water in close pursuit. Festive Mood was also in the chase.

Crystal Water overtook the pacesetter at the far turn, as Austin Mittler fell back, and the winner held off the stretch challenge by Cascapedia and Caucasus in the drive to the wire.

Ancient Title, who won the Hollywood Gold Cup in 1975 and has won $1,082,716 in his lengthy career, finished fourth in the field of 12

Pay Tribute, the 1976 Gold Cup winner, was never a real threat and finished tenth.

Jockey Bill Shoemaker, seeking his seventh Gold Cup triumph, made one thrust at the front but was among the also-rans aboard Mark's Place.

Crystal Water's total earnings have stretched to $723,770. He has won seven of his 16 starts, with three seconds and two thirds.

Trailing behind the top four in order were: Rajab, Mark's Place, Balmerino, Legendario III, Festive Mood, Pay Tribute, Austin Mittler and Taras Bulba.

The purse money included $60,000 for second, $40,000 for third, $25,000 for fourth, $10,000 for fifth and $5,000 for sixth in what was billed as the richest thoroughbred race in the nation and the richest in Hollywood Park history.

Seaver wows 'em in Cincy debut

MONTREAL (AP) — Pity the poor National League. The Cincinnati Reds discovered they have not only acquired a kingpin pitcher in Tom Seaver, but a hitter too.

"We didn't need any more bats, but it looks like we got another one," said Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson after Seaver made his debut with a three-hit 6-0 victory over Montreal Saturday.

Seaver singled twice, one a bases-loaded liner that scored two runs to key a four-run eighth inning as the surging Reds won their seventh straight and 16th in 20 games.

The 32-year-old right-hander said he paused a moment in the first inning to capture the memory of what he called "the start of the second part of my career."

"It was a beautiful experience," said Seaver, the former New York Mets hurler who joined the Reds this week in one of baseball's biggest trades.

"I made a point to look around and remember what I saw," said Seaver, who registered his 43rd career shutout, second only to Don Sutton of Los Angeles, the leader among active players.

"With Seaver, they will catch the Dodgers easy. I would be surprised if he loses another game," said Perez.

"My feeling," said Seaver, "is even if I didn't come here, Cincinnati was going to catch them anyway."

The Reds have pulled to within six games of the Dodgers, who had a 13-game bulge three weeks ago.

Seaver said he shook off a case of nerves, then found the groove in the second inning. "I was just trying to get through it without getting hurt. I didn't expect anything like that. I was nervous."

He retired the first seven batters before yielding a hit to Larry Parrish with one out in the third. He faced only 30 batters, three over the minimum, striking out eight while walking none.

"He was a little excited," said catcher Johnny Bench in a masterpiece of understatement. "He's been psyching himself up for three days."

The Reds staked Seaver to a 1-0 lead in the first before adding their second run in the fourth on George Foster's 18th home run of the season.

Galindez keeps title

The 28-year-old Argentine dominated the 15-round bout with superior power and lightning speed.

The bout was almost the repetition of the controversial, bloody title fight the two boxers staged in Johannesburg 13 months ago.

On May 22, 1976, Galindez suffered a third round cut, but doctors said he could continue after a 10-minute interruption. The Argentine suffered a deep cut over his right eye in a clinch in the sixth round here Saturday night, but it was his head that hit the American's during one of his lightning fast attacks.

U.S. cagers win

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Darrell Griffith of the University of Louisville scored 35 points to lead the United States to a 149-144 triple overtime victory over Russia in Intercontinental Cup basketball play Saturday night.

The victory gave the United States a tie for second place with Italy and Yugoslavia. Russia clinched the cup Thursday night with a victory over Canada.

Intrepid may enter

SAN DIEGO (AP) — There's a chance that two-time America's Cup winner Intrepid will join the 1977 U.S. Cup selection trials in July and August, it was learned Saturday.

Gerald Driscoll, who was the skipper of Intrepid in 1974, said a sudden infusion of new money will allow him to modify the boat with a new on-deck winch system in preparation for going east.

Yarborough wins big

CAMBRIDGE JUNCTION, Mich. (AP) — "I never won so much money so quick," Cale Yarborough beamed after beating Gordon Johncock by three seconds in the nationally televised $18,000 Camaro Challenge race.

Yarborough, the defending national champion of Grand National stock car racing, won $13,500 for less than 10 minutes of work. Johncock, the 1976 Indianapolis racing titlist, took home $4,500.

Torre hangs 'em up

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Torre, manager of the New York Mets, officially retired as a player Saturday.

He made his last major league appearance in Friday night's 7-1 loss to the Houston Astros when he flied out as a pinch hitter.

Andretti on pole

ANDERSTORP, Sweden (AP) — Mario Andretti, the veteran American Lotus driver, grabbed the pole position for the second straight Saturday for today's Swedish Formula I Grand Prix auto race.

African nations forgiven

PRAGUE (AP) — The International Olympic Committee Saturday finally forgave the African countries which walked out of the Montreal Games last summer.

But it adopted a new rule that will bring heavy discipline on teams which pull out of games in the future.

L.V. splits twinbill

La Verne split a Big League doubleheader with Ted Greene Saturday at La Verne College.

Ted Greene took the opener 13-8 with a 15 hit attack before La Verne exploded for 14 runs and 11 hits in the nightcap in posting a 14-4 triumph over the Ted Greene outfit.

Jim Fox banged out three hits in four at bats for the La Verne squad as Bob Alcaraz was banged around for 13 runs and 15 hits. Fox also drove in three runs for La Verne.

Ted Greene put the game away with four-run outbursts in both the fourth and sixth stanzas.

In the night-cap, Ricky Beltran went the distance to picked up his second victory of the year. His record is 2-3 as he fanned nine Ted Greene batters. He allowed just five hits as he and his teammates coasted to a 14-4 victory.

Henry Castro was 2-for-3 and Pete Fox had three singles and a double. Castro slugged a double and homerun to pace the 11 hit La Verne attack. Jeff Bennett mired in a 2-for-18 batting slump was 1-for-3 with two RBI. Dan Marconi added a double.

La Verne is now 7-6 on the season and will play Diamond Bar Thursday at La Verne College.

Racquetball event scheduled at OCC

COSTA MESA — The best racquetball players in the nation, more than 250 of them, will be at Orange Coast College July 1-3 for the fourth annual National Outdoor Three-Wall Racquetball Championships.

Tournament action runs from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Friday and Saturday (July 1-2) and from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. on Sunday (July 3).

Admission to the three-day event is free. Bleachers will be set up to accomodate more than 1,500 fans.

OCC physical education instructor Barry Wallace will be back to defend his open division title, and will probably receive his biggest challenge from professional indoor champ Davey Bledsoe of San Diego.

Bledsoe annexed the national indoor championship two weeks ago at the national tourney held in San Diego. He is the number one ranked racquetball player in the world.

The women's singles competition is expected to be dominated by Shannon Wright of San Diego. Ms. Wright copped the national women's outdoor championship two weeks ago.

The senior singles should once again be controlled by OCC physical education teacher Bob Wetzel and San Diego dentist Dr. Bud Muehleisen. Muehleisen won the title in 1975 and Wetzel took the crown last year. The OCC coach nipped Muehleisen in a brilliant 1976 championship contest, 11-21, 21-16, 21-15.

Competition in OCC's national tourney will be held in open singles, open doubles, B singles, B doubles, C singles, senior singles, women's singles, women's doubles, and junior singles (16 and under).

Poly slates coaching class

A new and innovative workshop in football coaching strategies is to be offered summer quarter by Cal Poly University, Pomona, Office of Continuing Education, beginning June 29.

Designed for high school, Pop Warner, and junior college coaches and assistant coaches, the course will stress football strategy techniques and team building.

According to course instructor, Chris Kincaid, promoting community involvement in the university football program is one of the major objective of Cal Poly head football coach, Jim Jones. The final meeting of the class will be a six-hour intensive clinic using the Cal Poly football team as a resourse for application of the skills learned.

"Advanced Coaching Strategies in Football" meets Wednesday, 7-10 p.m., June 29-August 24, in the university physical education building 41.

Registration is accepted at the first class meeting with payment of fees; however, preregistration is recommended. Further information may be obtained by calling (714) 598-4391.

Quotes

"The hardest victory you'll ever win is your first one." — Veteran pro golfer Tom Weiskopf.

"I don't believe all that stuff about the lively ball. All that is is a pitcher's scapegoat." — Dave Lopes of the Los Angeles Dodgers, giving his views on the 'live ball' baseball controversy.

"Nobody can tell me the ball isn't livelier than it was last year. — New York Yankees Manager Billy Martin, expressing his views on the 'live ball' baseball controversy.

"I said CBS could start the telecast at 10:30 if it wanted but that the first 90 minutes would be a 76ers intra-squad game because our team would not be there to play until noon." — Portland Trail Blazers Coach Jack Ramsay, reacting to a CBS request that the final game of the NBA playoff series against Philadelphia start at 10:30 a.m., Portland time.

Post 30 Gems now on a tear

Pomona Post 30 racked up its fifth consecutive American Legion win as Pomona downed Rowland, 4-1, Saturday afternoon at Rowland High.

In other Legion action, West Covina defeated Claremont 7-5 and Arcadia belted La Verne pitching for 12 runs in beating the Post 330 outfit, 12-6.

Pomona jumped out to a 2-0 lead as Chris Davis scored both runs on a double and homerun. A two-run fifth frame iced the contest for the Post 30 squad as Todd Bell, Tim Lambert and Aurelio Cornado held Rowland two just two hits as the Pomona trio combined for 10 strikeouts. Bell fanned five in five innings of work.

Pomona is now 10-7 on the year and 2-0 in District 18 league action as Bell ran his seasonal record to 3-0.

Claremont, which entered the ninth trailing West Covina 7-4, almost pulled out a thrilling come from behind victory but West Covina held on to win 7-5. Claremont had the bases full after Paul Sokolowski's lead off but failed to get the tying runs across the plate.

Mike Bridgewater gave West Covina a 3-0 lead which they never surrendered throughout the contest. Claremont with two in the second and one in the fifth closed to within one at 4-3 but West Covina went ahead 7-3 with three runs in its final three at-bats.

Claremont is now 1-2 in league action and 8-9-1 on the regular season. Post 78 returns to action today at 2 p.m. with a game scheduled with Hacienda Heights at Los Altos High.

Arcadia broke a 6-6 deadlock in the eighth inning and went on to rack up six runs to defeat the La Verne club Saturday morning at Arcadia High.

La Verne hosts Baldwin Park today at La Verne College. The game is slated to begin at 2 p.m.

UCR cage team needs 'repair'

RIVERSIDE — Needing to do extensive repair work on his frontline, UC Riverside basketball coach Freddie Goss has recruited six forwards and centers for the upcoming season.

Goss has just one returning forward, sophomore Mike Howard (6-foot 5-inch) who played briefly last year.

Graduation wiped out the rest of the frontline and Clyde Robinson and Rael Burke dropped out of school.

Goss announced that 6-6 Peter Walker and 6-8 Paul Purvis will enroll this fall and hold down the center positions.

Four incoming forwards are 6-6 Mike Woolsey, 6-6 John Green, 6-6 Ben Boatwright and 6-4 George Emerson.

Walker, an All-Mission Conference selection, played at Southwestern College (Chula Vista) where he averaged over 22.0 points per game last year in his sophomore season.

Purvis, a freshman, was an 18-point per game scorer at Highland High School (Sacramento). An all-league performer, he is a strong rebounder with more than 19 points per game and was considered a fine all around performer.

Green, also a junior, was a standout in Northern California at Diablo Valley Junior College.

Goss said other new players will be named later.

Beginning his ninth season at Riverside, the ex-UCLA standout has a 138-82 record. Three sophomores will provide his backcourt expertise.

Returning lettermen Theron Laudermill and Rennie Watts will be joined by junior varsity guard Jack Wheeler.

U.S. nabs Federation Cup

EASTBOURNE, England (AP) — Chris Evert and Billie Jean King scored singles victories Saturday to give the United States a 2-1 victory over Australia and retention of the women's Federation Lawn Tennis Cup.

Miss Evert, although playing below form, won the clincher in the best-of-five series by beating Kerry Reid 7-5, 6-3 in the second singles match to give the Americans the $40,000 first prize.

Earlier, Billie Jean King downed Dianne Fromholtz 6-7, 2-6, 6-2. In the meaningless doubles, Mrs. Reid and Wendy Turnbull defeated Miss Evert and Rosemary Casals 6-3, 6-3.

It was sixth victory in 10 Federation Cup appearances for the United States.

Ms. King showed much of her old power to make sure the Americans got off to a solid start. In an outstanding match of twisting fortunes she beat the 20-year-old Miss Fromholtz in 75 minutes. Then Miss Evert took the same time to win.

Miss Evert was not hard-pressed to win because the 29-year Mrs. Reid failed to match the form she showed helping the Aussies eliminate Britain Friday night.

Mrs. Reid made a more positive start to lead 3-0 in the opening set, pushed it to 4-1 but then some tentative shots allowed Miss Evert back to take four games in a row. Mrs. Reid was never to have the initiative again.

After Miss Evert had scraped through the first, playing two or three bad shots to every good one, the second set became a scrappy affair with five of the first six games going against service.

But at the end of this bad sequence the American led 4-2, an advantage she never looked like losing despite her own poor form.

By contrast, Ms. King's opening match with Miss Fromholtz was full of sparkling tennis. The 33-year-old American, six times Wimbledon champion, turned on much of her old magic in a devastating first set. After such a beating it seemed impossible that Miss Fromholtz could come back. But she transformed the match in the second set by taking on the American at her own brilliant volleying game, breaking her service twice, in the third and seventh games.

Ramirez wins

LONDON (AP) — Raul Ramirez of Mexico gave his confidence a boost for Wimbledon next Monday by winning the $100,000 international tournament at Queen's Club Saturday. He beat Mark Cox, Britain's No. 1 player, 9-7, 7-5.

On his way to the final Ramirez had disposed of three Americans — Dick Stockton, Jim Delaney and Brian Gottfried. Cox had been responsible for putting out Hank Pfister, the up and coming star from Bakersfield, Calif., in the semifinal.

In Saturday's semifinals, Ramirez topped Brian Gottfried of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., 9-8, 6-3, and Cox ousted Pfister 9-8, 1-6, 6-4.

Although Ramirez was barely on top throughout the match, which lasted an hour and 45 minutes, the left-handed Cox in each set missed a chance of winning the set.

But each time Ramirez tightened his game and pulled himself out of trouble.

Golfers set for State Amateur

PEBBLE BEACH (AP) — Two-time State Amateur champion Mike Brannan stayed back East after playing in the NCAA tournament, so someone else will claim the title in the 66th California Golf Association's championship which begins here Monday.

The field of 200 entering qualifying rounds on the Pebble Beach and Spyglass Hill courses includes two-time NCAA champion Scott Simpson of Southern Cal and NCAA runner-up Lee Mikles of Arizona State.

Brannan, the Brigham Young University junior who won State Am titles in 1973 and again last year, remained in the East to play in several tournaments scheduled there this month. The Salinas golfer was 13th among the individual finishers in the NCAA event hosted by Colgate.

Young golfers have dominated the State Am in the 1970s. Three winners, including Brannan in 1973, were still in high school when they became champions.

In last year's 36-hole finals, high school junior Ron Commans of Westlake Village led Brannan after 18 holes. Commans is back for another try this year.

Other highly regarded entrants include current Trans-Mississippi champ Doug Clarke of LaJolla, French Amateur semifinalist John Brodie who no longer has football to interfere with his golf, 1974 State Am champ Curt Worley of Coronado and 1975 winner John Cook of Palm Springs.

Angel's Frank Tanana is NOT a wallflower

By Associated Press

It's not the kind of lineup they'd ask Nolan Ryan to face, of course.

Judging a wet T-shirt contest in New York on the California Angels' day off needed the tender touch of their other strikeout star, Frank Tanana. And even though the free-swinging, free-throwing Tanana was supposed to be resting his prized left arm, the MC at a jumping East Side club promised that Tanana would do all his judging with that arm.

Still, it's just what Tanana would have ordered for the arm that's produced a 10-3 record and 109 strikeouts already this year.

"I just give it a little TLC (tender loving care)," the 23-year-old bachelor said while getting ready for his night on the town.

That's not what he's been giving American League hitters. Look at his earned run average, 1.94.

Not that all this surprises Tanana. After all, this man is on a tight schedule.

"Thirty games! Wow, is that what they're saying now?" asks Tanana, laughing. "I read consistently that I'd said I'd win 20 or 25. What I do say is that 30 isn't impossible, I mean it's been done."

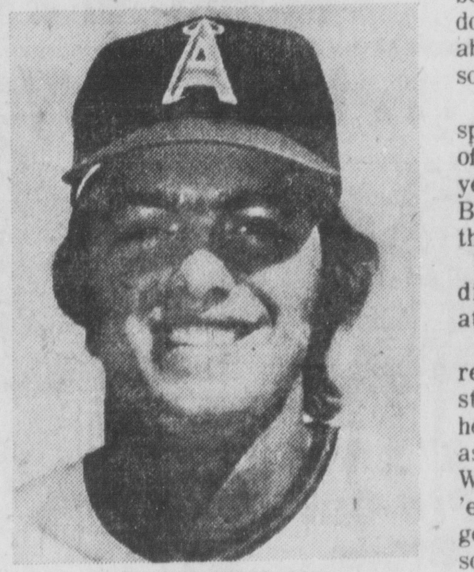
The last time was in 1968 when Denny McLain had a 31-6 record. But some feel that Tanana, who has one of the fastest mouths as well as arms in the West, has a good chance to do it. Remember, he is the man who's been known to say, Alilike, "I'm the best."

"Well, if you say you're the best long enough people start to believe it," says Tanana. "Sometimes I have people struck out before they get to the plate. I need no reassurance as to how good I am. But I think it's kind of good therapy to come out and say these things.

'It's almost like telling whoever you're playing against, 'Hey, this isn't going to be easy.' You get guys going out there who don't have the supreme confidence in themselves and they read this and they're beat even before they get on the field."

But Tanana isn't all talk and no action. He's leading the majors in shutouts (five) and complete games (12) and has a two-hitter, with his three losses coming from a no-hitter, a shutout and, most recently, a 3-2 decision at Minnesota on Wednesday night.

So while the 6-foot-3 Tanana stands lean and mean on the pitcher's mound, he loves to throw writers big, fat gopher balls to see what they'll do with them.



FRANK TANANA

Ask Tanana what it means to have his best stuff and he says, "Well, I'll tell you. Having your stuff means whether you have one or three names in the stands. If you've got three, that would be my description of having your staff together."

Ask Tanana how it feels to throw a strikeout or 17 of them, as he did in a game in 1975, and he will tell you explicitly enough to make Angels Manager Norm Sherry put his head in his hands, laugh and say, "Well, sometimes he just forgets where he is. And besides that, he's a left-hander."

But maybe Tanana has a right to feel that good on the mound. And so what if people call him cocky, flamboyant and a hotdog?

The Yankees' Reggie Jackson, who knows about these things, explains, "Frank Tanana to me is a legitimate hotdog. He's got a right to be a hotdog because he can back it up. He's one of the five best pitchers in baseball."

"People call Frank Tanana hot dog to knock him, say that he's cocky, a show-off. Well, show off if you can do it."

"It's easy for people to get on me because I'm cocky," he says. "If I've done good, I'll get that cocky kid look about me. I'll prance on the mound sometimes.

"But my reactions are strictly spontaneous. I might flip somebody off, I might tip my hat, I might start yelling at people. I give them reason. But at least you know they're there, they're in the ballgame with you."

Tanana freely admits he plays a different ball game than most athletes who are interviewed.

"When people come to me they realize I'm not too big on giving the standard answers. 'Hey Frank, how'd you feel out there today?' they ask. 'Well, I had good rhythm.' Whoopdeedoo! I'd just as soon tell 'em what really perked me up was a good-looking chick in the third row or something ridiculous like that."

Tanana picks his spots for those remarks, just as he does with a baseball. He calls himself a control pitcher, meaning he can put the ball exactly where he wants it as fast as he can throw it. He's averaged only 2.2 walks per nine innings this year.

As for hitting anyone intentionally, he says, "I think, yeah, there were times when there were people who just had to be thrown at. For one, you have to protect your own players. I don't mind knocking people back and brushing them, but I won't hit anyone intentionally."

What Tanana is trying to hit is a 20-victory season—"If I don't do that I guess I'll have to tone down a bit". But he thinks he can do much better.

Net 'whiz kid' is for real

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The youngest woman to compete in the Wimbledon Tennis Championships since 1887 is more of a little girl than anything else— except when she steps on the court.

Tracy Austin is 14 years old, a shy 5-foot-1, 90-pounder. But her opponents are no longer fooled by her small stature and quiet demeanor.

How good is Tracy Austin?

In a two-month stretch last winter, she knocked off a number of world-class players during her first venture on the pro tour. She turned back more than $12,000 in prize money.

Among her startled victims were Dianne Fromholtz, No.1 in Australia and No.8 in the world, and Greer Stevens, No.1 in South Africa.

"She's a sweet girl," said Chris Evert, with whom Tracy has been compared. "We'll know just how good she is by the time she is 17. By 17 or 18, if you haven't broken into the top three, you never will."

The youngster, an eighth-grade student at the Dapplegray Intermediate School in the wealthy Los Angeles suburb of Rolling Hills Estates, plans to continue competing in junior tournaments and selected tour events until she finishes high school. Then she wants to turn pro.

Her daily routine hasn't changed much in recent years. Tracy was born into a tennis family and was given her first racquet at age 2. She started lessons at 7 with her present coach, Bob Landsdorp, and "when I was 9, I started liking tennis a lot."

She has dominated the national junior ranks since then and spends most of her waking hours at the Jack Kramer Tennis Club near her Rolling Hills home.

Tracy accompanied by her mother will warm up for Wimbledon, the most prestigious event in tennis, in a grass courts tournament in Edinburgh starting Monday. Wimbledon begins June 20.

The youngster is more apprehensive about starting high school in September than about her debut at Wimbledon. "When I think about high school, I think of big people. I think it should start in the 10th grade instead of the ninth. I'm too small."

Tracy's mother, Jeanne, and father, George, a nuclear physicist, took up tennis for fun when they moved to California in 1955.

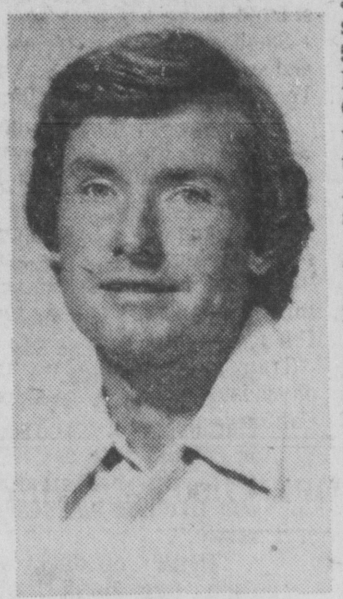
Valley golfer joins PGA Tour

By PHIL ROCHE
PB Staff Writer



DAVE BROWNLEE

The sandy-haired, 27-year-old Dave Brownlee of La Verne still can't believe he's joining the PGA Tour. He's in Chicago today walking Butler National, where the Western Open will be played later this week.

Brownlee, the former Claremont and Citrus star, is a full-fledged member of the PGA Tour. He recently fired his way through the PGA Qualifying School at Pinehurst, N.C. with rounds of 71-71-65-75-73-72 — 427.

Four hundred and fourteen top golfers came to the Spring Qualifying School, but only 26 left with their cards in hand. One of them is the indomitable Brownlee, who admits he's putting and chipping better now than ever before.

"I don't think I'm hitting the ball any better or any different," Brownlee said Friday, "but I know where my shots are going now and my mental attitude is much better than it has ever been."

Brownlee in his six rounds at Pinehurst did not hit one ball out of bounds. "I missed only 10 fairways in six days," he says. Brownlee averaged "about 245-250" with a borrowed driver after the shaft on his own driver was broken.

"I can't even believe that I made it," said Brownlee, who had said this would be his last try. "I had tried the school four times before, and I made up my mind that I was going to make it this time or else."

Veteran golfers in the valley know that Dave has worked hard on his game, but few know just how hard. In a Washington Post interview recently, Brownlee says he devoted 15 hours a day to golf before joining the American Golfers Association tour

He would putt for hours, play 36 holes, hit hundreds of practice shots, lift weights, and run — always with that PGA Tour card in mind.

Brownlee's game is sharp these days. Teamed with one his biggest boosters, Bill Hanks, assistant pro at Marshall Canyon, Dave is nearly unbeatable.

On Monday he fired a neat 69 at Corona National as he got ready for his qualifying round tomorrow (Monday) in the Butler Open. Dave plans to play in six straight tournaments, and he is optimistic about his chances in all of them. "I feel that I can win on the Tour," says Brownlee. "I was really helped by playing on the AGA Tour (American Golfers Association) where we played with fine players on all kinds of courses in all kinds of conditions."

The 5-8, 150-pound pro says he once played in 14 degree weather in Albuquerque amid snow flurries. "We played in the rain, in heat, everything."

On the AGA Tour with Brownlee was his buddy Jon Fiedler of Claremont, a former USC star.

Asked about training methods, Brownlee says there's nothing more important than building up the left arm and wrist. He uses the left hand to wield a tennis racket backhandedly, banging ball after ball over the net or against a wall. "Keep your left wrist firm when you exercise and you'll build up that arm and wrist in no time," he says.

So, Brownsee takes to the road now. On his way to Pinehurst he drove from El Paso to North Carolina in 36 hours, catching a little sleep in the front seat of his car from time to time. He climbed out of his car and went to work at Pinehurst a short time later.

Dave boarded a jet last night, travelling in style. And when he gets to Chicago, a courtesy car will be ready for him, compliments of the PGA Tour.

Dave Brownlee has arrived — what do you know. Hard work and dedication do pay off after all.

Marie Commor and Mary Picou of Pomona National have both qualified at the club level for the third annual Silver Circle Senior Women's Golf championship of Southern California. The better ball partners tournament will be held Oct. 17 at Los Coyotes C.C. in Buena Park.

Marie, who carries a 19 handicap, carded low gross of 93 to win the qualifying round at Pomona National, and Mary Picou became her winning partner with a low net of 70.

Among recent celebrity entries in the Norm Crosby — Hope for Hearing Celebrity-Amateur tournament are George (Goober) Lindsey, David Doyle of Charlie's Angels, Dennis James of The Price is Right, Jim Backus, the voice of Mr. Magoo and one of the stars of Gilligan's Island, Jim Rissmiller, concert promoter, and Fred Robledo of the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner.

The scramble tournament will be played Sunday, July 17 at Horse Thief C.C. in the Stallion Springs mountain community near Tehachapi.

Last year's tournament raised $10,000 for research and training by the Hope for Hearing Foundation and Oral Education Center at UCLA.

Amateur entry fee is $200. The package includes a pair of high quality FootJoy golf or street shoes, a cardigan golf sweater and shirt, deerskin golf glove, golf balls, towel, green fees, and a steak dinner with celebrity entertainment.

Those desiring to enter should contact Charles Bobo, tournament coordinator, 6648 Sheltondale Ave., Canoga Park.

Cross country tournament winners at Ontario National are Vicki Raddi, Mary Macioge and Maxine Reihsen. Maxine also won low putt honors.

Mike Bellmar has won all kinds of amateur golf titles in the last six years, but until last Monday he had been mostly a bridesmaid in the Confidence Western Amateur Tour.

Bellmar, who has won two consecutive Southern California Public Links titles, kicked off the third WAGA season with a 1-over-par 73 at the tough Mission Viejo C.C. He promptly left for work hoping his 73 would hold up. Had he tied, he would not have been available for a playoff.

The 26-year-old Long Beach resident is a computer operator.

At least a half dozen in the field of 167 had chances to overtake the former UCLA golfer, but the 6,800-yard course, nicknamed Mission Impossible, proved too much. The closest anyone came was a 74 by Alan Demarest, 18, of Palos Verdes who birdied the 18th.

The 11-week tour shifts to Canyon Crest in Riverside on Monday, but Bellmar won't be there. He and 27 other WAGA players will be competing in the California State Amateur at Pebble Beach.

At least three tour regulars didn't even attempt the long qualifying process for the National Open: Dave Hill, Homero Blancas and Fred Marti. Don January was exempt from qualifying but declined to enter.

Barbara Nicklaus forwarded to the PGA Tour three letters from Ghana, West Africa, that had been sent to this country in care of Jack Nicklaus. One was addressed to Arnold Palmer. One was addressed to Johnny Miller.

Citrus trainer is real globetrotter

AZUSA — Citrus College athletic trainer Tony Russo will be celebrating his 50th birthday in Moscow, Russia this summer. Guests at his celebration will include the finest track and field athletes in America, as well as Russia's top athletes.

Russo, U.S.A. head trainer for the 1968 Olympic Games in Mexico City, was selected to accompany America's track and field team on its European tour this summer.

The team left the states last Sunday and is scheduled to return July 5. Meets in France, Germany, Italy and Russia are slated.

Russo will be turning 50 on July 3, when the American team will be in Moscow.

The Owl trainer has a most impressive list of accomplishments to his credit.

He has served as the head trainer for the L.A. Times Charity Games, the Sunkist Games, and for America's National track and field squad for several years. He was selected for that position on the basis of his outstanding work with athletes and his demonstrated excellence in the training field, according to Dr. Anthony F. Daly, Jr., MD, the team physician for the European tour.

The Glendora resident and former New Yorker began his Citrus College training career in 1958 as the school's first official trainer. He has received numerous awards and commendations from the world's greatest athletes and coaches for his work.

Russo served as the head trainer for the National AAU track and field finals at UCLA prior to leaving for Europe. He was assisted at that meet by his Citrus College assistant, Paul Pucciarelli. Pucciarelli has worked many of the big track meets in the Southland along with Russo.

Russo will be back on the Azusa school's campus in August, just in time for the beginning of the Owls' fall football drills.

Medalists enter meet

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) — Olympic gold medalists Brian Goodell, Tim Shaw and Bruce Furniss are the top entrants in an open swimming meet, scheduled Friday-Sunday. A total of 20 defending champions return.

Swimmers on 44 teams from 15 states, plus eight Canadian teams and others from Brazil, Israel, Puerto Rico, Sweden and The Netherlands are entered in 30 events.

Carlsbad motocross is today

CARLSBAD, Calif. (AP) — Gerrit Wolsink, who has won the race the past three years, will be back to try again today in the United States Motocross Grand Prix at Carlsbad Raceway.

But the flying Dutchman will have to contend with the best riders in the world, including Belgium's Roy DeCoster and Finland's Hekki Mikkola.

Going into the race, Wolsink ranks third in the world championship riding standings, 43 points back of Mikkola and 10 behind DeCoster.

Wolsink said he expects this race to be an especially close one.

"This year the battle for the world championship has been tougher than ever," he said. "Roger and I have had to work harder on the Suzuki team because the new bikes from Yamaha and Honda are so fast.

"There are 14 regular grand prix competitors coming to Carlsbad and every one of them is capable of winning.

"Then if you add to that the number of Americans who have the potential to beat the best in the world," Wolsink continued, "you can see that this grand prix is going to be the toughest of them all."

The Carlsbad event, co-sponsored by Hang Ten and Belray Oil, gets under way with practice runs at 9:30 a.m. PDT. The championship event, two races, will be held in the afternoon.

Badminton booming in the U.S.

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Badminton, or a variation thereof, has been popular in China, India and other Eastern nations for 2,000 years, but the game's just beginning to join the ranks of professionalism.

Chris Kinard, a 26-year-old star from Pasadena, has traveled the world because of his proficiency at this racquet game. He was doing so well that he delayed finishing his college education at UCLA until this year.

Chris won the U.S. Open singles title in 1972, 1973, 1974, 1976 and 1977. This spring he also won the collegiate crown—the only player to be both open and collegiate badminton singles champion.

"I think I got a very good education from the traveling and always felt I would finish school," explained Kinard, who will graduate in September with a major in history. He had attended college for three years immediately on graduation from high school.

"I just want to graduate and then I may go into the sporting goods business.

"Badminton is now starting to go professional and starting to open up to professionals. There is endorsement of products and we can play for a limited amount of prize money. That's the first step toward professionalism.

"There is a ready-made market in the Asian countries and also in Europe. Badminton is an out-and-out national sport in Asian nations. It is not uncommon for 20,000 people to watch a match."

The Thomas Cup in badminton is similar to the Davis Cup in tennis as an international team competition.

Kinard, who stands 5-foot-11 and weighs 165, has been playing badminton 15 years. He chose it over tennis, he says, "Because I think it is the fastest racquet sport in the world and it takes the most physical conditioning to play the game."

Badminton players use racquets weighing 3½-4½ ounces and the court measures 44 by 20 feet. The players hit a shuttlecock over a net. As in volleyball, points count only when a player or doubles team is on offense.

The sport gained early popularity because it could be played on backyard courts, but Kinard maintains that has hurt the competitive aspect of the game on an expert category.

"The drawback in this country has been the backyard stigma," he explains. "I've never played once in the backyard. That's like playing tennis on an ice skating rink."

On the other hand, the availability of playing areas has helped the sport mushroom in recent years and enhanced the professional possibilities.

"Two million players in the United States are on the competitive level now," Kinard estimates. "The sport is in the high school level and some colleges offer scholarships."

To prove his contention that tremendous physical training is necessary to play competitive badminton on an international scale, Kinard said:

"During the season starting three months before the national championships, I work 1½ hours every morning. I run 10 100-yard wind sprints and several 50-yard sprints back-pedaling. I skip rope with 2,500 single skips and then, in the evening, play badminton three hours and finish with 500 to 1,000 double jumps with the rope.

"To increase speed, I sometimes play against two opponents."

The last time the United States reached the final round of the Thomas Cup was a quarter century ago, but Kinard believes the increased number of competitive players in this country will lead to better efforts in the international competition.

"I think you'll find the U.S. has a good chance to reach that final round again before long," he says.

The badminton champion attended college from 1968-72 but after making his first national team in 1970, he concentrated more on the the sport and has been on the national team ever since. A total of 12 players annually composes that squad with six on the international competitive team.

Montclair swimmers impress

The Monte Vista Swim Club of Montclair had several swimmers place in the recent AAU meet at Palm Springs.

Jim Schiller of the club brought home a third place finish in the 13-14 boys 200 fly, a 4th in the 100 fly, 5th's in the 200 individual medley and 200 freestyle, and a 6th in the 50 free.

In the 15-18 boys division, Tom Maples came back with a first in the 100 backstroke, a 2nd in the 200 fly and a 3rd in the 100 fly. Jeff Palmer placed 2nd in the 200 fly, 4th in the 100 free and 50 free, and 5th in the 100 backstroke. Lou Dudash brought back a first in the 100 breaststroke.

Monte Vista swimmers also did well at a recent Rosemead Novice Invitational Novice meet, as Rick Price, Ricky Coes and Tina Schiller were winners.

Other M.V. swimmers placed at the Chino Rotary Novice Invitational.

Nabbing firsts in that competition were Jess Adams in the 9-10 boys breaststroke and freestyle, Tina Schiller in the 13-14 girls backstroke and fly, Rick Price in the 15-18 boys 70 freestyle, and Jim Reed in the 15-18 boys 70 breaststroke.

The club is now conducting tryouts for its summer swim program. Tryouts are open to all youths five years of age and up. For further information, call 626-9848 or 624-0791.

Bengals sign fourth choice

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Bengals of the National Football League have signed their fourth-round draft choice, Jerry Anderson.

Anderson, a defensive back from the University of Oklahoma, suffered a separated right shoulder in the fourth game last year and missed the rest of the season.

At 7-foot-6, he's worth a gamble

ATLANTA (AP) — Morris Brown College is gambling that a huge teenager who hasn't played organized ball in years, will turn its basketball program around.

George Bell, a 7-foot-6 center from Portsmouth, Va., has signed a national letter of intent to play at Morris Brown, Atheltic Director Charles Hardnett said today.

Hardnett said in an interview that the 19-year-old schoolboy was no star, but "all the people I've talked with say he has a good hook shot, and of course, he's pretty big. He goes about 270 pounds."

"I haven't seen him play," Hardnett said, "The people I've been in contact with say he's not ready" for big time basketball yet, "but they say give him two years and he'll be ready."

"There's no doubt about it, he'll turn our basketball program around," Hardnett said. His team finished with an 8-17 overall record and 3-9 in the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference.

He said he found out about Bell through friends and through "letting people know you need ball players."

'Moral equivalent of war' raging in Washington

Victories, defeats listed in President's energy battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders never said getting President Carter's energy program through Congress would be easy. Judging from recent votes, it hasn't been.

Two months after the President urged Congress to join him in waging what he termed the "moral equivalent of war" against the energy crisis, many of the key components of his plan have suffered setbacks at the hands of congressional committees.

However, there also have been some offsetting victories for the plan, such as the House Ways and Means Committee's decision last week to back the President's proposed tax on oil at the wellhead.

Administration officials and Democratic leaders of Congress claim many of the defeats may only be temporary.

Here is a rundown on what has happened to the major parts of that plan and their prospects:

STANDBY GASOLINE TAX. The House Ways and Means Committee's vote rejecting the tax, which could add up to 50 cents-per-gallon to gas prices in yearly nickel increments if gasoline consumption continued to rise rapidly, will likely stand.

Although Rep. Thomas Ashley, D-Ohio, chairman of a special House committee overseeing the energy legislation, vowed to try to revive the tax on the House floor, many congressional leaders claim the committee vote effectively killed the proposal. And it is unlikely that the Senate will even seriously consider the tax, the most controversial item of the energy package.

WELLHEAD OIL TAX. Handing the administration its first major victory, the Ways and Means Committee voted 21 to 16 to approve the President's proposal for a tax on domestic oil production that would bring the price of oil up to world-market levels over a three-year period.

This proposal would add between seven and eight cents a gallon to the price of gasoline.

Administration officials and congressional allies viewed the vote as an indication that the energy plan is gaining steam, despite earlier defeats.

However, it seemed too early to tell what the ultimate fate of the proposed wellhead tax would be. Both sides are predicting a close fight.

GAS-GUZZLER TAX AND SMALL-CAR REBATES. The rebate plan, widely criticized in both House and Senate as a potential subsidy to manufacturers of small, fuel-efficent imported cars, also was rejected by the Ways and Means panel. There appears to be no major effort to revive it.

That same House committee, where most of the early action on the energy plan has centered, also voted to put off any penalty tax on gas guzzlers until 1979 and to apply it only to cars getting less than 15 miles per gallon.

Carter wanted the tax to begin with 1978 models and to include a greater number of fuel-inefficient cars. House and Senate leaders say chances seem good that Congress will approve some form of gas-guzzler tax.

NATURAL GAS PRICING. A House Commerce subcommittee substituted a proposal to deregulate the price of newly drilled natural gas for the administration plan. Administration lobbyists hope the full Commerce Committee will reverse this vote. But support for deregulation exists in both the House and Senate.

Under the administration plan, natural gas prices in the interstate market would be allowed to rise by about 20 per cent while remaining under federal control. These controls would be extended to the now-unregulated markets within gas-producing states.

Fierce floor fights are expected over this one.

HOME INSULATION. On a close vote, the Ways and Means Committee approved the President's plan to give tax breaks for home insulation, solar energy and other energy conservation measures. This part of the energy plan is expected to be enacted.

But rival committees have disagreed over whether the insulation program should be mandatory. A Commerce subcommittee voted to bar financing of home mortgages by federally insured lending institutions unless the homes to be sold were properly insulated. However, a Banking subcommittee on housing backed the President's voluntary approach. The dispute will be resolved on the House floor, with the voluntary program seemingly having the upper hand.

COAL CONVERSION. The President asked Congress to ban new power plants from using oil or natural gas under their burners and to encourage conversion to coal by imposing a tax on existing utilities and industries that still use these fuels.

House and Senate committees are considering this program. The Senate Energy Committee soon will approve a program similar to what Carter recommended, predicts its chairman, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D.Wash.

In a related issue, backers of the coal-conversion plan see a victory in the Senate vote to impose tough new auto-exhaust beginning in 1980. They claim this would allow more conversions to coal than the House-passed bill, which gives the auto industry two additional years to meet less stringent pollution standards.

The more that auto pollution is cleaned up, the more coal that can be burned, backers of the administration plan maintain.

NUCLEAR. Although Congress seems ready to go along with the President's call for expanded use of conventional reactors, his recommendation to cancel the plutonium breeder reactor project at Clinch River, Tenn., has been rejected by a House committee. Sources say they expect Congress to vote to continue work on the project.

Carter urged phasing down nuclear systems using plutonium, claiming the material could be diverted too easily to use in atomic weapons.

DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY. Both the House and Senate passed Carter's proposal for a new cabinet-level energy department to carry out a national energy policy. Both chambers, however, voted to give energy pricing powers to a commission within the new department — not the new energy secretary. The administration favors the Senate-passed bill because it gives the President veto power over the commission's decisions. The legislation now is in a conference committee.

Gooey, oozy drippy . . .

'Slime' is proving a toy bonanza

HAWTHORNE, Calif. — (BW) — It's gooey, oozy, drippy — you can squeeze it, stretch it, squish it, snap it and drip it — it's "Slime," one of the top selling novelty toy products in the United States today.

Slime compound, which comes in its own miniature, 6-ounce garbage can, is a water-based, greenish gummy substance that's delighting millions of children from coast to coast, as the Slime craze oozes across the country.

Michael W. Arthur, vice president, marketing of Mattel Toys, the world's largest toymaker and the manufacturer of Slime, "We will sell all the Slime we can make this year. It will be one of the most successful novelty toy items introduced into the marketplace in 1977?"

Arthur said the Slime compound has tremendous appeal to adults as well as youngsters. "It's just great fun to hold a handful of Slime and massage it into a variety of shapes, and then let it ooze through your fingers. It's kind of therapeutic play."

Word of mouth has accounted for the great demand for Slime since the product has not been supported by T.V. advertising as is the case with most successful toy products. Children are intrigued by the play experience with Slime.

Children have commented that they can do anything they want with Slime, as there are no instructions, no rules, and a youngster's play involvement with Slime is limited only by his imagination.

Arthur went on to say, "The demand for Slime has been unique in the fact that the company has been receiving phone calls from all over the country, mostly from adults, asking where they can buy Slime — and they want it for themselves and not for a youngster."

Slime is a non-toxic, water soluble gel. It was developed in 1974 by Mattel's inventive preliminary design department, and introduction into the marketplace in the spring of 1977.

Slime is fine — for fun.

How to master office politics

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — If the boss plays golf, don't take up tennis.

If you're a woman, look feminine but not provocative in most organizations.

In an ad agency, dress far out but expensive.

If you're a bank employe, wear traditional, conservative clothing.

Those are some of the tips given by Blaine Cooke, professor of management at the University of Minnesota, on how to make the most of office politics.

He and a colleague, Prof. Bruce Erickson, have designed an experimental night course for masters of business administration students and may offer it to day students later.

Cooke, a former vice president for marketing with Trans World Airlines, says that sometimes the infighting can cost a person a job. For instance, he said, one executive for a major national corporation was credited with much of the firm's success.

When a new president arrived, the top man sized up the vice president as a threat to himself and bluntly fired him.

"Everybody knows things like this go on," said Cooke.

Cooke said the richest, largest companies often are more political because there is more money and power tied to advancement. He also gave these views:

—Companies involved in reorganization and those regulated by government are apt to be intensively political.

—Universities, hospitals, schools and government agencies usually have more politics than businesses.

—Highly competitive businesses are less political because energies must be focused on earning money.

He also advises, if the boss is a "winner," stay in your job for a while, then transfer to another area if there's more room for advancement.

Cooke feels that teaching students about political behavior as a morally neutral tool may help them use their skills both for the benefit of the organization and their own gain.

"But political behavior involves getting along with everybody — up, down and sideways from your position," concludes Cooke.

Color Tile opens new supermart

FORTH WORTH — Color Tile Supermarts, a Tandycrafts, Inc. (NYSE) company and do-it-yourself home improvement and decorating retail chain, has announced the opening of its 250th supermart nationwide. The new supermart, which marks a milestone in Color Tile's growth and expansion, is located in Wenonah, N.J.

The first Color Tile store opened in Joliet, Ill., in 1953. In 1968, when acquired by Tandy Corp., Color Tile consisted of some 15 stores. In the nine years since the acquisition by Tandy, Color Tile has grown approximately 190 per cent per year to its present 250 supermarts in 35 states.

"Our goal," Simon stated, "is to open as many supermarts nationwide as to meet the increasing demand for do-it-yourself home improvement and decorating products."

According to Security Pacific researchers

Building permit values and jobless rates drop seen

LOS ANGELES — Building permit values for April in California dropped slightly over the previous month's all-time record total while the jobless rate among the state's construction workers fell, too.

Slightly more than $1.26 billion worth of residential and non-residential permits were issued in April, a 10.5 per cent drop from March's record breaking total. However, April's total was still the second highest ever in the state, according to researchers at the Security Pacific National Bank.

Engineering contract awards for April dropped by more than sixty per cent from the previous month's total. However, industry analysts pointed out the March's $168 million total was an "aberration" and was due to the awarding of a 100 million dollar contract for construction of an electrical generating plant in Carlsbad. Separating that award from March's total, analysts noted, and then comparing the remainder with April's total revealed there was only a drop of about 13 per cent over the "adjusted" total for the previous month.

The unemployment rate among California's 403,000 construction workers dropped from a revised March estimate of 15 per cent to 12.9 per cent in April. These estimates were derived by industry analysts based on state and federal labor data.

"In spite of recent record building permit levels more than one in eight construction workers are still unemployed," added Ben Bartolotto, director of the Construction Industry Research Board. "This persistently high level of unemployment is partly due to the still depressed road building and heavy construction activity. In Los Angeles County, for example, employment in these activities dropped by 13 per cent over the same month last year. Another problem has been the generally sluggish recovery in the northern half of the state. While construction employment statewide increased by 41,100 over April of last year, less than 13 per cent of this increase occured in the north. This is less than one-third of the expected 40 per cent northern share."

In noting the slight drop in overall permit values issued in the state in April, industry leaders felt that a "certain moderating force" was bound to take hold in the market, particularly in the residential area of new construction. While opinions varied, most felt the mild slowdown was attributable to the recent increase in mortgage rates, the mounting shortages of waste water treatment capacities in a number of areas in the state and pockets of resistance to further growth in other communities. However, they also felt that non-residential permit values, while also down over the previous month, were "still holding their own" and reflected "a basically sound economic thrust" in the state which most industry leaders felt will continue in the months ahead.

April was a mixed month for Los Angeles County builders with the value of residential permits granted up slightly while non-residential permit values fell.

The value of residential permits granted in the county advanced by 4 per cent over the previous month. The biggest boost within this area came from a 13 per cent increase in the value of permits granted for new single dwellings. For instance, there was a $2 million permit granted for a 37-unit tract development in Covina, and six major permits granted for tract developments in the San Fernando Valley, the largest valued at just over $2 million.

Within the non-residential sector, which was off 13 per cent from March's total, there was still a strong surge of permits issued in the county for new industrial complexes. In El Segundo, for example, a $2.8 million permit was granted for a new "accoustical facility" for an aircraft company and in Long Beach there was a permit issued valued at nearly $6 million for a new shipping and receiving facility which was also the third highest valued permit issued in the state in April.

"Overall, the level of activity in the county ran counter to the statewide moderating trend seen in April," said J.W. "Jack" Bernard, president of the W.J. Moran Company in Alhambra. "I think this probably reflects a respectable and healthy economic climate in Los Angeles County right now and we may see this continuing into the summer months at least," Bernard added.

April brought a slight dampening in the total value of both the residential and non-residential permits issued in Orange County.

The value of residential permits granted in the county during April was 6 per cent lower than March's total. The big drop came in the value of permits issued for new multi-dwelling units which was about one-third lower than the previous month. However, the value of permits issued for new single dwelling units edged slightly higher and was fixed at just over $96 million for the month. In Fullerton, for instance, a $2.4 million permit was granted for a 44-unit tract development; in Garden Grove there was a $3.4 million permit issued for a new 44-unit tract development; and there were between 15 and 20 major permits issued for new tract developments in the unincorporated portions of Orange County, the largest one being valued at $3.9 million for a 69-unit tract complex.

Within the non-residential sector, April's total permit value for Orange County dropped 13 per cent over March's total. However, there were three "commercial" permits issued in Newport Beach for some new office buildings which ranged in value from $1.2 million to $2.7 million.

"You've got to remember that the recent level of activity in Orange County has been unusually high, to say the least," commented Kenneth Agid, vice president of the Irvine Pacific Development Company. "For a number of reasons — higher mortgage rates, some saturation in certain areas and others — there had to be some slowdown coming and I think that's what we're seeing. Still, Agid said, "the figures show that once again there were over 1,000 new residential units approved for construction in Orange County during April and, by any bench mark, that's very respectable indeed."

Riverside Coutny had a 38 per cent increase over the month before in the value of residential permits issued there and more than 1,000 new housing units were approved during April. Also, Ventura County's April total value of residential permits granted advanced by 6 per cent over March's tally.

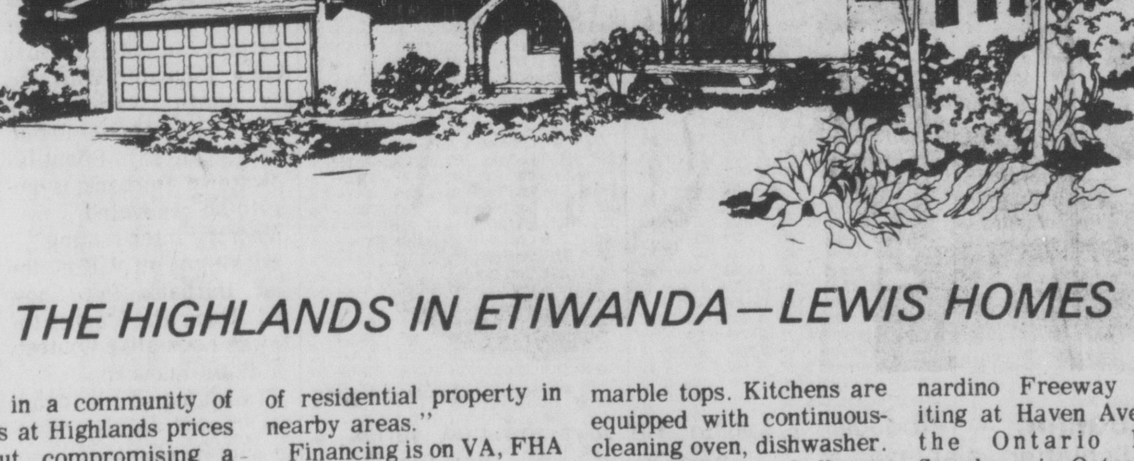
To view Highlands homes

Area home seekers may head for Etiwanda



THE HIGHLANDS IN ETIWANDA—LEWIS HOMES

Etiwanda is expected to be a popular meeting place for this weekend's home seekers, attracted by Lewis Homes' announcement that a limited number of residences in it's Highlands development are now ready for occupancy.

The single-family homes center at Rochester Avenue and Church Street. The community's Phase II, nearing completion, is already two-thirds sold out, according to building company vice-president Roger Lewis.

One reason for the strong advance sales, Lewis notes, is The Highlands' price scale, which he says buyers who have scouted the Southland housing market find realistic. Three and four-bedroom homes are priced from $40,650 to $44,450.

"Being a company that has built thousands of residences in the prestige category, we pride ourselves on being able to bring in a community of homes at Highlands prices without compromising a bit on quality of construction," he said.

"Each home has been given a 7,200-square-foot lot site," he added. "We were able to do that because land costs in Etiwanda have not yet climbed to the price levels of residential property in nearby areas."

Financing is on VA, FHA and Cal-Vet terms.

All homes at The Highlands feature a private master bedroom bath as well as a second bathroom serving other members of the family. Pullman cabinets are constructed with cultured marble tops. Kitchens are equipped with continuous-cleaning oven, dishwasher.

Living rooms, hallways and master bedrooms are carpeted from wall to wall. Window drapes in living room and all bedrooms are also supplied by the builder.

The Highlands may be reached from the San Bernardino Freeway by exiting at Haven Avenue at the Ontario Motor Speedway in Ontario. The route continues north on Haven to Foothill Boulevard, east (right) 1¾ miles to Rochester Avenue, then north (left) to Church Street. Models are open daily from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

For neighborhood revitalization program

Realtors form steering committee

Formation of a steering committee for the Realtors Neighborhood Revitalization Program of the National Association of Realtors was announced by Harry G. Elmstram, president of the association.

"The goal of the program is preservation of as much as possible of the nation's housing stock in every community of the nation," Elmstrom said. "We want our members to help restore the vitality of neighborhoods where decay has resulted after decades of neglect.

"We want them to work at the grass roots level with neighborhood organizations to promote a healthy economic development in the neighborhoods."

Real estate

The Ballston Spa, N.Y., Realtor said members of the steering committee, which will hold its organizational meeting June 28 in Chicago, are:

Albert N. Justice, chairman, Clearwater, Fla.; Richard A. Rauch, vice chairman, Chicago; Roger Blackwood, Birmingham, Mich.; Horace J. (Jack) Boesch, Dayton, Ohio; Donald C. Dolben, Boston; Donald I. Hovde, Madison, Wis.; E. Thronton Ibbetson, Bellflower, Calif.; Alice Lyczkowski, Toledo, Ohio; Donald H. Mason, Amarillo, Tex.; James P. O'Conor, Baltimore; Patricia A. Richards, Denver.

Elmstrom said a full committee also is being formed. It will consist of representatives from the 50 Realtor state associations and the National Association's nine affiliated institutes.

"This is an ongoing program which we hope will involve all our 1,735 local member boards," he said. "The most effective force we have in the preservation of existing housing in the neighborhoods is the concentrated effort made by the individual Realtor or Realtor-Associate.

"Our program will encourage our members to become involved with the work of neighborhood organizations. Their contributions can be highly essential to the success of the local programs."

Elmstrom said that in a few weeks he will be calling a news conference to list the communities in which local boards of Realtors will develop a series of "startup" programs. Further information on the organization procedures, policies, goals and objectives relating to the Realtors' role in revitalizing neighborhood housing also will be released.

He said the full committee will meet soon to develop educational materials "for our moving forward as expeditiously as possible with individual members who are dedicated in helping neighborhood groups work to preserve or restore sorely needed housing."

And increase mortgage limits

Legislation would 'reduce' downpayment requirement

Legislation that would reduce downpayment requirements and increase mortgage limits under the Federal Housing Administration's mortgage insurance programs was endorsed today by the National Association of Home Builders (NAHB).

Testifying before the Senate Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs Committee, NAHB Vice President-Treasurer Vondal Gravlee said that the changes were necessary because the sales price of newly constructed FHA insured homes has increased 41 per cent since 1973 while the mortgage limits and downpayment requirements have remained the same.

Under the housing authorization legislation being considered by the committee, mortgage limits under a number of FHA insurance programs for single family homes would be hiked to $60,000 from $45,000. Downpayment requirements would remain at 3 per cent on the first $25,000 of value, but would be reduced to 5 per cent on the value in excess of $25,000. For instance, under the proposed rules a qualified borrower could obtain an 8 per cent FHA insured mortgage loan on a $60,000 home with a $2,500 downpayment.

The proposed changes in the FHA programs are supported by the Carter Administration.

NAHB also endorsed a proposal that would increase mortgage limits under the Section 235 homeownership program to $31,000 ($36,000 for four bedroom or larger homes). In high cost areas the mortgage limit would jump to $36,000 ($42,000 for four bedroom or larger homes).

Under this program, the government subsidizes mortgage interest rates as low as 5 per cent. "Section 235 is probably the best tool that HUD possesses for extending the benefits of homeownership to low and moderate income families," Gravlee said.

NAHB also supported legislation that would extend through fiscal 1978 and provide additional funding for the Brooke-Cranston mortgage purchase program. As it is presently written, the program provides 7½ per cent mortgage money to middle and moderate income home buyers.

However, NAHB opposed proposals that would increase the interest rate under the Brooke-Cranston program from 7½ per cent to the FHA rate (presently 8 per cent) and would impose income limits, thus reducing the number of people who could qualify for the program.

NAHB also supported the Administration's request for an additional $1.2 billion in funding for the public housing and Section 8 rental assistance programs for fiscal 1978. Gravlee urged the lawmakers to direct the Section 8 program more towards new construction instead of relying on existing housing. He said that with the Administration's commitment in this area he expects to see the production of "at least 172,000 new or substantially rehabilitated Section 8 units in fiscal 1978." Less than 41,000 new Section 8 units have been started in the programs first 2½ years.

LAST LAUGH(IN) — Producer George Schlatter displays a poster of his new Laugh-In show which NBC/TV will present next season. He says the new series will have to be better than the old one to last.

Ready for another?

Producer plans new Laugh-In

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — We are at the Burbank Press Club, next to the grease rack at the service station.

From his podium atop the Nehi cooler, a city official has just disclosed plans for the annual Dust Festival and Miss Dust Bunny Pageant. Wait, he has another announcement. It's about urban renewal. He says Beautiful Downtown Burbank is going to be renovated.

Veerrry inter-resting.

Kicking it off will be the first Burbank Pet Show and Farrah Fawcett-Majors Look-alike Contest.

I didn't know that.

Translated, it all means that "Laugh-In" is returning with its electronic tomfoolery and outrageous, topsy-turvy view of the world. Sock it to me!

NBC will present six "Laugh'In" specials in the new season — that breezy, brash, rapid-fire montage of one-liners, two-liners, verbal graffiti, sight gags and nonsense that wowed America for five years.

Actually, we are in producer George Schlatter's office, where he leans back in his black leather chair and props his sneaker-clad feet on his desk. Schlatter is a big, bearded man, and as he discusses "Laugh-In" — "my first love" — his frequent bursts of laughter shake the pink plastic cow's udder hanging from a ceiling air vent.

"Nothing much is happening in humor now," he says. "That's the problem. When we started in the 1960s there was the Vietnam War, the civil rights movement, campus unrest, political protests, and Lyndon Johnson and Richard Nixon.

"People are not as vitally interested now. There's an apathy. It's to the credit of Jerry Ford, who came in when the country was split and bored us back to stability. If it wasn't for Billy Carter, Farrah Fawcett and Anita Bryant, I don't know what we'd do."

"Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In" landed in January 1968 and immediately began to shake things up. It had all the subtlety of a hotfoot. Nothing was sacred. Even presidential candidate Nixon appeared and asked the nation to "sock it to me." "Laugh-In" changed viewing habits and it changed television, paving the way for such adult comedies as "All in the Family" and "M-A-S-H."

It made stars of Dan Rowan, Dick Martin, Goldie Hawn, Lily Tomlin and many others.

Once "Laugh-In" became a hit, a lot of people claimed credit for its creation. As the frictions developed, Schlatter left the show.

Pressures also mounted to both tone the show down and preserve its winning formula. Schlatter said, "The demise of 'Laugh-In' came when they locked us in. It was being copied. You've got to change."

Everyone connected with the show later agreed that it had outlived its popularity when it died in 1973 and should have been canceled a year earlier.

Besides the six "Laugh-In" specials, Schlatter is developing six specials called "Just For Laughs" with writer-producer Hal Kanter, a special for Goldi Hawn, a 90-minute special of young comics, an ethnic version of "Laugh-In" and a kids' version.

The new "Laugh-In" will not have stars, as it had earlier with Rowan and Martin. It will have a new resident company, with guest stars and cameo stars. Bette Davis will be the guest star on the first show.

"It'll be a cast of unknowns," Schlatter says. "But so was the original cast — and look at the stars who came out of it."

BARRY NELSON, last seen in Los Angeles in "The Norman Conquests," will star with Liza Minnelli in "Shine It On," a new musical which was formerly called "In Person." The show will open Aug. 30 at the Pavilion of the Los Angeles Music Center.

The forested Lake Tahoe basin covers 500 square miles, and lies at an altitude of 6,000 feet in the Sierra Nevada, 200 miles east of San Francisco.

Great novel

"The Betrothed," written by Alessandro Manzoni (1785-1873), is considered by many to be the greatest of Italian novels.

Ebsen says he'll never retire

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The other night Buddy Ebsen used the Tony Awards show and words from a Broadway melody to tell why he will never retire.

The theme of the annual Broadway Tony awards was survival, something Ebsen, "Barnaby Jones" on the CBS detective series, knows a lot about. He first started out as a dancer in in 1928 in Ziegfield's "Whoopee."

Ebsen's song was "September Song" from "Knickerbocker Holiday."

"I don't consider 'September Song' a survivor song, but there is one line which expresses why I'll never retire," he said. "That's 'these few golden days I'll spend with you.'

The 69-year-old Ebsen, about to enter his sixth season as the foxy grandpa detective, said, "After this I'll just get into something else. Some other job. I can't do nothing."

Ebsen said he would like to write. "I have about six plays and I want to write 'My First 50 Years in Show Business,'" Ebsen said. "My mother, God bless her, saved every letter from 1928 on. Every clipping, pictures. She squirreled it all away."

He's already written at least one play, "The Champagne General," about Civil War general George McClellan, and he is working with his daughter, Bonnie, on a script for "Barnaby Jones."

He said he has more time for writing since the addition of Mark Shera as his partner. "I said we have two clever people on the show, Lee Meriwether and Mark Shera. I said why don't you do a number of shows in which they carry the load. They agreed to that and it gives me more time to do the things I want to do."

One of the things he devotes his time to is building catamaran boats. After finishing last season he helped deliver two boats to Florida. They had to take the boats through the Gulf of Mexico area he called "the hijacking triangle" because of the disappearance of boats in the area. Many sources believe the yachts were hijacked by drug smugglers.

When they got to that area one boat was taken overland and Ebsen helped sail the other to Sarasota, Fla.

Marriage requires counseling

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Marriage is difficult when a person is not prepared for it and today too many people are not ready when they marry, says Dr. Graham B. Spanier, assistant professor of human development at Pennsylvania State University.

There are two ways in which people can become better prepared for marriage, advises Dr. Spanier, who has done extensive research in family relations and is a member of the American Association of Marriage and Family Counselors and the National Council on Family Relations.

The first is through marriage education, especially at the high school level where, he claims, not enough is being done; the second is premarital counseling. Dr. Spanier also advises counseling to save a faltering marriage.

Honeymoon trip takes planning

After the minister says "I now pronounce you husband and wife," perhaps the most pleasant sound to newlyweds is the hum of a smoothrunning engine as they take off on a motoring honeymoon trip.

Yet even in the idyllic euphoria of such a situation there are automotive realities to be faced. Accordingly, the Mobil Travel editors have prepared these honeymoon travel tips:

First of all, they urge that car registration certificates and driver's license should not be forgotten, and that dequate automobile insurance covereage has been bought and paid for.

Honeymoon trip harmony and safety will be more assured, they say, if certain details have been anticipated. For example, if you're driving a new car, allow for an advance break-in period to acquaint yourself with its handling under varied road conditions. If the new car is smaller than your old one, pack your bags with care to avoid last-minute disappointments due to smaller trunk space.

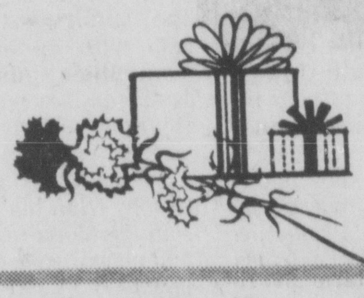
An older car should undergo a pre-trip examination by a professional mechanic who will check steering and suspension, tires and wheels, exhaust systems, brakes, lights, windshield wipers and other visual accessories.

Every car's trunk and/or glove compartment should contain a spare tire, jack, lug wrench, first-aid kit, emergency tools, flashlight, road flares, spare fan belt, hoses, fuses, windshield wipers, jumper cable and fire extinguisher.

Planning a honeymoon motor trip can be an enjoyable experience in itself. The Mobil Travel Guide can add to the fun. It includes information on 20,000 quality rated hotels, motels, resorts and restaurants; a regional road atlas and mileage maps; maps of major cities and scenic motor tours; listings of tourist attractions, sports facilities, local celebrations and events; historical, educational and recreational facts about each state and city. The 1977 Guide, published in seven regional editions, is available at Mobil service stations and bookstores for $3.95 each.

All motorists, Mobil says, are well advised to heed these eight travel tips:

1. After driving a long period, check water in the radiator after allowing the engine to cool. Also check the hoses and radiator cap for cracks.
2. It's a good idea to check the oil level at the same time.
3. Before entering a desert area, check the air conditioner to insure continuing comfort and passenger alertness.
4. Carry a pencil-type tire pressure tester and use it regularly.
5. When parking, be sure to turn off lights, and any other drainage on the battery.
6. Brakes should be in good order at all times. If the pedal is low, or they seem to be slipping or pulling to one side, have the brakes checked primptly.
7. On extended trips, check the fan belt at intervals.



Couple wed in San Dimas

Newly wed Mr. and Mrs. James Russell Bender have established a home in Mt. Baldy Village following their marriage at San Dimas Community Church.

The former Miss Judith Lynn Marquis is the daughter of Mrs. Frances Marquis of Claremont and James Marquis of Los Osos.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Bender of Cucamonga.

Honor attendant was Miss Laurie Finnegan of Cucamonga.

Best man was William Bender of Cucamonga, brother of the bridegroom.

Other attendants were Miss Katharine Sawyer of Claremont, Miss Becky Bender of Claremont who is the sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Susan Cohn of Costa Mesa.

Ushers were James Marquis, brother of the bride, of Honolulu, and Tom Welsh of Riverside and Danny East of Fontana.

The bride is a graduate of San Antonio High School and the groom graduated from Montclair High School and attended Chaffey College.

June is the month for weddings but what is stimulating factor?

Have you ever wondered why June is the month for weddings? Is it because the weather is warm and sunny, the flowers are in bloomed splendor and vacation time is right around the corner? Is it because tradition just makes it so?

According to Bride's Magazine, an average 11 per cent of all couples saying "I do" do so during the month of June. Any mathematician can conclude from this statistic that June's brides far outweigh the other months in the year but, what is the stimulating factor?

As surrounds most ancient rituals, superstition is the original reason behind all the nuptial activity in the sixth month. It seems that in early Roman times, Juno, the goddess of marriage, considered June to be the most sacred time of the year, especially at the time of a full moon. So, to remain in the good graces of this ceremonial goddess, the Roman people wed in June. And superstitious people being what they are have carried this belief through the ages.

If a couple cannot make arrangements to be married during Juno's sacred month, it will prove fortunate for the groom to be married on the day of his birth. If the bride's birthday happens to be on the same day as the groom's, the couple will have to make their first marital compromise, for a marriage on the bride's day of birth is as inappropriate (giftwise) as a child's birthday on December 25th. If choosing a day becomes a problem for the couple, here's a little ditty that may be helpful:

Monday for wealth,
Tuesday for health,
Wednesday for best day of all;
Thursday for crosses,
Friday for losses,
Saturday no luck at all.

Today's dismally high divorce rates reveal that marriage has become riskier these days than ever before. Consequently, people undoubtedly need to see an auspicious omen or two on their wedding day to put them at rest that the union will be a happy and prosperous one. If Juno can't shine her graces upon the marriage, a shower of rain or flurry of snow will fare just as well. The inclement weather, in this case, is a foreshadowing of marital bliss.

Everyone knows that it is bad luck for the bride to try on her dress or veil for her prospective husband to see before the big day. It is also said to be unlucky for the couple to even meet before they see one another at the altar at the ceremony. And let the bride beware who sees her reflection in a glass by candlelight on the day of her marriage. Luckily, candlelight has given way to more practical lighting devices.

For those future grooms who have already spent a small fortune on a diamond ring, take note that it is bad luck to present future bride with pearls before marriage. It is equally ill-fated, so they say, for the bride to wear pearls or opals on her wedding day.

On the way to the nuptials, be it a large Church wedding or a small gathering at City Hall, if either the bride or groom should spot a funeral procession, they can be assured of a hasty separation. On the other hand, if a flight of birds is sighted on the way to the "union hall," the couple can consider themselves foretold of a life filled with children. (Speak with your nearest aviary to see if this can be arranged.)

An old Scottish wedding superstition has the mother of the groom preparing a batch of small cakes which are to be consumed by the bride and her wedding party on the morning of the ceremony. These cakes, originating in the northeastern county of Aberdeen, are called "Bounty Cakes." Made from butter, sugar, flour, Drambuie (a Scottish liqueur) and, in the original recipe, crushed heather buds, the flower plentiful in Scotland, these cakes bring good luck and fertility.

Having made it, undaunted, through the ceremony, the couple is not yet safe from bad omen. An American bride, according to superstition, must not allow anyone to walk between her and her new husband immediately following the wedding, implying separation of the newlyweds. An Englishwoman will not take the ring off her finger once it has been placed there by her husband. To remove it breaks the bonds of marriage.

If the bride has an unmarried elder sister, she is subject to an unwedded future unless she dances barefoot at the reception. She certainly will be unlucky if she slips while dancing shoeless but, her newly married sister or her husband will be more unfortunate if either one stumbles or falls. It will prove detrimental to their future as man and wife.

And, of course, everyone knows all about bouquet tossing — one of the oldest of indoor competitive sports. The girl to catch the flying bouquet is next to marry.

For Wishing the bride and groom every happiness and good fortune that life can bestow, the best man says an appropriate word or two at the reception as the rest of the party toasts the newly married couple with traditional wine. In Spain the custom is to serve a sangria beverage to which fresh fruits have been added, the fruits signifying life.

PROJECTION EQUIPMENT

Donations are presented by MOT for children at center

Pomona Valley Mothers of Twins Club recently presented funds to the Lincoln Development Center, Ontario.

The center is a special federally-funded program to provide educational opportunities for the multiple handicapped from infancy to age 21 who reside in the West End of San Bernardino County.

The $250 gift is going to the Babies Push Toward Care program to help the youngest of those enrolled at the center. The term "youngest" is not determined by age, but by individual ability. Projection equipment for visual aids will be purchased.

The center is administered through the Ontario-Montclair School District. The center was designed to accommodate 200 children, their teachers, aides and support personnel. At that enrollment, Lincoln would be the largest development center in the state.

The Mothers of Twins Club is also donating $100 to the Sick Baby Fund at Pomona Valley Community Hospital and is contributing $250 to the Developmental Services at Casa Colina in Pomona. The latter donation will help with an electronic communications board used for severely handicapped children with cerebral palsy.

The donations are made possibly from the proceeds from the Mothers of Twins Club annual spring fashion show.

Counter tops

Laminated plastic surfaces are as common in kitchens as salt and pepper, and while they're more durable than most table and counter top materials, they can become dull and shabby from excessive wear or when abused by harsh, abrasive cleaners.

Leslie Wood, Johnson Wax consumer information specialist, recommends daily maintenance, made easier with an application of cleaner-wax, such as Jubilee, to help maintain original good looks.

Joyce Brothers

Male insecurity

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: There's a singles bar in our town, a hangout for most everyone I know. The problem is that every time I go, there's a guy who tries to pick me up. He wants to go to bed and then that's it. It's like he's just adding every woman in town to his list and then once they're checked off, I guess he'll move on. I don't like being in this position. Sex means more to me than a few minutes in a motel or at some guy's apartment. On the other hand, I hate staying home at night, especially on weekends. It depresses me to be alone and I feel as if the world has already rejected me. What's the answer? — D.R.

DEAR D.R.: It's not easy, but I'd rule out the singles bars even if everyone you know does go there. That may be the problem. You may need to meet some new faces attached to people who are interested in more than instant sex. You'd be much more apt to meet the kind of person you're looking for if you'd interest yourself in a hobby or sport such as photography, tennis — anything where interest is focused on something other than a glass and a bed.

The kind of male you describe usually needs to accumulate conquests to compensate for his uncertain view of his own potency. When his goal is to win, whether he gets to bed or not, he must accumulate statistics to prove his potency. According to Dr. Leon Salzman, this type may even sidestep the ultimate test by avoiding actual coitus, and thereby maintain the fiction of potency without actual trial.

The environment of the singles bar also makes some men feel they're being pressured to perform even when they may not feel like it.

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: Inflation has really hit me where it hurts because, I have to confess, I love to spend and could always be quite free with my money. Now, my wife keeps bugging me, reminding me that groceries cost more and I've got to cut back. I get in a store on Saturday and I can easily spend practically all the money I made during the previous week. The dumb thing is that I can spend it on things we don't need, or could do without. Why do I do this? I keep asking myself and I come up with no answers. — J.P.

DEAR J.P.: I suspect you use spending as a way of avoiding or escaping deeper emotional problems. This is not uncommon. Everyone knows about the woman who rushes out to buy a new hat or dress when she's upset or angry. The danger there is that the basic problems remain unexplored and unsolved. This kind of person never comes to grips with his inner termoil. He just runs away or brushes it under some new item of clothing.

Sometimes overspending can be a cry for help, in much the same way overeating, overdrinking, or gambling can be. You get your high from buying sprees. According to psychiatrist Dr. Charles Wahl, family background is the key to understanding overspenders.

Parental, emotional and personal economic deprivation can cause an individual to equate a rich, full life with having possessions, so he overspends. People who were deprived early in life, tend to constantly compare themselves with more fortunate peers. They carry over into their adult lives a feeling of psychological emptiness. When they overspend, this feeling of deprivation and emptiness is relieved. These people are mature in many ways, but not in relation to money. Their lack of discipline can be the most striking feature of their neurosis, De. Wahl says.

Consumer not given egg info

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — A lack of basic information prevents consumers from using poultry products most effectively, says Robert C. Baker, professor of food science at the New York State College of Agriculture and Life Sciences, Cornell.

"There is nothing dangerous about eating cracked eggs," he points out. "Eggs are mainly protected from infection by their membranes. If an egg's shell is cracked but the membrane remains intact, there is no reason to discard it."

Another common misconception, he adds, is that the milky cord in eggs is a fault. "The cord is not an indication of bacterial infection or fertilization," he says. "It is a normal, safe component of eggs and, indeed, is necessary to keep the yolk centered in the egg.

Club sets meeting

The Chino Valley Woman's Club will have a brown-bag card party for their first summer event at noon, Monday, in Room 4 of the Chino Community Building.

Each member and prospective member will bring lunch in a decorated bag and awards will be presented for the bags.

Cards will be available for bridge, canasta, pinochle and other games. Reservations are being taken by Mrs. Merle Worthy, 628-2804.

READY FOR THE SHOW

Mrs. Peggy Jankowski, Mrs. Nell Ensor and Mrs. JoAnne Mix pose in ensembles they will wear for the Emblem Club fashion show.

Dinner set Saturday

"Fun Fashions for the Family" is the theme for the 26th annual Emblem Club fashion show and dinner to be held Saturday.

A spaghetti dinner will be served at the Elks Club at 6:30 p.m.

According to Mrs. Paul Serna, chairman, proceeds will be used for various club philanthropies.

Polynesian fashions will be furnished by Kimo's, Puente Hills Plaza. There will also be "sew and model" fashions worn by club members.

Couples modeling will be the Dale Haywoods, the Ray Mixes, the Jim Smiths and the Bob Weddles. Other models will be Mmes. Frank Deards, Richard Dempsey, Judy Dempsey, Jack Edwards, Homer Pattie, Harold Stott and Fred Van Der Linde. In addition, children and grandchildren of members will participate in the modeling.

Emblem Club members working on the event are: Mmes. Daniel Romero, Ron Teeters and Edward Jankowski, cochairmen; Buelah Vaughn, wardrobe; Lee Anderle, music; Lyle Kendall, commentator; Nell Fnsor, publicity.

Added entertainment will be a program presented by Hawaiian dancers. Reservations may be made by calling Eunice Parsonage. Tickets will also be sold at the door.

OES unit meeting scheduled

Star of the West Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, will meet at 8 p.m., Monday, in the Masonic Temple.

Odessa Worstine, deputy grand matron of the 59th district, Grand Chapter, State of California, OES, will make her official visit. She is a past matron of Euclid Chapter, Ontario.

The ceremony of initiation will be conferred on two candidates.

In charge of the evening activities are Marie Lewis, chairman, Herbert Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Allen and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Shumaker.

Luncheon planned Tuesday

Mary Ellen Kilsby, president of the Claremont Board of Education, will speak at the Women's Association luncheon of Claremont Presbyterian Church on Tuesday. Her subject will be "Education in Claremont: Problems and Possibilities."

The luncheon and program will begin in Fellowship Hall at noon and will be preceded by a meditation period in the sanctuary at 11:30 a.m.

Mrs. Kilsby, minister of Christian Education at the United Church of Christ, Claremont, is the mother of four children and a graduate of Pomona College. She has an M. A. from the School of Theology.

The luncheon will be served by Circle 5 with Mrs. Lee Harlan in charge of arrangements. Child care is available and reservations may be made by calling the church office.

Parodies of contemporary life

Carnivals garish wellsprings of stories about America

EDITOR'S NOTE: Tom Robbins writes of the superficial. Yet he's a literary guru of sorts among some college kids. His success lies in parodies of contemporary life and an upbeat philosophy.

LACONNER, Wash. (AP) — When he's not rooting around Pacific Northwest woods for mushrooms, author Tom Robbins stalks carnivals and circuses — the garish wellsprings of his stories about America.

Robbins, 40, says a girl with a snappish snake writhing on her arm unfolded the fascination of the universe to him when he was a boy near Richmond, Va.

"I love the superficial aspects of circuses. Even when you get up close and see how tawdry it is, the mystery lingers on," says Robbins, whose novels, "Another Roadside Attraction" and "Even Cowgirls Get The Blues," parody contemporary life and have made him a literary guru of sorts on many college campuses.

"When I was growing up in a small town in the South, there was this vacant lot next door. Then one day, you come home and there are all these tents, flags and banners, strange people. It's truly magic. It was an act of transformation.

"There was a little girl — I think I was 13 and she was 11. She had long black patent leather boots and blonde hair and she had a black snake that she carried with her all the time. She had scars all over her arm where the snake had bitten her. I thought she was the most exostic creature on the face of this earth and I fell hopelessly in love with her.

"From that time, I have believed that a woman in pink circus tights contained all the secrets of the universe."

"Another Roadside Attraction," tells what happens when the body of Christ is brought to the United States and displayed at a highway zoo in Skagit County, where Robbins lives. "Cowgirls" describes how heroine Sissy Hankshaw turns her liability — giant thumbs — into an asset by becoming a hitchhiking champion. "Cowgirls," published in paperback in April, is into its fourth printing with 590,000 copies.

Robbins says he hitchhiked around the eastern United States after he was kicked out of a fraternity at Washington and Lee University for throwing a biscuit at the housemother. Thereby, he turned his liability — unruliness — into an asset.

"I was flipping peas with my knife," he recalled. "She was quite a buxom southern lady of later years and one of the peas went down her cleage. Some of my fraternity brothers berated me so violently that I just said I might as well get hung for a biscuit as a pea. I threw the biscuit and it hit her by accident. It was a defiant gesture."

Despite his defiance, Robbins says, "I'm a real fan of the human race. No other animal even cares about ecology. No deer in the woods gives a damn about other deer. A killer whale would eat all the salmon in sight.

"No other animal has a sense of humor, the highest wisdom in the world. And we're the only animal that falls in love. The absurd extent to which human beings go when they're in love justifies their existence.

Robbins' novels are rich in color and description, paupers in plot. A panorama of Americans parade past. They flow from his pen in a backyard house trailer. His "muse," a plaster Felix The Cat which was a carnival prize, broods with a painted grin above his desk. Books and papers teeter in stacks along the walls.

"I'm attempting not to abandon plot but to relegate it to second place behind an accumulation of literary effects like jokes, nuances, descriptive passages, vignettes and puns.

"If you had to pick one cumulative effect, it would be the theme of joy in spite of everything — that no matter how bad things are, it's possible to lead a joyful life.

"Loneliness, alienation, despair, sexual frustration, failed technology and bad government, which today is all government, all these things can be overcome. My characters overcome them in exemplary fashion."

His characters — like giant-thumbed Sissy, frog skin-clad John Paul Ziller and dozens more — are bigger than life. Robbins says they are of "heroic proportions, like Greek heroes, but people identify with them."

Muhammad Ali is a personal, bigger-than-life hero.

"I consider Ali a hero ... Ali dancing in his shorts and socks in the Houston induction center when he was about to lose the world championship and millions of dollars. It was an act of extreme moral courage done with humor and style that gave it that extra dimension."

Robbins dresses casually around home — one dark green sock, one light green sock, an old blue sweater under a limp black vest. Rumpled tennis shoes. Blue jeans. His scraggly moustache looks like an innocent bystander caught in a cat fight.

He bought his four-room house for $7,000 several years ago in this quiet town of 640 people, best-known for its annual smelt-fishing derby. The gray wood house is a gallery of circus posters. "Big Otto — Blood-sweating Hippopotamus!" is tacked to the bathroom door.

By design, there are no numbers on the house, a few doors down from LaConner's Methodist Church. Robbins says he prefers solitude. He has been married but now lives alone.

He says the publicity of a best-selling author interferes with work on his next novel, for which he has received a $165,000 advance.

SAND PAINTER — Artist David Villasenor works on sand paintings that are on exhibit this month at the Pomona Public Library. The exhibition is titled, "Rain Birds, Thunderbirds and Flying Serpents."

Sandpainting exhibit now at Pomona library

An art exhibit titled "Rain Birds, Thunderbirds and Flying Serpents" by David Villasenor is being held this month at the Pomona Public Library. Admission is free.

Villasenor's works are drawn from the primitive, symbollic characters of the mythology of North, Center and South American Indians. The series consists of Rain Birds (primarily from the pueblos of Arizona and New Mexico); Thunderbirds (from Navajo, Plains Indians and Eskimo cultures), and Flying Serpents (Kukulcan of the Maya and Quetzalcoatl of the Aztecs).

Because the impermanence of the folk art of sandpainting makes the works difficult to preserve, Villasenor perfected a way to make the paintings permanent.

Villasenor has lectured on sandpainting, Indian mythology and folk art at many colleges and universities. He has exhibited throughout the United States and his works are in the permanent collections of many museums and galleries.

AN EXHIBITION OF JAPANESE KIMONOS is being held this summer at the Riverside Municipal Museum. Most of the kimonos date from the late Edo (1616-1867) through Showa (1926 to the present) eras of Japanese History. The Harada kimonos, from an old Riverside Japanese-American family, date from the early 20th Century when Japanese immigrants made new homes in the United States.

Poly offers resource classes

The Office of Continuing Education at Cal Poly this summer will offer a new class aimed at exploring a wide range of arts and the human potential movement, and finding many resources for creativity in the classroom, community and oneself.

According to Cal Poly instructor Sunnie Johnson, students will have the opportunity to see live presentations of the performing arts, view films and exhibits and participate in symposiums focusing on the human potential movement.

Students are required to attend 2 class meetings on campus, in Building 41, Room 10, Tuesday, 5-10 p.m., July 12 and Aug. 9 and to attend portions of the Garden Theater Festival at Barnsdall Park to earn optional 2, 3, or 4 units of university credit.

Citrus shows prints

The nationally acclaimed Bruce Douglas Beal American Revolution Bicentennial Print Show will be on display in the Citrus College art gallery next Sunday through July 24.

Hours for the special exhibit, which is open to the public without charge, are noon to 4 p.m. on Sunday and Thursday, and 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Tuesday.

Beal, a contemporary American artist and a printmaker of national reputation, has captured the Bicentennial experience in a series of 24 diozalid prints, combining the imagery of an artist with the technology of today in a unique process. Beal photographs collages (groups) of American scenes and symbols and prints the negatives in sepia ink. The bronze tones and rounded corners of the prints are reminiscent of early photographic techniques. Beal combines familiar patriotic symbols such as the American Eagle, George Washington and the Stars and Stripes with scenes from the western movement and college campus events to present a lighthearted interpretation of America's past and present.

Art class slated

Information on the class can be obtained from Florence Clark at 597-2025.

Paintings by students of the class are on exhibit now at the Chino Branch Library, students of Geneva Oster. A member of Women Painters of the West, Mrs. Oster has won numerous prizes for her paintings throughout Southern California.

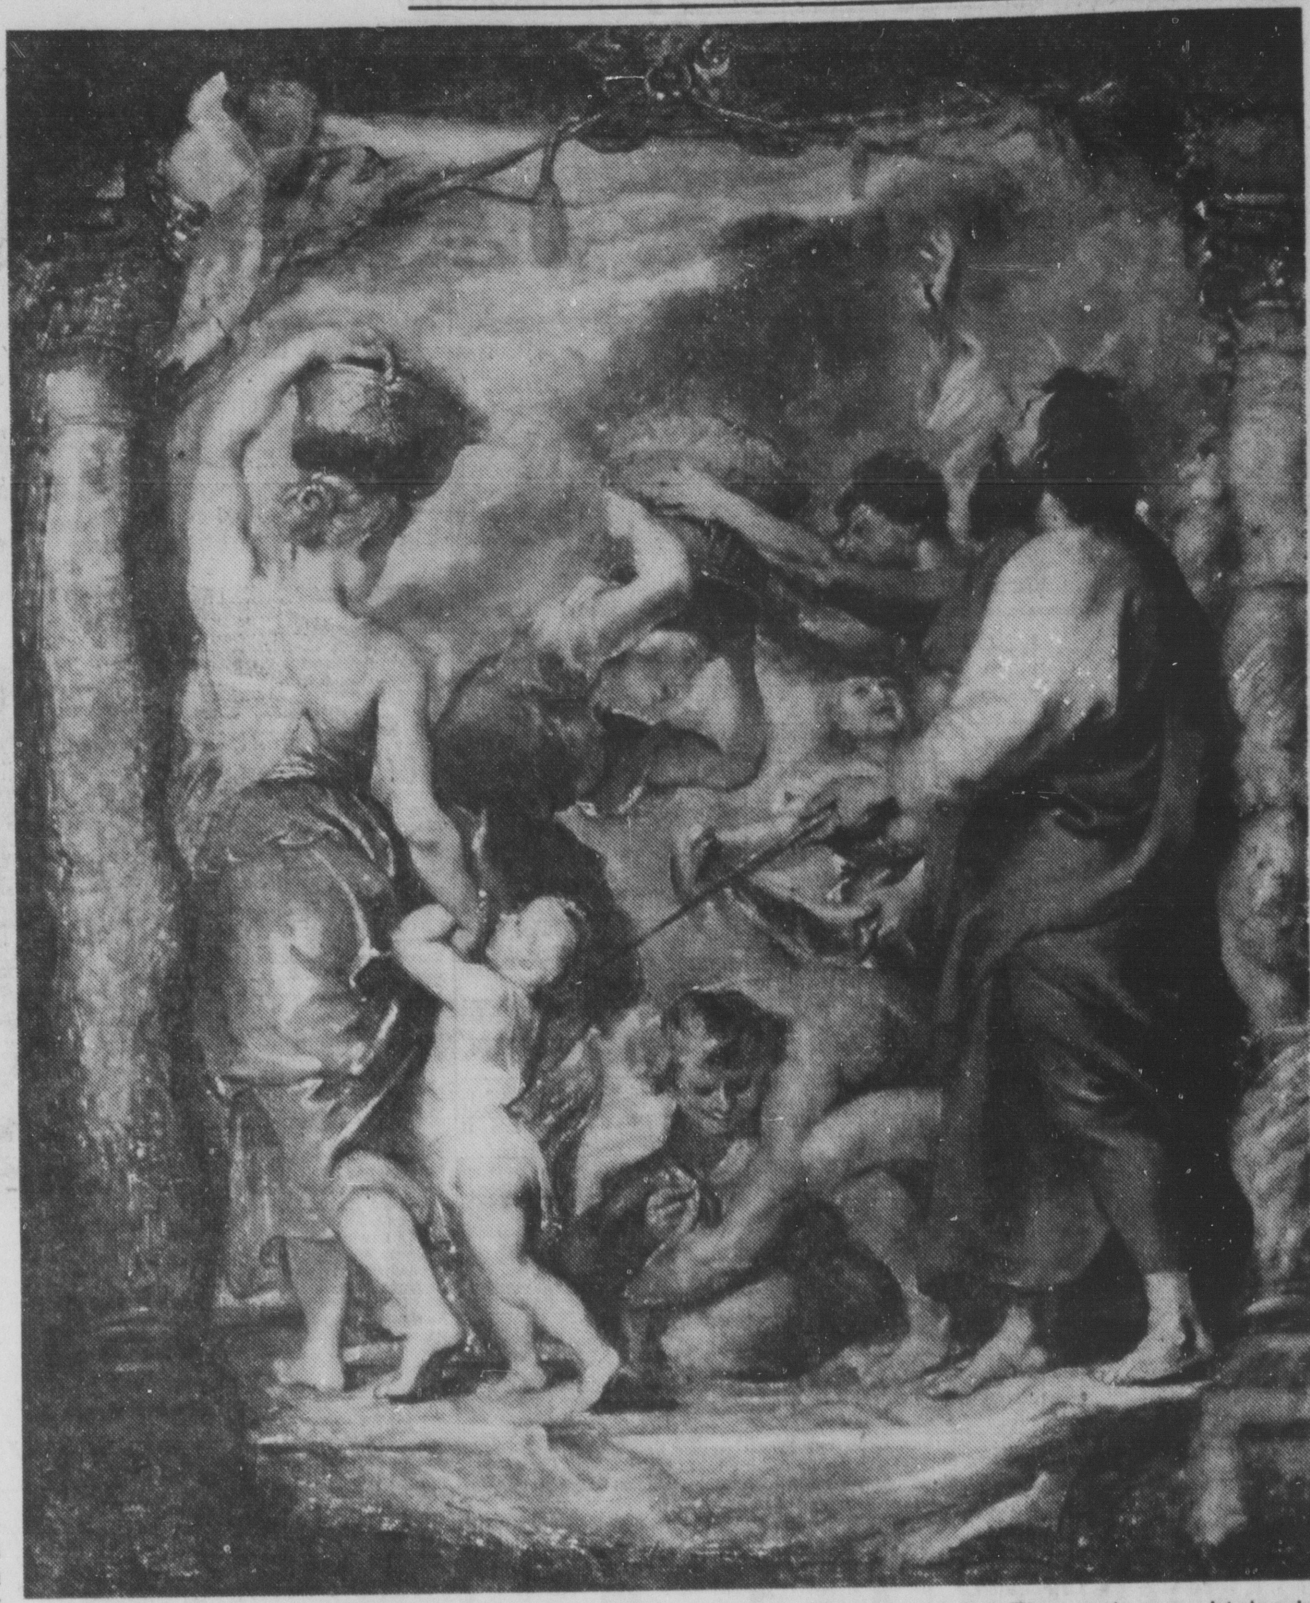
Wells' classic to be filmed

NEW YORK (AP) — Roger Lewis will produce the H.G. Wells 1938 classic, "The Man Who Could Work Miracles," Paramount Pictures reported.



RUBENS MASTERPIECE — "The Israelites Gathering Manna in the Desert," an oil on panel by Peter Paul Rubens, is one of the religious paintings in the permanent collection of the county Museum of Art. The work was obtained through the Frances and Armand Hammer Fund.

Center Theater Group plans 11th season

The Tony Award-winning Center Theater Group of the Forum of the Los Angeles Music Center will present two world premieres and two West Coast premieres during its 1977-78 season.

"For Colored Girls Who Have Considered Suicide/When the Rainbow Is Enuf," a choreo-poem by Ntozake Shange, will play from Aug. 11 through Sept. 25, with Oz Scott, who staged the Broadway version, directing the West Coast premiere. Described by United Press International as "hitting the heart, the mind and the funnybone with sledgehammer blows and lighting bolts of insight," "For Colored Girls . . ." is still playing to capacity audiences in New York where it received a Tony nomination for Best Play.

For its second presentation, the Taper will offer "Comedians" by British playwright Trevor Griffiths, playing Nov. 3 through Dec. 18. Hailed first in London and then in New York, "Comedians" will be given its West Coast premiere under the direction of Edward Parone, associate director of the Forum. The ingenious and theatrical theme about variations of comic art caused Martin Gottfried of the New York Post to comment that "Comedians" is "as funny and painful as a play about comedians should be."

From Feb. 16, 1978 through April 2, 1978, the Forum will mount the world premiere of Robert Alan Arthur's "Attica," directed by Edwin Sherin. The drama deals with the social and moral controversies surrounding the 1971 prison riot in the same tradition in which the Forum previously presented "In the Matter of J. Robert Oppenheimer," "The Trial of the Catonsville Nine" and "Savages."

The final presentation of the 11th Season will be another world premiere, "Black Angel," by Pulitzer Prize-winner Michael Christofer, opening May 18 and playing through July 2. "Black Angel" will be the third play by Cristofer to have received its world premiere at the Forum.

In addition to the four plays scheduled, New Theater For Now will be reactivated, presenting provocative new works from Sept. 29 through Oct. 16 and from April 6 through 30, 1978.

Writing club to meet

The Pomona Valley Writer's Club will have its final meeting of the season at the Ontario Public Library at 7 p.m. Tuesday. Meetings will resume in September.

"Summer Vacation" by Elizabeth Doidge won first prize in the May writing competition. Other winners were "The Wind Chimes Answered" by Florence Swanson, second; "Meditation for Better Living" by Freda Foxley, third; and "Persistence" by Dorcas Neigh and "Hopeless Marvel" by Eva Martin, honorable mention.

Information on the club can be obtained at 628-8222 or 987-5735.

Bowl to offer July 4 concert

Music, fireworks and an appearance by Big Bird of Sesame Street will be offered July 4 by the Hollywood Bowl in the annual Fireworks Family Picnic Concert.

In keeping with a holiday tradition, the program's grand finale will be devoted to a trio of patriotic Sousa marches played by the superb Los Angeles Philharmonic, while all around (and over) the outdoor concert center a profusion of sparkling fireworks will light up the sky.

Favorite works by Aaron Copland, Morton Gould, Ferde Grofe, as well as Sousa and others will round out the program, and one of the most unusual guest stars ever to perform on the Bowl Stage — Big Bird — will make several appearances throughout the evening. Sidney Harth, associate conductor, will be on the podium.

Picnickers are encouraged to take advantage of the bowl's facilities for pre-concert dining to make their holiday celebration complete.

Box seats at $5 and $4 and reserved seats at $3 and $2 (children under 12 are ½ price) are available now by mail and may be purchased at the Hollywood Bowl box office and at all Mutual Ticket agencies.

Anderson Resales

N. of Foothill in LaVerne, beautiful 1 bdrm, double with expando. In $91 Adult/No pet park. You'll just love this.

OR

A little further west at Azusa & Arrow, we have a nice 12x60 2 bdrm for adults with small pets. Either of these for only $13,000.

NOW

A little further west in Brookside, one of El Monte's finest parks, we have a 14x52 1½ bath, near new, for only $11,995. But — we can accept a reasonable offer.

THEN

A little to the South, at Valley & Temple, we have a 20x50 2 bdrm that needs a little fixing. Come look & we'll work out a price.

ALSO

To the East, in Ontario, corner lot in 5 star family park. 24x60 2 bdrm Kingswood by Silvercrest. Call us for free tour, we have several homes in this area.

LASTLY

Take your pick, both are vacant. Here or there for $9000. '76 Traveleze in adult $58 park in LaVerne.

OR

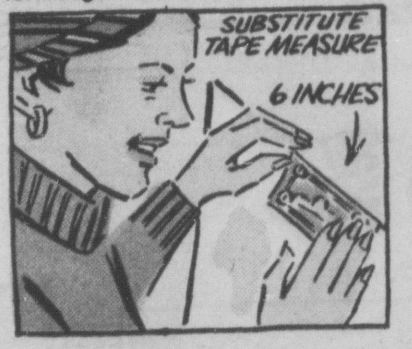
Polly's Pointers

The following Pointers are some that readers have shared with us in years past and that still linger with us:

If you are ever caught without a ruler, you will find a passable substitute in your wallet. A dollar bill is just a fraction over six inches long and can substitute as a tape to use for rough measurements.



SUBSTITUTE TAPE MEASURE
6 INCHES

The proverbial fine-toothed comb is a quick and easy tool to use when spreading paste or glue over a large surface you are going to cover with decorative paper.

Send your helpful hints to Polly's Pointers in care of this newspaper.

If you have open basement steps, wrap a washable rug around the next to top step, pin it snugly underneath with safety pins and prevent dirt being tracked into the main part of the house. Pins make the rug easy to remove for washing.

Use the cardboard rolls that come in waxed paper and foil boxes for storing electric cords to small appliances. Cut the rolls into pieces six to eight inches long and write on the outside what the cord is for. Fold each cord in long, looplike lengths and push into the tube from one end. They do not get tangled and take up less drawer space.

Use wet string to tie tight and secure packages to be mailed. The string shrinks as it dries and thus gets tighter.

Ladies who do their own painting should wear a shower cap so there will be no paint on their hair.

6-19
SHOWER CAP

Take that broom you were about to throw away, cut the bristles off short and then tie an old felt hat, scrap of flannel or carpet around the "business" end and have a wonderful floor polisher.

CUT OFF BRISTLES
E.H.

When moving to a new home pack a suitcase or carton with just enough sheets, pillowcases, towels and wash cloths to take care of that first night. Mark this container so it is easily found on arrival. This will save going through several boxes to assemble all the things needed.

Before moving day arrives, start readying a large shopping bag with strong handles and in it put paper towels, several face towels and wash cloths, soap, detergent, cleanser, facial tissues, bathroom tissue, light bulbs, safety matches, flashlight, hammer, screw driver and old newspaper. Other things may be added but these are a MUST. Grab the handles, put the bag in the car and be on your way on moving day.

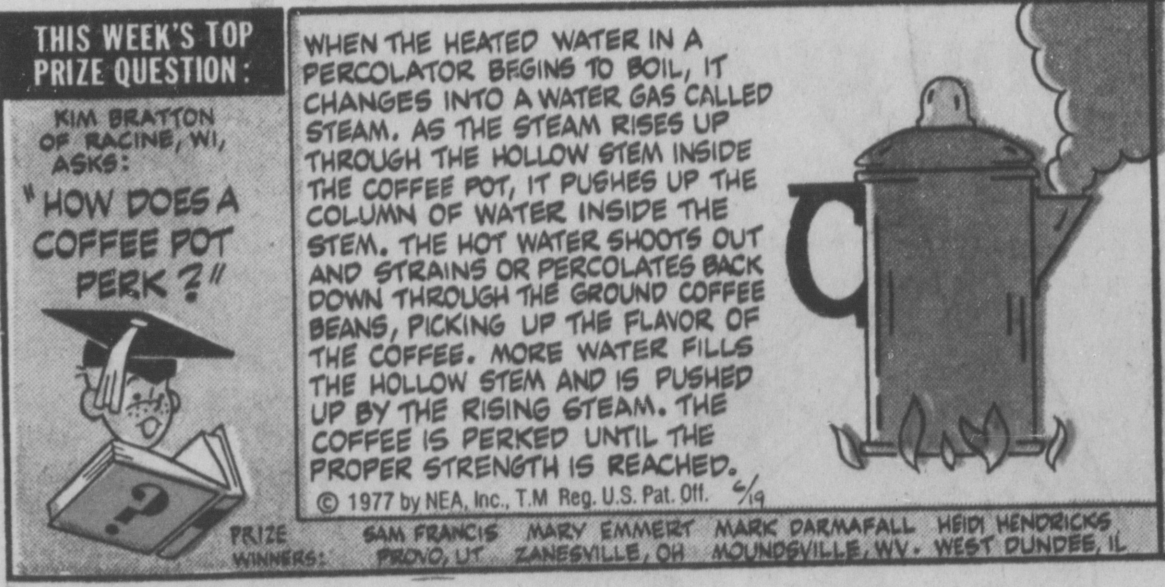
ONCE UPON A TIME...

THE PRETZEL'S NAME COMES FROM A LATIN WORD MEANING "A LITTLE REWARD." LONG AGO, PRETZELS WERE GIVEN TO CHILDREN AS A REWARD FOR LEARNING THEIR PRAYERS. THE PRETZEL WAS SHAPED TO REPRESENT THE CROSSED ARMS OF A CHILD PRAYING.



THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

KIM BRATTON OF RACINE, WI, ASKS:

"HOW DOES A COFFEE POT PERK?"

WHEN THE HEATED WATER IN A PERCOLATOR BEGINS TO BOIL, IT CHANGES INTO A WATER GAS CALLED STEAM. AS THE STEAM RISES UP THROUGH THE HOLLOW STEM INSIDE THE COFFEE POT, IT PUSHES UP THE COLUMN OF WATER INSIDE THE STEM. THE HOT WATER SHOOTS OUT AND STRAINS OR PERCOLATES BACK DOWN THROUGH THE GROUND COFFEE BEANS, PICKING UP THE FLAVOR OF THE COFFEE. MORE WATER FILLS THE HOLLOW STEM AND IS PUSHED UP BY THE RISING STEAM. THE COFFEE IS PERKED UNTIL THE PROPER STRENGTH IS REACHED. 6/19

Chiquita camp gear for kids.

Chiquita® Banana Pup Tent

Now, that's a tent with appeal! It's 5″ x 6″ x 36″ high center. Made of durable water repellent canvas treated with flame retardant materials to CPAI 84 specifications. Easy to assemble, it comes complete with aluminum poles, stake, guy lines and some very simple instructions. Not to mention the giant bananas printed on both sides.

Chiquita Banana Windbreaker

Wear what the well dressed banana is wearing, the blue Chiquita Sticker. Our 100% high count nylon windbreaker is windproof, water repellent, and spot resistant. Special flap pockets are featured to keep out rain. With extra large set in sleeves, it's double stitched, washable, and bright banana yellow, so it's easy to see at night. It's available in youth sizes: Small (6-8) Medium (10-12) and Large (14-16).

Chiquita Banana Sleeping Bag-Comforter

Now you can sleep like a Chiquita in its peel. This 34″ x 69″ quilted sleeping bag weighing only 2 pounds unzips into a 68″ x 69″ comforter. Fully reversible, one side is water repellent nylon taffeta for outdoors. The other is 100% cotton sheeting for indoors. Filled with soft 100% virgin polyester, it's washable and comes in a reusable vinyl tote bag.

Chiquita Banana Backpack

Perfect for hauling school books, camp supplies, and plenty of delicious Chiquita bananas. There's plenty of room in this sturdy 13″ x 15″ cotton duck backpack. It's light weight (just 10 ounces) and has adjustable shoulder straps.

STARS REFLECT ON FATHER'S DAY

With Father's Day (June 19) upon us, several Hollywood stars took time out from busy schedules to consider the question: "What do you think is the most important thing you can give your children?"

Their Answers:

Don Rickles, CPO Sharkey: "I think the most important things you can give a child are a lot of love and a sense of values. My only objective for my children (Mindy Beth, 11, and Lawrence Corey, 7) is for both of them to be happy. Barbara and I will support them when they make up their minds as to what they want to do—even if it's acting. We're certainly not pushing them into a show business career, but if either shows inclinations in that direction, they'll get our help."

Jack Klugman, of Quincy: "Love. That's the most important word in any language. Then I've tried to impress on my kids (David, 18, and Adam, 14) that growth is important. David plays the piano. He took a speed reading course. He writes poetry. If I grow in my profession as an actor, I feel I'm growing yet I feel younger. At least I know I'm not going to be a victim of senility."

Patrick Duffy, star of Man From Atlantis: "The most important thing I can give my son Padraic (cq) is to let him see my own day-to-day growth, and let him choose whatever path he wants to follow. He will see the example I set, and then one day will mature and choose to follow—or to avoid—that example. I have complete faith in him as a person to let him follow his own direction. If he wanted to be an actor, for instance, I'd encourage him to go for it." (Padraic is 2½ years old.)

Chuck Barris, host of The Gong Show: "The most important things I feel I can give my daughter are love and discipline. With those, she'll be able to achieve anything else. I guide her toward being a self-sufficient, happy and healthy person. If she wants to 'grow up and be an actress,' I'll encourage her. If she never expresses such an interest, neither will I." Chuck's daughter, Della, is 14 years old and appears frequently on the Gong Show as a model.

Jack Albertson, of Chico and the Man: "I think the most important thing a person can give a child is character. Honesty, integrity, ability—all the things that help develop character. I will provide education, encouragement and sympathy. After that, it should be up to the child to select his or her own goals. (Albertson has a married daughter, Maura.)

Bobby Troup of Emergency: "I think it's important to make it possible for children to do the things they want and like to do." Troup is both father and grandfather. The youngest of his seven are twins Reese and Jody, 14. Their mother is Bobby's co-star on Emergency, Julie London. "I don't believe," says Troup, "in fathers using their children as extensions of themselves, channeling them into things in which they, the fathers, are interested. I wouldn't discourage my child from doing anything he wanted to in life, as long as he doesn't hurt himself or anyone else."

TALENTED QUINTET

Robert Shields and Lorene Yarnell, the performing couple whose creative mime impressions have stirred new interest in the art, are displaying their wide range of comedic and musical talents on their new half-hour comedy-variety series on CBS, Mondays at 8:30PM. The series presents the couple in solo and tandem performances as singers, dancers and comedians.

Shields and Yarnell appeared regularly on the Mac Davis Show and the Sonny & Cher Show as well as nearly 50 other variety and talk shows. Lorene is the daughter of a Los Angeles police detective, and began performing at the age of four. At 15 she joined the Los Angeles Civic Light Opera where she performed in various productions over the next three years. She was also a regular dancer on Shindig and The Carol Burnett Show.

Robert Shields says he was "born to mime," because he didn't speak a word until he was almost five years old. He made his mime "premiere" in front of the Hollywood Wax Museum, doing his motionless, unblinking impressions of the figures within. After performing with a rock band as a teenager and working in a circus, Shields became one of San Francisco's best-known tourist attractions—performing mime regularly in Union Square.

Debbie Allen, Ellen Foley and Mimi Kennedy are back in the mini-series, 3 Girls 3, on NBC, Wednesdays at 9PM. The multi-talented trio are equally skilled at singing, dancing and doing comedy. The format of the series allows the girls to move back and forth between actual on-stage variety performances and backstage vignettes about three unknowns who have been given starring roles in a network variety series.

Debbie Allen, a native of Houston, Tex., was a dancer in "Purlie," and was featured in the role of Beneatha in "Raisin," both on Broadway. A graduate of Howard University in Washington, D.C., she has also made several TV commercials and taught at Washington's Duke Ellington School of Performing Arts.

Ellen Foley began her professional career in "The Borscht Review" in New York's Catskill hotel resorts. A native of St. Louis, Mo., she performed in the national tour of "The National Lampoon Show," and in the Off-Broadway plays "The Company Stow" and "Boy Meets Boy."

Mimi Kennedy, from Rochester, New York, always wanted to be an actress. She played Jan in Broadway's long-running musical hit "Grease," and the roles of Sybil and Millie in "All Over Town," also on Broadway.

YOUNG SLEUTHS

Nancy Drew, the All-American girl detective and one of the first liberated young ladies of American literature, shares her adventures on alternate Sunday evenings (ABC at 7PM) with The Hardy Boys, a team of teenage detectives.

Pamela Sue Martin stars as eighteen-year-old Nancy Drew, who resides in River Heights with her widowed father whom she adores. She is intelligent, courageous and self reliant, with a talent for solving mysteries. William Schallert co-stars as Carson Drew, Nancy's father, and one of the best criminal lawyers in the country. He is assisted in his office by law student Ned Nickerson (George O'Hanlon Jr.) who is always around when Nancy needs him and also gets involved in her capers. Accompanying Nancy on her adventures is her closest female friend and cousin, George Fayne (played by Jean Rasey).

Pamela Sue Martin was born in Westport, Conn., and has an older sister living in San Francisco. While she was attending Staples High School in Westport, a friend suggested she try modeling in New York. Pam took her friend's advice and was soon earning a good living as a teenage model in magazine advertisements and television commercials. While still active as a model, she tried out for a part in the Ray Stark film, "To Find A Man," and wound up playing the lead role. After the film was completed, Pamela returned to Westport to finish her last year of high school.

Because of favorable critical notices for her performance in "To Find A Man," she was called to California to co-star in "The Poseidon Adventure." She has also starred in "Buster & Billie," and "Our Time." When not before the cameras, Pamela enjoys athletic pursuits, especially scuba diving, tennis and skiing.

The Hardy Boys (Parker Stevenson as Frank and Shaun Cassidy as Joe), like their world-famous investigator father, Fenton Hardy (portrayed by Edmund Gilbert), cannot resist an exciting case with elusive clues. In addition to being brothers, the boys are the best of friends—working together and enjoying themselves while hotly pursuing clues that lead to ultimate resolutions of the mysterious cases despite their very different personalities.

Frank lives for the moment, never planning ahead and rushing headlong into the fray. Like his father, he is a natural detective and enthusiastic crime fighter, perceiving everything about him in terms of clues.

He is counter-balanced by brother Joe—the steady and methodical one who provides checks and balances for Frank's unbridled enthusiasm. The boys live with their father and their Aunt Gertrude (Edith Atwater). Working part-time for Mr. Hardy in his thriving detective agency is Callie Shaw (Lisa Eilbacher), a bright and pretty girl who shares Joe and Frank's adventures.

Parker Stevenson entered the world of show business via commercials which came about because his mother, actress Sarah Meade, was also in that field in New York. This led to a successful audition at Paramount for a leading role in the motion picture "A Separate Peace." Parker has also appeared in "Our Time" and "Lifeguard." Born in Philadelphia, Parker has an older sister, Sarah, and a younger brother, Hutch. He graduated from Princeton University where he majored in art and architectural history. He plans to go to graduate school for his M.A. A bachelor, he maintains residences in both New York and Hollywood.

Shaun Cassidy was born in Los Angeles and is a member of a show business family. He is the son of Shirley Jones and the late Jack Cassidy and a half-brother to pop-rock star David Cassidy. Shaun organized his first band while still in grammar school, performing both as the singer and guitar player at local high school functions and parties. After graduation from Beverly Hills High School, Shaun—in coordination with the release of his first single recording—toured several European cities and was well received in concert. He was presented his first gold record for the album "That's Rock." In the summer of 1975, he toured the United States with his mother in the musical "On A Clear Day," and has also appeared on stage in "The Sound of Music," "High Button Shoes," and "Oliver." According to Shaun, "writing and performing music is my love and acting is my hobby—although I do like baseball."

TEXAS BEAUTY

Beautiful, poised and sensitive not only describes Kelly Garrett but Jaclyn Smith, who plays the role of Kelly in ABC's Charlie's Angels series, Wednesdays at 10PM. Like the character she plays, Jaclyn was born in Houston, Texas. She is the daughter of Jack and Margaret Ellen Smith and is the youngest of two children. Her father is a dentist.

Jaclyn started her career in the performing arts by studying ballet at the age of three.

While attending Pershing Junior High School, she began performing at Houston Community Playhouse. She continued acting there until she graduated from Lamar High School. Jaclyn then studied drama and psychology at Trinity University at San Antonio, Texas.

After returning home for a short time, Jaclyn tried working in New York. While there, she conducted a ballet class for underprivileged children in the Head Start program. Then as opportunities opened up for her there, she moved to the West Coast.

Among the films in which she has appeared are "Bootleggers" and "The Adventurers." In great demand as a model, Jaclyn has appeared in some 75 commercials during the past eight years.

Her television roles include appearances in two McClouds, Get Christy Love, The Rookies, a film for the World of Disney and a recurrent role in Switch.

Jaclyn loves children and plans to work in a project involving younger children when she has more time available. Her love of animals has been transformed to the character she plays in the series. Her French poodle, Albert, has become a member of the cast of the series.

Water skiing, swimming and horseback riding are among her hobbies. She also skis and plays a little tennis. She enjoys reading and listening to music, principally classical.

COMEDY IS HER FORTE

Nancy Walker, star of Blansky's Beauties on ABC, was pursuing a career as a serious vocalist when she auditioned for the Broadway production, ''Best Foot Forward'' and producer George Abbott realized her true forte was comedy. He not only advised the teenager to try for a different role in ''Blind Date,'' but also expanded it from five lines to a lead for Nancy, who was then ''discovered'' overnight. She then went to Hollywood to repeat her Broadway stage role in MGM's screen version of the musical. Signed to a long-term contract, she appeared in such box-office successes as ''Girl Crazy,'' ''Broadway Rhythm'' and ''Meet the People.''

She then returned to Broadway to star as the lady cab driver in ''On the Town.'' Following five years with MGM, her later Broadway hits included ''Barefoot in the Park,'' ''Phoenix '55,'' ''Fallen Angels,'' ''Copper and Brass,'' ''Pal Joey,'' ''Wonderful Town,'' ''Girls Against the Boys,'' ''Look Ma, I'm Dancing,'' ''Along Fifth Avenue'' and ''Lucky Me.''

A native of Philadelphia, Nancy, as a child, toured throughout Europe with her parents, Dewey and Myrtle Barto of the famous Barto and Mann vaudeville team. Her major schooling was in New York's Professional Children's School. As actress, comedienne, singer and dancer, Miss Walker has appeared on virtually every major television show. She won five Emmy nominations while starring in the McMillan & Wife and Rhoda series.

In 1973, she became a member of the Directors Guild after directing two segments of The Mary Tyler Moore Show, and a Rhoda episode. She also directed three stage plays by Saul Bellow which led to her Broadway directorial bow with ''UTBU.''

As a performer, her more recent stage credits include APA productions of ''The Cocktail Party,'' ''The Cherry Orchard'' and ''The Show-Off'' in which she took over Helen Hayes' role; and the Los Angeles CTG-Ahmanson Theatre's presentation of ''A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum.''

TELE-TALK

Monte Landis, who co-stars as the resourceful Michael on ABC's Feather and Father Gang, is a man of many parts—some of them way out. The singer-actor-comic sidelines as a top-flight astrologer, and claims to be the world's highest-paid practitioner of that ancient trade. Monte says his own innate abilities, plus wide-ranging studies in the occult and parapsychology, have enabled him to devise a system of personality analysis based solely on an individual's name.

The Happy Days softball team (comprised of cast and crew) has made a reputation around Los Angeles as the "dreaded nine." Now their fame has reached San Francisco, and the gauntlet has been thrown down by a group of Bay area celebrities challenging the ABC series team to a showdown contest prior to a San Francisco Giants game in Candlestick Park. Fireballing Henry Winkler and golden glover Ron Howard (stars of the series) are mulling over dates offered by the cocky aggregation from up north. A highlight for the team last season was a game played before 50,000 people in Dodger Stadium.

Carroll O'Connor is starring in his own teleplay, the two-hour NBC World Premiere Movie, "The Last Hurrah," the story of a big city politician running for office one last time.

O'Connor's script is based on the 1956 best-seller by the late Edwin O'Connor (no relation).It is an updated version of the novel and not a remake of the 1958 movie starring Spencer Tracy. Co-starring are Mariette Hartley, Patrick Wayne, Jack Carter, Arthur Franz, Robert Brown and Kitty Winn.

Vincent Sherman is directing and Frank Levy and Mike Wise are producing for O'Connor's production company, Carna-Becker, in association with Columbia Pictures Television and NBC.

The search is on. The search for young people who have done something positive in their lives or in their communities. The young achievers who are chosen will be honored in the "NBC Junior Hall of Fame," a series of 90-second presentations to be telecast each Saturday morning beginning in the Fall.

Organizations, community leaders and NBC-affiliated stations across the country have been invited to submit names of young people—15 years of age and under—in their areas who have accomplished something worthy of recognition in any of the following ways: volunteer work; bravery; overcoming a handicap; achievement in the arts, sciences or sports.

The young people who are chosen to be honored will be filmed in the environment where they have made their contribution. Names of candidates to be honored in the "NBC Junior Hall of Fame," should be submitted to Alan Landsburg Productions, 110 North Doheny Drive, Beverly Hills, Cal.

Gabriel Kaplan, who stars as Gabe Kotter in the popular ABC series Welcome Back Kotter, is sporting a new look these days. With the program currently out of production, Kaplan has taken the opportunity to grow his first beard. "I've had my moustache a long time," he remarked, "but this is the first time I've ever grown a full beard."

Doc Severinsen (left)—who leads NBC's Tonight Show orchestra—and one of the band's trumpet players, Snooky Young, recently reversed roles. During one of the nightly telecasts of The Tonight Show (NBC, 11:30PM), Doc asked Snooky to solo in front of the band and then Doc took Snooky's place in the trumpet section. Snooky, a former musician with many of the top orchestras of the 1940s and 1950s, is a long-time member of The Tonight Show orchestra.

CAROL BURNETT TELLS WHY
BEVERLY SILLS IS TOPS

Merit Breakthrough Remains Unduplicated.

'Enriched Flavor'™ tobacco makes MERIT unique among low tar cigarettes.

Since the introduction of MERIT, a number of other low tar brands have come along. But MERIT remains unique—the only low tar cigarette with 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco.

MERIT delivers what others can only promise: the flavor of higher tar cigarettes. The kind of flavor made possible by a breakthrough in tobacco technology.

Here's how it was done:

By cracking cigarette smoke down into separate elements, researchers were able to isolate certain flavor-rich ingredients that delivered taste way out of proportion to tar.

These flavor essentials were then packed into MERIT, giving it extraordinary flavor.

Taste tests against a number of higher tar cigarettes proved it.

Overall, smokers reported they liked the taste of MERIT and MERIT 100's as much as the taste of the higher tar cigarettes tested.

Cigarettes with up to 60% more tar!

Only one cigarette has 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco.

And you can taste it.

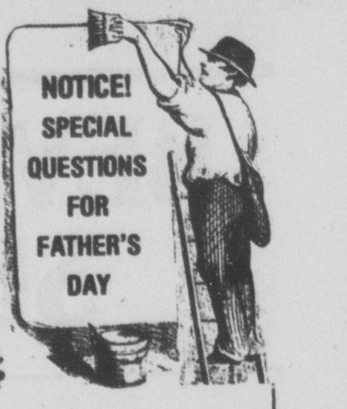
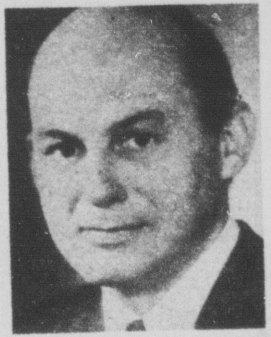
ASK THEM YOURSELF

Send the question, on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022.
We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.





FOR SEN. ADLAI STEVENSON (D.-Ill.)

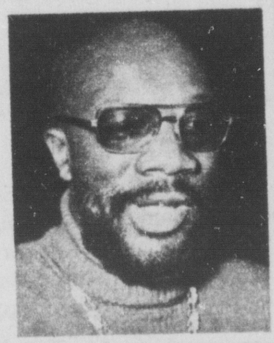
What's the most valuable lesson you learned from your father? —K.G., Galveston, Texas

● To trust the people with the truth, all the truth. If those who know the truth, and those who control its communication, were all committed to that proposition, we could as a people recover confidence in ourselves and act upon the truth decisively.

FOR MARLO THOMAS, actress

Did your father want you to follow in his footsteps? —B.K., Dover, Del.

● No. He was against it because he'd worked very hard to get where he was, and he didn't want me to go through all that. He wanted me to go into something secure, such as teaching, which is what I did when I graduated from college. He knew I'd have to start at the bottom in show business and he didn't want to "relive" all that anguish. Talent isn't handed down, like a title. Dad kept asking me, "Do you really think lightning will strike twice in the same family?"



FOR ISAAC HAYES, composer

I get the feeling you're a very lenient father. Are you? —K.B., Miami Beach, Fla.

● No, I'm middle of the road. I try not to spoil the kids, and, although they're well provided for, they don't live in luxury. I want to make sure they understand the value of a dollar and learn to appreciate things, just the way I did. Sometimes my kids go on tour with me. (You should see the looks I get in restaurants when I march in with my retinue of eight.) Sometimes to "punish" them I play my records, and they'll yell, "No, not that. Let's hear Elton John."

FOR JANE PAULEY, co-host of NBC-TV's Today show

Does your father watch you on TV every day? —Elaine Denta, Merrillville, Ind.

● He probably did at the beginning, but the novelty might have worn off a bit now. But even at the start, he and Mom were quite unruffled at turning on the tube and seeing me. In fact, their attitude toward me hasn't changed at all. They still offer advice and counsel and remind me to take my vitamins, to eat square meals and to pick up after myself. They don't think of me as a newscaster, but as their youngest daughter.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

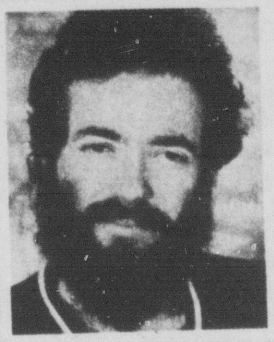
What's the most touching Father's Day gift story you've heard —L.E., Eastchester, N.Y.

● One told to FAMILY WEEKLY recently by singer Johnny Mathis (right). He bought an organ for a Baptist church in San Francisco, where his parents worshipped and where he went regularly as a kid, and donated it on Father's Day. The sad part, however, is that this happened a couple of years after Johnny's father had passed away. "Wish I had thought of doing that during Dad's lifetime," said Johnny. "It would have made him very proud."

FOR JOAN BAEZ, folk singer

Of all the gifts you gave your father, which one did he like most of all? —A.M., Eau Claire, Wis.

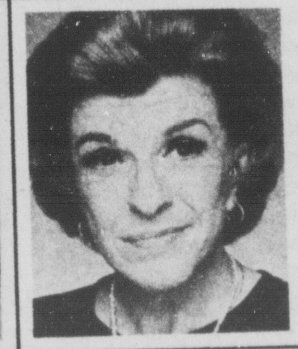
● A secondhand motor scooter. Dad used it to get to and from work when he taught science at MIT. That was during the '60's. It held up very well. Dad loved the bike and hated to part with it — even when it started falling apart two years ago.



FOR DAVID WALLECHINSKY, writer and son of Irving Wallace

How come your last name is different from your father's? —S.G., Grand Junction, Colo.

● When my grandfather arrived in this country as an immigrant, an immigration clerk, without consulting Grandpa, changed the name to Wallace. So both Dad and I were born as Wallace. I never gave the matter too much thought until I began writing myself. Then I got annoyed at the high-handed treatment shown Grandpa and, just to put the record straight and to make amends, decided to adopt his name.



FOR NANCY WALKER, actress

Were you a real "Daddy's girl" as a child? —J.R., Pomona, Calif.

● Yes, because my mom died when I was eight. I lacked what most kids take for granted — a mother and roots. Dad never remarried, and I grew up in theaters and music halls. He was in vaudeville, and traveling with him was an educational experience — I learned independence, but it was also very lonely. Dad was a mom and dad rolled into one, but there are things a girl can't tell her father.

FOR BARRY NEWMAN, actor

Was your father an actor, too? —P.M., Lake Charles, La.

● He was a jack-of-all trades and very complex. He had a million businesses (owned trucks, a liquor store, home improvements), all of which failed. Mom worked hard to keep the family together, financially and emotionally. Things started to pick up when I was nine. Dad became manager and part owner of Boston's Latin Quarter, and I loved to go there and see all the Damon Runyon type characters and watch the stars and chorus girls rehearse. Big names appeared there: Sinatra, Sammy Davis, Danny Thomas, Nat King Cole.

FOR DON STEWART, star of TV's The Guiding Light

What do you remember most of the times you spent alone with your father? —M.H., Kingsport, Tenn.

● The hours we were up in the clouds. Dad was a doctor, but I think he enjoyed his hobby more — he was a licensed pilot. Whenever he could, he'd take me up with him. Every month, we went to Fly-In breakfasts (an air carnival, with pilots from all over Nebraska flying in, in their own planes.) That's where I formed my love for flying.

PRO AND CON

Are Too Many Baseball Players Being Overpaid?

PRO Bobby Bragan, president, National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues (minor leagues)

Yes. The re-entry draft, whereby major league players can become free agents, is by far the most detrimental of baseball's recent innovations. It has changed the game's "team" concept to one of individual acclaim. Instead of pride in team colors, the only color today is green. That the players' economic position has been upgraded no one questions. However, justification of $100,000 salaries to utility infielders everyone questions. The fact that some egocentric, power-hungry club owners will flex their money muscles to acquire multimillion-dollar athletes has a dramatic effect on all players — the whole bunch thinks big.

CON Marvin Miller, executive director, Major League Player's Association

No. Owners are businessmen, and except for an occasional error, no prudent businessman ever pays a salaried employee more than he is worth to his organization. Second, the percentage of revenue that goes to salaries is one of the smallest of any industry in the country. Third, salaries for all players in the major leagues plus the cost of their pension plan come to less than 25 percent of baseball's total revenues. Twenty-five years ago that total was 35 percent. Finally, baseball's TV revenues alone — not parking, tickets or concession sales — exceed the combined cost of player salaries and the player pension plan.

BEVERLY SILLS, SUPERSTAR

Her debut came at age 3, and ever since, despite a life underlined by personal tragedy, she has been singing, dancing and talking her way to the top.

"Art is the signature of a civilization," says Beverly, a tireless worker for the arts.

By Luisa Kreisberg

When Beverly Sills did a soft-shoe with Danny Kaye on his TV special, Look In at the Met, she astonished everyone with the snap she put into the act. When she tap-danced with Carol Burnett on a TV special entitled Sills and Burnett at the Met, she again stopped the show with her flashy footwork.

But it's not what Beverly Sills does with her feet that makes her one of the highest-paid performers in the world. It's what she does with her voice. Known as "America's Queen of Opera," she is celebrated for her flawless coloratura, which in Italian means "coloring" and in music means the florid trills, scales and runs used to display a singer's skills.

The Brooklyn-born diva sings operatic arias the way an acrobat turns somersaults. When Time did a cover story on her in 1971, the headline read: "The Fastest Voice Alive." Her recordings are perennial best sellers, and in New York she is so popular that one critic has placed her at the top of the city's tourist attractions — way ahead of such things as the Statue of Liberty or the Empire State Building.

"I was 48 on May 26, and I've been in the public eye all my life," she says with an exuberant smile that fills the room with sunshine. She is talking in the living room of her spacious apartment overlooking New York's Central Park. It is decorated in colors that complement her flaming red hair. The phone rings constantly, and her husband, retired newspaper executive Peter Greenough, stalks the foyer, awaiting the morning mail that averages 500 letters a week from her adoring fans..

"I started singing at age three on a radio show called Uncle Bob's Rainbow Hour, and I've been singing ever since," she recalls. "It's going to be very difficult to know when to quit. It's like hitting a home run and hearing all those cheers from the crowd — it gets in your blood. I've hit a lot of home runs, and when the cheering stops, it won't be easy to give it up."

The cheers from the crowd show no signs of stopping. Her calendar is solidly booked through 1980, and she expects to do 100 performances a year over the next three years. In 1978 she will sing in world premieres of operas written by American composers in San Diego, Houston and New York. "Everything about them will be American," she says. "The cast, the crew, the composers — everything. There's a tremendous interest in opera in this country. I haven't sung to anything less than a soldout house in six years. And that's not just in the big cities. I'm talking about places like Orlando, Fla., and Topeka, Kan., where 4,500 people jammed in for my last concert."

One reason for her enormous success is that she is a rare combination of a singer who can act and an actress who can sing. A Broadway or Hollywood star could learn a lot from her about what inflection to put into a lyric or a dramatic line from a script. She's a perfect showwoman whose roots in the business go 45 years deep. Her weekly appearances at age three on that kiddie radio show were followed by regular appearances on the popular Major Bowes Family Hour. At age seven, in an era of Wunderkinder like Shirley Temple and Judy Garland, 20th Century-Fox tried to make a movie star out of her, and she sang in a film called Uncle Sol Solves It, starring Willy Howard. By age 12 she had a continuous role in a soap opera called Our Gal Sunday.

"I was also known for my singing of the Rinso White commercial jingle — 'Rinso White, Rinso Bright, Happy Little Wash Day Song'" — she confesses with a laugh.

But her dream, she insists, was always to be an opera star, and her career got under way officially when she was 17, in 1945, via a debut with the Philadelphia Civic Opera in Carmen. For the next two years she toured the country with the Charles Wagner Opera Company (singing 63 Micaelas, a leading role in Carmen, and 54 Violettas in Traviata). In October 1955, after nine auditions with the New York City Opera, she made her debut with that company. The rest is history. She has since triumphed in all the major opera houses of the world and with all the major symphonies of this country and many in Europe.

But music is only one side of Beverly Sills' public profile. On the other side is Beverly Sills the author and Beverly Sills the television personality. Her first book, a self-portrait entitled Bubbles, was recently published and is enjoying brisk sales. "The title comes from an endearment my mother and two brothers forced on me at birth because I was born with an enormous bubble of spit in my mouth," she says. "The doctor said it was an omen, and they had to call me 'Bubbles.' The name has stuck."

Her television show, Lifestyles with Beverly Sills, is telecast by WNBC-TV once a week in the metropolitan New York area and will be syndicated in 40 cities in the U.S. and Canada next fall. "It's a topical show with celebrities," she explains. "I've had wonderful chats with Zero Mostel, Lily Tomlin and many other celebrities. I've also talked with the sons of two Presidents — Jack Carter and Jack Ford — about the problems of growing up in a political family.

"The show's main emphasis," she says "is on public affairs." Specifically, that means such controversial topics as alcoholism, the problems of single parents and homosexuality, all of which Beverly has discussed unflinchingly with her guests. One broadcast,

TO MY VERY SPECIAL FRIEND

By Carol Burnett

Working with Beverly Sills wasn't work — it was a picnic. No matter how tired I got, I always looked forward to rehearsals. We laughed and giggled all the time. She's such a joyful lady; she certainly explodes the myth that opera stars have to be temperamental. We got along so fabulously, in fact, that after the taping, when I had to fly back to California, we both started crying. I felt like I was graduating from high school and we were going off to different colleges. As a result, we now see each other every chance we get.

It's very strange how we met. I had a special to do for CBS, and Ken and Mitzie Welch — they wrote all the musical material for the show — and I were mulling over who'd be marvelous to team with. They suggested Beverly. I didn't think she could do it, not with her busy schedule. Ken said, "Call her anyway. All she can do is say no." But she said yes. My husband [producer Joe Hamilton] called her first, and then she and I had a long talk over the phone before we actually met, but I knew right off I would love her. She was coming out to play the title role in Donizetti's Lucrezia Borgia and was going to stay at the Beverly Hills Hotel — we now call it the Beverly Sills — so I picked her up at the hotel one afternoon to get acquainted, and we never stopped talking.

She's a remarkable person and very versatile. You remember those old Betty Grable movies in which she'd pick up a sheet of music, take one look at it, throw it down and know it letter-perfect? Well, that's Beverly. She sang everything. We wailed together and had a great time. She even tap-danced, and we did a sketch together. To my knowledge, she'd never done a comedy sketch in her life.

There's something unique about Beverly, I feel. It's her humanness. Fans worship her, and I'm sure they put her on a pedestal, but she refuses to accept any adulation. She possesses a down-to-earth quality. You feel you really know her. Her giggle, her laugh, comes from her belly and her toes. It's sincere. Beverly was staying in Los Angeles recently and was my husband's date to see Same Time Next Year, the play I am currently doing.

One of the nicest things Beverly did for me was get me started on a new custom. Last year, we spent Thanksgiving together, and after dinner, while we sat there, all nervous, waiting to see the airing of our special, Sills and Burnett at the Met, she hauled out a huge book she'd brought along. It must have dated back over 200 years, full of all their Thanksgivings. Each year they take pictures and everyone writes comments. So we added ours, too. And then she gave me a book so I could start one for my family. I think it's a marvelous custom. I'm such a copycat. ■

ILLEGAL FOR U.S.G.A. TOURNAMENT PLAY

The Golf Hustler's Secret Weapon

(Now revealed . . . how he adds 20-30 yards to his drive . . . cuts 3 to 5 strokes off his score.)

WHY THE DYN-X OUTDISTANCES AND OUTPLAYS ALL OTHER GOLF BALLS!

DYN-X 1

Cut-Proof Dynalon Cover (based on DuPont SURLYN research)

Polydyne VII Core Out-rebounds any other center by 19 to 51%!

High-Tension Winding is bonded to cover and core—compression and roundness are locked in for life!

LABORATORY TEST RESULTS CONFIRM DYN-X OUTDISTANCES TOP-SELLING PRO BALLS!

Random samples of each ball were purchased from golf course pro shops with fast product turnover to assure balls were new and full-compression. Testing method used standard mechanical driving machine assuring that each ball was struck in identical position with identical force. Distance was measured from "tee" to point where each ball struck ground. (Post-flight roll was not included in measurements.)

SPALDING TOP-FLITE	228 Yd.
DUNLOP MAXFLI	239 Yd.
SPALDING DOT	241 Yd.
RAM GOLDEN RAM	247 Yd.
ACUSHNET TITLEIST	247 Yd.
DYNAFLYTE DYN-X	261 Yd.

IMPORTANT: Differences in actual play may be expected to be notably greater than those revealed by any test made under controlled laboratory conditions.

Guaranteed to Cut 3 to 5 Strokes Off Your Score Or Your Money Refunded

GUARANTEE NO. 1: Your must consistently drive longer and straighter . . . putt with greater accuracy . . . and lower your average score by at least 3 to 5 strokes—or we'll refund your full purchase price! Use your DYN-X balls and enjoy them for up to 30 days at our risk: then, if not completely satisfied, return them for your money back!
GUARANTEE NO 2: We will immediately replace FREE (for 25¢ postage and handling) any DYN-X ball which cuts, goes out of round, or loses its perfect inbuilt balance at any time!

HERE'S WHAT IT CAN MEAN TO YOU!

- Add 20 to 30 yards to every drive!
- Cut 3 to 5 strokes off your score!
- Cure your hook or slice!
- Lifetime Guaranteed not to cut, chip, or lose perfect roundness and balance!
- Putt truer and more consistently!

By regulation, no U.S.G.A.-approved golf ball can come off the club head at a velocity of more than 250 feet per second. But our DYN-X golf ball can . . . and does! (It's made to British regulations.) In fact, DYN-X is the world's fastest golf ball off the club head. So it's no wonder it gets out there faster . . . and keeps on traveling further—with more roll and less bounce! "They'd have to make every course in America 2,000 yards longer if this ball was ever legalized" one hustler commented.

Goes 30 Yards Further

DYN-X balls conform completely to British (R&A) international specifications . . . are 1.62" in diameter, and weigh 1.62 oz. Top American pros change to this British-size ball, any time it's legal—because they know it handles better in a wind . . . goes farther and straighter! 30 yards farther! And the DYN-X ball cuts down on the cause of hooks and slices—because you have much more margin for error with the smaller ball . . . and are much more likely to make contact with the "sweet spot" on the club head! No wonder one of America's top pros stated point-blank that, any time you have the choice, it's silly to play the big ball.

Drive One Club Longer

Use the DYN-X ball—and you'll be driving at least one club longer than you ever did before. So you'll be able to hit one club less on your short irons . . . to hold the green better and end up closer to the pin! On those long par 5's, you'll have an easier shot to reach the green in 3 (or even 2, if you're already a long hitter). You'll find yourself in position to birdie those shorter par 4's. Even if you're a duffer, you'll find yourself shanking fewer shots, because you can hit this ball off-center and it'll still go straighter! And, on the green, you'll find yourself sinking more short putts and leaving those long putts closer to the hole—because the DYN-X ball starts off faster and runs truer . . . so you have less worries about the way the putt will break! With all this going for you . . . if you don't cut at least 3 to 5 strokes off your score every round—you aren't really trying!

3 EXTRA BALLS FREE WHEN YOU ORDER 12 FOR $15!
1 EXTRA BALL FREE WHEN YOU ORDER 3 FOR $5!
FREE BONUS!

The Dyn-X Balls must add 20 to 30 yards to your drive, cut 3 to 5 strokes off your score, or return them for full refund of purchase price. In any case Free Bonus balls are yours to keep without any obligation.

Joyful and remarkably talented is how Carol Burnett describes Beverly.

which focused on living with a handicapped child, hit particularly close to home: her daughter Muffy, 18, was born deaf, and her son Peter Jr., 16, is mentally retarded and is in a special school in Massachussetts, where one of her three stepdaughters (by Mr. Greenough's first marriage) has been since 1959.

"The discovery of my children's problems seriously altered my life," she observes. "The first questions I asked when I learned of their tragedies was a self-pitying 'Why me?' Then, gradually, it changed to a much more important 'Why them?' Despite their handicaps, they have shown enormous strength in continuing to live as normal lives as possible. How could I show any less strength?"

She derives a great deal of that strength, she believes, from "the act of giving." She takes particular pride in her activities as national chairman of the March of Dimes' Mothers' March on Birth Defects, which has helped to raise close to $50 million for that organization in the years since she became associated with it in 1971, and she has heartened and encouraged the parents of birth-defected children through meetings with them at Mothers' March chapters all over the country, wherever her schedule takes her.

"I've traveled hundreds of thousands of miles and made hundreds of speeches on behalf of birth-defected children. My husband and I felt that we wanted to concentrate all our efforts in the area where we had been most seriously and most tragically affected."

The discovery of her children's problems was also a turning point in her singing career because it triggered a lightning-swift insight into her life and brought about "a kind of serenity and a new maturity," Beverly points out. "Instead of using my singing just to build a career, which is what I had been doing up to that time, I began singing for pure pleasure.

"I was singing not because I wanted to be Beverly Sills Superstar but because I needed to sing — desperately. My voice poured out more easily because it no longer seemed important whether everyone loved me or not — more important now was for me to love them. Feeling that way turns your whole life around — living becomes the act of giving. When I do a performance now, I still need and like the adulation of an audience, but my real satisfaction comes from what I have given myself."

After a long pause, she adds, "The stage has always been a great escape for me. I get to the theater and can be somebody else for three hours. What other profession can offer as much?"

In the fall she will tape a one-act opera for television to be broadcast nationwide early next year. Television, she feels, is a marvelous outlet for opera and increasingly a lure for her talents. She has been a frequent guest on late-night talk shows and was invited to take over from Barbara Walters when she left the Not For Women Only show. "If I wanted to let it, a career in television could blossom," she says. "But right now I don't want to tie myself down to any one thing. I can afford to play it cool. I can do what I want, unlike a great many singers who have reached the stage in life that I have. I feel much more secure and much easier than those ladies do."

Beverly is an outspoken advocate of government aid to the arts, and her efforts on behalf of American artists and American music have been legion — and effective. In a speech to the National Press Club in Washington, she stressed the desirability and need for government aid to the arts, dismissing the question of where the funds were to come from with the statement: "I have never heard of a war going out of business for lack of funds." And when she went to Albany with the Concerned Citizens for the Arts in New York State to urge passage of the $30.5 million requested for the arts in the governor's budget, she addressed a group of legislators in a committee room prior to the budget hearing, declaring, "Art is the signature of a civilization." The amount allotted to the arts in the final vote was $32 million.

"A recent Harris poll taken nationally found that over 60 percent of those polled would be willing to give $5 above their income tax if it were to go to the arts," she says. "I think that's remarkable. I wonder if they took a poll of the same group, asking if they would give $5 to support the next war, what the result would be. Politicians talk about the people's will. Well, the will of the people is to beautify their lives. People would rather make art. . .than war."

FAMILY WEEKLY COOKBOOK

BLUE RIBBON RECIPES FROM COUNTRY FAIRS

Is there anything in the world better than good, old-fashioned American cooking? And these recipes represent the pick of the crop.

By Marilyn Hansen

HINT O' HONEY LOAVES

½ cup warm water (105° to 115°F.)
2 pkgs. active dry yeast
2¼ cups milk, scalded
⅓ cup honey
¼ cup plus 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2½ teaspoons salt
6 to 6½ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
2 cups quick or old-fashioned oats, uncooked

1. Measure warm water into small warm bowl. Sprinkle in yeast; stir until dissolved.

2. In large bowl, pour scalded milk over honey, 1/4 cup butter and salt, stirring until butter melts; cool to lukewarm.

3. Add 2 cups flour, oats and dissolved yeast; mix well. Stir in enough additional flour to make soft dough.

4. Turn dough out onto lightly floured surface; knead about 8 to 10 minutes or until smooth and elastic.

5. Shape dough into ball and place into large greased bowl, turning to coat surface of dough. Cover; let rise in warm place about one hour or until double in size.

6. Punch dough down. Cover; let rest 10 minutes. Shape to form 2 loaves; place into 2 greased 9 x 5-inch loaf pans. Brush with melted butter. Cover; let rise about 45 minutes or until nearly doubled in size or dough comes up to the tops of the pans. Just before rising time is up, preheat oven to 350°F.

7. Bake loaves about 45 minutes or until they sound hollow when rapped with knuckles. Turn out of pans and let cool on wire rack. Makes 2 loaves

ENERGY SAVER BARS

2 cups quick or old-fashioned oats, uncooked
3 cups miniature marshmallows
½ cup chunk-style peanut butter
¼ cup honey
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 cup raisins

1. Toast oats in shallow baking pan in preheated 350°F. oven about 15 minutes or until golden brown. Line 9-inch square baking pan with aluminum foil; grease.

2. Melt marshmallows with peanut butter, honey and butter in medium-sized saucepan over low heat, stirring constantly; remove from heat.

3. Stir in toasted oats and raisins. Place into prepared pan, spreading evenly. Chill until firm. To serve, remove foil; cut into squares. Makes 9-inch square pan of bars

AUNT MATTIE'S MAPLE JOYS

½ cup butter or margarine
1¼ cups firmly packed light brown sugar
2 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
¾ cup quick or old-fashioned oats, uncooked
1 egg, beaten
2 tablespoons milk
1 teaspoon maple flavoring
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon ground ginger

1. In large bowl with electric mixer at medium speed, beat together butter and sugar until light and fluffy.
2. At low speed, add flour, mixing well. Set aside ⅓ cup flour mixture.
3. Add oats, egg, milk, maple flavoring, baking soda and salt; mix well.
4. Shape to form 1-inch balls. Stir ginger into ⅓ cup reserved flour mixture. Roll balls in reserved flour mixture; place on ungreased cookie sheet.
5. Bake in preheated 375°F. oven 10 to 12 minutes.

Makes about 6 dozen cookies

CHOCOLATE SURPRISE SQUARES

Cake:
½ cup butter or margarine
1½ cups sugar
3 eggs
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
1½ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
½ cup quick or old-fashioned oats, uncooked
½ cup cocoa
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup water
1 can (8 ozs.) sauerkraut, drained and chopped

Frosting:
½ cup butter or margarine, softened
2 cups confectioners' sugar
¼ cup cocoa
2 tablespoons milk
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
½ cup chopped walnuts

1. Preheat oven to 350°F. Make cake first: Beat together butter and sugar until light and fluffy; blend in eggs and vanilla.
2. Combine flour, oats, cocoa, baking powder, baking soda and salt. Add flour mixture to butter mixture alternately with water, mixing well after each addition; fold in sauerkraut.
3. Pour batter into greased and floured 13 x 9 x 2-inch baking pan. Bake for about 40 minutes or until a wooden pick inserted into center comes out clean; cool completely.
4. Make frosting: In medium bowl with electric mixer, beat together butter, sugar and cocoa. Blend in milk and vanilla; beat well. Spread over top of cake. Garnish with chopped walnuts. Cut into squares.

Makes 13 x 9-inch cake

SWEET CHERRY MARMALADE

4 cups fresh sweet Bing cherries
2 oranges
3 cups water
3½ cups sugar
⅓ cup lemon juice

1. Pit and chop cherries. Remove peel from oranges in quarters and cut into fine slivers. Chop pulp.
2. Place slivered orange peel and pulp in large saucepan. Cover with 3 cups water and cook until tender.
3. Add cherries, sugar and lemon juice. Cook rapidly to jelly stage, about 25 to 30 minutes, stirring occasionally.
4. Pour into sterilized jars, filling to within ⅛ inch of top. Wipe top and threads of jars with clean damp cloth. Cover with 2-piece lids, following manufacturer's directions.
5. Process in boiling-water bath 5 minutes, timing when water returns to boil.
6. Cool, test for seal and store.

Makes about 3 pints

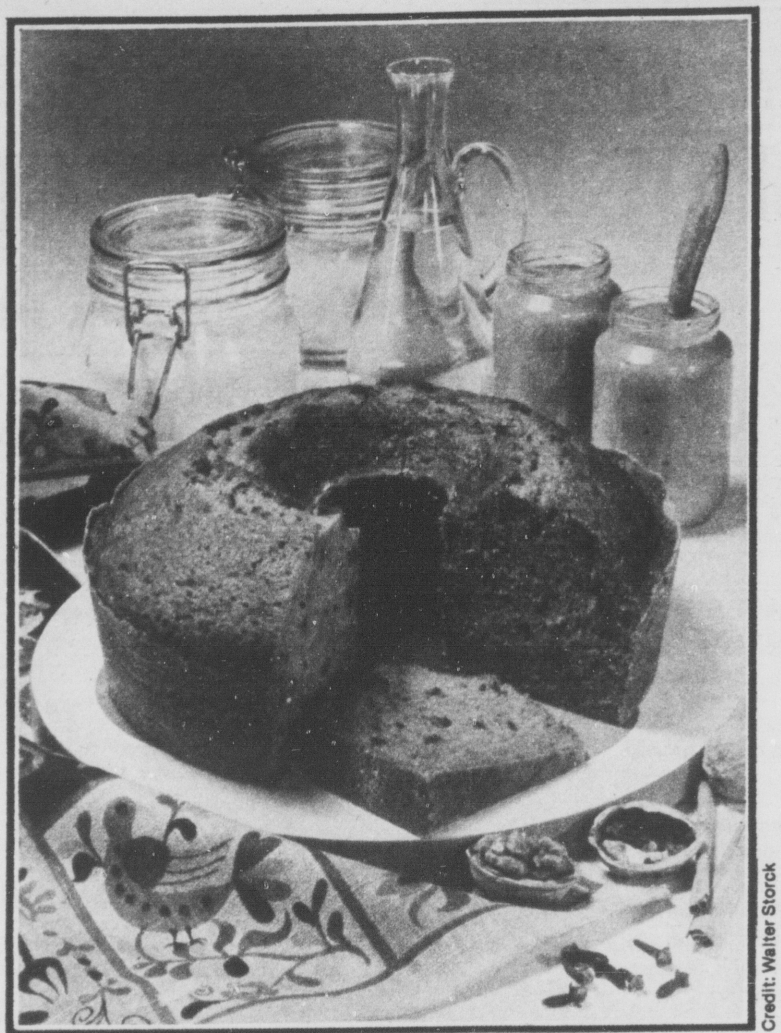
GENUINE DILL PICKLES

18 to 20 lbs. pickling cucumbers, 3 to 5 inches long
1¾ cups granulated pickling or dairy salt
1½ cups vinegar
3 or 4 tablespoons mixed pickling spice
¼ cup sugar
10 qts. water
2 or 3 bunches dill with fully developed seed
8 to 10 fresh grape leaves, if available*
Fresh garlic cloves and onion, optional

1. Wash, rinse and drain cucumbers. Make brine by combining salt, vinegar, spice and sugar with water. Stir to dissolve salt.

2. Put 1 or 2 layers of cucumbers in a glass jar, stoneware crock or tight, well-sealed, odorless wooden keg.

3. Add some of the dill and, if you have them, 3 or 4 fresh grape leaves. Continue in this manner until all cucumbers are in container. Leave 3 or more inches headroom.



You'll want to make this easy, moist Spicy Carrot Cake for your family frequently.

Credit: Walter Storck

4. Add brine to cover cucumbers. (They will spoil if not completely covered.) Use glass or ceramic plate that will fit inside container to hold cucumbers under brine. Fill a fruit jar with water and use as a weight to hold down plate.

5. Cover container with a thin cloth and put in a dry, well-ventilated place. Check container every day and remove scum which forms on top of brine.

6. Watch depth of brine; if it appears to be evaporating rapidly, add more to keep cucumbers well covered. Pickle usually takes 3 to 4 weeks to develop even color and good flavor.

7. Prepare quart-size canning jars. If desired, a small red pepper or a piece of a large one, a few sprigs of dill and a teaspoon or more of light mustard seed may be added to each quart jar of pickle. Do not add garlic or onion without boiling it 5 minutes.

8. Pack pickle to ½ inch of top of jar. Strain brine; boil it 5 minutes and pour over pickles. Brine should end about ¼ inch from top of jar.

9. Wipe off anything spilled on top or threads of jar. Put dome lid on jar; screw band tight.

10. Prepare to process. Have water in canner at the just-beginning-to-boil point. Slowly lower jar straight down so the entire bottom of the jar touches the water at the same instant. (That reduces the chance of breakage from thermal shock.)

11. Star counting processing time as soon as jars have been put into the canner of boiling water. Allow to boil gently for 15 minutes.

12. Remove jars from canner at end of processing time and let them stand several inches apart, out of a draft, to cool.

Makes 8 to 10 quarts

*Grape leaves contain a natural substance that helps prevent pickles from softening.

If preferred, fresh brine may be substituted for that used to cure the cucumbers.

BASHFUL BANANA'S COFFEECAKE

⅓ cup milk
⅓ cup mashed ripe banana
1 egg
¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
⅛ teaspoon ground cloves
1 pkg. (10½ ozs.) easy coffee-cake mix
2 tablespoons chopped walnuts

1. Place milk, banana, egg, nutmeg and cloves into large bag of mix. Squeeze upper part of bag to force out air. Close top of bag by holding tightly between thumb and index finger.
2. With bag resting on table, mix by working bag vigorously with fingers (about 40 seconds or until egg is completely blended).
3. Empty batter into special aluminum-foil pan contained in package. (Do not grease pan.) Sprinkle walnuts and topping contained in small bag evenly over batter.
4. Bake in preheated moderate oven, 375°F., about 25 minutes.

Makes 1 coffeecake

BILLY BOY'S APPLE PIE

Crust:
1½ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup vegetable shortening
¾ cup quick or old-fashioned oats, uncooked
7 or 8 tablespoons cold water

Filling:
¾ cup sugar
¼ cup unsifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
½ teaspoon ground nutmeg
¼ teaspoon salt
4 medium-sized cooking apples, peeled, cored and sliced (about 4 cups)
1 1-lb. can tart, pitted cherries, drained
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon butter or margarine

1. For crust, combine flour and salt; cut mixture into shortening until it resembles coarse crumbs. Stir in oats. Sprinkle with water by tablespoonsful, mixing until dry ingredients are moistened. Form into ball.
2. Roll out half of dough on lightly floured surface to form 13-inch circle. Fit loosely into 9-inch pie plate; trim.
3. For filling, combine sugar, flour, cinnamon, nutmeg and salt. Arrange one-third of apple slices over bottom of pie crust; sprinkle with one-fourth of sugar mixture, apples and cherries.
4. Sprinkle with lemon juice; dot with butter. Roll out second half of dough to form 12-inch circle; cut slits for steam to escape. Place over filling; trim. Turn edges under; flute.
5. Bake in preheated hot oven, 450°F., 35 to 40 minutes or until golden brown. Makes 9-inch pie

SPICY CARROT CAKE

4 eggs
1 cup vegetable oil
2 cups sugar
2 jars (7½ ozs. each) junior carrots
3 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking soda
2 teaspoons ground cinnamon
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup chopped walnuts

1. Preheat oven to 350°F. Grease a 10-inch tube pan.

Blueberry-Strawberry Jam

3 cups crushed blueberries (about 2 pints)
3 cups crushed strawberries (about 3 pints)
3 cups sugar
1½ cups KARO Light Corn Syrup
⅓ cup lemon juice

In 6-qt. saucepot mix all ingredients. Stirring constantly, bring to full boil over high heat. Reduce heat; stirring frequently, boil rapidly 40 to 50 min., or until small amount cooled in freezer 5 min. gels. Remove from heat; skim. Ladle into clean hot ½-pt. jars leaving ⅛" headspace. Seal as directed by jar manufacturer. Process in boiling water bath 5 min. Makes 6 jars.

Spiced Peach Jam

5 to 6 pounds firm peaches
⅓ cup lemon juice
3 cups sugar
1½ cups KARO Light Corn Syrup
3 sticks (3 inches each) cinnamon
2 teaspoons whole cloves

Peel peaches; chop or grind enough to measure 6 cups. Stir in juice. In 6-qt. saucepot mix fruit, sugar, corn syrup and spices tied in cheesecloth. Stirring constantly, bring to full boil over high heat. Reduce heat; stirring frequently, boil rapidly 30 to 40 min., or until small amount cooled in freezer 5 min. gels. Remove from heat. Skim; discard spice-bag. Ladle into clean hot ½-pt. jars leaving ⅛" headspace. Seal as directed by jar manufacturer. Process in boiling water bath 5 min. Makes 6 jars.

Dear Debbera,

I want to tell you about my study. At the end of last year I was announced as best student. My school report is very satisfactory. I got a present from school. How about you, Debbera? Are you still studying? I hope you are successful in your studies. I stop my letter now. I give you all my love. From your sponsored child,

Tristaca

Dear Tristaca,

I was so pleased to get your letter. That's quite an honor to be first in your class. I'm very proud of you. I'm still teaching, but the only classes I'm taking now are ballet. Did you get all the postcards I sent? It was a great trip. I'm looking forward to the holidays now—hope to do a lot of skiing this winter. Take care now and write soon.

Debbera

P.S. I love you.

Tristaca and Debbera, though they've never even met, share a very special love. Tristaca lived in extreme poverty. Her mother has tried to support her family herself, but she can only get menial jobs that pay almost nothing.

Tristaca was a girl without any hopes, without any dreams. Then Debbera Drake came into her life.

Debbera sponsors her through the Christian Children's Fund for $15 a month. Her money gives Tristaca food and clothing and a chance to go to school. It gives her hopes and dreams once more.

You can give a child hope. Become a sponsor. You needn't send any money now—you can "meet" the child assigned to your care first. Just mail the coupon. You'll receive the child's photograph and background information. If you wish to sponsor the child, simply send in your first monthly check or money order for $15 within 10 days. If not, return the photo and other materials so we may ask someone else to help.

We have thousands of children like Tristaca on our waiting list right now who desperately need sponsors. Let one of them share something special with you. Love.

For the love of a hungry child.

The juicy goodness of fresh fruit baked to perfection in an open-faced Kuchen cake.

2. With electric mixer, beat eggs until light and fluffy; stir in oil, sugar and junior carrots.

3. Combine flour, baking soda, cinnamon and salt with walnuts. Gradually add dry ingredients to egg mixture; mix well.

4. Pour batter into prepared pan. Bake 60 to 70 minutes or until cake tests done. Cool in pan 10 minutes; remove from pan and cool on wire rack.

Makes 1 (10-inch) cake

FRESH FRUIT KUCHEN

2 to 2½ cups unsifted flour*
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 package active dry yeast
½ cup milk
¼ cup water
½ cup (½ stick) margarine
1 egg at room temperature
4 cups sliced fresh apples, nectarines, peaches or plums
⅔ cup sugar
1½ teaspoons ground cinnamon
2 tablespoons margarine

1. In a large bowl, thoroughly mix ¾ cup flour, 2 tablespoons sugar, salt and undissolved active dry yeast.

2. Combine milk, water and ¼ cup margarine in a saucepan. Heat over low heat until liquids are very warm(120°-130°F.). Margarine does not need to melt. Gradually add to dry ingredients and beat 2 minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally.

3. Add egg and ¼ cup flour. Beat at high speed 2 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Stir in enough additional flour to make a stiff batter.

4. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour. If desired, let dough rise in refrigerator. Cover tightly and refrigerate 2 hours or overnight.

5. Stir batter down. Turn into any 2 of the following greased pans: 9-inch square, 9-inch round, 2-quart shallow baking dish, 12-inch pizza pan or 9-inch ovenproof skillet. Use lightly floured fingers to spread batter to edge of pans.

6. Arrange fruit slices evenly over batter. Combine ⅔ cup sugar, cinnamon and 2 tablespoons margarine; mix until crumbly. Sprinkle over fruit. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

7. Just before rising time is up preheat oven to 375°F. Bake about 25 to 30 minutes or until done.

Makes 2 cakes

*Whole Wheat Fruit Kuchen: Prepare as above, except after beating at high speed for 2 minutes, stir in 1 to 1½ cups unsifted whole wheat flour to make a stiff batter.

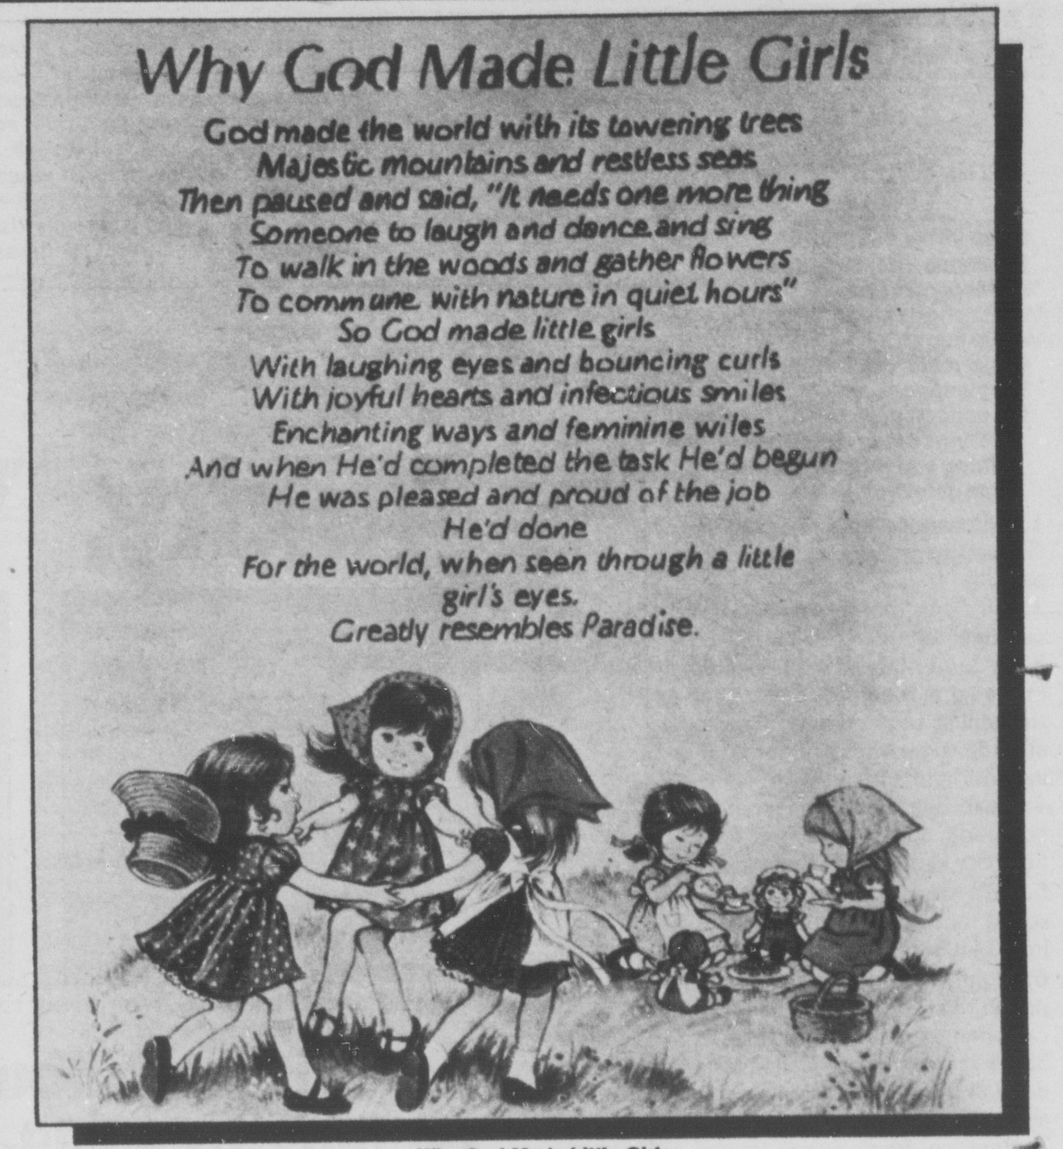
Why God Made Little Boys

God made a world out of his dreams,
Of magic mountains oceans and streams.
Prairies and plains and wooded land,
Then paused and thought. "I need someone to stand
On top of the mountains, to conquer the seas.
Explore the plains and climb the trees.
Someone to start out small and grow
Sturdy strong like a tree and so...
He created boys, full of spirit and fun,
To explore and conquer, to romp and run,
With dirty faces banged up chins,
With courageous hearts and boyish grins.
When He had completed the task He'd begun
He surely said "That's a job well done."

Why God Made Little Boys



Why God Made Little Girls

God made the world with its towering trees
Majestic mountains and restless seas
Then paused and said, "It needs one more thing
Someone to laugh and dance and sing
To walk in the woods and gather flowers
To commune with nature in quiet hours"
So God made little girls
With laughing eyes and bouncing curls
With joyful hearts and infectious smiles
Enchanting ways and feminine wiles
And when He'd completed the task He'd begun
He was pleased and proud of the job
He'd done
For the world, when seen through a little girl's eyes.
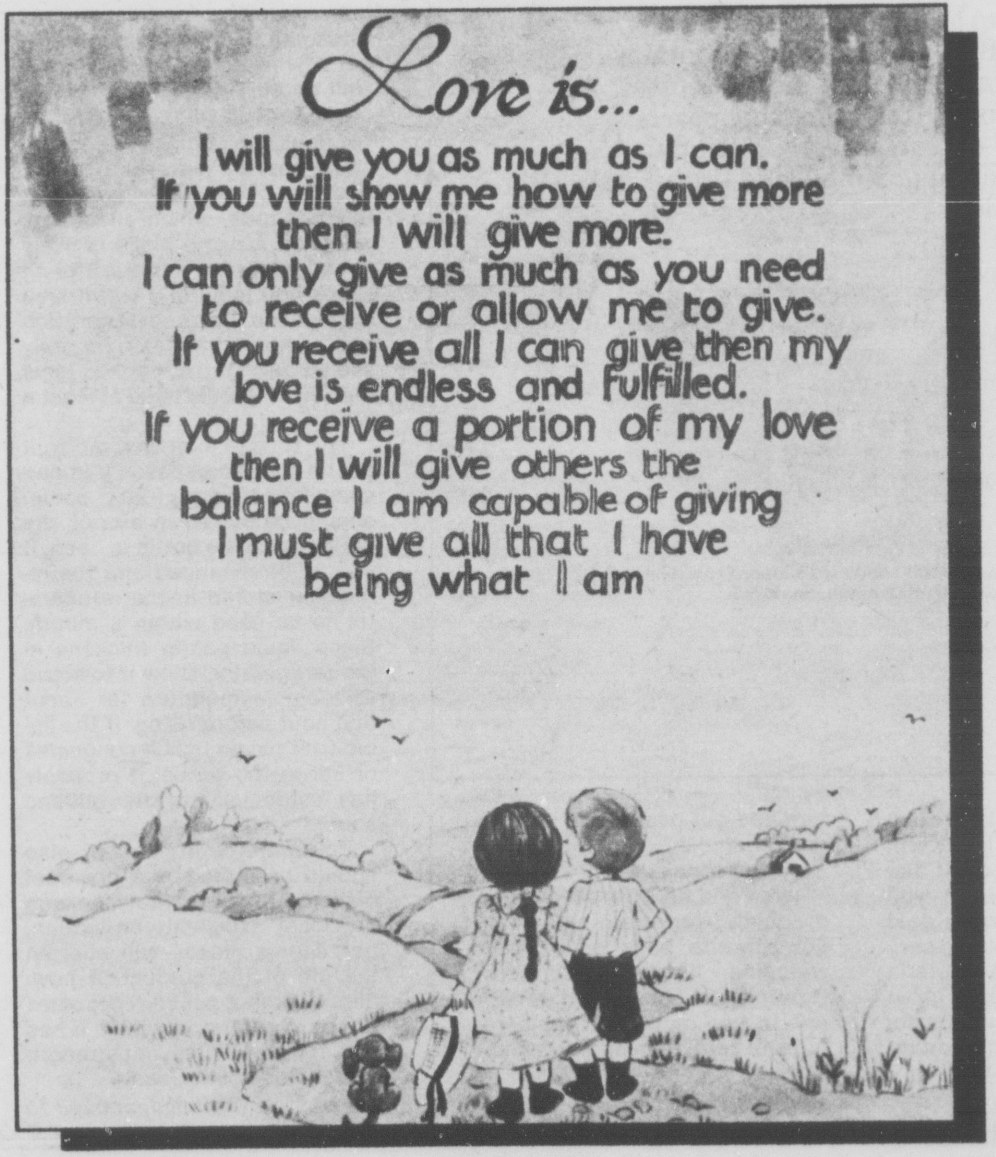
Greatly resembles Paradise.

Why God Made Little Girls



Love is...

I will give you as much as I can.
If you will show me how to give more
then I will give more.
I can only give as much as you need
to receive or allow me to give.
If you receive all I can give then my love is endless and fulfilled.
If you receive a portion of my love
then I will give others the balance I am capable of giving
I must give all that I have
being what I am

STRAWBERRY BLITZ TORTE*

1 cup sifted cake flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup shortening
½ cup sugar
4 egg yolks
3 tablespoons milk
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
Meringue (see recipe below)
Filling and topping (see recipe below)

1. Preheat oven to 350°F. Grease two 8-inch layer-cake pans.

2. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together.

3. In large bowl, with electric mixer set at medium speed, beat shortening until creamy. Gradually add sugar and continue beating until light and fluffy.

4. Beat egg yolks in separate bowl and add to creamed mixture. Stir in milk and vanilla.

5. Add dry ingredients at low speed and beat until smooth. Pour batter into cake pans.

6. Lightly pile half of the meringue mixture over the batter in each pan; spread evenly. Bake in 350°F. oven until cake tests done and meringue is pale gold, about 35 minutes.

7. Remove from oven, loosen sides of tortes from pans and place tortes on wire racks, keeping the meringue side up. Add filling and topping.

Makes 8 to 10 servings

Meringue

4 egg whites
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cream of tartar
1 cup sugar
½ teaspoon pure vanilla extract

1. Beat egg whites, salt and cream of tartar until they stand in soft peaks.

2. Gradually add sugar, beating well after each addition. Then add vanilla.

Strawberry Filling and Topping

1 cup heavy cream, whipped
4 tablespoons confectioners' sugar
2 cups sliced strawberries
8 strawberries for garnish

1. Combine whipped cream and confectioners' sugar. Fold in sliced strawberries.

2. Spread half between layers of Blitz Torte (meringue side up) and use remaining as topping. Decorate with whole berries. Refrigerate if not serving immediately.

*We've published this recipe before, but because it's June and strawberry time, and because so many readers have asked for it, we present it again.

HOW TO CAPTURE FRESH FRUITS FOR JAMS AND JELLIES

Jam-and jelly-making can be a highly rewarding experience. What could be more pleasurable than sun-soaked fruits throughout the year? Of course, the successful jam and jelly maker thoroughly understands the basics of the procedure.

Be guided by reliable rules developed as a result of extensive research and testing. Three essential ingredients — sugar, acid and pectin — are necessary for any fruit to jell. The proper proportion of these elements is what makes the jelly "jell' and the jam really "jam."

Don't underestimate the importance of pectin in assuring a good "set." A natural substance found in fruits, it acts as a binder for cells of the fruit. As fruit ripens, however, the amount of pectin decreases. Consequently, when fruit is at the peak of flavor and ideally suited for jam-and jelly-making, commercial pectin often must be added to ensure a successful "set."

Commercial pectin offers other advantages. By adding a controlled amount of liquid or powdered fruit pectin to the fruit along with sugar, and acid if necessary, cooking time is reduced to mere minutes. This short-boil method helps to retain more of the fresh fruit flavor and color that might be lost with the old-fashioned long-boil method. Time and energy are saved, too, with the short-boil method. Note even though the two commercial pectin products — liquid and powdered fruit pectins — create the same end result, their recipes are not interchangeable.

If you prefer to eliminate most of the top-of-the range cooking, try a good freezer jam. These jams are easy to prepare, and there's no need to cook the fruit or to purchase special containers. Containers (no larger than a pint) originally designed to hold food, with smooth sides and tight-fitting lids, are excellent. Glass containers should be heatproof or freezerproof. Consider using glass jars that once held jam, jelly, instant coffee, baby food or pickles. Use dishwasher-safe plastic containers, such as those used for storing margarine and frozen whipped topping. Wash and scald the containers according to recipe instructions.

Freezer jams may be stored in the freezer or refrigerator. Recommended freezer storage time is about six months. Jam either freshly made or thawed from freezer storage can be kept in the refrigerator up to three weeks. As with cooked jams and jellies, recipes for freezer jams often can be found under the label of the bottle holding liquid fruit pectin or inside the 1¾-oz. package of powdered fruit pectin.

Choose a cool, dry place to store cooked jams and jellies. Avoid a place with fluctuating temperatures, which encourage weeping. A damp place is likely to cause mold or mildew. Storing jellies and jams in a warm area may cause flavor deterioration and color changes. Properly sealed and stored, cooked jams and jellies should keep at least a year.

Try to use commercial fruit pectin the same season it is purchased. Liquid fruit pectin should be stored in a cool, dry place. Once the bottle is open, it should be recapped and the remainder stored in the refrigerator to be used within a month. Since liquid pectin thickens in the refrigerator, allow it to stand at room temperature for about one hour before using. If the liquid fruit pectin is still congealed or set in the bottle, it probably has lost its jellying strength and should not be used.

Powdered fruit pectin also should be stored in a dry, cool place. Although the package provides excellent protection, hot, humid places will shorten the life of the product. If powdered fruit pectin becomes brown in color and caked, it has lost some of its jellying strength and should not be used.

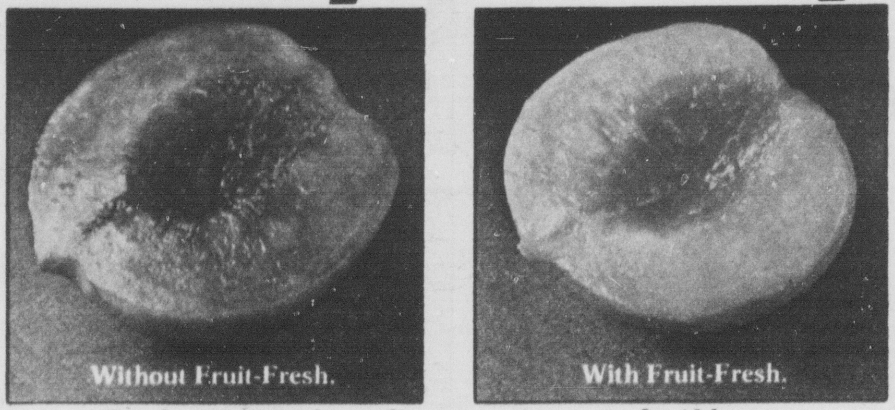
Yukky. Yummy.



Peaches preserved in ordinary canning syrup for 12 hours.

Fruit-Fresh®. You need it for canning, freezing, and fresh fruit.

If you want all the fruit you serve to look and taste its freshest, what you really need is Fruit-Fresh. Because Fruit-Fresh contains a special ingredient that locks in the natural, "just-picked" color and flavor. Which means no more brown, mushy-looking peaches.

Fruit-Fresh is economical, too. A 5-oz. can will preserve up to 75 lbs. of peaches. Here's how: For Canning: simply add Fruit-Fresh to the regular syrup. For Freezing: add Fruit-Fresh to the syrup or dry sugar. For Fresh Fruit: sprinkle Fruit-Fresh on your just-sliced fruit before refrigerating. Sound good? It tastes delicious.

Fruit-Fresh

Keeps fruit looking and tasting fresher.

FREEZE SANDWICHES FOR LUNCH

If you bring your lunch from home, consider packing frozen sandwiches as a convenience as well as a safety measure. Harmful bacteria grow easily in sandwich fillings made with protein foods like meat, especially when the sandwich remains in a warm room for several hours. If the sandwich is frozen when you leave home, it will remain cold through most of the holding period before lunch, and bacteria will have little chance to grow.

Suitable types of fillings for freezing include meat, poultry, cheese spreads, egg-yolk mixture and nut pastes. Do not use raw vegetables, hard-cooked egg whites or fruit jellies.

Wrap and seal sandwiches individually for freezing, using polyethylene bags or a sheet wrapping, like aluminum foil. Frozen sandwiches keep well for one to two months at temperatures of zero degrees Fahrenheit or lower.

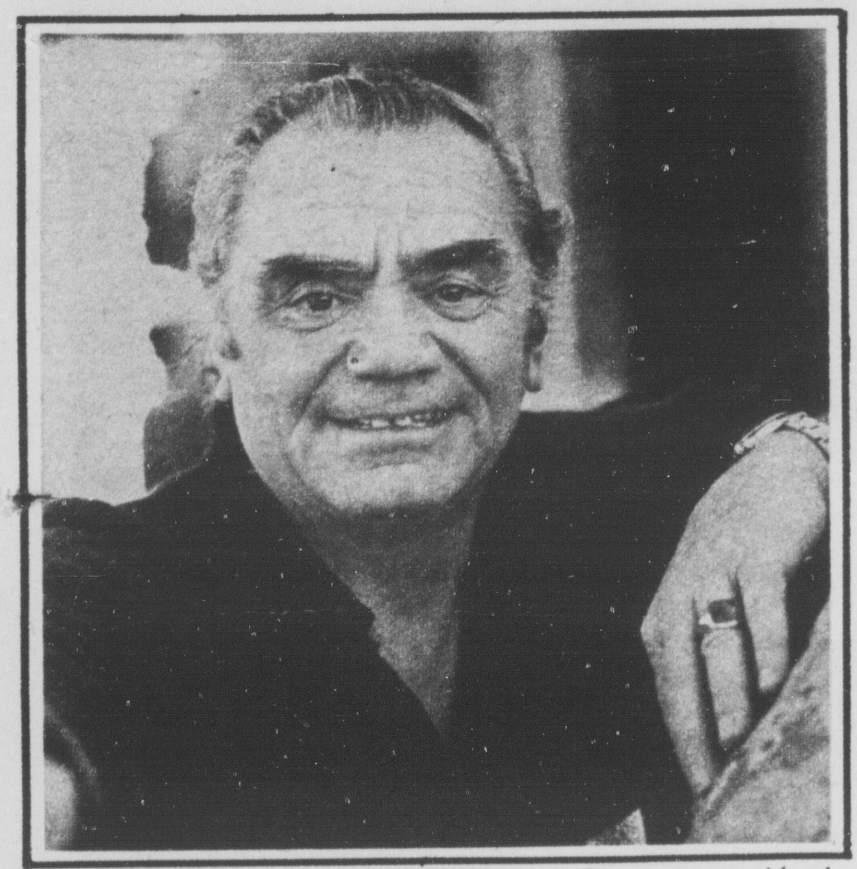
ERNEST BORGNINE'S FOOD IS SO GOOD HE MAY WRITE A COOKBOOK



Our chef, who can be seen on TV in Future Cop, loves good food.

By Ernest Borgnine

As told to Helen Dorsey

I'm a good cook. My parents were both good cooks. In fact, my father was even better than my mother. At one time he was assistant to Oscar of the Waldorf. He could have had the job after Oscar, but he was frivolous and lost the opportunity.

When you have Italian parents, I think you inherit a discrimination for good food. I have definite likes and dislikes, but my wife says I'm easy to please. Actually, I do most of the cooking.

My food tastes are diverse, and I love to sample the local food wherever I travel. Actors make good ambassadors. We get to know the people, work with them, see how they live and work and how they eat. I'm particularly fond of Mexican food because I'm a lover of rice, especially when good Mexican beans are served over it. I love good frijoles, made by soaking the beans overnight and simmering them in a huge pot. They are best made a day in advance and allowed to remain in the cazula, a clay pot that's been fired and treated. They say the beans take on the essence of the onions and the salt pork.

Mexicans use a lot of peppers, but you'll seldom find pepper in Spain. The food there is quite bland in comparison to Mexican food. So is much of the Italian fare in comparison to American-Italian food. Americans introduced red pepperoni over the top of spaghetti; you never will find that in Italy. If you ask for it, the Italians will look at you with a blank look as if to say, "What's wrong with you, are you mad?"

I cook almost anything. Tove, my wife, and I love to entertain at Sunday brunch. I start with chicken livers, green peppers and mushrooms and create the sauce from tomato paste, soy sauce and wine. I simmer the dish and serve it over rice. It's delicious. Or I create a "Hot" beef stew. Tove and I are thinking of writing a cookbook together — some recipes from our travels, others from family favorites.

Listen, I'm a simple guy. My friends are not in show business. I like to watch the boob tube and run down to my boat or play a little golf. My philosophy is that I deserve my comforts because I've worked hard to achieve them. I own a 14-room house, but you can put your feet on the coffee table.

My idea of a good scene is a beautiful sunset, the ocean, a work of art, holding hands with my lovely wife, reading a good book, browsing in antique shops or looking at a piece of rock.

The Best Wrap Around.

Ernie likes to serve his Livers and Wine Sauce dish over rice and with a tossed green salad.

2 small cans tomato sauce
¾ cup Chianti wine
3 to 4 tablespoons soy sauce
½ teaspoon salt
Freshly ground black pepper to taste
½ teaspoon crumbled dried oregano
3 cups hot cooked rice

Sauté onion in oil until light brown. Add livers; cook until light in color. Wash, pat dry mushrooms on paper towels, slice. Add mushrooms and peppers to pan. Add tomato sauce, wine and soy sauce. Season to taste, add oregano, simmer about 1/2 hour over low heat, stirring occasionally. Spoon over hot cooked rice. Serves 6

Afterthought: Delicious, fast and inexpensive to serve for main dish or Sunday brunch. Serve with scrambled eggs, hot buttered English muffins and tossed green salad.

"HOT" BEEF PEPPERY SPECIAL

1½ to 2 lbs. lean boneless beef, cut into ½-inch cubes
½ teaspoon salt
Few gratings black pepper
1 teaspoon vegetable oil or butter
1 large yellow onion, peeled, chopped
1 garlic clove, pressed, optional
¼ cup finely minced salt pork
4 large bell peppers
2 small hot chili peppers
½ can tomato paste
2 large tomatoes, peeled, chopped
½ teaspoon cumin

Season beef sparingly with salt and pepper. Rub heavy skillet with vegetable oil or butter. Brown beef quickly and set aside. In separate skillet, brown onion, garlic and salt pork. Remove stems and veins from bell peppers; chop. Chop hot chili peppers. Add both kinds of peppers to browned onion mixture. Cover loosely, cook closely, let steam come up, discard liquid. Add cooked pepper mixture to meat. Add tomato paste, chopped tomatoes and cumin. Cover loosely; let slowly simmer about 1 hour or until sauce has reduced in volume by one-half. Stir several times to prevent burning. Correct seasonings. Spoon over hot cooked rice and serve with tossed green salad. Terrific with dry red Italian wine. Serves 4

Afterthought: Works as well when made with chopped cooked chicken or leftover pork.

Spring Potpourri Freezer Jam is a cinch to make with either fresh raspberries or strawberries.

SPRING POTPOURRI JAM

2 quarts raspberries or strawberries
1 qt. crushed blueberries
5½ cups sugar
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon ascorbic acid powder*
2 pkgs. (1¾ ozs. each) powdered pectin
1 cup water

1. In a medium saucepan, combine raspberries, blueberries, sugar, cinnamon, lemon juice and ascorbic acid powder. Allow mixture to stand for 20 minutes.

2. Bring raspberry mixture to a boil long enough to dissolve the sugar. The raspberry mixture will become transparent when the sugar is dissolved.

3. In a small saucepan, combine pectin and water; bring the mixture to a boil for 1 minute, stirring constantly.

4. Pour hot pectin into raspberry mixture, stirring constantly for 2 minutes. Ladle quickly into clean freezer jars or containers.

5. Let stand at room temperature about an hour or until fruit has set. (May take up to 24 hours.)

6. Jam will keep well for a few weeks in the refrigerator; freezer jams will keep for long-term storage in the freezer. Makes 5 (8-oz.) jars

*Commercially known as Fruit Fresh.

Containers should have tight-fitting lids and be no larger than 1 pint. Wash, scald and drain containers and lids or use automatic dishwasher with very hot rinse water.

TIPSY STRAWBERRY JAM
(Easy Freezer Jam)

4 cups hulled, crushed strawberries
1 pkg. (1¾ ozs.) powdered pectin
½ cup light corn syrup
½ cup claret, port or sherry wine
5½ cups granulated sugar
3 tablespoons lemon juice

1. Place crushed strawberries in a large kettle. Sift powdered pectin over strawberries and allow to stand for 20 minutes.

2. Occasionally stir strawberries so pectin will thoroughly dissolve. Add corn syrup, wine and mix well.

3. Gradually add sugar and stir briskly. When sugar is thoroughly dissolved and liquid is thoroughly dissolved, stir in lemon juice.

4. Ladle quickly into clean freezer jars or containers.* Cover at once with tight lids. Let stand at room temperature until set (may take up to 24 hours); then store in freezer.

5. If jam will be used within 3 weeks, it may be stored in the refrigerator.

Makes about 8 (½-pt.) jars

*Containers should have tight-fitting lids and be no larger than 1 pint. Wash, scald and drain containers and lids or use automatic dishwasher with very hot rinse water.

RASPBERRY ALMOND TORTE

1 pkg. (18½ ozs.) yellow cake mix
1 pkg. (3½ ozs.) vanilla instant pudding and pie filling
4 eggs
1 cup water
¼ cup oil
1 teaspoon almond extract
½ cup chopped toasted almonds
2 cups red raspberry preserves
1 cup slivered almonds
Confectioners' sugar

1. Preheat oven to 350°F. Grease and flour two 9-inch layer pans.
2. In large mixer bowl, combine cake mix, pudding mix, eggs, water, oil and almond extract.
3. Blend; then beat at medium speed of electric mixer for 2 minutes. Stir in chopped almonds.
4. Pour batter into prepared pans. Bake 30 to 35 minutes or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean and cake begins to pull away from sides of pan. Do not underbake.
5. Cool in pans 15 minutes. Remove from pans and finish cooling on racks.
6. Split each layer horizontally with serrated knife, making 4 layers.
7. For each torte, spread ⅔ cup of the preserves on top of one layer and top with second layer. Spread second layer with ⅓ cup of the preserves. Sprinkle with slivered almonds. Shake on generous coat of confectioners' sugar.
8. For our picture, we cut out a 3-inch circle from center of top layers before assembling tortes. One of the layers may be frozen and used at another time. Makes 2 tortes

SOUR CREAM PUDDING CAKE

1 pkg. (18½ ozs.) chocolate cake mix
1 pkg. (3½ ozs.) chocolate or chocolate nut instant pudding and pie filling
4 eggs
¾ cup water
½ cup sour cream
¼ cup oil
Confectioners' sugar

1. Preheat oven to 350°F. Grease and flour a 10-inch fluted tube pan.
2. Combine all ingredients in large mixer bowl. Blend; then beat at medium speed of electric mixer for 4 minutes.
3. Pour batter into prepared pan. Bake for 55 to 60 minutes or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean and cake begins to pull away from sides of pan. Do not underbake.
4. Cool in pan for 15 minutes. Remove from pan and finish cooling on rack. Sift with confectioners' sugar if desired. Makes 1 large cake

SWEET CHOCOLATE GLAZE

3 squares sweet chocolate
1 teaspoon butter or vegetable shortening
1 tablespoon water
⅔ cup unsifted confectioners' sugar
Dash salt
Few drops vanilla extract

1. Melt chocolate and butter in water in small saucepan over low heat.
2. Combine sugar and salt in bowl. Gradually stir in chocolate mixture; blend well. Add vanilla.
3. If glaze is too thick for easy spreading and "running," add a little hot water.
Makes about ⅓ cup glaze

MINT CHIPPERS

½ cup butter or margarine
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
1½ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 or 3 drops green food coloring, optional
1 cup quick or old-fashioned oats, uncooked
1 pkg. (6 ozs.) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
½ cup shredded or flaked coconut
¼ cup milk
¼ teaspoon mint extract

1. Beat together butter and sugar until light and fluffy; stir in egg and vanilla.
2. Gradually add flour, baking powder and salt;

3. Stir in oats, chocolate pieces, coconut, milk and mint extract.

4. Drop by rounded teaspoonfuls onto lightly greased cookie sheet. Bake in preheated 375°F. oven 10 to 12 minutes; cool.

Makes about 4 dozen cookies

BILLY BOY'S APPLE PIE

Crust:

1½ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup vegetable shortening
¾ cup quick or old-fashioned oats, uncooked
7 or 8 tablespoons cold water

Filling:

¾ cup sugar
¼ cup unsifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
½ teaspoon ground nutmeg
¼ teaspoon salt
4 medium-sized cooking apples, peeled, cored and sliced (about 4 cups)
1 1-lb. can tart,pitted cherries, drained
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon butter or margarine

1. For crust, combine flour and salt; cut mixture into shortening until it resembles coarse crumbs. Stir in oats. Sprinkle water by tablespoonfuls over mixture, mixing lightly until dry ingredients are moistened. Form into ball.

2. Roll out half of dough on lightly floured surface to form 13-inch circle. Fit loosely into 9-inch pie plate; trim.

3. For filling, combine sugar, flour, cinnamon, nutmeg and salt. Arrange one-third of apple slices over bottom of pie crust; sprinkle with one-fourth of sugar mixture, apples and cherries.

4. Sprinkle with lemon juice; dot with butter. Roll out second-half of dough to form 12-inch circle; cut slits for steam to escape. Place over filling; trim. Turn edges under; flute.

5. Bake in preheated hot oven, 450°F., 35 to 40 minutes or until golden brown.

Makes 9-inch pie

CRUNCHY CORN DOGS

1 cup pancake mix
1 cup milk
¼ cup enriched corn meal
2 teaspoons chili powder
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
12 wooden skewers, 5 or 6 inches long
12 frankfurters
Vegetable oil

1. Combine pancake mix, milk, corn meal, chili powder, salt and pepper; mix until batter is fairly smooth.

2. Insert wooden skewers into frankfurters. Dip into batter; drain.

3. Fry in deep hot oil (375°F.), 1 or 2 minutes or until golden brown; drain on absorbent paper. Serve with mustard.

Makes 12 servings

The favorite flavors of peaches and raspberries combine in this recipe for Peach Melba Jam.

PEACH MELBA JAM

2 lbs. medium-ripe peaches
2 cups raspberries
¼ cup lemon juice
7 cups sugar
½ of 6-oz. bottle liquid pectin

1. Peel and slice peaches. Crush with potato masher. Measure 3 cups.
2. Wash and crush raspberries. Combine fruits and stir in lemon juice. Add sugar and mix well.
3. Place in 3-qt. saucepan. Place over high heat and bring to a full rolling boil. Boil hard for 1 minute, stirring constantly.
4. Remove from heat; stir in liquid pectin. Skim foam from top. Stir and skim for 5 minutes.
5. Ladle quickly into sterilized jars,* filling to within ⅛ inch of top. Wipe top and threads of jars with clean damp cloth. Seal according to manufacturer's directions. Process 10 minutes in boiling-water bath, timing when water returns to boil.

Makes 4½ pints

*Wash, scald and drain jars and lids or use automatic dishwasher with very hot rinse water.

MISSISSIPPI MUD CAKE*

1 cup butter or margarine
4 eggs
1 cup flaked coconut
2 cups sugar
1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
⅓ cup cocoa
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
1 cup coarsely chopped walnuts
1 jar (13 ozs.) marshmallow crème

Frosting:

½ cup butter or margarine, softened
6 tablespoons milk
⅓ cup cocoa
1 box (1 lb.) confectioners' sugar
1 cup coarsely chopped walnuts

1. In large bowl with electric mixer at medium-high speed, beat butter until creamy. Add eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition.
2. Add coconut, sugar, flour, cocoa, vanilla and walnuts. Stir with large spoon until well mixed. This is a heavy batter. Don't beat.
3. Spread batter in greased 9 x 13 x 2-inch pan. Bake in preheated 350°F. oven for 45 minutes.
4. As soon as cake is taken from oven, spread marshmallow crème over hot cake. Let cool 20 minutes.
5. Meanwhile, make frosting: In large bowl, mix together all frosting ingredients except walnuts. Blend at low speed of electric mixer; gradually increase speed and blend together until smooth. Stir in half of walnuts.
6. With large spoon, spread frosting on top of cake; swirl through marshmallow crème. Sprinkle top with remaining walnuts.

Makes one 9 x 13 x 2-inch cake

Credit: Margerin Studio

Rye bread in a roll form — just the thing for you bread bakers to try.

RIBBON RYE ROLLS

½ cup warm water (105° to 115°F.)
2 packages active dry yeast
1½ cups warm milk (105° to 115°F.)
1 tablespoon sugar
1 tablespoon salt
¼ cup molasses
2 tablespoons margarine
3 to 3½ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
2½ cups unsifted rye flour
Melted margarine
1 egg white, beaten
2 teaspoons caraway seed
1 teaspoon salt, preferably coarsely ground

1. Measure warm water into large, warm bowl. Sprinkle in yeast; stir until dissolved. Add warm milk, sugar, 1 tablespoon salt, molasses and 2 tablespoons margarine.

2. Add 2 cups all-purpose flour. Beat with rotary beater or wire whisk until smooth (about 1 minute). Add 1 cup rye flour. Beat vigorously with a wooden spoon until smooth, about 150 strokes.

3. Stir in remaining rye flour and enough additional all-purpose flour to make a soft dough.

4. Turn out onto lightly floured board and knead until smooth and elastic, about 8 to 10 minutes. Cover with plastic wrap, then a towel. Let rest 20 minutes.

5. Divide dough into 4 equal portions. Roll each portion into a 6 x14-inch rectangle on a lightly floured board. Brush with melted margarine.

6. Crease dough at 2-inch intervals with blunt edge of knife, beginning at 6-inch edge. Fold dough back and forth on crease lines, accordion fashion. Cut folded dough into 1-inch pieces. Place cut side down in greased muffin cups. Brush rolls with oil. Cover pans loosely with plastic wrap. Refrigerate 2 to 24 hours.

7. When ready to bake, remove from refrigerator. Uncover dough carefully. Let stand, uncovered, 10 minutes at room temperature.

8. Preheat oven to 375°F. Brush rolls with beaten egg white and sprinkle with caraway seed and 1 teaspoon salt. Bake at 375°F. 20 to 25 minutes or until done.

SPECIAL SAVINGS OFFER: 2 telescopes sent for only $7—rushed to you postpaid. You save $1.80. Spy-Scopes make wonderful gifts!

S&W's first annual old-fangled recipe contest.

Your best recipe could win you a glorious treasure from our warm, old-timey kitchen and an honored place in the S&W Old-Fangled Recipe Book. Just send us a favorite recipe that's been passed down in your family, or one you've worked out yourself, featuring any of S&W's fancy-quality foods.

Choose what you'd like to win.

Each of the best 25 recipes will win one of the wonderful prizes on the right. So go picture-shopping in our kitchen and pick out the item you'd most like to have in your kitchen. Then mark its number on your entry. (See column right of illustrations.)

Enter anything from soup to dessert.

S&W puts its labels on more than 300 varieties of fruits, vegetables, and specialty items. So your recipe could be for any part of the menu—for any meal of the day. Just be sure that one of our fine S&W products has a leading role.

All recipes will be judged by our food experts in the S&W kitchens.

A taste of the good old days.

Since 1896, we've been going to unusual lengths to select only the finest foods the earth provides for the S&W label. We know that the people who buy S&W foods are the kind who can taste the old-fashioned, fancy quality. So the recipes we get from S&W cooks should really be something exceptional!

75 runners-up will win old-fashioned market baskets, full of S&W Fine Foods.

If your recipe is one of the 75 runners-up, you'll receive a basketful of fancy foods from S&W. The basket is rustic-textured willow, sturdy enough to hold the kindling on your hearth, big enough to use as a double planter, light enough to use as a picnic basket.

1. An old-fashioned wall clock, with an 8-day wind and soft, resonant chimes. Handcrafted case in native pine, with a warm, antique finish. Hand-painted dial. The clock is 25 inches high, with a full-length glass door.

2. Give a sparkling warmth to your kitchen, with an array of hand-hammered copper. The set includes two skillets, three saucepans with lids, and a huge copper bowl for whipping egg whites. All in heavy French copper.

3. A 16-piece set of ovenproof serving dishes. They're gleaming, porcelain-white, decorated with colorful game birds. Set includes a 2-quart souffle dish; 10-inch quiche dish; four 5-inch quiche dishes; two pots de creme with saucers and lids; a 2-quart and a 1-quart covered casserole.

4. A heavy-topped kitchen table. It's a wonderful work table and a hearty kitchen dining table. 30 inches high, the top is 36 x 50 inches. And it's a full 2 inches thick! Solid, hardrock maple, in the old-time, butcher-block style.

5. A set of six ladder-back chairs. It's just possible that chairs like these were your grandmother's pride and joy. The chairs are 42½ inches high, and they have graceful, old-fashioned spindled detail. Your choice of maple, walnut or pine finish. The seats are hand-woven fiber rush.

6. A hefty butcher block table 36 inches high, 24 inches square. The top is a foot thick, and the whole thing weighs a hunky 93 pounds!

This is a contest where everyone wins.

The 100 best recipes will be published, along with the names of their authors, in S&W's Old-Fangled Recipe Book. And everyone who enters an original recipe will automatically receive a free copy when it is published. It will be a treasure-trove of bright, new tastes and menu ideas.

CHOCOLATE CHIP COFFEECAKE

2 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup chopped walnuts
¼ cup light brown sugar, firmly packed
2 tablespoons butter, melted
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 package (6 ozs.) chocolate morsels
½ cup butter or margarine, softened
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
2 eggs
1 cup dairy sour cream

1. Preheat oven to 375°F. Grease a 10-inch tube pan. Stir together flour, baking powder and salt. In separate bowl, combine walnuts, brown sugar, melted butter, cinnamon and chocolate chips; set aside.

2. With electric mixer, beat ½ cup butter, sugar and vanilla until fluffy.

3. Add eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. At low speed, add flour mixture alternately with sour cream to creamed mixture, beginning and ending with flour.

4. Spoon ½ batter into greased 10-inch tube pan. Sprinkle with half chocolate-chip mixture. Cover with remaining batter and remaining chocolate-chip mixture. Bake in preheated 375°F. oven 35 to 40 minutes or until browned. Cool 10 minutes before removing from pan.

Makes one 10-inch cake

CINNAMON BREAKFAST PUFFS

⅓ cup shortening
½ cup sugar
1 egg
1½ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
½ cup milk
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
6 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted

1. Preheat oven to 375°F. Grease muffin-pan cups.

2. In medium bowl with electric mixer at medium speed, beat together shortening and sugar, add egg, beat until very smooth.

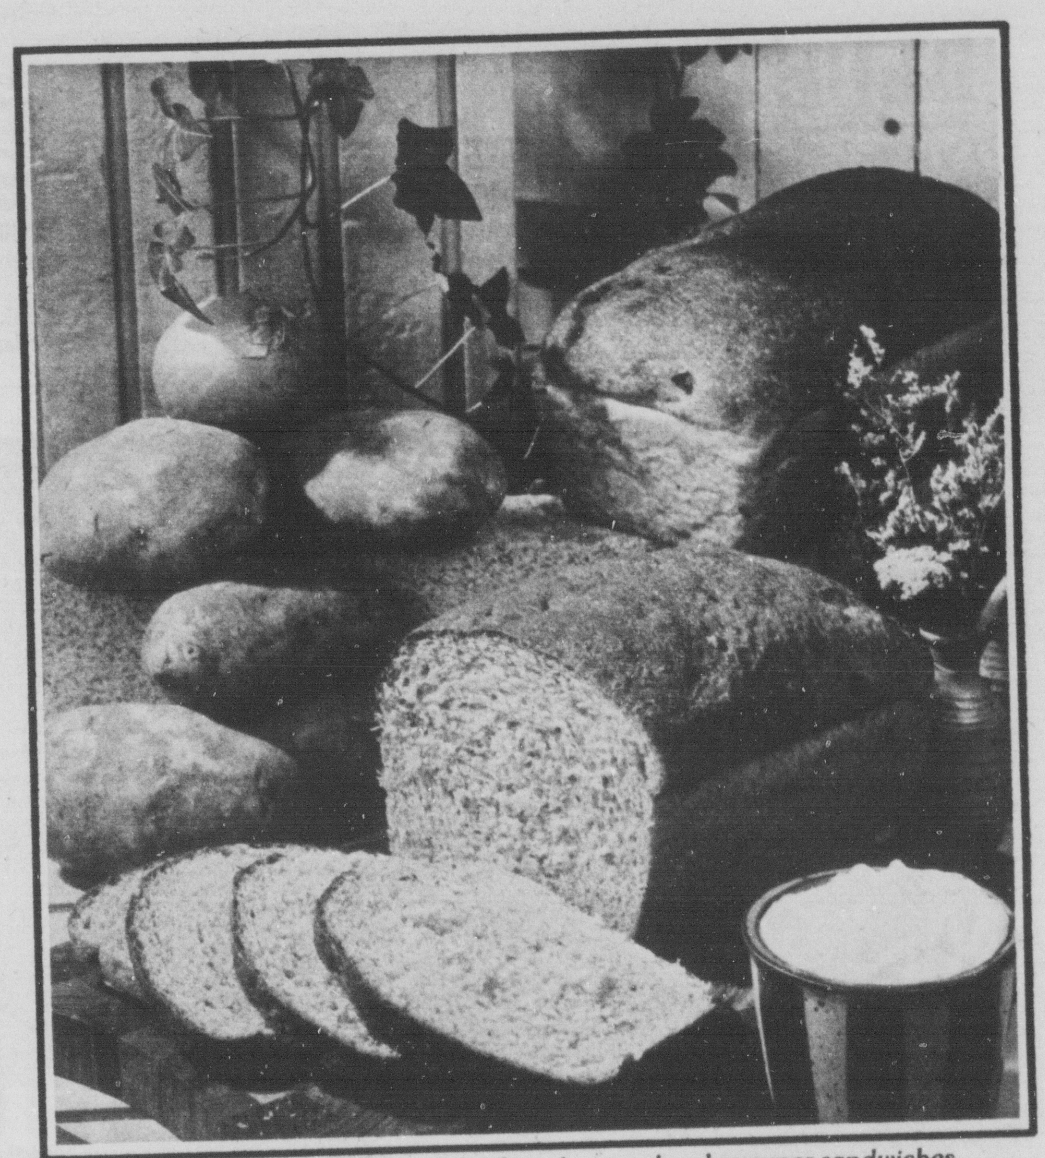
3. On sheet of waxed paper stir together flour, baking powder, salt and nutmeg.

4. At low speed, stir flour mixture into sugar and egg mixture alternately with milk. Clean beaters, scrape sides of bowl, beat again just until blended.

5. Spoon batter into prepared muffin pans, filling ⅔ full. Bake 20 to 25 minutes until edges are lightly browned. Remove hot puffs from pans with spatula.

6. Mix sugar and cinnamon in small bowl. Dip tops of puffs into melted butter, brushing all sides with butter, then roll in sugar and cinnamon. Quickly continue with remaining puffs. Serve hot. Makes about 1 dozen

Make-ahead-note: May be frozen and then reheated (while still frozen) in 400°F. oven for about 10 minutes in dampened brown paper bag.



Whole Wheat Potato Bread is perfect alone and makes super sandwiches.

WHOLE WHEAT POTATO BREAD

1¾ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
2 packages active dry yeast
1 cup milk
½ cup water
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon salt
1½ cups mashed potatoes
½ cup dairy sour cream
½ cup minced onion
2 teaspoons tarragon
1 teaspoon garlic powder
5 to 6 cups whole wheat flour
Oil

1. Stir together enriched white flour and yeast. Heat milk, water, butter, sugar and salt until very warm (120°-130°F.), stirring to blend. Add liquid ingredients to flour-yeast mixture and beat until smooth, about 2 minutes on medium speed of electric mixer.

2. Add potatoes, sour cream, onion, tarragon and garlic powder. Beat until smooth, about 1 minute on medium speed.

3. Stir in enough whole wheat flour to make a moderately stiff dough. Turn out onto floured surface; let rest 5 minutes. Knead until smooth, 5 to 8 minutes.

4. Place dough in greased bowl, turning to grease top. Let rise in warm place (80°-85°F.) until doubled, about 45 to 50 minutes.

5. Punch down; divide dough in half. Roll out each half to 7x14-inch rectangle. Roll up from narrow side, pressing dough into roll at each turn. Press ends to seal and fold under loaf.

6. Place in two greased 4½ x 8½-inch loaf pans. Let rise in warm place until almost doubled, about 30 minutes. Bake in preheated 375°F. oven 35 to 40 minutes. Remove immediately from pans and brush with oil. Makes 2 loaves

FOOD PRESERVATION PROGRAM BRINGS CANNING CENTERS TO COMMUNITIES

An unusual food preservation system developed by a major United States producer of canning equipment is bringing self-help canning centers to communities across the country.

The focus of the system is a miniature cannery that can produce more than 1,000 quarts of tomatoes a day. It is a small-staffed, do-it-yourself operation that can be installed in almost any kind of building.

More than 140 units are currently operating across the country. Most have been purchased by nonprofit groups, such as community-action programs, church groups and local town governments.

The idea behind the centers is to bring a safe, affordable and relatively easy method of high-volume home-canning into the community.

If you are looking for a bonanza year with your home vegetable and fruit gardening, you might inquire whether your neighborhood has such a food preservation center. For further information, write: Mr. David Meeks, Ball Corporation, Consumer Products Division, Dept. FW, 1509 South High Street, Muncie, Ind. 47302.

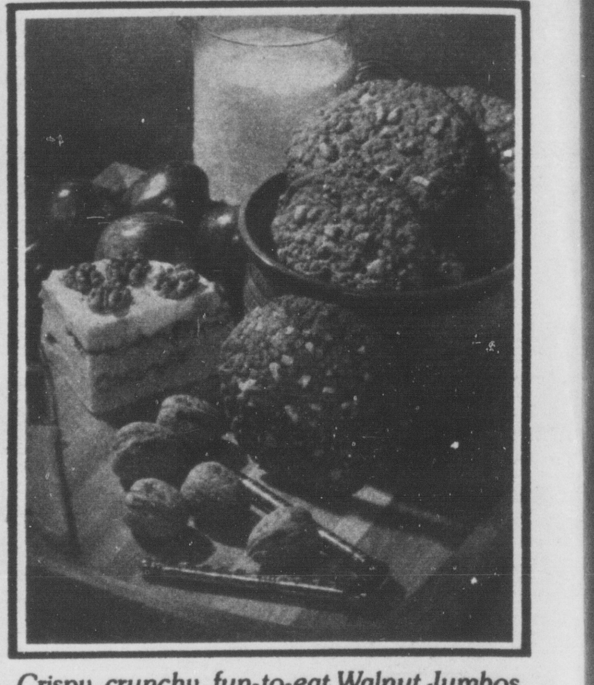
WALNUT JUMBOS

1¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour
¾ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
½ teaspoon ground ginger
½ cup butter or margarine, softened
1 cup light or dark brown sugar, packed
1 large egg
⅓ cup light molasses
2 cups uncooked quick oats
1 cup chopped walnuts

1. Preheat oven to 350°F. Lightly grease cookie sheets. Resift flour with salt, baking powder, soda and spices.

2. In large bowl with electric mixer, beat butter, sugar and egg together well.



Crispy, crunchy, fun-to-eat Walnut Jumbos are great with a glass of milk.

3. Blend in molasses, then flour mixture and oats. Stir in ¾ cup walnuts.

4. Drop by quarter cupfuls onto lightly greased baking sheets, allowing room for spreading, and flatten slightly. Sprinkle top with remaining walnuts.

5. Bake above oven center for 13 to 15 minutes, until lightly browned. Let stand on sheets about 5 minutes, then use broad spatula to lift onto wire racks to cool. Makes 12 (5-inch) cookies

CANTALOUPE CHUTNEY

2 teaspoons hot red-pepper flakes
6 whole cloves
13 -inch stick cinnamon, broken
3 cups cantaloupe, peeled, seeded and cut into 1½-inch chunks
¼ cup ascorbic acid powder*
2¼ cups light brown sugar, packed
1⅓ cups cider vinegar
1 cup lime juice
¾ cup fresh ginger slivers or ¾ cup thinly sliced celery, plus 2 teaspoons ginger
1 tablespoon celery seed
1 cup chopped onion
3 tablespoons mustard seed
1 tablespoon salt
2 large garlic cloves, crushed

1. Tie up in a little cheesecloth bag hot pepper flakes, whole cloves and cinnamon stick.

2. Place cheesecloth bag and all remaining ingredients in a large saucepan or Dutch oven and heat to boiling. Reduce heat and simmer for 15 minutes, covered.

3. Cool and let stand, covered, overnight to plump up the fruit.

4. Next day, return to Dutch oven and heat to boiling; reduce heat and simmer, uncovered, for 15 minutes. Cool, stirring occasionally.

5. Heat to boiling once again. Discard cheesecloth bag.

6. Ladle boiling hot chutney into hot sterilized jars; wipe top of jar free of juice and seal immediately with hot, sterilized lids, following manufacturer's directions.

7. Process in boiling-water bath 10 minutes, timing when water returns to boil. Makes 4 half pints

*Commercially known as Fruit Fresh.

Wash, scald and drain jars and lids or use automatic dishwasher with very hot rinse water.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST STUNTMAN

For Hal Needham, leaping from the tops of buildings and engulfing himself in flames are part of a routine day.

By Mary Long

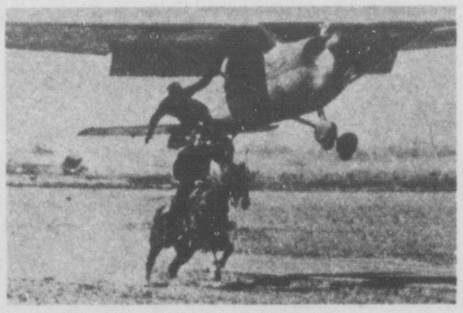
Hal Needham is a high roller. He'll roll through a building window 20 stories above the ground or off a horse going nearly 50 miles per hour or out of an airplane while attached to a parachute that has been tied together at the top. As the world's best stuntman, Needham thinks his working day has been easy if he doesn't break his back (for the third time) or his leg (for the 43rd).

Needham is the only stuntman good enough to work every day. He's seen constantly on TV (Charlie's Angels, The Six Million Dollar Man, Baretta, Mannix) and in films (Lucky Lady, Gable and Lombard, Gator, Nickelodeon) and makes a six-figure income for his efforts.

Most stuntmen only have two or three areas of specialization. Needham is an expert in a wide variety of stunt categories: he's considered the best at Western stunts (horse falls, stunt rides, saddle falls, stagecoach and wagon wrecks), fist fights, high falls, fire stunts (he's one of the few who will work fully engulfed in flames) and aerial stunts. He also can do anything with a car, truck, motorcycle or boat.

For example, he recently jumped a truck across a 112-foot drainage ditch with only a seat belt and a harness for protection. The truck landed 120 feet from the launch point and reached a height of 23 feet. Needham broke his back, and the truck was totally destroyed, but 25 of his fellow stuntmen turned out to see if he could make the jump.

He recently set a boat-jumping record as he sent a boat 138 feet through the air in the middle of a Georgia swamp while making a Burt Reynolds film. Soon afterwards, he enjoyed jumping out of an airplane to knock a guy off a horse. The plane soared down, and Needham launched himself at a horseman who was clocked doing more than 35 m.p.h.



Needham ready to fell a horseman

Needham likes to add what he calls a "little personal ingenuity" to those tried-and-true stunts you see on the screen. Almost every Western film ever made includes the stunt where the Indian or outlaw jumps from his horse to the stagecoach and then leaps onto the lead horses. "I find that easy and kinda boring," says Needham. So, he prefers to jump onto the backs of the last pair of a team of eight horses and leap from one pair to the next until he reaches the two lead horses.

"It's the little added bonus of realism that makes the difference between an adequately done stunt and a really convincing one," he says.

Needham is a country boy, and you can't miss it. The great-grandson of a Black Foot Indian and the son of Missouri sharecroppers, he spent much of his early life doing "stunts" without his realizing it. He grew up around horses and livestock and became a strong and daring rider. He left school early to earn a living and got his first work as a "treetopper" (climbing and cutting trees for lumbermen). When he joined the Army a few years later, they made him a parachute tester.

After the service, he returned to "treetopping" but took a day off to try his luck when he heard Warner Bros. needed parachutists and wing jumpers for The Spirit of St. Louis. Needham found his niche diving out of planes for that film, but the real kickoff for his career came when a director spotted the ruggedly handsome kid on the movie set and made him a "double" for actor Richard Boone in the old TV show Have Gun, Will Travel.

What makes a man risk life and limb day after day? Needham says he does stunts primarily because he is a natural athlete and they come easily to him.

He also is one of Hollywood's favorite characters. When he recently celebrated his 40th birthday — and his 20th year in the business — everyone from John Wayne to Gregory Peck turned up for the party. Needham attended the gala in his customized pickup truck, dressed head to toe in denim, an outfit known in Hollywood as "Needham's Tuxedo." He lives in a big Hollywood Hills mansion with his roommate, actor Burt Reynolds.

Needham works out every day and follows a rigorous exercise regimen. He says he probably could continue his career for another decade or more with no problem. But he won't. "I've got four — maybe five — years left to be the very best stuntman in the business," he says. "So four or five years is all I've got to go."

ANNOUNCING DOCTOR'S TURN-OFF FORMULA IN NO-HUNGER REDUCING PROGRAM.

Now! THE DOCTOR'S PILL THAT HELPS CONQUER FAT AUTOMATICALLY!

Called the "Total Contentment" pill — it's safe as a cough drop, gentle as a vitamin pill . . . yet so effective it helps shut off your appetite for hours at a time. Meaning: instead of gorging yourself at mealtimes . . . instead of yielding to between meal hunger . . . instead of battling that nighttime urge for snacks . . . you simply reach for a pill instead of fattening foods, and lose up to 6 pounds of fluid and fat the very first weekend alone.

Even more significant as long as you follow this medically proven lifetime slimness program, you'll never again suffer embarrassing fat build-up for the rest of your life — even if you've been hopelessly overweight all your adult life.

YES! NOW LOSE 20, 30, EVEN 40—OR MORE POUNDS, AND KEEP IT OFF!

Yes, just 60 seconds from now you're going to discover how one of America's leading medical specialists in obesity now makes it possible for you to lose 10, 20, 30, even 40 pounds — or more AND NEVER GAIN IT BACK FOR THE REST OF YOUR LIFE as long as you follow this medically proven LIFETIME SLIMNESS program. That's right! Lose up to 12 pounds in just 14 days . . . shrink your waistline up to 3 inches in a mere 2 weeks' time . . . and even more important, discover the way to make yourself ENJOY PERMANENT SLIMNESS FOR THE REST OF YOUR LIFE! IN OTHER WORDS, PERMANENT LIFETIME SLIMNESS — FINALLY YOURS. THANKS TO THIS DOCTOR'S PROGRAM AND THE TOTAL CONTENTMENT PILL.

NOW! A LIFETIME OF SLIMNESS WITHOUT THE TORTURE OF HUNGER

How can medical science make this lifelong dream come true? It's simple. Because doctors have developed a remarkably easy way for you to SHUT-OFF YOUR APPETITE — SHUT-OFF THAT DRIVING URGE FOR FOOD — SHUT-OFF GNAWING HUNGER FOR HOURS AT A TIME. Yes, actually command hunger to STOP in just minutes . . . and make excess pounds and inches disappear from sight so fast . . . that in a matter of weeks you may actually need a brand new wardrobe.

NOW COMES MEDICAL SCIENCE'S "CONTENTMENT-IN-A-PILL"

The secret is a new development called the TOTAL CONTENTMENT PILL — that according to medical experts is so effective, just one pill has the same hunger-satisfying potential as a serving of bread, mashed potatoes, or any of these filling foods you would normally heap on your plate. Yes, one single pill that gives you a fully satisfied feeling, leaves you . . . calm, happy, totally content.

In other words, even before you have those first pangs of hunger . . . that maddening urge for food . . . you simply put your appetite to sleep with this doctor's pill. Just like water turns off thirst, this TOTAL CONTENTMENT PILL turns off hunger AUTOMATICALLY . . . in just minutes!

LIFETIME SLIMNESS — FINALLY A REALITY.

Best of all, the TOTAL CONTENTMENT PILL is not only as safe and mild as a vitamin pill, but so gentle that the only sensation you experience is that of total satisfaction. And the only change you'll feel or see is in the smaller size of your clothing!

YOUR TUMMY FEELS LIKE YOU FEASTED —BUT, YOUR WAISTLINE LOOKS LIKE YOU FASTED!

What does this mean? Simply that from this day on, depending on how overweight you are, anytime you want to melt away 10, 20, 30 — or even more pounds . . . anytime you want to . . .

LOSE up to 4 to 6 inches off your waistline
LOSE up to 3 to 4 inches off your hips
LOSE up to 3 inches off your thighs
LOSE up to 4 inches off your buttocks
LOSE up to 4 inches off your stomach . . .

instead of torturous diet . . . instead of brutal exercise . . . instead of battling your willpower . . . you just take medical science's new TOTAL CONTENTMENT PILL as part of this "LIFETIME SLIMNESS PROGRAM" and SHUT DOWN YOUR OLD ENEMY, HUNGER — SHUT OUT FAT-BUILDING CALORIES . . . actually make yourself DEFEAT FAT BUILD-UP FOR THE REST OF YOUR LIFE — as long as you take an oath to faithfully follow this proven program to LIFETIME SLIMNESS!

PROVE EVERY LOST OUNCE ENTIRELY AT OUR RISK!

So . . . if you want to see pounds and inches vanish from sight faster than you ever dreamed possible . . . act now on guarantee of full satisfaction or money refunded in full (except postage & handling), simply return within 10 days.

Remember no one ever again need be even a single pound overweight! Why not take THE FINAL STEP and get rid of all those excess pounds, excess inches FOR THE REST OF YOUR LIFE. Act now.

VITAL NOTICE:

Even though the TOTAL CONTENTMENT PILL turns off your appetite for hours at a time YOU CANNOT GO ON FOR LONG PERIODS EATING NOTHING. You must eat at least two meals a day . . . even if you have to force yourself. And the doctor provides you with an array of delicious foods to perk up and maintain your interest so you have a balanced caloric intake . . . even though you may not care to eat. We urge you to show this entire program to your own family physician and see if he doesn't agree that this Lifetime Road to Slimness including the few minutes of nightly toneup the doctor highly recommends is by far one of the most medically sound, fully sensible approaches to the problem of obesity.

WHAT IN THE WORLD...

12 Ways To Save Money On Health Care

1. Make a money-management plan for health. Know where your money goes. It's your first step toward expert money management.

2. Have regular checkups. Catch problems before they get serious.

3. Prevent home accidents. Do periodic maintenance and repair checks. Keep poisons, flammables and medicines away from children.

4. Learn first-aid basics. Be prepared for emergencies with an adequate first-aid kit in home and car.

5. Learn about low-cost or free health care. These should include well-baby clinics, free immunizations and tests. Also check community services offered by state agencies and medical schools.

6. Compare insurance plans and the coverages they offer. Group insurance usually costs less than individual policies.

7. Insure adequately. Particularly important for major expenses — long illnesses, severe accidents, etc., that could be real economic hardships.

8. Update insurance coverage. Insurance should be adapted to fit changing needs, such as bigger responsibilities and new children.

9. Buy drugs by generic name. It's much cheaper if someone needs a prescription drug regularly. Ask your doctor about the least expensive way to purchase drugs.

10. Update immunizations for communicable diseases.

11. Keep careful records of medical and health-related expenses. It can save you dollars at tax time.

12. Stay fit. That means a good diet, adequate rest and healthy, active exercise. It's your best "no-cost" health care.

If Shoes Are Made For Jogging Don't Wear Them For Tennis

Jogging may be good for you, but jogging shoes are not if they are used for the wrong sport, says Dr. John Billings, a physiologist from the Univ. of Connecticut. Wearing jogging shoes for tennis and other court games could result in ankle strains, sprains and breaks because of the jogging-shoe design — a built-up heel tapering to a thin sole at the toe. "This design is excellent for facilitating weight transfer from heel to toe during jogging," says Dr. Billings. The hazard comes when the shoes are worn for sports in which quick stops and turns are required. The person's toes become jammed, and when he tries to turn quickly, the ankle is likely to turn over. Is there a shoe to wear for just about anything? Dr. Billings says the best "general athletic shoe" has a flat sole so the heel and toe remain parallel to the ground.

All About Leases (How To Protect Your Rights)

A lease is a written contract between the owner of a home (landlord) and the renter of his home (tenant). It usually fixes all terms so no changes can be made for a year. Can you rent a home without a lease? Yes — but without a lease terms can change with 30 days' (or less) notice.

Your lease should contain the following information:

- Names. You, landlord, your addresses.
- Description. Of the building or the apartment you are renting.
- Dates. Of your rental.
- Renewal. Can the lease be renewed, and when?
- Rent. Amount and due date. When can it be raised? Penalty for late payment?
- Moving. When can the lease be terminated and how?
- Deposit. Do you have to make a deposit? How much? What does it cover? Will it be returned if you move?
- Maintenance and repairs. Who is responsible for what?
- Tenant's Responsibilities. Can you sublet? Can you decorate?
- Landlord's Responsibilities. When can he enter your home? Does he have a lien on your property?

Positive Vibes

Listening to rock music while studying doesn't hurt teenagers' concentration a bit, says Ohio Univ. researcher James L. Franklin. "Teenagers are using rock music to accompany many activities. In fact, many feel incomplete without the ever-present beat of this music." Franklin gave reading comprehension tests to three groups of 8th-graders. One group took the test with loud rock 'n' roll playing, another with music at low volume and the third with no music. He found no difference in their scores. From his experiment he also found that teens prefer to study with music playing at 80 to 90 decibels — the level of sound from a diesel truck traveling 40 m.p.h., 50 feet away.

Prolong The Life Of Cut Flowers

Keep flowers longer by giving them the proper kind of care.

1. Cut or buy flowers in the bud stage.

2. Flowers should be hardened as soon as they are brought into the home. To harden, cut about 1/4 inch off the stem on an angle and insert into a bucket of warm water (75°-95° F.) for four hours. (Since daffodils emit a fluid when cut, they should not be combined with other flowers during the hardening process.) Recut stems and add fresh water every two days.

3. The most important thing for long life of cut flowers is a flower preservative. Research at Michigan State Univ. showed that sugared, citrus-flavored, carbonated soft drinks make effective preservatives. The experts recommend mixing one part water with each part soft drink and adding 1/2 teaspoon of chlorine bleach to each quart of the solution.

4. Cut flowers early in the morning or late in the afternoon. They should be cut several hours before they are to be used to allow for conditioning (hardening). Cut flowers with a sharp knife. (Dull shears or scissors will crush the stem and partially close some of the tubes that are needed to absorb and transmit water.) Strip off lower leaves that will be covered by water and thereby will encourage bacterial growth. Keep flowers in a cool place at night.

Keep Your Rings Looking Great

You can keep your rings — old or new — at their prettiest with regular care. Clean them once a month with hot water and detergent or cold water and ammonia. (Pearls, opals, and turquoise are exceptions and should be polished with a dry cloth.) Soak, scrub them with a toothbrush, rinse, then dry. Be sure to check the stones often to see that they're secure. If loose, return the ring to your jeweler. In any case, take your rings to your jeweler every year or two for a professional mounting inspection and a cleaning. Remove rings for heavy housework, swimming and gardening. Store in a cloth-lined jewelry box. Keep diamonds separate; since they're the hardest substance known to man, they're bound to scratch softer stones and metals.

Quick Takes

The meat on your table may have a new partner soon. A cousin of the squash and the cucumber, the mirliton, will be showing up in the fresh-produce and frozen-food sections of your supermarket shortly. The mirliton, also called a vegetable pear, is a good source of vitamins and most food nutrients except protein.... Chronic use of sleeping pills by persons suffering from insomnia may hinder rather than help sleep patterns, according to studies conducted at Boston's Peter Bent Brigham Hospital. Dr. Quentin Regestein says chronic use of drugs often increases nightly awakenings and abolishes deep sleep instead of getting a person to sleep faster.... Women who buy U.S. Savings Bonds will no longer have to indicate whether they are "Miss" or "Mrs." on the bond, according to a new regulation issued at the direction of Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal. The change was announced after Blumenthal received a letter from the National Organization of Women (NOW), requesting an explanation of the practice.... The dogs of Paris won a victory recently when Mayor Jacques Chirac decreed that they will have their own special toilet space on every street. The victory was not complete, however, since this plan is a far cry from an expensive 1975 project to set up flower-decorated private flush toilets for the four-footed — an idea that never got off the ground....Dr. William Dunlap of Baton Rouge, La., told the Academy of Pediatrics that the common cold is a problem that just won't go away. There's no cure or vaccine in sight. Furthermore, says Dunlap, the common cold can't wait to get at us. There are instances in which a child is born with a cold, and most adults are destined for at least 140 colds in a lifetime.

WHY PLANT A GROUND COVER?

In many areas and situations, ground covers are more appropriate and more satisfactory than turf. They are able to grow and thrive in sun OR shade, and in poor soil.

On steep slopes where mowing is difficult, ground cover is much more effective and much less laborious to maintain than grass. Ground covers hold the soil as well as turf and the textures are far more interesting.

Small areas of grass are a continual chore to keep mown and trimmed but ground covers require almost no care. They are excellent protection and soil conditioners. They hold the fallen leaves from blowing away, thus helping to add annually to the humus content.

CREEPING RED SEDUM

- ✓ Grows in Any Soil
- ✓ Thrives in Sun or Partial Shade
- ✓ No Special Care Needed
- ✓ Extremely Hardy
- ✓ Brilliant Color
- ✓ Rich, long-lasting Foliage
- ✓ Neat, uniform Growth
- ✓ Quick, but Disciplined Spreading
- ✓ Guaranteed
- ✓ Inexpensive

You will receive hardy northern nursery grown plants carefully packaged to arrive in prime condition. An outstanding buy at less than 20¢ per plant in lots of two dozen!

WHY CREEPING RED SEDUM?

One of Sedum's most valuable assets is its full time beauty. Lush foliage begins in early spring, and star-shaped wine red flowers delight the viewer from late June through September. The attractive semi-evergreen foliage lasts well into winter, maintaining its rich green and bronze color nearly all year round.

Besides being one of the loveliest of the ground covers, Sedum also rates high on the other requirements. It is hardy, grows well in sun or partial shade, in sandy soil, clay soil, or good soil.

Its thick foliage and root system hold the soil on slopes or banks. The neat 3-4" cover forms a dense perennial mat to bring green and wine red beauty to slopes, borders, rocky areas, anywhere beauty and durability are needed.

Each plant will easily and quickly spread to fill one sq. ft. Sedum spreads evenly, maintains its uniform smooth beauty at all stages of growth. Unlike some other ground covers, Sedum, also called "Dragon's Blood," stays where you put it — does not straggle out into places where it doesn't belong. Sedum is almost indestructible, enduring and persisting against heavy climatic and nutritional odds.

FULLY GUARANTEED

All items guaranteed to be of high quality, exactly as advertised and to arrive in good healthy condition or purchase price will be refunded. RETURN SHIPPING LABEL ONLY —you may keep the plants. (One year limit).

Now is a Good Time to Order RED SEDUM!

Your young Sedum plants will establish themselves and begin to spread a few days after planting. In a month or so they will already be 3-4 inches in diameter. They may lose their foliage as the first winter progresses but will leaf out again in early spring. During a long growing season they may reach 12" in diameter, always maintaining their neat regulated shape.

Rent control in La Verne?—first in state if OK'd

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

The first rent control ordinance in the state is coming up for consideration Monday night by the La Verne City Council amid protests by mobilehome park owners.

The owners want the council to delay passage of the regulation pending more study, or until the state passes its own law.

But the council feels the five months it has spent considering the proposal is enough time.

The proposed ordinance calls for a roll back of rentals charged to mobile home owners to Dec. 31, 1976, and sets up a hearing officer who would consider not only appeals but also request for rent increases.

Mobilehome owners contend that the park operators have been "gouging" them during the past three years with "unreasonable hikes" on the spaces the mobilehomes occupy.

Denis Thomas, chairman of the newly formed "Concerned Property owners of La Verne Committee," has attacked the ordinance as unfair, charging that it is an "arbitrary decision."

City Manager George Caswell said that while the state also is considering a rent control law so far the bill has not gotten out of the Assembly.

He said the local ordinance would be a "stop-gap" measure until the state law is passed.

The council also is scheduled to consider a tentative budget Monday that calls for a $5,231,418 expenditure for next year, $1,150,145 more than for the year just ending.

But Caswell said the tax rate is expected to stay $2.4137 per $100 of assessed valuation, the same as the current rate.

Space shuttle test a success

Enterprise carries 2 astronauts aloft

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE (AP) — In a flight prolonged by a balky communications system, the nation's Space Shuttle "Enterprise" carried its first man aloft Saturday for a series of nearly flawless tests high above this space test center in the barren Mojave Desert.

Perched atop a modified Boeing 747 jumbo jet, the two astronauts aboard the 150,000-pound shuttle ran through the rigorous tests under the control of the Johnson Space Center in Houston.

"The systems all worked very well and we accomplished the things just as we set out," said shuttle commander Fred W. Haise Jr. "I just can't tell you how elated I am to be at this point that we've been waiting for for so long."

"We had an extremely smooth flight," said Air Force Lt. Col. Gordon Fullerton, the shuttle pilot.

"The view from up there was spectacular," he added. "Looking down from where we were, you couldn't even see the wings (of the 747) ..... It was like being up there all alone."

Haise said the flight was marred by two minor problems early in the 56-minute flight. A vent valve that was supposed to open and lower cabin pressure as the shuttle ascended failed to operate, and an alternate device had to be used.

The other problem was caused when a local broadcasting station interferred with transmissions from the shuttle, causing some test data not to be received by Houston. Those tests had to be repeated, causing the flight to be extended 14 minutes beyond its scheduled 42 minutes.

Veteran astronaut Donald K. "Deke" Slayton, commander of this phase of the shuttle tests, admitted that the project managers were testing hard the new, untried electronic avionics devices. Some congressmen have criticized the project for pushing the equipment too hard.

"Yeah, we've been pushing and will keep pushing ..... but we're not gonna do anything until we're ready," Slayton said. "Everything certainly worked very well today."

Avionics includes all airborne electronic devices ranging from guidance systems to computers.

The shuttle, the size of a DC9 jetliner, is intended to serve as the workhorse of America's space program into the 21st Century. It is designed to carry scientists and materials into space for such projects as building space stations and conducting experiments. The 60-by25-foot cargo bay can carry 65,000 pounds of equipment.

The next in the series of four manned tests is scheduled for June 28.

The shuttle was carried to 14,970 feet above sea level and held at a steady speed of 209 miles an hour during most of the morning flight.

"Those speed brake tests looked good and all the other tests looked good so far," Houston control radioed to the Enterprise 37 minutes into the flight.

"Okie Doke," replied Haise.

No-fault insurance 'works'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new federal survey of no-fault automobile insurance plans in 16 states concludes that no-fault provides quicker and more equitable benefits than does the traditional liability system.

"No-fault automobile insurance works," said the Department of Transportation.

The report said the 16 states with full-fledged no-fault insurance plans "would appear to confirm the basic soundness of the theory and the feasibility of the theory's implementation."

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, released the DOT study. He said he will use it in hearings beginning June 27 on his proposal for federal no-fault minimum standards.

"The DOT study confirms that good no-fault laws are working efficiently and effectively to compensate auto accident victims," Magnuson said. "Perhaps now we can enact a uniform, sensible statute and stop this foot-dragging."

Compensation for injuries or damage in auto accidents traditionally is funded by liability insurance. Under that system, blame has to be fixed on one party whose insurance then compensates the victim. Both parties often have to hire attorneys and wage long, expensive legal battles before any benefits are paid out.

The delay in payments, inequitable benefit awards and a large build up of court cases led to a movement to substitute no-fault for the liability insurance system. Massachusetts was the first state to pass a nofault plan in 1970, 15 other states have enacted comprehensive no-fault plans and other states have adopted parts of the no-fault concept.

Weather

Continued fair today and Monday with some late night and early morning low clouds and fog. Not much temperature change. Highs both days in the mid 70s. Overnight lows in the low 50s.

Carter's Father's Day message:

Hope for American family

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter says the government ought to give married working couples the same tax benefits available to unmarried working people who, live together.

He also says the government should remove from welfare programs the economic encouragement for fathers to desert their families.

The President, in a philosophical Fathers Day interview with The Associated Press, discussed the problems of the American family in 1977 and what the government might do to help.

Away from his imposing antique desk in the Oval Office, he relaxed across the room in a salmon-colored wing chair. He talked of the problems his own success has created for those close to him — the aides who spend so much time at the White House that he's had to order them to see their families.

Carter, husband for almost 31 years, father of four, spoke of his own family life as a child; of his joy at being a grandfather; of his support for working mothers, including his wife, Rosalynn. Sending her on a diplomatic mission to Latin America "proved to be one of the better things I've ever done," he said.

Then he talked of his hopes for the American family.

In almost every program that his administration puts forward, he said, "the integrity of the family ought to be a factor." Then, pausing almost wistfully, he added, "I would be inclined to put it as a much greater factor, perhaps, than some others."

Even the tax laws discriminate against the most traditional family value: marriage. Federal income taxes total less for two working single people who live together than for a married working couple.

Congress has voted this year to reduce the difference, but it still exists.

"And I would like to eliminate the disparity altogether," Carter said.

The welfare laws, he said, "quite often benefit handsomely the divided family. If the husband works full-time at the minimum wage, he makes a certain income for his wife and children. But if he leaves home or pretends to leave home and continues to work, and his family draws welfare payments, their standard of living can be greatly enhanced."

This, Carter said, "is a divisive force that the government artifically imposes on the family system."

But what will he do if he finds it expensive to eliminate laws that make it financially beneficial for welfare families to break up?

Carter replied, "We're struggling with that question now. I don't think it would cost a whole lot more to keep families together."

The reporter turned the discussion to homosexuality, a topic of discussion around the country following repeal of a Florida ordinance banning discrimination against homosexuals.

Q. Let me ask you a question that has become troublesome in the last few weeks in Florida and has become a national issue. I wonder if you think homosexuality is a threat to the family. Should they be able to adopt children and teach school? And marry?

A. I don't see homosexuality as a threat to the family. What has caused the highly publicized confrontations on homosexuality is the desire of homosexuals for the rest of society to approve and to add its acceptance of homosexuality as a normal sexual relationship. I don't feel that it's a normal interrelationship. But at the same time, I don't feel that society, through its laws, ought to abuse or harass the homosexual. I think it's one of those things that is not accepted by most Americans as a normal sexual relationship. In my mind it's certainly not a substitute for the family life that I described to you.

Q. Do you think they should be able to adopt children or teach school? Would you be upset if you knew Amy was being taught by a homosexual?

A. That's something I'd rather not answer. I don't see the need to change laws to permit homosexuals to marry. I know that there are homosexuals who teach and the children don't suffer. But this is a subject I don't particularly want to involve myself in. I've got enough problems without taking on another.

Carter said that he thinks political life in the capital puts special strains on marriages. "I think in Washington there is a particular conflict between ambition and the desire to do a good job, which is legitimate on one hand, and the obligations to hold your own families together and meet the needs of your spouse and children on the other. I don't think the two are necessarily incompatible."

State to have bigger say on water—Brown

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — California will have more say in federal water projects in the state, Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. said after a breakfast meeting with Vice President Walter Mondale.

"We're getting much closer to resolving our water differences. There is clearly a new policy at the federal government level of giving due and appropriate weight to what the state wants," Brown said.

At an impromptu news conference in a hotel lobby after their one-hour private breakfast, Mondale deferred all water questions to Brown, who repeatedly cited what he described as "a new spirit of cooperation" with the Carter administration.

Brown said no specific agreements were reached over such sticky questions as whether the state may impose conditions on federal water projects or require that the federal government guarantee a minimum water flow in the SacramentoSan Joaquin Delta.

"We just had a Saturday morning breakfast chat. The point is not to arrive at some complicated, negotiated agreement, but rather to improve the lines of communication and bring the federal and state government closer together," Brown said.

"Over the years, the state Water Quality Control Board and the federal Bureau of Reclamation have been at loggerheads. They've been constantly fighting. For the first time, the Secretary of Interior (Cecil Andrus) has indicated very forcefully that the views of California are going to be considered.

"The first thing Vice President Mondale said to me was in reaffirmation of that principle, that the states shall be given due weight and deference in their policy determinations," Brown said.

Mondale defends energy program

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Carter's energy program aims at creating "a society that runs on clean, durable, abundant energy supplies, free from the threat of scarcity and energy blackmail," Vice President Walter Mondale told a Democratic group here Saturday.

Mondale said U.S. dependence on imported oil means that "as a nation, we're playing a deadly game of Russian roulette with oil imports," but said domestic oil supplies could not make up the shortage.

"We've already found all the oil that's easy to discover and produce in this country," Mondale told an energy crisis meeting sponsored by the Democratic National Forum.

Mondale said the United States must find alternative energy sources to avoid a situation where "this nation's energy lifeblood will be in the hands of foreign nations which will have the power to bring our economy to a halt with the turn of a valve."

The vice president praised Carter's energy program, which had been attacked earlier in the meeting by consumer advocate Ralph Nader and Ohio Sen. Howard Metzenbaum. Metzenbaum criticized Carter's plan for allowing higher fuel costs, while Nader faulted it for not placing more emphasis on developing solar energy.

Mondale said that, despite expected fuel price increases, the administration doesn't "believe the oil and gas companies should reap billions in windfall profits at the expense of the American people."

He criticized a recent vote by the House Commerce subcommittee to take controls off the price of natural gas, saying it would add $71 billion to fuel costs by 1985.

Mondale said that domestic energy supplies could be developed without harming the environment.

"We reject the idea that the answer to the energy crisis is to rush ahead with an unplanned, crash program to develop domestic energy reserves regardless of the costs," he said. He added that state government should have a voice in any new oil and gas leases.

Meteor lights up western sky

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A brilliant flash of blue light, apparently caused by a meteor, filled the Western sky early Saturday morning and triggered hundreds of calls to police and sheriffs.

Authorities in Fresno said they received more than 250 calls from residents who reported a blue light streaking northward through the San Joaquin Valley skies at 2 a.m.

The flash of light — which lasted about four seconds — was also reported by residents in Nevada and Arizona.

Teacher-author takes poke at establishment

'New Africa High' is underground classic of sorts with teachers

EDITOR'S NOTE: He was a social studies teacher in an inner-city school. Now he's teaching in another school — transferred, officials said, for his safety. He says it's because of a little book he published at his own expense that's most unflattering to the school system.

By HARRY ATKINS
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — A book which characterizes school administrators as inept and schools as chaotic has become an underground classic of sorts with teachers across the country.

But Detroit school officials, fictionalized in the account, don't think it's accurate, and publishers apparently don't view it as saleable.

The author of "New Africa High" is Dr. Evan Keliher, 45, who was head of social studies at Detroit Mackenzie High until last February, when he began to promote the book on Detroit-area talk shows.

The day after his first appearance on a local radio program, Keliher was transferred to an integrated high school, where he teaches three English courses.

School administrators told the bearded, soft-spoken Keliher, a teacher for 21 years, that he was being transferred from all-black Mackenzie for his "personal safety."

"Actually, I'm in exile," says Keliher, who is white and classifies himself as a "gadfly."

In the 172-page book which he wrote and paid to have published, Keliher uses hyperbole to describe the problems he sees in public high schools. He sees the problems as ranging from inept administrators to violence in the halls to just plain poor education.

"I wanted to say something about our schools," Keliher says. "To be candid, our schools aren't worth a damn. They're just a total shambles."

Things are especially bad in Detroit, he says, where reading and math achievement scores — well below the national average for years — continue to decline.

But Keliher says the problems he describes in "New Africa High" are common in every large city school.

"You could lift the whole staff of Mackenzie and drop them into a Chicago school and they'd never know they had left the block," he says.

Last year Keliher paid the printer of a weekly newspaper $2.25 apiece for the first 550 copies of "New Africa High." He now has sold more than 4,000 copies, mostly by mail, to teachers in places as far away as West Virginia and California.

He still hopes to find a New York publisher, but even now in its third printing, he can't entice an agent to handle the book.

For $3, the reader of "New Africa High" can glean Keliher's views on:

—School board members: "All candidates for the post should be required to pass a sanity test — if they manage to get by the literacy test."

—Incorrigible students: "We must recognize there are a few students (40,000 or so) who are truly incorrigible and should not be allowed to attend school with real kids."

—Sex: "I would urge we pay more attention to sex in public schools, but the kids really don't seem to need any encouragement."

—Parent-Teacher groups: "These people should not be permitted on school property — even as visitors."

—Truancy: "Pay every kid $10 a day to come to school."

—Grades: "Personally, I pass every kid who doesn't hit me."

"I don't have many solutions in the book," Keliher says, "But I didn't intend to. I was just trying to call attention to the problem. Something should be done about it. But as long as school administrators go around saying things are fine, nothing's going to be done about it."

Bruce Carr, a teacher at Mackenzie, describes Keliher as "competent, popular among students" and says his transfer "has become a joke at school."

It's no joke with Helen Moore. Mrs. Moore is head of Black Parents for a Quality Education, and her group wants Keliher fired.

Mrs. Moore despises the street dialect and speech patterns Keliher attributes to black students in "New Africa High."

"Every child that speaks in his book is put down because of the way he says they talk," Mrs. Moore says, "and they do not talk that way."

The students, however, had a different reaction.

Dan Wallace, a ninth grader who was sent to Keliher once for discipline, thinks "he's a cool dude."

Wallace adds: "It seems that every time we get a good teacher who's trying to do something for us, the school's administration tries to get rid of him."

Pope proclaims first American male saint

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI proclaims John Nepomucene Neumann as America's first male saint today before thousands of U.S. pilgrims, including two Pennsylvanians who believe they owe their lives to the intercession of Philadelphia's "little bishop."

Papal spokesmen said more than 20,000 Americans — including U.S. Vatican representative Henry Cabot Lodge, Philadelphia Mayor Frank Rizzo and eight American cardinals — are expected to jam St. Peter's Square to hear the Pope order Bishop Neumann "inscribed in the Catalogue of Saints."

Among those arriving Saturday were Michael Flanigan, 19, of Philadelphia and J. Kent Lenahan, 46, of Villanova, Pa., whose miraculous cures led to the 19th century bishop's canonization.

Vatican spokesmen said Flanigan developed terminal bone cancer at age 6, and doctors decided his case was hopeless. His parents took him to the bishop's shrine in Philadelphia to pray, and today his only reminder of the disease is a slight limp in his right leg.

"I remember going to the shrine, but there wasn't much commotion at the time over my cure," he told reporters.

Lenahan, a music teacher, was 19 years old when his head was nearly crushed against a utility pole while he was riding on a car running board. The comatose youth recovered after his parents touched him with a piece of the bishop's cassock.

"They couldn't explain what happened," Lenahan said in a recent interview. "So I guess it was the man upstairs."

The third "miracle cure" attributed by the Vatican to Bishop Neumann involved an 11-year-old Italian girl who recovered overnight from peritonitis, an inflammation of the abdominal lining, after a nun touched her with a picture of Bishop Neumann. Eva Benassi is now 65 and was also expected for the canonization, Vatican spokesmen said.

Previous Americans canonized are two women — Mother Cabrini, declared a saint in 1946, and Mother Seton, canonized in 1975.

In 1921, Pope Benedict XV declared Bishop Neumann "venerable" — the first degree of sanctity — because of "the simplicity of his works," his service to the poor, and his promotion of the parochial school system in the United States. He was beatified in 1963.

The bishop was born in 1811 in the village of Prachatitz in what is now Czechoslovakia. After considering careers in medicine and law, he decided on the priesthood and at age 25 immigrated to the United States in search of a bishop to ordain him.

Bishop John Dubois of New York, eager for German-speaking priests, welcomed the young man and assigned him to a 9,000-square-mile parish in western New York state.

Within four years, the pace of work in the huge frontier parish brought Father Neumann, frail and barely 5 feet tall, to the point of physical collapse. He joined the Redemptorist Order and began a career of service to German-speaking immigrants in New York, New Jersey, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland and Virginia.

In Baltimore, Father Neumann became a U.S. citizen and helped save an order of black nuns, the Oblate Sisters of Providence, from extinction. There he also became the private confessor of Archbishop James Patrick Henrick, who had transferred from Philadelphia.

The archbishop recommended Father Neumann as his successor in Philadelphia, and despite his own reservations, he was consecrated bishop of what was then America's largest diocese on his 41st birthday.

The three previous bishops had all been Irish, and there was resentment over appointment of a bishop who spoke English with a thick German accent.

"The Rev. Neumann does not speak English well, and I fear his election would find very little favor with the American people," warned Bishop Michael O'Connor of Pittsburgh.

Although his simple dress and unpretentious style were scorned by the city's urbane rich, Bishop Neumann won the loyalty of the common people and the poor, who dubbed him "the little bishop" because of his short stature.

Farrah Fawcett defends motive in report of 1970 shoplifting

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Television star Farrah Fawcett-Majors was acting not as a shoplifter but as a "self-help consumer advocate" when she took items of clothing from two shops several years ago, her lawyer said Saturday.

Responding to a report in the New York Post that Miss Fawcett-Majors was twice arrested and found guilty of shoplifting, lawyer Elliot Abelson insisted that his client "is not a thief and not a kleptomaniac."

He said she was upset at having purchased what she later found to be inferior merchandise from the shops and merely exchanged them for articles of similar value when the shopkeepers refused to do so.

"She did not take anything that did not belong to her," Abelson said. "She never meant to misappropriate any items, and I consider her one of the first self-help consumer advocates."

Miss Fawcett-Majors, 30, was arrested in August 1970 on petty theft charges and found guilty of taking two dresses from Judy's Boutique in Los Angeles, Abelson said. The nation's newest sex symbol, a model at the time, was fined $125.

In November 1970 she was again arrested on petty theft charges and found guilty of taking two coats from a San Fernando Valley shop, he said. She was placed on 18 months probation and fined $265, but the fine was suspended on condition that she undergo psychiatric treatment.

Miss Fawcett-Majors visited a psychiatrist for six months, Abelson said, but he would not reveal the name of the Los Angeles doctor.

"I represented her in both cases in Los Angeles Municipal Court," Abelson said.

Ontario man shot in leg

Lupe Rangel, the victim, told police he was standing at the location when a brown car containing two Latins drove by and stopped. Rangel said the passenger in the car stepped outside the door and shot him.

Board adopts tentative budget

26-cent O-M school tax hike

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

Despite strong objections from one board member, Ontario-Montclair school trustees have adopted a tentative budget that calls for a 26-cent tax increase.

Trustee Sam DiGiovanni strongly protested the tax hike which would boost the school rate to $3.0740 per $100 of assessed valuation. He voted against the budget, but it was approved on a 4-1 vote.

Deputy Supt. George Duerr explained the board could have legally raised the tax rate 16 cents last year under state formulas, but decided against it. The board also can raise the rate an additional seven cents this year because of declining enrollment in the district.

The district teachers' association was critical of the board last year for levying a $2.82 tax rate that was below the legal maximum.

But DiGiovanni indicated property taxes already are too high in the district, and "I can't bring myself to vote on this. We have to tell Sacramento to stop mandating programs without providing the district money to pay for them."

He added that "it's not right" for school districts to levy permissive tax overrides which are not subject to voter approval.

"We're putting taxpayers in bad shape because of Sacramento. Maybe we ought to run the district on a deficit or at the brink of bankruptcy to show the state."

Board President Rose Kelber argued that children would be hurt if the district budget was not financed properly.

"I don't feel bankruptcy (in the district) will wake up anyone in Sacramento," said trustee Richard Pearson.

Duerr said the total $21.9 million tentative budget calls for a $2 million increase in expenditures over last year. Inflation is the biggest reason for increased costs, he noted.

The budget contains reserves from which salary increases for classified (non-teaching) employes are expected to be drawn. It also includes 5 per cent raises for teachers already approved under a two-year contract last year.

Duerr said enrollment is expected to be up to 15,312 next year, compared to this year's 15,067. He estimated an 8 per cent increase in assessed valuation.

He cautioned that the budget is still tentative, and could change "depending on what happens in Sacramento." A final budget will not be approved by the board until the first week of August.

Chaffey College budget cut set

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

Chaffey College trustees have adopted a tentative 1977-78 budget of $18,164,385, down $538,467 from the current budget, yet including a 6.5 per cent wage hike for staff members.

The salary boost, affecting some 263 employes, was approved in a separate action and was an addition to the budget of $17,711,110 adopted by the board this week.

The 1976-77 budget is $18,702,852.

At the request of a representative of the Chaffey College Chapter of the California School Employes Association (CSEA), action on a salary and benefits package for classified staffers was deferred.

CSEA attorneys for the chapter, which represents 328 employes, have requested time to evaluate the contract. Classified staff members wish to review the contract and vote on its acceptance. The contract also features a 6.5 per cent pay raise.

To accommodate the CSEA, the college board set an adjourned meeting Wednesday noon.

While the official assessed valuation figure on which the budget is based will not be available until the end of June, Robert E. Totten, assistant superintendent of business services, estimates a 5¾ cents increase in the tax rate, based on a 15 per cent augmentation in assessed valuation.

By his conjecture, the tax rate would come to .6887 per $100 of assessed valuation, compared to the present 63 cents.

Totten explained that the reduced budget for the year ahead reflects a drop in the number of full-time students attending Chaffey College this year. The average daily attendance factor (ADA) determines the amount of state aid to the college.

This year's shrinkage in students resulted in a loss of $1.3 million in state support for next year's budget.

Another result of the balancing of the budget was notice of termination of eight nontenured staff.

Outstanding expenditures, other than those for pay and benefits, in the 1977-78 budget are $2.2 million for the construction of an automobile shop-technical laboratory and a vocational education building; $280,000 for possible transfer to Riverside City College for Corona-Norco students who choose to enroll there on the basis of an inter-district attendance agreement; and $186,812 for a 10-year lease purchase of a Stromberg Carlson telephone system to replace the antiquated equipment presently in use.

There will be additional refinements in the fiscal program at a July 14 board meeting (publication budget) and on Aug. 4 (final budget).

24th Annual Youth Safety Run

SAFETY RUN COMPETITORS

Three young drivers, representing Explorer Scout Post 160 of the Pomona Police Department, display a proclamation marking Monday the start of the annual Youth Safety Run. The youths are, from left, Dean Willhite, 16, Garey High School, Jeff Raisbeck, 15, Ganesha High School and Owen Franklin, 17, Pomona High School. Drivers face 846-mile trip.

From Pomona to Yosemite

Youth safety run slated

Thirty-seven valley young persons will participate in the 24th annual Youth Safety Run from Pomona to Yosemite National Park and back which begins early Monday morning.

Forty-four 1977 autos, driven by car club and Law Enforcement Explorer Scout Post teams from Southern California and Nevada will follow a still-to-be-disclosed route to the national park and return.

Key elements of the run are safety and economy, especially at this time when fuel economy is becoming vital, Officer Ron McDonald, of the hosting Pomona Police Department said.

The annual run is sponsored by the Police Advisory Council for Car Clubs (PACCC), an organization of law enforcement officers from 18 Southern California cities who work with young drivers from these clubs. The Arcadia Civitan Club, R.G. Canning Diversified Companies Unlimited and Union Oil Co. co-sponsor the event. The cars are supplied by dealers and must be stock.

The drivers, ranging from 16 to 21, must have good driving records. There are five fuel stops along the 846-mile route.

This year's run is being named in honor of Sgt. Larry Harnois who is retiring from the Pasadena Police Department. Harnois was one of the original officers who were instrumental in founding the PACCC.

The run gets off at 4 a.m. from the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds, this year's impound area. Teams should begin arriving at Yosemite at about 4 p.m. One day will be spent sightseeing and the young drivers will head back to Pomona Wednesday.

There are seven classes, ranging from subcompact four-cylinder cars to luxury V-8s.

Winners will be feted at an awards banquet at the Pomona National Golf Club in Walnut Friday night.

Local young persons representing valley police agencies are:

Dean Willhite, Owen Franklin, Tim Romero, Norbert Duran, Judy McConnell, Lori Pimental, and Teresa Martinez, all of Pomona, and Jeffery Raisbeck, Diamond Bar, Peter Kern, Azusa, and Mary Gardner, Diamond Bar.

La Verne — Steve Spurlock, Joel Amico, Bill Witzka-Witzka, Bob McMahon, Ken Morris, Ron Bateson, Lynda Knipping, Darla Johnson and Clara Alvarez.

San Dimas (Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department — Armando Tapia, Marc Ugreite and Pam Walsh.

Montclair — Kim Thompson, Pat Libertone, Fred Dominguez, Cindy Lopez, Cathi Doran and Debra Leach.

Ontario — Farlan Clutters, Steven George, James Deaton, Tedd Nickerson, Tom Skropos, David Lee, Stacy Pond, Priscilla Gonzales and Lori Clark.

Auto dealers supplying new cars for the competitors are: Fair City Ford, University Lincoln-Mercury and Pomona Dodge, all of Pomona; College Chevrolet of Claremont (two cars); Bryant Pontiac, of Covina; Royce Barnett Pontiac, Montclair; Graydon Murphy Oldsmobile, Ontario; Mark Christopher Chevrolet, Ontario; and Hemet Dodge of Hemet.

Hughes heirs agree to settlement

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Heirs of industrialist Howard Hughes have agreed to a division of his estate in an out-of-court settlement, a Montgomery newspaper reported in its Sunday editions.

Alabama Journal reporter Virginia Gibson wrote in a copyright story appearing in a joint edition with the Montgomery Advertiser that the agreement was signed last weekend at a Destin, Fla., resort.

The settlement, subject to court challenge because of suits filed in several states over the authenticity of a number of purported Hughes wills, was reached "to prevent years of litigation," according to attorneys for the heirs, the Journal said.

Under the agreement, the largest share of the estate — 23 and five-sixths per cent — would go to Hughes' aunt, Annette Gano Lummis of Houston, the newspaper said. Mrs. Lummis' son, William, is chairman of the board of Hughes' multimillion-dollar conglomerate, the Summa Corp.

The rest of the estate, according to the Journal's account, would be divided in this manner:

—Each of three granddaughters of Hughes' uncle, the late playwright and movie producer Rupert Hughes, would receive six and one-third per cent. They are Barbara Hughes Cameron of Los Angeles, Elspeth Hughes Depould and Agnes Hughes Roberts, both of Cleveland.

—Nine and one-half per cent would be divided equally between Avis Hughes McIntyre of Montgomery and Rush Hughes of California, step-children of Rupert Hughes.

—Sixteen maternal first-cousins would share the remaining 47 and two-thirds per cent, with none to receive more than four and one-sixth per cent.

The maternal first-cousins are Annette Gano Lummis Neff of Boston; William Rice Lummis and Richard C. Gano Jr. of Los Angeles; William Kent Gano, Doris Gano Wallace, Annette Gano Gragg and Howard Hughes Gano, all of Texas; Arlene Lummis Russell, Frederick Rice Lummis Jr., John McIntosh Houstoun, Margo Fleming Houstoun, James Wilkin Houstoun and Richard Alexander Houstoun, all of Houston; Janet Houstoun Davis, Sara Houstoun Lindsey and the estate of James Patrick Houstoun Jr.

Trial is scheduled Aug. 15 in a Clark County, Nev., court on a petition by Annette Lummis seeking to invalidate the socalled "Mormon will" purportedly written by Hughes.

Wallace says he'll run for Senate

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace said Saturday he intends to run for the U.S. Senate seat held by veteran Democrat John Sparkman, who has not announced whether he will seek re-election.

The governor, speaking at the annual meeting of the Alabama Associated Press Broadcasters Association, said he was not making formal announcement of his candidacy, but "it's the most formal one that I have made. I intend to announce that I will run."

Wallace said that because of his involvement in national politics he has come to know many people in national government, including President Carter, and "I'd like to use that for the people of Alabama."

There have been rumors that Sparkman will retire at the end of his term, and Wallace said he did not believe the senator would run again.

"I won't be an anti-Sparkman candidate," he said.

Couple parked in car near prison robbed

A Chino couple parked in their car near the women's prison on Remmington Ave early Saturday morning were the victims of a strong arm holdup.

West End Sheriff's deputies reported that the couple were sitting in their car when they were approached by two white male adults in their early twenties accompanied by two white females either juveniles or young adults.

The four robbers took a gold and ruby ring valued at $1,856 and a half gallon of vodka from the couple.

Deputies are looking for a 1965 Cadillac in which it is believed the four robbers were traveling. It was last seen headed toward Corona.

Upland growth hearing slated

The Upland City Council has scheduled a public hearing at 7 p.m. Monday in the City Hall to consider adoption of proposed resolutions pertaining to its Growth Management Plan.

The residential element of the growth management plan includes limitations on the biannual and annual numbers of proposed dwelling units to be considered for approval.

Also to be discussed are a specific rating system proposed for the evaluation of residential projects and a proposed development fee consisting of the consolidation of existing fees and charges with new fees and charges for new residential developments.

City Manager Lee Travers said the meeting is open to all interested persons who wish to address the council on the proposed resolutions.

CHP officer shot in check on stolen car

BARSTOW (AP) — A 26-year-old California Highway Patrol officer was shot and critically wounded early Saturday morning when he stopped a car on Interstate 15, officers said.

John A. Lopez of Barstow was listed in critical condition at Loma Linda Medical Center. He was shot twice, in the upper chest and lower abdomen, the highway patrol said.

Lopez, a 5½-year CHP veteran, stopped a car containing two men for a routine speed check about 7:50 a.m. at Field Road 30 miles north of here, officers said. He discovered the vehicle was reported stolen from West Covina and that the two occupants were wanted on armed robbery and kidnaping warrants.

According to CHP dispatcher Carol Martinez, the men fled in their car but it overturned about 10 minutes later. The pair then took another car and drove south on Interstate 15 until a truck driver, who heard of the chase on his Citizens Band radio, spotted the car and ran it off the road about 20 miles north of here about 8:20 a.m.

One of the men was shot in the groin by a San Bernardino County sheriff's deputy and is listed in critical condition at Barstow Community Hospital. The other was taken into custody. The two men were not immediately identified.

Lopez is married and the father of two small children.

Minorities on increase in California — Dymally

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Minorities are increasing so fast in California that it will soon be the first "Third World state," says Lt. Gov. Mervyn Dymally.

Dymally, a black born in Trinidad, released a report Saturday which said minorities had risen from 20.4 per cent of California's total population in 1970 to 34.7 per cent this year.

"If the present trend continues, by 1990, California minorities will comprise a staggering 60.7 per cent of the total population," said the report prepared by interns sponsored by Dymally's office.

Dymally said the report was conservative.

"Most ethnic leaders believe that the population is anywhere from 38 to 41 per cent, and I find myself in this category," Dymally said.

"Neither the media, the government, nor private interests are preparing for this emerging phenomenon and will consequently be unprepared to meet the challenge," he said.

The report listed the principal minorities in California as Mexican-Americans 4.2 million, black 1.6 million, Japanese 350,000, Puerto Ricans 350,000, Portuguese 350,000, Chinese 300,000, Filipinos 300,000, American Indians 239,000, and Koreans 150,000.

In addition, the report said, there are 80,000 Cubans, 80,000 Vietnamese, 78,000 Caribbeans, 50,000 Samoans, 40,000 Guatemalans, 30,000 Indians from India, 30,000 Guamanians and 25,000 Panamanians.

The total is 8.3 million minority members in a total population of 24 million, according to the report.

Three force way into car, rob driver

An Ontario man was robbed by three gun and knife wielding assailants Friday evening around 6:40 p.m.

The victim told police the three robbers forced their way into his car at the intersection of Euclid Avenue and De Anza Circle. They threatened him with a pistol and two knives, took his money and threatened him some more forcing him to drive around until they eventually jumped out of the car at the intersection of Mission Boulevard and Bon View Street.

The robbers were all described as male Mexican adults.

Drug abuse clinic to seek help

Operator of a drug abuse recovery house will appeal to the Pomona City Council Monday night hoping to stay in business.

John Owsley, representing People's Coalition, which operates the recovery house at 998 W. Ninth St., will ask the council to overturn a recent Planning Commision denial of a conditional use permit for continued operation of the center.

The recovery house was first granted permission to operate at the location in 1975 and twice had its permit renewed before the commission rejected renewal last month.

In refusing to renew the permit, the commission cited opposition to the center by neighbors, its close proximity to Hamilton Elementary School, and the fact that the center does not have a live-in director.

Other agenda items for the 8 p.m. meeting will include a request from Paul's Yellow Cab Co. to hike taxi rates in the city.

10-year agreement

Council to study pact

A 10-year agreement between the City of Claremont and Pomona College for use of the college's facilities, including the baseball and football fields, will be discussed by the Claremont Parks and Recreation Commission Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the council chamber.

Under the proposed agreement, the college would lease the baseball field from May this year through July 1987 and would allow the city the use of the football field for its annual Fourth of July fireworks show.

In return, the city will pay the college $2,400 for the installation of a scoreboard at Alumni Field.

The agreement allows for the city's use of the baseball diamond between May 10 and July 31 of each year, but the city may use it 20 days a year, with a maximum of three games in any one week.

City Recreation Supt. Ron Hagan stressed that no taxpayer's money will be used, and that the funds will come out of fees paid by the teams and from admission to the fireworks show.

Hagan said that Pomona College would like a year-to-year agreement, because the college is rewriting its field use policy.

"They don't want to bind themselves to a long-range contract," he said.

Hagan said that the five-year agreement that expires with the college this year cost the city $1,200 for the installation of outfield fencing.

Communist proposal

Mexico rejects clergymen vote

By KERNAN TURNER
Associated Press Writer

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A Communist party proposal that clergymen be allowed to vote and otherwise participate in Mexican politics has been rejected by the government.

Government secretary Jesus Reyes Heroles called the suggestion "risky, negative and against history."

He said Mexico's long tradition of church-state separation "has permitted peace, coexistence and social development. There is no reason to change a constitutional principle that cost the country so much in previous decades."

The idea was initiated by Arnoldo Martinez Verdugo, secretary of the central committee of the Mexican Communist party. He urged that the Federal Election Commission consider reforming the electoral law in order to make full citizens of religious leaders.

The Mexican constitution prohibits Roman Catholic priests or the clergy of other Christian denominations or other religions from voting or engaging in political activities. Mexico is a predominantly Catholic country.

Martinez Verdugo said the law makes priests "citizens of exception" without full rights.

The Election Commission has been instructed by President Jose Lopez Portillo to recommend electoral law changes which would allow minority political organizations to participate openly in national politics.

Lopez Portillo apparently based his political reform on the idea that leftists would be less likely to turn to terrorist activities if they were allowed to voice their opinions in the electoral process.

Martinez Verdugo got the support of the official opposition party, National Action (PAN), but received a hostile reaction from the capital city press.

Excelsior, the prestigious Mexico City morning daily which often reflects the government position in its editorials, said Mexico's banning of priests from political action, first considered as sacrilege, was now "admired throughout the world."

"The worldly clerics who descend from the altar and mix in political action don't support the state, honor the church or serve the people," the newspaper said.

The Mexican government is formed mostly of members of the Institutional Revolutionary Party (PRI), which has been in power for nearly half a century. Two other parties, including the PAN, are legally registered and others are tolerated but not allowed to participate in the elections.

Reyes Heroles was asked by reporters why, in his opinion, the Communist party had spoken out in favor of church political action.

He said he believed it was a case of "political opportunism" using the Spanish and Italian Communist parties as models.

Mexico was dominated by church influence during its early history. The War of Independence from Spain in the 18th century was touched off by a Catholic priest who rallied the masses.

However, the Roman Catholic Church was first prohibited from participating in state affairs in the mid-1880s, and the clergy stopped from voting by the constitution of 1929.

Puppeteer lives in fantasy land

ATLANTA (AP) — Jan Williams Matthews may be 23, but she still believes in fairy tales.

As a puppeteer she spends her work days in the magical world of such fairy tales as "Jack and the Beanstalk" and "Sleeping Beauty" at the Atlanta Arts Center, where she is a member of the resident company.

A recent graduate of St. Andrews Presbyterian College, Laurinburg, N.C., she says that her interest in puppets began during a puppetry course taught by DQR. Arthur McDonald, chairman of the theater department at the college.

As teaching assistant for the class, she drew on her as a director of an arts and crafts program in Greenville, S.C., and her enjoyment of making things.

"I've always loved to make things," she says, "but when I was a child, I somehow felt that making puppets was beneath me."

After completing the course she organized a puppet show, "Man of La Mancha," with the help of other St. Andrews students. Using simple rod puppets, which are easier to control than marionettes, Jan took the show to five area schools last fall.

Jan, a native of Greenville, completed her studies at St. Andrews and began work with the Vagabond Marionettes here under the direction of Vincent Anthony.

"It was scary at first," she recalls. "The puppeteers stand on a two-foot-wide catwalk suspended 12 feet up in the air. The marionette, which weighs anywhere from five to ten pounds, is strung for ten feet. To move the characters across the stage, I had to lean out across the stage, reaching and straining to arms' length.

"With 13 shows a week, it can be really tiring and it is a physical strain," she says. "During this past winter I reached the point where I would consistently go home from work and go to sleep before eating or socializing."

Usually two puppet shows are performed in the morning and Jan spends the afternoon dealing with tehnical aspects of the production.

"The audience is mainly school children," the puppeteer says, "but on Saturdays, the only time the show is open to the public, I would estimate that half the audience is adult."

The job, she admits, does not allow for much free time, but along with the hard work comes the glitter of stardom.

As the youngest member of the company, she thinks she will never grow too old to be a puppeteer.

But Jan, whose husband, Gary, graduates from St. Andrews this spring, hopes in the not-too-distant future to be entertaining her own children.

Its magnetism for outsiders still undiminished

Arizona boom goes booming along 'despite' roadblocks

EDITOR'S NOTE: Over the past year, Arizona has received a lot of national attention of the sort its Chamber of Commerce could hardly have welcomed. The time of troubles notwithstanding, there's something about Arizona that's kept its magnetism for outsiders undiminished.

By MIKE McCLOY
Associated Press Writer

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — No matter that water bills soar as water tables plunge ....

No matter that investors have been bilked of half a billion dollars in the last decade by crooked land developers ....

No matter that there are six times as many people seeking jobs as there are working ....

No matter. The Arizona boom goes booming along. This is the fastest growing state in the union. It has topped 2.2 million people, and the figure mounts like a pocket calculator with the multiplication button stuck.

From the lush green lawns of Phoenix to the red rock monuments of Sedona and Oak Creek, from the forested summer resort of Pine Top to the high chaparral of the Tucson desert, tourists and new residents are flocking in.

"Out in Arizona where the bad men are ..." began an old ragtime tune, but the gunslingers are gone now. Former reputed Mafia chieftains live on the ranches around Tucson, coming here as more common folk have, to share the Arizona lifestyle, to make money off the land and to generally enjoy a kind of comfortable pioneering.

A 23-part series by Investigative Reporters and Editors, Inc., on corruption in the state dealt mostly with associations of politicians and underworld characters. The investigation stemmed from the bombing death last June of reporter Don Bolles of the Arizona Republic.

Arizona has grown by 25 per cent since 1970, and "we're not expecting any tapering off" says Brent Brown, director of the state Office of Economic Planning and Development.

Certainly the bad publicity has had little or no effect on the Californians and Midwesterners who visit or keep second homes in Arizona.

The heart of the Arizona boom is not the tourist, but the would-be settler who comes to Arizona to live and work.

Frank Naylor, research manager of the state's Department of Economic Security, says his office still gets some 50 inquiries a week, mostly from people looking for work in construction and education.

But in Arizona's construction industry, job seekers outnumber workers 10 to 1, and the state's unemployment rate is a shade above the national average. Except in nursing, management and engineering, prospects are dim.

The state warns prospective Arizonans that they should come financially prepared to endure three to five months of unemployment.

They come, their hopes undimmed. Almost all say they want to enjoy the "lifestyle."

The state has an abiding problem with water.

In Tucson, where water is pumped from underground pools that have sunk 100 feet in the past 28 years, the average monthly residential water bill this summer will be $22.

Several city council members were recalled for raising the rates, but their successors quickly abandoned promises to roll back the rates when faced with the reality that $14 million will be needed to buy farmland and underground water rights through 1983.

An Arizona Supreme Court decision affirmed longstanding state policy that water rights remain with the land that the water flows over or under. The decision also reversed sentiment of many Tucsonans against the $1.6 billion Central Arizona Project, which will carry 2.8 million acre-feet of water to Phoenix and Tucson in the mid 1980s.

In April, the legislature passed a law allowing cities and mines to buy land, retire it from agriculture and "mine" underlying water for use elsewhere. Court challenges are expected, however.

Meanwhile, Prescott, in western Arizona, awaits the outcome of litigation by neighboring ranchers over water use, and Flagstaff, to the north, faces perennial problems with barely adequate reservoirs.

While some "no-growth" candidates capitalized on the water crisis in 1976 elections, no conclusion can be drawn, says Tom Clark, deputy director of the Arizona Water Commission.

"Tucson is using about five times as much water as is being replenished," Clark says. "If we cut out agriculture in the area entirely, they would still be using twice as much water as is being replaced."

There will have to be a lid on growth, "but you can't really tell where the

Combine the cost of an automobile, home, clothing, medical bills and food, a family of four can live cheaper in Dallas, Los Angeles, San Diego, Cincinnati, Kansas City, St. Louis, Pittsburgh, Houston or Atlanta than here. What the world is coming to.

Think of Ontario the next time you fly

Come up with a better way to fly, and the world will beat a path to your door. In this age of jammed metropolitan airports, the world needs Ontario. We're just minutes from most communities and less than an hour's driving time from every major city in Orange, San Bernardino, and Riverside counties, as well as the San Gabriel Valley. So when you come to Ontario, you'll have a lot more going for you than you think.

- Direct or non-stop service to 30 major cities in the west and midwest.
- 9 major scheduled airlines — American, Air California, Continental, Golden West, Hughes Airwest, PSA, TWA, United, and Western.
- Easy walk to terminal from nearby parking lots — only $2.00 for each 24 hours parking.
- Minutes from San Bernardino and Pomona freeways.
- All major airport services — car rentals, public transportation, air cargo.
- Your national and international gateway — frequent, short-hop commuter flights to LAX, scheduled for "no-time-wasted" transfers.

Washington, D.C., Philadelphia, Minneapolis, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Seattle and Baltimore, according to First National Bank of Arizona.

The Arizona real estate market slowed along with the national economy two years ago, but it started recovering in the last half of last year, and now it is at its highest level in history.

One of the best known lid comes down," he adds. developers in the state is Del E. Webb Corp. With a population of 40,000, Webb's 17-year-old Sun City retirement community was host to 300,000 visitors last year.

Eight hundred housing units were sold in Sun City in February, says Webb President John W. Meeker, compared with 882 in all of 1976. Production was raised to 50 units a day, and sales totaled 742 in March and 545 in April.

"With thousands of people retiring early on substantial pensions and other income sources, we see a continuing positive trend," he added, announcing plans to expand Sun City's population to 64,000 by building on an additional 12,000 acres of former desert.

But all is not bright. McCulloch Oil Corp. announced in November that it would finish developing Lake Havasu City, with its dicted in this case. However, on May 27, from a hospital bed where he had been confined since February with a heart ailment, he pleaded guilty to state land fraud and bribery charges which had

It's attractive, this scene near Page, Arizona. No matter the scarce water, bad press, unemployment and history of crooked land developers, Arizona is still the fastest growing state in the union — and houses in the Sun City development, below, are symbolic of that growth as they spin about the desert with a shopping center nucleus.

Portland plan for energy saving

Voluntary conservation won't work; rules needed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Install a special nozzle in your shower. Limit the expansion of your city's largest employers. Mothball those gas guzzlers and slow down to 45 miles an hour.

These and other recommendations make up a proposal designed for Portland, Ore., as a model of what can be done to reduce energy consumption in the nation's cities and suburbs.

The federally funded study concludes that voluntary conservation won't work and suggests stricter housing and commercial building codes, energy-efficiency standards for industry and federal gas rationing for motorists.

The Portland plan is a mix of 42 local, state and federal programs designed to cut area energy use by 34 per cent in the next 20 years, according to the private consultants who drew it up.

The proposal, drawn up under a $240,000 grant from the Department of Housing and Urban Development, is the first federally funded study of the energy needs of a major city.

"It's a good, solid program. We'd like to see if it can work," says Marion Hemphill, assistant director of the city's energy conservation project. He said a citizen task force will review the plan this year and make recommendations for changes in local, state and federal laws.

But Portland officials concede that much of the plan, such as gasoline rationing or reduced state speed limits, is not likely to win needed federal or state approval without a crisis atmosphere.

Aside from urging legislation to mandate such energy savers as new thermostats that automatically lower the heat at night and special nozzles that restrict the flow of shower water, the plan also would require some major changes in the Portland area economy.

According to the plan, the city should "sponsor legislation and lobby for a state program to attract low-energy using industries and restrict the development of energy-intensive industries."

Among the examples of "industries that would be discouraged," are two of Portland's largest — paper products and chemical products. Favored industries include iron and steel, lumber and wood products, and ceramic products like clay or glass.

The Portland plan urges gasoline rationing to 50 per cent of a family's current usage and lowering the local highway speed limit from 55 to 45 miles per hour.

The plan also calls for tough housing standards ranging from insulating ceilings and walls to a reduction from 14 per cent to 11 per cent in the allowable window area for a single-family home.

The study of energy use in the Portland area found that industry accounted for 36 per cent of energy consumption, followed by transportation, 27 per cent, and residences, 21 per cent.

At the current rate, energy needs in Portland are expected to increase by 27 per cent in the next 20 years, while the population is expected to rise by 40 per cent.

"Thus a decrease is projected in per person use of energy," says the Portland study. "The trend is explained by the availability of more efficient cars, stiffer building codes and shifts in the economy towards more labor-intensive, and less energy-intensive, employment."

"Between 1975 and 1995, the region will experience reduced growth in industrial employment, loss of jobs in the lumber and wood products industry, and an increase in office and service employment. These shifts will reduce energy consumption."

According to Hemphill, an analysis of the impact of President Carter's energy plan shows it would reduce energy consumption in the Portland area by only about 7 per cent.

Hemphill says the Portland plan goes further than Carter's in several areas, most notably in cutting use of fuel for transportation and residential purposes.

Additional savings would be possible through stepped-up use of solar power to provide heat and hot water or by designing houses in such a way that sunlight can be used for winter heat and shade trees used for summer cooling.

Implementing the conservation programs designed by the planning firm of Skidmore, Owings and Merrill for Portland would eliminate the need for one and a half new 1,000-megawatt electric generating plants, the consultants said.

The firm says that $300 million spent for energy conservation would save the equivalent of the output of a 1,000 megawatt plant costing $1.7 billion.

Also, the plan would provide $700 million per year for investment locally that otherwise would have been paid to energy producers.

Such savings for local investment would protect nearly 20,000 local jobs, the firm said. Conservation programs would result in the loss of 2,200 jobs while a doubling of the region's energy bill, as projected without conservation, could result in the loss of 22,000 jobs locally, the firm concluded.

been filed in Maricopa County Superior Court in Phoenix. He also withdrew his appeal of a 1975 federal extortion conviction. He is under guard at his Phoenix home awaiting sentencing in state court.

The collapse of Cochise College Park and several other fraud-ridden Arizona developments, along with convictions of several land crooks and stiffer laws, have brought a virtual standstill to remote subdivision developments, state officials say.

Clark says a new law requiring developers to transplanted London Bridge on the Colorado River, and the Fountain Hills community near Phoenix. But after that, it will go out of the land development business.

Lake Havasu City shares the same desert that has seen dozens of subdivision developments spring up and die in the past decade. Most notable was Cochise College Park, which bilked 10,000 investors of $40 million before it collapsed in 1972.

Six persons connected with Cochise College Park were convicted of fraud on May 23, and 11 more are awaiting trial. Ned Warren self-proclaimed "godfather" of Arizona land schemes, who was mentioned in company correspondence as a director of the firm, was not indisclose the availability of water also has helped.

Attorney General Bruce Babbitt and former U.S. Attorney William Smitherman, who now heads a joint legislative task force on organized crime, say the state is gaining control.

Arizona's first statewide grand jury indicted 30 persons last year and the state has not lost a case, Babbitt noted.

Among notables named in true bills was Robert H. Fendler, founder of U.S. and Lincoln Thrift Associations in Phoenix and Tucson. Some 20,000 investors deposited $52 million before the firms were shut down by the U.S. Securites and Exchange Commission and federal court in 1975. Investors may get back 10 cents on the dollar when assets are distributed by court-appointed trustees, officials say.

Fendler is accused of stealing $1.5 million from the thrift firms to finance American Bank of Commerce in Phoenix.

Smitherman, who will use a $600,000 appropriation in an attempt to close loopholes in state regulations, concedes that "more fraud and conspiracy cases have been filed in this district than any district in the nation."

Armed with subpoena power, the task force will examine narcotics and pornography. "I'm going to see where the Mafia kinds of criminals are, what they're doing," says Smitherman.

"And I'm sure we're going to find deficiencies in the state's ability to regulate insurance, banking and real estate. Then there are things like the racing industry."

Businessmen have complained that over-regulation stifles them. But Smitherman says, "What possible advantage could these ripoffs be to Arizona? We don't need an army of crooks in business to grow."

However, pinpointing what is needed for orderly growth remains a problem.

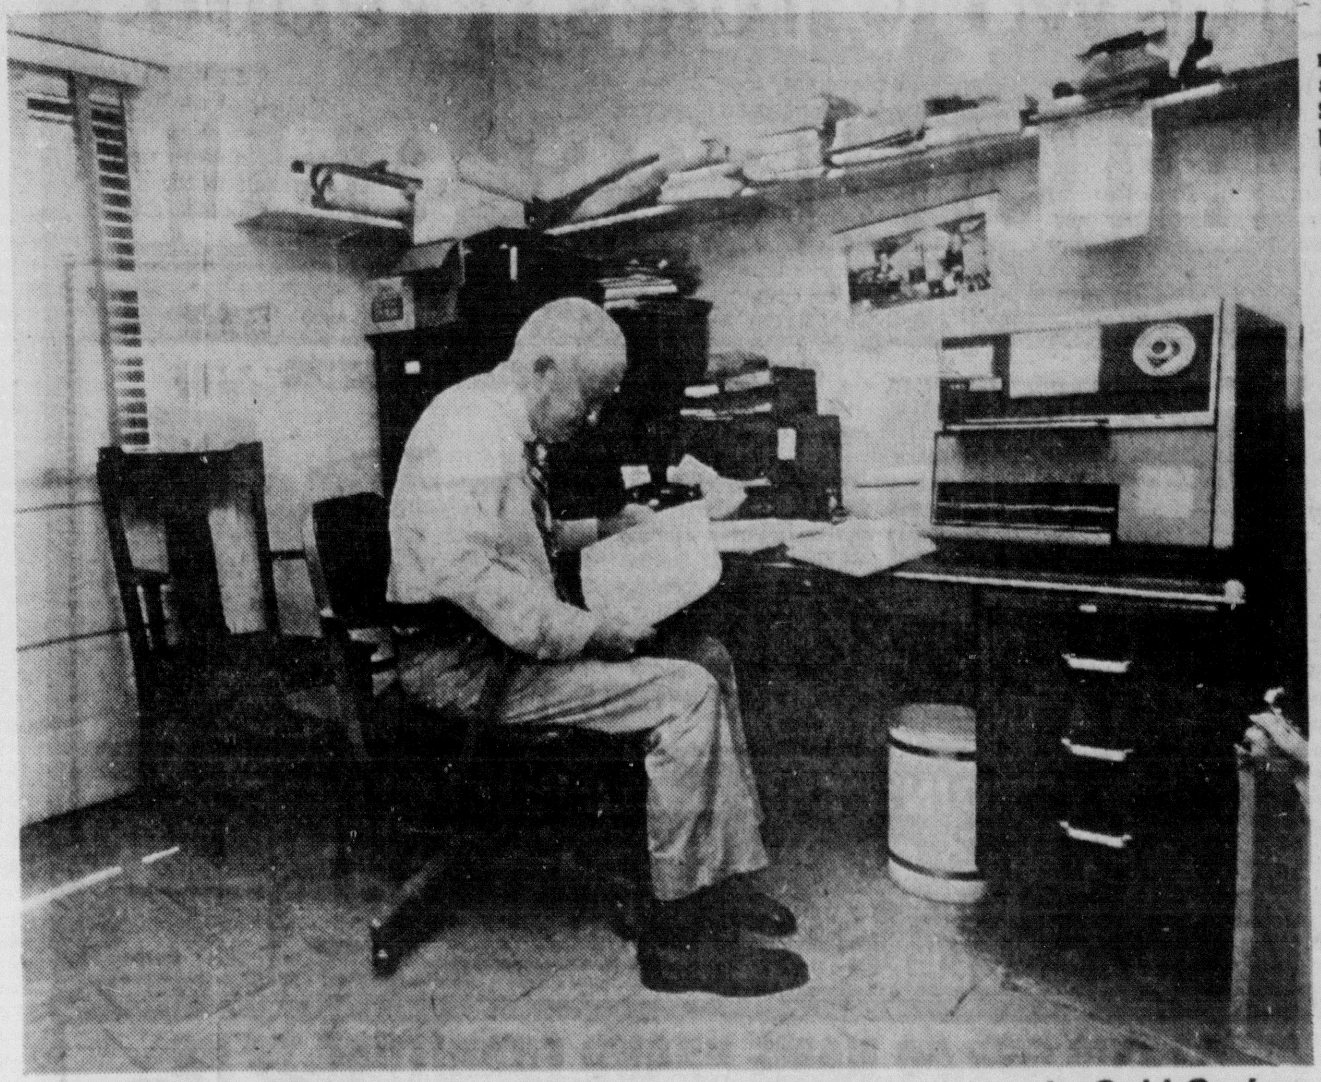
Plugging Cold Springs' (water) leaks

Arthur Sylvester: man once big in big government runs a small one



MAYOR ARTHUR SYLVESTER, tends village business in Cold Spring

EDITOR'S NOTE: When Arthur Sylvester's phone rings these days in the small hours, it isn't a Pentagon alarm but a citizen complaining about a noisy dog. When Sylvester worries about leaks, it's not Washington secrets but his town's water system. At 75, a man once big in big government now runs a very small one.

By TERRY KIRKPATRICK
AP Newsfeatures Writer

COLD SPRING, N.Y. (AP) — Peer through the storefront window of the yellow village office on Main Street and most mornings you'll see Mayor and Police Chief Arthur Sylvester — smiling.

Few outside official Washington may remember him. But in one of the Cold War's last grave dramas he spoke for the government and lied. Then he defended the falsehood by saying government had the right to lie when the nation's survival was at stake. The reaction was fierce.

For six years, Sylvester was assistant secretary of defense for public affairs under Robert McNamara, and he was the source of much of what the nation learned from the Pentagon about the Cuban missile crisis and the early course of the Vietnam war.

He was tough. He took much of the flak against the war and returned it in good measure. He was paid to be out front, and he earned his pay.

This quiet village of 2,200 is far removed from the passions of those years. Still, his phone rings incessantly. He's been mayor only two months, and already he's found a reprter to bicker with. And to defend when another official wanted something kept off the record.

News leaks don't worry him anymore, but the village water system is leaking nearly 100,000 gallons a day. And Sylvester has learned that dealing face to face with neighbors car, be just as trying as facing a skeptical press corps every day.

He was a reporter and Washington correspondent for 34 years before joining the Pentagon in 1961, but history will tag Arthur Sylvester as a man often accused of trying to manage the news.

Editorials in the '60s called him "Chief Commissar of the Ministry of Truth," and "omniscient manipulator of public opinion." "Artless Art" he was called. His old buddy and sometime adversary, Congressman Edward Hebert, then chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, once told him, "You run the best propaganda shop in town."

It's hard to reconcile that image with the man seated in the tiny back room, competing for desk space with a copying machine and losing. At 75, he is patient and courteous. His white hair is trimmed close, his face is ruddy, his gray-green eyes clear. On a sticky hot day he is cool in a long-sleeve shirt.

A reporter called Sylvester in 1962 as the Cuban crisis was building to a climax and asked if reports of Soviet missiles in Cuba were true. Sylvester conferred with Defense Secretary McNamara, who talked with other officials, and the answer came back: No. It wasn't true.

"I believe in advancing your line, your story. But you don't advance something that's not true. It will be found out. I've always believed any government must be truthful and factual. One exception — the Cuban missile crisis."

The calls today are less alarming. "Where is the building inspector?" "Why is my water bill so high?" "Can I get a fishing license for the reservoir?"

"Government close to the people is likely to be the worst, because it's hard to take an action against your neighbors and friends," he says. "McNamara. He was chicken-hearted, as I used to tell him, because he didn't like to move against people who were incompetent. It's the same way here."

He and McNamara, who now is president of the World Bank, were fast friends and still see each other occasionally. "I think he's getting over the Vietnam war," Sylvester says. "He's adjusting. He took it very much to heart. He's a highly sensitive man, highly competitive. He doesn't like to make mistakes. I find him much more reconciled to judgments of all kinds. But he doesn't talk much about it."

They parted in 1967. Sylvester settled in New York City, then moved north 45 miles to the Cold Spring area seven years ago because of its natural beauty — rolling hills, now hidden in spring foliage, cradling the Hudson River running narrow and deep by the foot of Main Street. West Point, the U.S. Military Academy, is just across the river.

"I got sucked onto the zoning board," he says. "If you want to make friends, don't join the zoning board. I covered them as a reporter. They haven't changed much."

The former mayor asked him to run for the office this year. Sylvester, who reported every presidential campaign from 1944 to 1960, knocked on 362 doors, promised to be on the job regularly, and edged his nearest opponent by 15 votes.

"We've always thought that if you were going to live in a community and have the right to complain about it, then you ought to get involved."

For $1,700 a year, he's mayor, the chief of the seven-man police force, and tries to keep the water and sewer systems running.

He hopes to expand the village office. "I'd like to see more people come to the trustee meetings and look down our backs and raise the devil with us. People are ill-informed about what's happening."

He's kept his promise to be available, according to Jack LaDeau, editor of the weekly Putnam County News and Recorder. "On a part-time job, he's working full time." The paper duly noted Sylvester's past during the campaign — "They ran all my trash," Sylvester says.

CIVILIAN AUTHORITY — Arthur Sylvester, who for six years butted heads with men in uniform and civilians alike as chief spokesman for the Pentagon, talks with officer Mike Frieary, one of his seven men in uniform in Cold Spring, N.Y. Sylvester serves the tiny community north of New York both as mayor and police chief.

Sylvester runs his village government with straight talk and truth. That official lie of his far-off Washington days is something required only once or twice a century, when the nation's existence is at stake, he feels. The right to lie is held in check by the honesty of public officials.

"We talk of a government of laws," he says, "but there must be a government with people of integrity to administer the laws."

Traces of reporter Sylvester and Pentagon official Sylvester linger. It is the newsman in him that argues against a trustee's effort to keep comments in an open meeting off the record. It is the government man in him that takes issue with a reporter's coverage of the meetings.

And occasionally, recalling a reporter he tangled with in Washington, that old temper flares, a moment of fire in Arthur Sylvester's otherwise genial demeanor.

"If you talked to my wife, she'd tell you that people are fooled by that pleasant manner and that smile. Underneath, there's a heart of steel."

Father's Day—a particularly fine time for reflection

Stand-in dad's merit cited

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

It's Father's Day — the one chance in the year when dad gets the opportunity to sit back and reflect on what a fine job he's done without being accused of bragging too much.

This Father's Day, two valley men have been cited by local hospitals as outstanding volunteers who share their time and talents with exceptional children.

But, contrary to the image of boastfulness, both men are rather reluctant to be singled out. Each says he feels he receives more from his activities than he gives.

Both men have a number of things in common. Both are

Mom 'launched' dads' day

Dad has only one person to thank for Father's Day. And that someone is Mom.

Not just any mama, mind you. But a particular lady from Spokane, Wash., who thought Dad was long overdue for accolades.

Pop might claim that Father's Day is the natural reward for the lifetimes of service and care offered by a legion of dedicated Dads, but it just isn't so.

Father's Day is the baby, so to speak, of Mrs. John Bruce Dodd, says Hallmark researcher Sally Hopkins. Mrs. Dodd, the mother of one son who was named "ideal father of 1952" by the Washington Post, came up with the idea for Father's Day in 1909.

She had attended a Mother's Day church service and was prompted to question just what was in the works to honor dear old dad.

"Her father raised six children singlehandedly after his

A 56-year-old Pomona grandmother, Mrs. Maria Perez De Rios, this June is seeing six members of her family achieve rewards in the academic world.

Without exception, they credit her as the "focus" of the pursuit for education in the family, and say, "she has helped us all in very special ways."

As a child growing up in Texas, Mrs. Rios was deprived of an education. As a married woman, she started her family in Texas, then moved to Pomona. She has five daughters and three sons and in each has instilled the desire to get an education.

Members of her family obtaining degrees this month are:

. . .Rachel Rios Madrigal, 43, a daughter, who was just graduated from Claremont Graduate School with a Ph.D. in education administration.

. . .Marian Madrigal, 22, a grandaughter, (daughter of Rachel), just graduated from Cal State Fullerton with a B. A. degree in political science.

. . .Joseph Madrigal, 17, a grandson (son of Rachel), just graduated from Ganesha High School and drafted for the Oakland "A's" baseball team.

. . .Karlene Madrigal, 24, a daughter-in-law and wife of Tony Tios Madrigal, just graduated from Chaffey College in Alta Loma as a registered nurse and already hired at a local hospital.

. . .Paula Rios, 25, a daughter, just graduated from Humbolt State University with a B.A. degree and selected Outstanding Senior Woman at graduation.

. . .David Trujillo, 18, a grandson, (son of Lupe Rios Trujillo), just graduated from Garey High School.

Rachel Madrigal, is a graduate of Pomona High School via the adult education program. She received her A. A. degree at Mt. San Antonio College, B. A. at Cal State Fullerton and M. A. at Sacramento State University.

She received a full Fellowship award in 1972 which enabled her to complete her first graduate work. She was awarded the Democrat of the Year citation for her contribution in the field of politics in the 65th Assembly District.

She is involved in developing Sonrisa Bilingual Publications, supplemental materials for Spanish-language children. She is employed as a program evaluator by the Pomona school district.

Marian Madrigal, a graduate of Ganesha High School, attended UCLA two years and received her B.A. degree from Cal State Fullerton. Her career goal is to become a lawyer. She is employed as a financial officer at San Bernardino State University.

Joseph Madrigal, a football quarterback and baseball pitcher at Ganesha, has had the good fortune of being

Fact-finding panel to study RTD's service

A fact-finding committee has been appointed to review a request from the cities of Claremont, Pomona and La Verne who wish to withdraw from the Southern California Rapid Transit District.

The committee formation was the result of a meeting Thursday of representatives of the three cities with the Los Angeles County Transportation Commission's Technical Advisory Committee's bus operators subcommittee.

Claremont Deputy City Manager Paul Brotzman will represent the three cities on the committee, which also will contain representatives from the Southern California Association of Governments (SCAG), the county Transportation Commission, the RTD, and the San Bernardino County County Transportation Commission, which also is SANBAG. Wes McDaniel, executive director of SANBAG, will serve on the committee.

The meeting was attended by Claremont Mayor Bertye Smith, Pomona Mayor Charles Bader, La Verne City Councilman Melvin Belcher, David Ormiston, manager of the Pomona Chamber of Commerce, and Brotzman.

Brotzman said the bus operators subcommittee was "not opposed to the three cities' request."

He said the subcommittee has a need to know the impact that can be expected on RTD if the request were approved, the financial capabilities of the three cities, and the means of developing a coordinating of the Omnitrans system in San Bernardino County with the RTD system.

Brotzman theorized the three cities probably would contract with Omnitrans for local transportation and with RTD for regional transportation.

Some suffer as cities gain

It hardly amounts to a reversal of the trend of the past few decades, but for a variety of reasons more and more middle-class whites are moving back into the cities. And in an ironic twist to the usual pattern, they are displacing residents who had filled the vacuum left by the previous generation's flight to the suburbs.

The phenomenon is occurring in a number of major cities but is especially evident in Washington, D.C. Reported to be 71 per cent black in the 1970 census, Washington has begun gaining white population again, mostly young, college-educated and affluent.

Unfortunately, in the process of reviving decaying neighborhoods and turning dilapidated tenements into fancy townhouses, the newcomers are forcing out people who can't afford the stiff new rents.

According to one news story, "Like displaced war refugees, thousands of the poor are floating from one neighborhood to another. A rain of eviction notices is falling on tenants . . . spreading fear and resentment. Many will move a short distance, only to be evicted again as the reclamation moves deeper into the black and Hispanic areas."

The problem was the major topic of discussion at the recent annual meeting of the National Association of Neighborhoods in Pittsburgh, where one community leader from Columbus, Ohio, asked: "Who are we rehabilitating neighborhoods for? For the people who are there or for the middle class moving back in?"

On the one hand, the middle-class influx boosts sagging tax bases and enables a city to afford better police protection and other services. It leads to a commercial revival. This, after all, is what urban renewal is supposed to be all about.

But for the "refugees" it can be tragic, and some of them are beginning to form resistance groups to fight real estate practices that evict them without providing help in locating new housing. It is not that they don't welcome the improvements the affluent invasion brings in its wake; they just want to share in them.

The challenge facing the cities used to be that of halting creeping decay, and in most cases still is. It would be encouraging to think that in coming years the challenge will be just the opposite: how to direct urban renewal in a way which results in improving the life of every citizen.

Our cities should have worse problems.

A help to youth job picture

Each June, millions of new job-seekers spill out of the nation's schools. Many graduates, of course, plan to go on to college or other post-high school training. But many others face bleak prospects in a job market that is becoming increasingly tighter for teen-agers who lack special skills.

This year, however, the teen-age unemployment total will be about 1,000 persons smaller than it might otherwise have been. That is the early report on the number of youths who signed up for a new program initiated by the U.S. Army Reserve.

Under the Pre-Graduation Program, qualified high school seniors could join the Reserve within 90 days of graduation. During this period, they started learning a skill in a job field of their choice — more than 400 choices were available — by attending Army Reserve training sessions for 16 hours a month, usually on weekends. For this training they earned as much as $50 a month.

Now following graduation come a few weeks of basic training, and then during the next four months or longer (depending on the job specialty), the reservists will continue their instruction in one of the scores of top-caliber Army schools around the country. Throughout this period of active duty, the recruits will receive full Army pay and benefits, which means $374.40 a month to start.

When active duty is over, the reservist will return home to civilian life and continue learning in his or her chosen field at regular monthly meetings as a member of a unit based at a local Army Reserve center.

While it is too late to sign up for this year's program, members of the class of 1978 might want to look into it.

Thoughts

And I did not listen to the voice of my teachers or incline my ear to my instructors. — Proverbs 5:13

Reasons for lawyer ubiquity

Dear Editor:

Regarding your recent editorial on the litigiousness of society and the ubiquity of judges and lawyers, law scholar Archibald Cox of Harvard University points out that more than a century ago de Tocqueville remarked that hardly a political issue arises in the United States that is not converted into a legal question and taken to the courts for decision.

Cox asks, "Where else would one find a court charged with deciding whether prayer should be said or the Bible read at the start of the day in the school house? Whether Negroes were entitled to equal public accommodations? Or how the seats should be apportioned in the state legislature? Where else would a court undertake to apportion the waters of a great river system, thus determining the relative opportunities for agriculture and industrial development in vast regions, as our Supreme Court did in apportioning the waters of the Colorado River?"

We have developed the extraordinary habit of casting critical aspects of social, economic, political and philosophical questions in the form of actions at law and suits in equity.

A great democratic revolution in this century is by the courts. The courts established the principle of one-man one-vote; enforced the right to vote; ordered districts to be equalized as to number of votes; ordered the elimination of discrimination based on race, color or religion; ordered equal educational opportunities based on ability. These improvements, all done by the courts, are giving representative democracy a new lease on life.

The late Robert McCloskey of Harvard and Marson Shapiro, both judicial scholars, point out why this is. They point out that "marvelous machine of compromise and mutual adjustment" is busy attending to the squeakiest wheel; that the presidency has "turned its eyes to the international security of American life rather than the quality of what was being secured." The court system is doing what the other two branches of the government are failing to do. In court we can attack political and social wrongs that would otherwise have gone unattended.

Shapiro says there is something compelling about an institution that can say with authority that the South may not preserve slavery any longer, that one man's vote is not to be worth 17 times that of another, that the police, too, must obey the law, that the poor and ignorant are entitled to the same legal protection as the rich and educated and that one man may not tell another man what he may not read or what he must pray. "To say these things . . . because they were somehow right, returns us to the mysterious."

Crucial verdict ahead for FBI

WASHINGTON — The FBI, once the Rock of Gibraltar of government agencies, has been shaken down to its foundations. Several agents have been accused of violating the laws they were sworn to uphold. One veteran of the wars against crime and sedition, John Kearney, has been indicted and faces trial.

This has stirred a great debate in the backrooms of Washington. Most agents have lined up solidly behind Kearney; they believe he has been singled out by the Justice Department as a scapegoat. The people around Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell, on the other hand, warn that agents must live by the laws they enforce.

Both sides have brought us confidential papers. We have listened to their impassioned arguments. The outcome could determine whether the FBI will survive as a formidable law enforcement agency.

As the bootleggers and gangsters of the 1920s gave way to the drug traffickers and revolutionaries of the 1970s, the FBI stood unscathed. Its minions developed a reputation for vigilance and integrity. The greenest agent in the field became accepted in his community as a fearless, incorruptible bloodhound.

But increasingly the FBI devoted an incredible portion of its manpower, its budget and its priorities to spying on citizens who merely exercised the constitutional guarantees of free speech, assembly and petition.

The Socialist Workers party, for example, preaches a peaceful but unpopular Marxist political philosophy. It does not advocate the violent overthrow of the existing system.

The party has every right under the Constitution, therefore, to operate in this country. Yet some FBI officials, in their zeal, began to look upon themselves as less subject to the laws they required others to obey.

They allegedly burglarized party offices and stole financial records, membership lists and other documents. The Socialist Workers have shown us evidence, for example, that the FBI broke into their headquarters in Detroit in October 1971.

The indicted Kearney, however, headed a special FBI team, which was assigned to investigate the Weathermen Underground. Unlike the Socialist Workers, the Weathermen were violent. They had claimed credit for numerous bombings across the country. FBI sources told us the weathermen were the most dangerous of all political dissidents.

Now, Kearney has been charged with using illegal wiretaps and mail tamperings during his investigation of the Weathermen. His supporters showed us a memo about the case, which makes the following points:

— Former Atty. Gen. Edward Levi, in a decision not to prosecute federal agents for opening mail, said: "Questions of the legality of intelligence methods . . . did not reach the courts until this decade . . . Whatever can be said about the law now, the department believes at the time the potential defendants acted, there was substantial basis for thinking that the law was otherwise."

— Levi maintained that officials "at the highest levels" failed to clarify investigative guidelines. Therefore, "all this would render a prosecution by the government hypocritical."

— Not until 1972 did the courts rule that the president lacks the power to authorize unwarranted wiretappings unless it involves foreign espionage. "In this connection," the document notes, "all the activities alleged in the Kearney indictment precede (this) decision."

— Former CIA chief Richard Helms authorized a surreptitious entry into a Fairfax, Va., photographic studio in a "national security case." Ex-FBI boss L. Patrick Gray also ordered a break-in of the home of a suspect believed to be in league with Arab terrorists. In each case, the Justice Department declined to prosecute. Yet it has indicted Kearney, a lower-level official, on similar charges.

— The courts have also ruled that federal agents can't be held responsible for actions that they believed were proper and had the approval of superiors.

Paul Harvey

Strange things, these fathers

A father is a thing that is forced to endure childbirth without an anesthetic.

A father is a thing that growls when it feels good and laughs very loud when it's scared half to death.

A father is sometimes accused of giving too much time to his business when the little ones are growing up.

That's partly fear, too.

Fathers are much more easily frightened than mothers.

A father never feels entirely worthy of the worship in a child's eyes.

He's never quite the hero his daughter thinks, never quite the man his son believes him to be, and this worries him, sometimes.

So he works too hard to try to smooth the rough places in the road for those of his own who will follow him.

A father is a thing that gets very angry when the first school grades aren't as good as he thinks they should be.

He scolds his son, though he knows it's the teacher's fault.

A father is a thing that goes away to war, sometimes.

And learns to swear and shoot and spit through his teeth and would run the other way except that this war is part of his only important job in life, which is making the world better for his child than it has been for him.

Fathers grow old faster than people.

Because they, in other wars, have to stand at the train station and wave goodbye to the uniform that climbs aboard.

And while mothers can cry where it shows, fathers have to stand there and beam outside — and die inside.

Fathers have very stout hearts, so they have to be broken sometimes or no one would know what's inside.

Fathers are what give daughters away to other men who aren't nearly good enough so they can have grandchildren that are smarter than anybody's.

Fathers fight dragons — almost daily.

They hurry away from the breakfast table, off to the arena which is sometimes called an office or a workshop.

There, with calloused, practiced hands, they tackle the dragon with three heads: Weariness, Work and Monotony.

And they never quite win the fight, but they never give up.

Knights in shining armor, fathers in shiny trousers — there's little difference, as they march away to each workday.

Fathers make bets with insurance companies about who'll live the longest.

Even as the odds get higher and higher, they keep right on betting, more and more.

And one day they lose.

But fathers enjoy an earthly immortality . . . and the bet's paid off to the part of him he leaves behind.

I don't know where fathers go when they die.

But I've an idea that after a good rest, wherever it is, he won't be happy unless there's work to do.

He won't just sit on a cloud and wait for the girl he's loved and the children she bore.

He'll be busy there, too, repairing the stairs, oiling the gates, improving the streets, smoothing the way.

Group should get to issues

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A fledgling public interest organization called New Directions could soon become an influential force in the public debate on a host of global issues — if it abandons its apparent misinterpretation of the biblical proclamation that "a good name is rather to be chosen than great riches."

New Directions is so transfixed by "good names" that it has collected scores of politicians, businessmen, financiers, lawyers, union officials, academics, civic leaders, political activists and assorted do-gooders to adorn its letterhead.

No self-respecting Washington organization lacks a healthy list of "sponsors" or "advisers" to display on its stationery as a means of establishing its credentials and certifying its reputability — but New Directions has carried the practice beyond any logical limit.

The group's first mass mailing seeking new members was encased in a large envelope, one side of which was totally covered with the titles of its big-name backers. The result was a typographical melange neither attractive nor decipherable.

The enclosures in that and several successive mailings contained the names of so many officers and members of the organization's "governing board" and "council" that a special flap had to be added to the stationery to list all the sponsors.

New Directions' most recent mail appeal for members still includes the names and titles of no fewer than 123 such supporters, but they now are listed in smaller type and confined to the back page of a letter which identifies the organization's goals.

The group's decision to emphasize issues instead of celebrities is a welcome change because New Directions is an organization which deserves a chance to gain the stature and support necessary to make it a contribution to the national dialogue on a series of crucial issues.

Washington already has more than its share of citizen groups concentrating on virtually every imaginable domestic issue, as well as a handful of elite organizations working in the foreign policy-national security sphere. But there is no broad-based institution whose concerns are focused on the international arena.

That is the specialty New Directions has chosen for itself, with initial emphasis on the issues of worldwide energy conservation, nuclear proliferation, reduction of indiscriminate arms sales, global food production and expansion of low-cost delivery systems for health, education and family planning.

"When you look ahead now, it's frightening," says Russell W. Peterson, New Directions' president. "All the unresolved problems about energy resources and nuclear development, the population bomb, the arms race, the confrontation between the have and have-not nations."

Adds Peterson, a Republican who was an outstanding governor of Delaware from 1969 to 1973: "All of these issues are inextricably tied to national policies. You cannot separate our problems into domestic and foreign anymore."

Beneath Peterson's name on the letterhead is that seemingly endless list of supporters. Indeed, New Directions wins this year's politics-makes-strange-bedfellows award by alphabetically juxtaposing liberal folksinger Theodore Bikel with conservative politician Shirley Temple Black.

Their colleagues on the "governing board" include officials of such irreverent boat-rocking organizations as Amnesty International and SANE along with senior partners in the "establishment" Wall Street investment houses of Dillon, Read & Co. and Brown Brothers, Harriman & Co.

All of that window dressing probably won't do a great deal of good for New Directions. Just as many Americans have become cynical in recent years about the value of society's once-revered institutions, they also have become less enthralled with the men and women atop those organizations.

New Directions will succeed or fail on the basis of its accomplishments, not its letterhead.

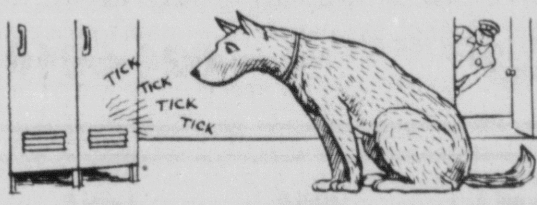
Bomb sniffing title to dogs



DEAR DR. MILLER: I read a paper blurb about a dog trained to hunt for bombs. It says they sniff them? Are they the same, then, as the dogs sniffing for narcotics? How efficient is a bomb dog, really, compared to a man that knows what he's doing? — G.A.

DEAR G.A.: A bomb detector dog may find that hidden bomb 15 to 30 times faster than a human bomb expert. The dogs are capable of intense concentration. That, combined with the acute sense of smell, enables them to outdo human competition. The technique in training, while similar to that for narcotic-sniffing dogs, varies in one important respect — the dog is trained when it finds a bomb to immediately sit in front of it. Sitting is the signal to the trainer. The narcotics-sniffing dog is trained to scratch and/or dig for the narcotics when found. For obvious reasons, it is important that a bomb-finding dog resist any such impulse.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Sure, cats shed hair. Everyone knows that. But I'm worried because my cat is shedding his claws! How serious is this, and what can be done to stop it? — R.L.

DEAR R.L.: Nothing can, or should, be done to stop your cat's claw shedding since this is a natural process. This is, in fact, one of the main reasons why your cat may use his scratching post (or, alsa, your furniture). He's "sharpening" his claws — which doesn't really mean he's sharpening the claws, he's simply exercising them, and should the old outer layer, or sheath, of the claw be loose, these clawing movements will pull away the old nail, exposing a sharp, shiny new claw beneath. Essentially, then, it's a normal claw-shedding, not claw-sharpening process.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I may get some books and learn all about bees, but first I need to know how much setting up a beehive would cost me. Once I learned all about them, can you think of anything else I might need? — L.D.

DEAR L.D.: Figure $50 to $75 for the first hive — that figure should be reasonably close. Once you know all about bees, you won't have any questions. In the meantime, one thing you need (or at least it will minimize many problems if you have it in considerable quantity) is space.

Astrographs

By Bernice Bede Osol
For Monday, June 20, 1977
Your Birthday, June 20, 1977

Someone very interesting may add a touch of glamor to your life this year. You'll find that the two of you have much in common.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Things could go well for you today provided you operate in the open and aboveboard. If you try to get devious, that's another matter. To find out more about yourself send for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) In business today you are both shrewd and impulsive. You might wipe out the good you accomplish with a few ill-conceived whims.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'll make a big hit with friends today so long as you don't try to engage in one-upsmanship. If such a situation arises, extricate yourself.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Give career matters or things that could add to your income top priority today. If you think only of play time, there may be no pay time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't be afraid to think big or to tackle a large project today. Rather than depending on others, however, count only on yourself.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You're likely to be far more resourceful and ambitious in business today than your associates. You should mastermind the operation.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Compromise, charm and tact are your tools today to reshape a negative situation into something positive and profitable.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If something's at stake in a joint venture and the other person is a bit frivolous in managing his end, step in. Make some corrections.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) In one-to-one relationships, people are likely to treat you more generously today than you'll treat them. Try to be equally charitable.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Extremely worthwhile accomplishments are possible today, but be on guard lest someone less ambitious than you sets you on the wrong track.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be sociable today, but don't carry it to extremes. You may pick up the tab for your pals and later resent it.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Subdue any self-interests you might have today. Expand your energies on shoring up the family's security. You'll feel better for it.

Ann Landers

Judge's ruling still valid

Dear Ann Landers: I am incensed about a certain situation and would like to know what you think. My husband and I have been arguing about it for several days. He said if you agree with me he will shut up.

Last September we attended the wedding of a fellow my husband used to work with. I say "used to" because the groom dropped dead of a heart attack during the wedding ceremony.

The minister pronounced the couple man and wife as he lay on the chapel floor.

The bride claimed she was legally entitled to her husband's estate. His parents said she was not. They took the matter to court. The judge declared the couple was legally married when the man died therefore she is entitled to the widow's share of the estate.

There has been a lot of talk about this in our town and I would like to have Ann Landers' opinion of the judge's verdict. — Want To See Justice Done

Dear Want To See: Ann Landers does not second-guess judges. The decision was, I am sure, based on the evidence presented and if the judge ruled the couple man and wife at the time of his death, she is the legal widow and entitled to all the benefits thereto attending. Case Closed.

Dear Ann Landers: What do you think of a man in his mid-50s who's been married for 35 years, owns his own home and has plenty of room to entertain, but when we have special guests he suggests that we all eat at his mother's house or else have her come over here and cook the dinner?

He is an only child. When his father died his mother lived with us for the first 17 years of our marriage. She cooked every holiday meal. Any time we had guests, she took over. I was never able to bake him a birthday cake. His mother always beat me to it.

This morning when we were discussing a dinner party for special friends he suggested his mother's house. I hit the ceiling. When he saw how upset I was he said, "Well then, let's have her come over here and cook the dinner."

I consider it an insult that he would rather have his mother cook for special guests. By the way, I have turned out some excellent gourmet meals on my own. Please tell me what you think of this situation. I admit I'm too close to see it clearly. — One-Upped By Mama

Dear Upped: You are not going to alter the relationship between your husband and "mama." She has the umbilical cord wound tightly around his neck and that's where it's going to stay.

Since you can't change the relationship, change your thinking. Tell him, "Fine — let your mother do the cooking and baking. I'll go to the beauty salon and get beautiful." Then go. And pamper yourself. Get the works.

When the guests arrive you'll be fresh as a daisy and the work will be done. If anyone comments on the food, by all means give your mother-in-law credit. Most of the women will envy you. (How nice to have free catering service!) Moral of the story: When life hands you a lemon, make lemonade.

Checkbook makes a real dad

I have never considered George Washington the father of this country. Maybe I would have felt differently if he had had children.

Somehow, I've always associated this distinction with people like Tom Braden (author of "Eight Is Enough") or Jack Anderson or Harry Reasoner, who head large families.

You can get as sloppy as you want about a mother's love, a mother's tenderness, a mother's tear, but our kids would have been nothing without their father's checkbook.

It began at the birth of our first child. As she lay there in the crib her father said, "She's not only beautiful. She's absolutely perfect!"

"You really think so?" I said hesitantly. "She has an umbilical hernia."

"Can it be fixed?"

"Of course," I said. He got out his checkbook.

With the birth of our son, he said, "This one could whip the world with one hand tied behind his back."

"You really think so? Maybe someday, but for the moment, he needs minor surgery."

He whipped out the checkbook.

The next one toed in and not only needed braces at night, but orthopedic shoes during the day.

Then the fun really began. One had an overbite, the other an iron deficiency, then another was allergic to dust and mold.

They cracked their skulls open, broke bones, were allergic to bee stings, tore cartilage and required stitches.

They contracted rashes, astigmatisms, high fevers and stepped on rusty nails.

When their bodies were finally put together, he had to start supporting their basic psychological needs. "Daddy, I'm the only senior in North America who does not own a pair of earth shoes."

"Ride a bicycle to school! Are you still punishing me for being born Jan. 2 and blowing your $700 deduction for 1959?"

"I know the class ring costs $75, but honest, Daddy, I'll wear it until the day I die."

"Do you expect me to go to a college that is eight hours from the ski slopes? What kind of a degree would that be!"

"If you want a Father's Day present, you'd better give me an allowance."

Sure, George Washington had to provide food and clothing for hundreds of needy troops at Valley Forge. He took office with a country with millions of dollars in debts which the Congress of the Articles of Confederation had been unable to pay. He worked from sunup to sundown managing his 8,000 acres at Mt. Vernon.

But next to today's fathers who have to deal with taffy in space maintainers and insurance on a 16-year-old male driver . . . that was a piece of cake.

Dr. Lamb

Not hypoglycemia, but anxiety

DEAR DR. LAMB — I would appreciate it if you would give me some help with my problem. For some time now when ever I get hungry I get real nervous and find myself getting sick if I don't get something to eat right away. The doctor says I have low blood sugar. Is this a serious condition and is it in any way connected to diabetes?

Is there anything special I should eat or not eat? Please help me if you can.

DEAR READER — There are many people who think they have low blood sugar (hypoglycemia) who really do not. It is an over-diagnosed condition and frequently a self-diagnosed illness. Many people who think they have hypoglycemia really have anxiety.

The only way the diagnosis can be properly made is to demonstrate the low blood sugar level at the time typical symptoms occur. Many normal people have low blood sugar readings with no symptoms at all. There are several books sold to the general public — some by well-known names of people who are self-appointed experts who have no professional background at all — that adds to the public confusion.

If you really have symptoms related to low blood sugar you should avoid all concentrated sweets. Avoid the starches and get your carbohydrates from fresh raw fruit and vegetables. Increase the protein and fat in your diet. To give you more information on what to eat and what not to eat I am sending you The Health Letter number 3-9, Low Blood Sugar: Hypoglycemia. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it.

Real hypoglycemia is a symptom. It can be caused by many different things. It occurs as a complication after some cases of partial removal of the stomach in ulcer patients. This is associated with "dumping" the gastric contents into the small intestine and stimulating a faulty release or over-production of insulin.

A faulty release of insulin, the hormone that lowers blood sugar, may be related to an early stage of diabetes. The faulty release of insulin at the wrong time may be followed by inadequate release of insulin at all and diabetes later on.

Another rare cause of hypoglycemia is a small tumor of the islets of Langerhans, the tissue that produces insulin. When this is the case the hypoglycemia may occur in the fasting state. Many other forms of hypoglycemia occur after eating and are called reaction hypoglycemia, rebound or secondary hypoglycemia. Clearly any meaningful form of treatment must be directed toward finding the real cause and not just treating the symptoms.

Among dietary considerations in people who have reactive hypoglycemia is to avoid sweet liquids, coffee, alcohol and cigarettes. Eating smaller more frequent meals may also help. Fat and protein are emptied more slowly from the normal stomach; that is why they are emphasized instead of carbohydrates.

Nervousness may be associated with a release of adrenaline. The excess adrenaline helps to raise your blood glucose level. But adrenaline may also be released because of anxiety and that is where all the confusion in diagnoses begins.

Dr. Lamb answers representative letters of general interest in his column. Write to him in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

"I hate a show-off," grunted East. Then he conceded the slam.

It was a friendly, all-expert game and South had claimed after winning the trump lead in his own hand.

West made South play it out which he did as follows.

A heart to the king, a spade discard on the ace of diamonds, a spade to the king, a spade to the ace, a club to the eight and bingo.

West couldn't lead a spade. He didn't have any. A club lead would be up to South's King-jack; a diamond lead would let South ruff in dummy and discard his last spade.

If East had played the nine of clubs, South would get the same result by covering with the jack.

You can change the East and West hands any way you wish, but once East followed to that first trump there was no way that the line of play adopted by South could fail to produce the necessary 12 tricks.

If you stand on the roof of a 10-story building and look down at the cars in the street below — say at a vertical distance of about 100 feet — they look like toys, much smaller than they really are. Counseling Corner

Vital marriage built on trust

By R. CLIFF WATERS
Marriage and Family Counselor

"Why did we come to see a marriage counselor?" the husband asked. "Because recently we are fighting all the time. Betty and I have always been happy with our relationship. Sex tends to be solid pleasure for us. We have been open in our love-making and able to talk about our needs to each other."

"Yes!" Betty said angrily. "But now he wants us to have sex with others."

Each occasionally dated others. "After all, we're broad-minded," he pushed on to say. "We're certainly not Victorian in these days, and as long as we're honest with each other, whose business is it, anyway?"

This couple, like many couples today, are facing important questions. Our society has been changing rapidly. What is acceptable marital behavior? What are the rules? Could it be, in this day and age, that unfaithfulness occurs only when the behavior is not known to and accepted by the spouse? The act of infidelity could be construed as disloyalty or as a threat to continuity — or as a kind of basic human right which the loved one ought to be permitted to have, and which the other perhaps wants also for himself or herself.

This couple has a vital marriage. They are deeply involved psychologically in each other and in the aspirations and values which the mate holds. The marriage is essential. It is the most important and sustaining fundamental fulfillment of life.

As they were later able to say, "The things we do together aren't fun in themselves; the delicious joy comes from being together in the doing." The presence of the other is indispensable to the feelings of satisfaction which the activity provides, and they find their central satisfaction in the life they live with and through each other. Sex for these two, is highly important and their comments demonstrate it: "It's not only important; it's fun" . . . "It seems to be getting better all the time."

I spoke with this couple about the fighting and assisted them to understand that the fighting indicated that infidelity must not have been acceptable to one of the partners. They had built a vital marriage relationship. One of the foundations of that relationship had been trust. To be unfaithful to one another would likely destroy that trust — perhaps ruin this love for one another.

I have never seen contented marital partners where frequent infidelity is condoned. For me, a good marriage must contain intimate communication, passion, friendship, respect and embrace the real meaning and practice of trust.

retired. Both have sons and grandchildren. Both came to California from distant locations. Both have wives who support their outside activities.

And both love children.

Ermer has been a Foster Grandparent at PSH for five years and has enjoyed his role so much he has recruited a dozen other Foster Grandparents.

To qualify as a Foster Grandparent, a man or woman must be at least 60 years old and on a limited income. The grandparents work four hours a day, five days a week, and receive a small stipend plus transportation costs.

Most Foster Grandparents have one child in their care, but Ermer has two "sons," Rudy and Lee. The boys enjoy sharing their time with Ermer who takes them hiking to Rustic camp and participates in other activities on the grounds.

Ermer, a former truck driver who retired 11 years ago in New York City, also umpires for Little League and girls softball teams in the Walnut area.

He spends a great deal of time with his three grandchildren in Walnut and enjoys devoting time to their friends.

Ermer says he's pleased that he can establish close friendships with the youngsters and adds, "they like me, too."

Ermer and his wife, Pauline, will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary on June 25.

Ermer believes "children haven't changed all that much in the past 50 years."

Waszink and his wife, Sarah, came to the valley 22 years ago from The Netherlands.

Until last year, he was supervisor of metallurgy at Kaiser Steel Co. in Fontana. He still teaches a class in metallurgy at the plant for workers who seek to advance.

Waszink and his wife were interested in the Foster Grandparents and wanted to serve as unpaid volunteers, but discovered the program was filled at the time.

"Then someone told us that Casa Colina was seeking volunteers for its Children's Center," Waszink says. Mrs. Waszink started but arthritis limited her ability to handle the children.

"Our two sons are gone from home and the grandchildren live in Florida, so we love becoming involved with other children.

"It has been rewarding to work with certain youngsters at the school and feel that I have been somewhat responsible for their physical development," Waszink says.

He describes a close companionship with one small boy who has changed from a passive child to an eager, confident youth since the two have been playing together.

Waszink and his wife of 37 years are also "foster parents" to a Korean orphan and several children in a school in New Mexico.

The couple recently visited the school, which is assisted by the Save Our Children Foundation. They delivered balls, bats, games and other items to the school children.

"In Holland, families are very close and children get a lot of personal attention. They need to feel loved and secure.

"In this country, families are often separated and children may lack the sense of security they need," Waszink adds.

"I'm glad we have the time to share with the children."

Both men added that working as volunteers give them something to look forward to during their retirement.

They may have retired from jobs — but not from life.

wife's death in 1898," Miss Hopkins said. "Mrs. Dodd worked with her minister to set up the first Father's Day observance on June 19, 1910."

The Father's Day idea was slow to catch on, however. Whereas Mother's Day become an official holiday in 1914, just six years after it was first celebrated, Father's Day didn't achieve similar status for six decades.

Miss Hopkins says that it was another woman, Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, who was instrumental in raising the nation's awareness about the holiday.

President Calvin Coolidge recommended in 1924 that Father's Day be observed in all states but he stopped short of a national proclamation. Two other early attempts to formalize the day were defeated in Congress.

All this led Senator Smith in 1957 to unleash her wrath on Congress.

"As far as I can gather," she wrote in a proposal, "Congress has been guilty now for 40 years of the worst possible oversight . . . perpetrated against the gallant fathers . . . of our land.

"As a daughter, as a woman, and as a United States Senator, I must say as strongly as I know how, that the conduct of the Congress in this regard should cause us to hide our faces in shame . . . Either we honor both our parents, mother and father, or let us desist from honoring either one. But to single out just one of our two parents and omit the other is the most grievous insult imaginable."

Her unminced words apparently stuck in the congressional craw. Father's Day became a national holiday in 1972.

HURRICANE AGNES LEGACY,
a steel wall restrains Susquehanna River

Wilkes-Barre hurricane recovery slow

Era of the flood—Wyoming Valley disaster woes linger

EDITOR'S NOTE: When Hurricane Agnes struck the Northeast on June 22, 1972, one of the hardest hit towns was Wilkes-Barre, Pa., where flood waters reached the second stories of many houses. A reporter revisiting Wyoming Valley finds that the effects of the disaster linger.

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP) — Even five years after Hurricane Agnes, people in this town divide their era into "before the flood" and "after the flood."

The flood left the city of 65,000 with more than $1 billion in damages, with physical and mental scars that still are readily apparent.

"It'll never be over," says Donna Miles, a department store sales manager. "We've rearranged our house so our valuable furniture is stored on the second floor. The Minute the river rises, it all moves up to the attic or out of the valley to friends."

"You could see the long-term effects in Eloise," says contractor Tom Bell, referring to a 1975 hurricane — three years after Agnes — that brought heavy rains but no flooding in the Wyoming Valley, thanks to reinforced, higher dikes on the Susquehanna River. "I never saw so many rented trucks. People were packing up and getting out."

In the '72 calamity, about 100,000 persons were left homeless in the Susquehanna flood. Most were housed in trailers and campers provided by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Only three families live in the trailers today, but there are plenty of other reminders.

"The flood has become an historical date," says psychiatric social worker J. Warren Yarnal. "You can hardly go a day in this town without hearing someone talk about 'before the flood' or 'after the flood.'"

A temporary bridge still spans the Susquehanna. Rubble-filled lots and condemned buildings dot the town. Several streets remain closed to traffic. Elementary school children attend classes in a temporary quonset hut-like structure. The Wilkes-Barre public square is torn up, and the central business district is being rebuilt.

In Chamber of Commerce terminology, all of the flood-related repair is called "redevelopment." While larger chain stores are pleased with the modernization that will allow the central city to compete with suburban shopping malls, many small businessmen say the effort has not meant progress for them.

"I don't know what's been worse for this area — the flood or redevelopment," says lawyer George Ritchie, who like many downtown workers, must detour around various construction sites to get to his office overlooking the public square. "Redevelopment is killing the little guy."

"Between redevelopment and SBA, they put me out of business," says printer Jake Sirotkin.

Of the $800 million the federal Small Business Administration spent on flood-related reconstruction in Pennsylvania, nearly $500 million went to Wilkes - Barre. Like more than half of the city's homeowners and small businessmen, Sirotkin was able to get a loan from the SBA to rebuild his home and business. But the Wilkes-Barre Redevelopment Agency tore down the block where his print shop was and erected a new building, charging four times the previous rent. Sirotkin's business failed. He suffered a heart attack. Now he's put a "For Sale" sign in front of the totally rebuilt house where his four children grew up.

While flood victims expressed gratitude for the favorable terms of their special SBA disaster loans — one per cent interest and a $5,000 "forgiveness" — many question the wisdom of the federal policy that encouraged renovation rather than relocation. Federal disaster loans were responsible for the reconstruction of so many homes in the hardest-hit south Wilkes-Barre area that the neighborhood is referred to as a "government reservation."

Mars gone, Star's fallen but Venus still lives on

By KILEY ARMSTRONG
Associated Press Writer

VENUS, Neb. (AP) — The neighboring towns of Mars and Star have fallen by the wayside, but the business of a bygone era lives on at Venus. Population 2.

Fresh farm milk and eggs, bolts and nails, livestock feed and a few pairs of size 5 children's shoes line the shelves of the Venus Store, which is kept in mint 1904 condition by owners Ella and Art Von Seggern.

"When people hear we're from Venus, they laugh and think we're oddballs," says Von Seggern. "But when I was in the hospital last year in Omaha, I was homesick. I thought, 'If I could just get back to Venus.'"

Venus, about 200 miles northwest of Omaha near the South Dakota border, was founded about 1879. It boasted a population of 11 in its heyday and had a creamery, blacksmith shop and dance hall.

Farmers still gather in winter around a pot-belly stove fueled with corncobs and wood. "He and I have changed the government a million times," Von Seggern said as he greeted a customer.

Outside, gas pumps of another era stand beside more modern ones, and a fading sign in the window reminds area residents of the Venus Post Office, closed in 1959.

Popularity keeps the store alive, one customer says.

If the Von Seggerns are busy, regular customers like Vincent Jackson, one of 500 people who live in nearby Orchard, help themselves to a loaf of bread or a dozen eggs then write their own charge slip.

"We've seen a lot of shopping centers come and go," says Von Seggern.

"But," adds his wife, "the people always forget to buy things and have to come to Venus."

ODDBALL? — Art Von Seggern is half the population of Venus. 'When people hear we're from Venus, they laugh and think we're oddballs," he says.

Skiing: schussing down a grassy mountainside

PITTSBURGH (AP) — If you see someone with ski poles schussing 60 miles an hour down a grassy mountainside this summer, don't be concerned. Your eyes don't need checking.

It might be Francois Reizine, a French-born engineer who can't keep off the slopes — even if it is too warm for snow. He simply trades his skis for wheels.

Reizine, once a member of the French Ski Team and head coach of the Western Pennsylvania Racing Team, hits the slopes with the same gusto in summer as in winter.

Reizine uses European built grass skis. One type, the German made Rollka, is a short ski with caterpillar treads. The other, the French made Skirou, is a short ski with two inflated balloon tires.

Reizine says the Rollka gives the skiier a more realistic edging action but the Skirou has the bounce of a real ski and goes faster. The Rollka is capable of going 35 to 50 miles an hour and Reizine says he often hits 60 m.p.h. on the tire-skis.

Both types of skis are designed for use on a variety of grass surfaces. "Any grass-covered slope, a gentle smooth slope or one with undulating hills and valleys, is ideal," Reizine says.

Reizine says he was introduced to the grass skis about six years ago in France. He claims the sport has thousands of followers in Europe, particularly among professional racers.

"People just don't think they can go skiing in the summer," Reizine says. "But they have exactly the same edging effect as skis.

"You carve a turn just like a good pair of skis. If you want to learn, you won't be distracted by sideways movement. It's very good for racers. You can practice hot-dogging and ballet because the skis are short."

Reizine says he doesn't expect grass skiing to enjoy great popularity with Americans.

"There will be interest from serious skiers and those who are sports-minded and excited by something new. People who want to sit in a chair or drink in a bar won't like it," he says.

But Reizine says the beginning snow skier can get into shape for the winter season with the grass skis. "Often beginning skiers are overwhelmed with the cold weather, the skis skidding sideways and continuously falling on hard, wet snow," he says. "They quickly trade in their skis for a couple of drinks by the fire."

But to Reizine, a hill is a ski slope even in the summer. "To ski down a slope in summer in schuss or gentle curves is a beautiful feeling."

AFTERMATH — This youngster will probably never know a real schoolhouse. She scampers past a temporary classroom errected in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., in the wake of Hurricane Agnes.

"Too many people were forced into massive indebtedness, to reconstruct devastated buildings that shouldn't have been rebuilt, in areas where they would have preferred not to remain," said Fred Anderson, a regional coordinator for HUD in the disaster relief and redevelopment effort during 1972-74. "I feel that the growth of this area would have been much longer-lived had there been more judicious decisions about re-use of the flood plain."

The Flood Victims Action Council, which claims more than 2,000 members in Pennsylvania and New York, lobbied for legislation to preclude forced rebuilding in the flood plain and provide better longrange flood protection.

"All redevelopment did was to pour a lot of money into a lot of pockets in the center city," complained one member. "The government's free ride for big business has only increased our tax burden. Our industry hasn't picked up, and the lot of the average citizen hasn't improved."

Despite all the complaints, Wyoming Valley's residents point with pride to what they consider one positive effect of the disaster: The strong family and community support that helped them survive.

"I was amazed at the resilience of the people," said social worker Yarnal.

Psychologist Carl Nitsche, who studied the psychological effects of the 1972 flooding, found relatively few psychic problems, most relating to the disruption of the environment in the flood-damaged communities. Follow-up counseling has confirmed the value of mutual psychological support among flood victims, he says.

"The support network in some of the hardest-hit communities is so strong that the few who were fortunate enough to escape serious flooding practically feel like pariahs," Dr. Nitsche says.

Residents still debate whether a similar disaster could happen again.

"We're still living in a flood plain," says Anderson, the former disaster relief official. "While people are growing more confident that the river will never flood that way again, because we now have a couple more feet of dike, I'm still worried. I think that as development increases up river, there will be more and more runoff water, and sooner or later this valley will flood again. The worst part is, I don't think we'll survive another disaster."

Retraces blood-stained path through pass

Sunday-only Khyber railway ride not for time schedules

ON THE KHYBER RAILWAY, Pakistan (AP) — The conductor shuffled through the second class coach and idly okayed the 31-cent tickets. And then the train inched its way out of the Peshawar Cantonment Station.

It was 23 minutes late but no one cared.

For time schedules matter little on the Sunday-only Khyber Railway train ride from Peshawar to Landi Kotal, near the Afghanistan border, through narrow passes, beneath towering precipices and around edges of deep gorges.

En route, the train retraces the blood-stained path of the Khyber Pass, the ancient passageway to India made legendary in literature — in countless Hollywood movies.

Many considered the railway project impossible when it was begun by the British in 1920 to ensure their hold on the Khyber. Five years, 34 tunnels, 92 bridges and 2 million pounds sterling later, it was completed.

Travelers learn the Khyber is no mere pass, and the trip is accomplished only by using a number of switchbacks, a series of zigzag tracks up steep hills as high as 3,500 feet.

It goes like this:

9:23 a.m. With a steam locomotive at either end, the yellow and green train slowly rolls through Peshawar, passing little bands of waving children and a herd of grazing goats.

9:28 a.m. The first stop is unscheduled. Before cutting across the concrete runway of Peshawar Airport, the train waits for three small aircraft and a C130 Pakistan Air Force Transport plane to land. Heavy traffic for a Sunday morning.

9:43 a.m. The train rolls across the runway and proceeds toward Jamrud Fort, where the Pakistan Northwest Railway ends and the 26.5 mile Khyber Railway officially begins.

10:06 a.m. Two goats and four heavily armed officers of the Khyber police enter the second class compartment at Jamrud Station, located below the thick round bastions of the fort. Schoolboys in gray smocks and black caps chew cubes of sugar cane and show a fellow passenger their English textbook, "Hamid and His Friend."

The inhabitants of the pass — as well as many of the passengers aboard — are Pathans, descendants of fierce warriors who were a constant headache to imperial authorities when this strategic corner of Pakistan belonged to Britain's empire in India.

The British, never completely subduing them, enlisted men of one Pathan tribe — the Afridis — into the ranks of the local militia known as the Khyber Rifles and paid allowances to others to protect the area's roads.

Holding the Khyber Pass was of critical importance to the British during their three Afghan wars of the 19th and early 20th centuries. Control of the pass, its geography perfect for ambush on unwary army patrols or caravans, was hindered by the Khyber Rifles' refusal to fight for the British in 1897 and 1908.

The Pakistan government, since nationhood in 1947, hasn't been that much more successful with the independent-minded Pathans. Officials have been unable to stamp out such traditional tribal livelihoods as firearms manufacture, opium cultivation and smuggling.

10:43 a.m. Women in black veils that touch the ground carry aboard black chickens at Medanak. Police Subinspector Naik Subadar Noorahman cautions foreign passengers not to photograph tribal women.

10:58 a.m. The train slows to a halt after climbing halfway up a slope. Passengers jump down to watch the tracks switched and then scamper back aboard as the locomotive at the rear begins pulling the train further up in the opposite direction.

11:19 a.m. The train stops at Shangai, having climbed thousands of feet since departing Jamrud Fort. A turbaned old man comes aboard and permits a fellow passenger to examine his 1915 British-made Webley revolver. His leather bandolier contains homemade .45 caliber bullets.

There is no dining car, but passengers do not go hungry.

Tommy John stops Cubs

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES — The Dodgers remained 6½ games ahead of Cincinnati Saturday night with a 2-1 win over the Chicago Cubs.

Tommy John (7-4) kept the Cubs hitting the ball on the ground and allowed only six scattered hits. The Dodgers, despite three errors, gave John good support and made five double plays.

Ron Cey gave John all the runs he needed with a two-run homer in the fourth inning. The roundtripper, the first in two weeks for the "Penguin," was his 15th and gave him back the club RBI lead with 54 to Steve Garvey's 53.

"I was just trying to hit the ball hard and hope it would go in the right place," said Cey whose blast came after Bill Russell had tripled.

As for the two-week drouth in homers, Cey explained it this way.

"Aside from the fact that I wasn't doing much of anything anyway, I'm not built like Jeff Burroughs, Mike Schmidt, George Foster or Dave Winfield.

And I don't play in a home run stadium like Atlanta or Philadelphia. So it would be foolish for me to go up to the plate and swing my bleep off every time."

The Cubs got their lone run in the third inning. George Mitterwald cracked a leadoff double and pitcher Bill Bonham singled him to third. Ivan DeJesus grounded to Cey who checked Mitter walked and then threw DeJesus out at first.

Gene Clines hit a bouncer that glanced off John at the mound and caromed to Russell who couldn't handle it and was charged with an error, Mitter walked scoring.

Bill Buckner ended the inning by grounding into a second-to-short-to first double play.

Double plays also ended the Cubs' sixth, eighth and ninth innings as their was only one outfield putout by the Dodgers in the whole game. That was a nice running catch by Dusty Baker on a Bobby Murcer drive in the fourth.

John's complete-game win was the first for the Dodgers since May 21. He walked only one and struck out two, the last one resulting in a game-ending double play as catcher Johnny Oates threw out Murcer on the hit and run as Jerry Morales fanned.

"I told Oatesy (Johnny Oates), 'let's mess around the first part of the game and throw a lot of sliders and curves,'" John related.

"My ball sinks better when I'm tired, so I threw a lot of breaking pitches the first three innings and my fastball started sinking real good.

"I had an exceptional curve ball tonight," John continued. "But if I go seven or eight innings I've done my job. Complete games don't mean that much anymore because of the bullpens, the way they are now."

Tommy pointed out that the World Champion Reds had only 33 complete games but won 102 last year.

Home plate umpire Terry Tata aroused manager Tommy Lasorda's wrath in the fifth and sixth innings with seemingly inconsistent judgements on pitches thrown by John and Bonham.

In the Dodger fifth when Cey came up the first time after hitting his home run, he was sent sprawling by a high, inside pitch.

Lasorda rushed out to the plate but no action was taken toward Bonham. In the Chicago sixth, John did draw a warning and automatic $50 fine when his first pitch to DeJesus was belt high and inside.

DODGER DATA — Don Sutton (7-2) and Rick Reuschel (9-2) are the pitchers for today's 1 p.m. finale. It's also Camera Day with fans allowed on the field from 11:30 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. to take pictures of their favorite players.

Dave Lopes missed his seventh straight game due to a muscle pull in his left rib cage.

Green retains lead

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Hubert Green drifted off into philosophy after his two-over-par 72 was good enough to retain a one-stroke lead Saturday in the third round of the United States Open Golf Championship.

"I'm still leading," he said after constantly fighting nervewracking, downhill putts throughout the hot and humid day.

"That means the rest of them have to come and get me. They have to catch me. They'll have to gamble to do it. This is the U.S. Open. When you gamble in the Open, you can make mistakes.

"You can book bogeys in the Open. They're going to happen.

"I'm not sure I can shoot another 72 and win the tournament," he said and grinned, "but I wouldn't mind it at all if I did."

Green, now only 18 holes away from the major title that so far has eluded him, composed a 54-hole total of 208, two under par on the Southern Hills Country Club course, 6,873 yards of gently-rolling hillsides that was scorched by 90-plus degree temperature and oppressive humidity.

Big Andy Bean, the tour's most noted alligator-wrestler, was the only other man under par after three rounds of this 77th American national championship.

Bean, who, like Green, spent his boyhood summers in weather similiar to that which turned this event into an endurance contest, shot a 68 and was one under par at 209.

Green, who needs only a major title to confirm his status as one of the game's leading lights, grew up in Birmingham, Ala., and the 6-foot-4, 210-pound Bean learned to wrestle alligators in the swampland of southern Georgia.

They were followed by a grab-bag assortment at 210— even par—that included Tom Weiskopf, grimly-determined South African Gary Player, unawed outsiders Gary Jacobsen and Don Padgett, along with Terry Diehl and Tom Purtzer, one of those previously obscure young men who dominated the tour in the early season.

Player, who needs this one to complete a career double sweep of the game's four major championships—the U.S. and British Opens, the Masters and PGA—finished birdie, birdie for a 71.

Purtzer shot the same score. Deihl, in the last two-some with Green, had a 73.

Weiskopf, apparently returned to the form that gained him the nickname Tom Terrific a couple of seasons ago, closed up with a 68 and said: "If I didn't think I could win, I wouldn't have entered the tournament.'

Jacobsen, 24, a mini-tour player from Minnetonka, Minn., and Padgett, 28, who couldn't make it on the pro tour and now is a club pro in Carmel, Ind., were the surprises.

Jacobsen, who has been on a physical fitness kick that includes in its regimen weightlifting 40,000 pounds a week, 150 sit-ups and six miles of roadwork daily, shot a 67.

"I expected to have a good tournament and put no limits on how well I'd play," said Jacobsen. "My position is no surprise whatsoever."

Asked his biggest title so far, he replied: "the Minnesota state junior."

Padgett, son of the national president of the PGA, lost his card after two years of tour activity but unsheathed a magic putter that produced eight one-putts on the glas-slick greens and propelled him to a four-under-par 66, the best round of the tournament.

The quartet at 211, one over par but only three strokes off the pace, was made up of former Open champion Lou Graham, Wally Armstrong, Jay Haas and 44-year-old veteran Rod Funseth, who once had a share of the top spot but fell back and finished with a 72.

Graham, who has played extremely well in recent weeks, shot a 68, Armstrong 70 and Haas 71.

Nicklaus, who normally goes bareheaded, went to a sun visor against the glaring light. But it didn't help his putting. He missed birdies from 10 and 12 feet on the 16th and 17th holes, then three-putted for bogey on the double-tough 18th.

"I had a chance to move into position and then just gave it away at the end," Nicklaus said. "I feel I'm ready to shoot a good round, but I'm not sure I've got one in my bag."

Johnny Miller had a 70-214. Arnold Palmer was 73-215. Al Geiberger, author of that landmark, record-setting 59 last weekend, made triple bogey seven on the final hole for a 75 and a 216 total that apparently took him out of contention.

Ben Crenshaw, Lee Trevino and Masters champion Tom Watson were bunched at 217. Trevino shot a 73, Crenshaw 72, Watson 71. Hale Irwin was 77221. Jerry Pate, the 1976 winner, failed by one stroke to qualify for the final two rounds.

Most of the round was played under a severe thunderstorm watch and the heat and humidity were definite factors.

"It just drains you, makes concentration very difficult," said Weiskopf.

More than four dozen spectators in the gallery of 20,000 were stricken by heat prostration and attended by first aid personnel. The caddy for pro Bob E. Smith collapsed on the 10th hole and was carried from the course. Smith's bag was picked up by a friend who was in the gallery.

"The nice thing about leading is that it's gonna force the other players to come to me," said Green, who really hasn't received the recognition due his 11 tour titles.

"And in the Open, when they start to gamble, they can make mistakes."

Martin, Jackson explode in Boston

BOSTON (AP) — "I treat every ball player the same way, whether he's the 25th player or the top player," Manager Billy Martin of the New York Yankees said Saturday after a near brawl with slugger Reggie Jackson during a 10-4 loss to the Boston Red Sox.

Martin and Jackson had to be restrained by teammates after the millionaire right fielder was yanked from the game in the sixth inning for his appararent lack of hustle in chasing a checked-swing pop double by Boston's Jim Rice.

Jackson seemed shocked when Paul Blair went to right to replace him. Then he jogged to the New York dugout as Boston fans jeered. He shouted at Martin and the manager retaliated as Coach Elston Howard stepped between the angry pair.

With thousands of fans in the Fenway Park stands and a national television audience looking on, Jackson tried to get at Martin. He was restrained by fellow players. Then Martin blew his top, broke loose from Howard but was grabbed by Coach Yogi Berra. Jimmy Wynn held back Jackson, who finally left the dugout and went into the clubhouse.

"Make your own observations," Martin said. "It's between Reggie and me. I don't make observations about my ball players to the press. I don't care if it was seen all over the world. I'm not going to let TV run my team.

"As a manager, I ask only one thing of a player—hustle. If a player doesn't hustle, it shows the club up and I show the player up. Hustle is the only thing I really demand. It doesn't take any ability to hustle."

Martin said "Words were said that I didn't like." However, he added: "I don't see why it can't be repaired. I'll talk to him tomorrow. We won without him last year. He's a good player."

Jackson, signed by the Yankees to a multi-year contract for a reported $2.9 million last November, left the clubhouse before he could be interviewed.

Gabe Paul, president of the Yankees, watched the game from a front row box seat next to the New York dugout. Martin spoke to Paul briefly after the incident and the executive left his seat for some time.

"I just went for a walk," Paul said. "No, I didn't go into the clubhouse. I can't say anything until I talk to Billy and Reggie. I'll wait until they cool off and talk to them later tonight or tomorrow."

The incident was the latest in a stormy relationship that Jackson has had with the Yankees since signing his record contract. The right fielder had feuded with catcher Thurman Munson, captain of the club, over published remarks regarding Munson's leadership qualities. Early in the season, Jackson deliberately avoided the traditional handshakes of his teammates after a home run.

Brewers silence Halo bats

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Three Milwaukee pitchers teamed up for a one-hitter and Sal Bando and Cecil Cooper singled runs across in a four-run third inning as the Brewers ruined Gary Nolan's American League debut with a 4-2 victory over the California Angels Saturday night.

Winner Gary Beare, 2-2, who entered the game with an 8.44 earned run average, yielded a double to Joe Rudi as the Angels scored two unearned runs in the first inning. Beare hurled 7 2/3 innings and Sam Hinds and Bill Castro finished up. Castro earned his eighth save by getting Gil Flores to hit into a game-ending double play with the bases loaded following three walks.

Nolan, 4-1 with Cincinnati before the Angels obtained him just before the June 15 trading deadline, pitched four innings and was tagged for six hits, five in the third inning when the Brewers erased a 2-0 deficit.

Charlie Moore and Robin Yount opened the Brewers' third with singles. Don Money drove in a run with an infield out and, after an infield hit by Sixto Lezcano, Bando and Cooper slapped their RBI singles. The fourth run scored when Von Joshua bounced into a forceout.

The Angels filled the bases in the first inning on a walk, Rudi's double and an intentional walk with two out. Two runs scored when shortstop Yount booted Mario Guerrero's grounder.

With runners on second and third and one out in the Angels' first, first baseman Cooper grabbed Tony Solaita's high hopper and stepped on the bag for the out. Cooper appeared to have a shot at picking Don Baylor off third when he strayed several feet up the line, but Cooper hesitated and Baylor dove back without a throw.

Bobby Bonds was then walked intentionally before two runs scored on Yount's error.

Mickey Scott cut by Angels

ANAHEIM (AP) — Lefthanded pitcher Mickey Scott has been removed from the roster of the California Angels to make room for recent acquisition Gary Nolan, the team announced Saturday.

Scott appeared in 12 games with the Angels this season. He had an 0-2 record and a 5.62 earned run average.

The Angels have 10 days to either make a deal for Scott with another major league team or to assign him to the minor leagues.

F. Robinson reported out

CLEVELAND (AP) — Reports circulated in Cleveland Saturday night that the Cleveland Indians were about to announce the firing of Manager Frank Robinson.

Robinson could not be reached for comment on the latest reports, which said the firing was definite and would be announced soon.

None of the Indians' officials could be reached for comment on the report carried by radio station WERE and by a television station.

There were similar reports a few weeks ago when the Indians were on a prolonged losing streak.

The Indians now have won two in a row from the Detroit Tigers after returning from a road trip on which they lost four straight.

Connors given Wimbledon bye

LONDON (AP) — Jimmy Connors, the Wimbledon men's top seed who has been nursing a badly bruised left thumb all week, has officially been allowed an extra day's grace before playing in the tennis championships.

The first round of the men's singles are normally played the opening Monday, and the American was to have met Richard Lewis of Britain on the No. 2 court then.

But Saturday the Wimbledon authorities said they had allowed Connors to play his match on Tuesday to give his thumb a chance to heal.

Redskins ink Duncan McColl

WASHINGTON (AP) — Washington Redskins Coach George Allen announced Saturday the signing of the National Football League club's top draft choice, defensive end Duncan McColl, to a series of one-year contracts.

McColl, 6-foot-4, 240 pounds, was a fourth-round draft choice from Stanford University and is the Redskins' highest draft pick since 1971. He was a second team All-American and made Pacific Eight Conference twice.

He is the son of Dr. Bill McColl, who was a defensive end at Stanford and for the Chicago Bears. The elder McColl played under Allen when Allen was an assistant coach with the Bears.

Sun Devils prevail

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Chris Bando cracked a seventh-inning go-ahead home run and Jerry Vasquez checked South Carolina on five hits Saturday night to lift Arizona State to a 2-1 victory in the championship of the 31st College World Series.

Top-rated Arizona State, 57-12, earned its fourth series crown—its first since 1969—in a pitchers' battle before a capacity crowd of 11,876.

Vasquez, a junior right-hander who won two series games, struck out three and retired the last nine men in order after Steve King deadlocked the game with a lead-off home run in the seventh.

In the bottom of the inning, Bando, younger brother of major leaguer Sal Bando, lined an 0-1 pitch over the right field fence to give the Sun Devils the lead again.

Arizona State took a 1-0 lead in the third inning on a two-out single by Rick Peters, a stolen base, a single by Mike Henderson. Then Peters scored when Henderson was trapped in a run-down after rounding first base.

Crystal Water claims Gold Cup

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Hard-hitting Crystal Water held off a strong challenge in the stretch Saturday and won the $350,000 Hollywood Gold Cup Handicap at Hollywood Park.

Winning his fourth straight major race, the 4-year-old Crystal Water got under the wire a neck in front of Cascapedia, the lone filly in the rich event. A nose back in a thundering three-horse finish was Caucasus.

Carrying high weight of 129 pounds, the California-bred Crystal Water was timed in 2:00.0 in the one and one-quarter mile feature.

Crystal Water, given an artistic ride by his regular pilot, Laffit Pincay, collected $210,000 for his owner-breeder, Mrs. Connie M. Ring of Beaumont, Calif., who is known as the grand dame of racing in the state.

Favored by a crowd of 38,875, Crystal Water returned $6.80, $4 and $2.60. Cascapedia, who had won four straight races at Hollywood Park this year, carried 116 pounds, including Donald Pierce, and paid $5 and $3.60. Caucasus, 124, with Fernando Toro up, returned $4.60.

Crystal Water, no stranger to the Hollywood racing strip since he won the rich Hollywood Derby as a 3-year-old last year, included the Santa Anita Handicap last March in his victory string as well the Californian in May at Hollywood Park. In the latter, he carried 128 pounds.

Austin Mittler, who waged a lively struggle for the dubious honor of being the longest shot on the board with Festive Mood, jumped into an early lead, with Crystal Water in close pursuit. Festive Mood was also in the chase.

Crystal Water overtook the pacesetter at the far turn, as Austin Mittler fell back, and the winner held off the stretch challenge by Cascapedia and Caucasus in the drive to the wire.

Ancient Title, who won the Hollywood Gold Cup in 1975 and has won $1,082,716 in his lengthy career, finished fourth in the field of 12

Pay Tribute, the 1976 Gold Cup winner, was never a real threat and finished tenth.

Jockey Bill Shoemaker, seeking his seventh Gold Cup triumph, made one thrust at the front but was among the also-rans aboard Mark's Place.

Crystal Water's total earnings have stretched to $723,770. He has won seven of his 16 starts, with three seconds and two thirds.

Trailing behind the top four in order were: Rajab, Mark's Place, Balmerino, Legendario III, Festive Mood, Pay Tribute, Austin Mittler and Taras Bulba.

The purse money included $60,000 for second, $40,000 for third, $25,000 for fourth, $10,000 for fifth and $5,000 for sixth in what was billed as the richest thoroughbred race in the nation and the richest in Hollywood Park history.

Seaver wows 'em in Cincy debut

MONTREAL (AP) — Pity the poor National League. The Cincinnati Reds discovered they have not only acquired a kingpin pitcher in Tom Seaver, but a hitter too.

"We didn't need any more bats, but it looks like we got another one," said Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson after Seaver made his debut with a three-hit 6-0 victory over Montreal Saturday.

Seaver singled twice, one a bases-loaded liner that scored two runs to key a four-run eighth inning as the surging Reds won their seventh straight and 16th in 20 games.

The 32-year-old right-hander said he paused a moment in the first inning to capture the memory of what he called "the start of the second part of my career."

"It was a beautiful experience," said Seaver, the former New York Mets hurler who joined the Reds this week in one of baseball's biggest trades.

"I made a point to look around and remember what I saw," said Seaver, who registered his 43rd career shutout, second only to Don Sutton of Los Angeles, the leader among active players.

"With Seaver, they will catch the Dodgers easy. I would be surprised if he loses another game," said Perez.

"My feeling," said Seaver, "is even if I didn't come here, Cincinnati was going to catch them anyway."

The Reds have pulled to within six games of the Dodgers, who had a 13-game bulge three weeks ago.

Seaver said he shook off a case of nerves, then found the groove in the second inning. "I was just trying to get through it without getting hurt. I didn't expect anything like that. I was nervous."

He retired the first seven batters before yielding a hit to Larry Parrish with one out in the third. He faced only 30 batters, three over the minimum, striking out eight while walking none.

"He was a little excited," said catcher Johnny Bench in a masterpiece of understatement. "He's been psyching himself up for three days."

The Reds staked Seaver to a 1-0 lead in the first before adding their second run in the fourth on George Foster's 18th home run of the season.

Galindez keeps title

ROME (AP) — Victor Galindez of Argentina survived a sixth-round cut and clearly outpointed challenger Richie Kates of Bridgeton, N.J. to retain his World Boxing Association light heavyweight crown Saturday night.

The 28-year-old Argentine dominated the 15-round bout with superior power and lightning speed.

The bout was almost the repetition of the controversial, bloody title fight the two boxers staged in Johannesburg 13 months ago.

On May 22, 1976, Galindez suffered a third round cut, but doctors said he could continue after a 10-minute interruption. The Argentine suffered a deep cut over his right eye in a clinch in the sixth round here Saturday night, but it was his head that hit the American's during one of his lightning fast attacks.

U.S. cagers win

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Darrell Griffith of the University of Louisville scored 35 points to lead the United States to a 149-144 triple overtime victory over Russia in Intercontinental Cup basketball play Saturday night.

The victory gave the United States a tie for second place with Italy and Yugoslavia. Russia clinched the cup Thursday night with a victory over Canada.

Intrepid may enter

SAN DIEGO (AP) — There's a chance that two-time America's Cup winner Intrepid will join the 1977 U.S. Cup selection trials in July and August, it was learned Saturday.

Gerald Driscoll, who was the skipper of Intrepid in 1974, said a sudden infusion of new money will allow him to modify the boat with a new on-deck winch system in preparation for going east.

Yarborough wins big

CAMBRIDGE JUNCTION, Mich. (AP) — "I never won so much money so quick," Cale Yarborough beamed after beating Gordon Johncock by three seconds in the nationally televised $18,000 Camaro Challenge race.

Yarborough, the defending national champion of Grand National stock car racing, won $13,500 for less than 10 minutes of work. Johncock, the 1976 Indianapolis racing titlist, took home $4,500.

Torre hangs 'em up

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Torre, manager of the New York Mets, officially retired as a player Saturday.

He made his last major league appearance in Friday night's 7-1 loss to the Houston Astros when he flied out as a pinch hitter.

Andretti on pole

ANDERSTORP, Sweden (AP) — Mario Andretti, the veteran American Lotus driver, grabbed the pole position for the second straight Saturday for today's Swedish Formula I Grand Prix auto race.

African nations forgiven

PRAGUE (AP) — The International Olympic Committee Saturday finally forgave the African countries which walked out of the Montreal Games last summer.

But it adopted a new rule that will bring heavy discipline on teams which pull out of games in the future.

Racquetball event scheduled at OCC

COSTA MESA — The best racquetball players in the nation, more than 250 of them, will be at Orange Coast College July 1-3 for the fourth annual National Outdoor Three-Wall Racquetball Championships.

Tournament action runs from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Friday and Saturday (July 1-2) and from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. on Sunday (July 3).

Admission to the three-day event is free. Bleachers will be set up to accomodate more than 1,500 fans.

OCC physical education instructor Barry Wallace will be back to defend his open division title, and will probably receive his biggest challenge from professional indoor champ Davey Bledsoe of San Diego.

Bledsoe annexed the national indoor championship two weeks ago at the national tourney held in San Diego. He is the number one ranked racquetball player in the world.

The women's singles competition is expected to be dominated by Shannon Wright of San Diego. Ms. Wright copped the national women's outdoor championship two weeks ago.

The senior singles should once again be controlled by OCC physical education teacher Bob Wetzel and San Diego dentist Dr. Bud Muehleisen. Muehleisen won the title in 1975 and Wetzel took the crown last year. The OCC coach nipped Muehleisen in a brilliant 1976 championship contest, 11-21, 21-16, 21-15.

Competition in OCC's national tourney will be held in open singles, open doubles, B singles, B doubles, C singles, senior singles, women's singles, women's doubles, and junior singles (16 and under).

L.V. splits twinbill

La Verne split a Big League doubleheader with Ted Greene Saturday at La Verne College.

Ted Greene took the opener 13-8 with a 15 hit attack before La Verne exploded for 14 runs and 11 hits in the nightcap in posting a 14-4 triumph over the Ted Greene outfit.

Jim Fox banged out three hits in four at bats for the La Verne squad as Bob Alcaraz was banged around for 13 runs and 15 hits. Fox also drove in three runs for La Verne.

Ted Greene put the game away with four-run outbursts in both the fourth and sixth stanzas.

In the night-cap, Ricky Beltran went the distance to picked up his second victory of the year. His record is 2-3 as he fanned nine Ted Greene batters. He allowed just five hits as he and his teammates coasted to a 14-4 victory.

Henry Castro was 2-for-3 and Pete Fox had three singles and a double. Castro slugged a double and homerun to pace the 11 hit La Verne attack. Jeff Bennett mired in a 2-for-18 batting slump was 1-for-3 with two RBI. Dan Marconi added a double.

La Verne is now 7-6 on the season and will play Diamond Bar Thursday at La Verne College.

Poly slates coaching class

A new and innovative workshop in football coaching strategies is to be offered summer quarter by Cal Poly University, Pomona, Office of Continuing Education, beginning June 29.

Designed for high school, Pop Warner, and junior college coaches and assistant coaches, the course will stress football strategy techniques and team building.

According to course instructor, Chris Kincaid, promoting community involvement in the university football program is one of the major objective of Cal Poly head football coach, Jim Jones. The final meeting of the class will be a six-hour intensive clinic using the Cal Poly football team as a resourse for application of the skills learned.

"Advanced Coaching Strategies in Football" meets Wednesday, 7-10 p.m., June 29-August 24, in the university physical education building 41.

Registration is accepted at the first class meeting with payment of fees; however, preregistration is recommended. Further information may be obtained by calling (714) 598-4391.

Quotes

"The hardest victory you'll ever win is your first one." — Veteran pro golfer Tom Weiskopf.

"I don't believe all that stuff about the lively ball. All that is is a pitcher's scapegoat." — Dave Lopes of the Los Angeles Dodgers, giving his views on the 'live ball' baseball controversy.

"Nobody can tell me the ball isn't livelier than it was last year. — New York Yankees Manager Billy Martin, expressing his views on the 'live ball' baseball controversy.

"I said CBS could start the telecast at 10:30 if it wanted but that the first 90 minutes would be a 76ers intra-squad game because our team would not be there to play until noon." — Portland Trail Blazers Coach Jack Ramsay, reacting to a CBS request that the final game of the NBA playoff series against Philadelphia start at 10:30 a.m., Portland time.

Post 30 Gems now on a tear

Pomona Post 30 racked up its fifth consecutive American Legion win as Pomona downed Rowland, 4-1, Saturday afternoon at Rowland High.

In other Legion action, West Covina defeated Claremont 7-5 and Arcadia belted La Verne pitching for 12 runs in beating the Post 330 outfit, 12-6.

Pomona jumped out to a 2-0 lead as Chris Davis scored both runs on a double and homerun. A two-run fifth frame iced the contest for the Post 30 squad as Todd Bell, Tim Lambert and Aurelio Cornado held Rowland two just two hits as the Pomona trio combined for 10 strikeouts. Bell fanned five in five innings of work.

Dave McFarland broke up Pomona's shutout bid with a fourth inning homerun.

Pomona is now 10-7 on the year and 2-0 in District 18 league action as Bell ran his seasonal record to 3-0.

Claremont, which entered the ninth trailing West Covina 7-4, almost pulled out a thrilling come from behind victory but West Covina held on to win 7-5. Claremont had the bases full after Paul Sokolowski's lead off but failed to get the tying runs across the plate.

Mike Bridgewater gave West Covina a 3-0 lead which they never surrendered throughout the contest. Claremont with two in the second and one in the fifth closed to within one at 4-3 but West Covina went ahead 7-3 with three runs in its final three at-bats.

Claremont is now 1-2 in league action and 8-9-1 on the regular season. Post 78 returns to action today at 2 p.m. with a game scheduled with Hacienda Heights at Los Altos High.

Arcadia broke a 6-6 deadlock in the eighth inning and went on to rack up six runs to defeat the La Verne club Saturday morning at Arcadia High.

La Verne hosts Baldwin Park today at La Verne College. The game is slated to begin at 2 p.m.

UCR cage team needs 'repair'

RIVERSIDE — Needing to do extensive repair work on his frontline, UC Riverside basketball coach Freddie Goss has recruited six forwards and centers for the upcoming season.

Goss has just one returning forward, sophomore Mike Howard (6-foot 5-inch) who played briefly last year.

Graduation wiped out the rest of the frontline and Clyde Robinson and Rael Burke dropped out of school.

Goss announced that 6-6 Peter Walker and 6-8 Paul Purvis will enroll this fall and hold down the center positions.

Four incoming forwards are 6-6 Mike Woolsey, 6-6 John Green, 6-6 Ben Boatwright and 6-4 George Emerson.

Walker, an All-Mission Conference selection, played at Southwestern College (Chula Vista) where he averaged over 22.0 points per game last year in his sophomore season.

Purvis, a freshman, was an 18-point per game scorer at Highland High School (Sacramento). An all-league performer, he is a strong rebounder with more than 19 points per game and was considered a fine all around performer.

Green, also a junior, was a standout in Northern California at Diablo Valley Junior College.

Boatwright, a sophomore, sat out last year at West Los Angeles JC after playing his freshman season at the University of Oregon. Emerson, a junior, played his last two seasons at Hancock Junior College (Santa Maria).

Goss said other new players will be named later.

Beginning his ninth season at Riverside, the ex-UCLA standout has a 138-82 record. Three sophomores will provide his backcourt expertise.

Returning lettermen Theron Laudermill and Rennie Watts will be joined by junior varsity guard Jack Wheeler.

U.S. nabs Federation Cup

EASTBOURNE, England (AP) — Chris Evert and Billie Jean King scored singles victories Saturday to give the United States a 2-1 victory over Australia and retention of the women's Federation Lawn Tennis Cup.

Miss Evert, although playing below form, won the clincher in the best-of-five series by beating Kerry Reid 7-5, 6-3 in the second singles match to give the Americans the $40,000 first prize.

Earlier, Billie Jean King downed Dianne Fromholtz 6-7, 2-6, 6-2. In the meaningless doubles, Mrs. Reid and Wendy Turnbull defeated Miss Evert and Rosemary Casals 6-3, 6-3.

It was sixth victory in 10 Federation Cup appearances for the United States.

Ms. King showed much of her old power to make sure the Americans got off to a solid start. In an outstanding match of twisting fortunes she beat the 20-year-old Miss Fromholtz in 75 minutes. Then Miss Evert took the same time to win.

Miss Evert was not hard-pressed to win because the 29-year Mrs. Reid failed to match the form she showed helping the Aussies eliminate Britain Friday night.

Mrs. Reid made a more positive start to lead 3-0 in the opening set, pushed it to 4-1 but then some tentative shots allowed Miss Evert back to take four games in a row. Mrs. Reid was never to have the initiative again.

After Miss Evert had scraped through the first, playing two or three bad shots to every good one, the second set became a scrappy affair with five of the first six games going against service.

But at the end of this bad sequence the American led 4-2, an advantage she never looked like losing despite her own poor form.

By contrast, Ms. King's opening match with Miss Fromholtz was full of sparkling tennis. The 33-year-old American, six times Wimbledon champion, turned on much of her old magic in a devastating first set. After such a beating it seemed impossible that Miss Fromholtz could come back. But she transformed the match in the second set by taking on the American at her own brilliant volleying game, breaking her service twice, in the third and seventh games.

Ramirez wins

LONDON (AP) — Raul Ramirez of Mexico gave his confidence a boost for Wimbledon next Monday by winning the $100,000 international tournament at Queen's Club Saturday. He beat Mark Cox, Britain's No. 1 player, 9-7, 7-5.

On his way to the final Ramirez had disposed of three Americans — Dick Stockton, Jim Delaney and Brian Gottfried. Cox had been responsible for putting out Hank Pfister, the up and coming star from Bakersfield, Calif., in the semifinal.

In Saturday's semifinals, Ramirez topped Brian Gottfried of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., 9-8, 6-3, and Cox ousted Pfister 9-8, 1-6, 6-4.

Although Ramirez was barely on top throughout the match, which lasted an hour and 45 minutes, the left-handed Cox in each set missed a chance of winning the set.

But each time Ramirez tightened his game and pulled himself out of trouble.

Golfers set for State Amateur

PEBBLE BEACH (AP) — Two-time State Amateur champion Mike Brannan stayed back East after playing in the NCAA tournament, so someone else will claim the title in the 66th California Golf Association's championship which begins here Monday.

The field of 200 entering qualifying rounds on the Pebble Beach and Spyglass Hill courses includes two-time NCAA champion Scott Simpson of Southern Cal and NCAA runner-up Lee Mikles of Arizona State.

Brannan, the Brigham Young University junior who won State Am titles in 1973 and again last year, remained in the East to play in several tournaments scheduled there this month. The Salinas golfer was 13th among the individual finishers in the NCAA event hosted by Colgate.

Young golfers have dominated the State Am in the 1970s. Three winners, including Brannan in 1973, were still in high school when they became champions.

In last year's 36-hole finals, high school junior Ron Commans of Westlake Village led Brannan after 18 holes. Commans is back for another try this year.

Other highly regarded entrants include current Trans-Mississippi champ Doug Clarke of LaJolla, French Amateur semifinalist John Brodie who no longer has football to interfere with his golf, 1974 State Am champ Curt Worley of Coronado and 1975 winner John Cook of Palm Springs.

Angel's Frank Tanana is NOT a wallflower

By Associated Press

It's not the kind of lineup they'd ask Nolan Ryan to face, of course.

Judging a wet T-shirt contest in New York on the California Angels' day off needed the tender touch of their other strikeout star, Frank Tanana. And even though the free-swinging, free-throwing Tanana was supposed to be resting his prized left arm, the MC at a jumping East Side club promised that Tanana would do all his judging with that arm.

Still, it's just what Tanana would have ordered for the arm that's produced a 10-3 record and 109 strikeouts already this year.

"I just give it a little TLC (tender loving care)," the 23-year-old bachelor said while getting ready for his night on the town.

That's not what he's been giving American League hitters. Look at his earned run average, 1.94.

Not that all this surprises Tanana. After all, this man is on a tight schedule.

"Thirty games! Wow, is that what they're saying now?" asks Tanana, laughing. "I read consistently that I'd said I'd win 20 or 25. What I do say is that 30 isn't impossible, I mean it's been done."

The last time was in 1968 when Denny McLain had a 31-6 record. But some feel that Tanana, who has one of the fastest mouths as well as arms in the West, has a good chance to do it. Remember, he is the man who's been known to say, Alilike, "I'm the best."

"Well, if you say you're the best long enough people start to believe it," says Tanana. "Sometimes I have people struck out before they get to the plate. I need no reassurance as to how good I am. But I think it's kind of good therapy to come out and say these things.

'It's almost like telling whoever you're playing against, 'Hey, this isn't going to be easy.' You get guys going out there who don't have the supreme confidence in themselves and they read this and they're beat even before they get on the field."

But Tanana isn't all talk and no action. He's leading the majors in shutouts (five) and complete games (12) and has a two-hitter, with his three losses coming from a no-hitter, a shutout and, most recently, a 3-2 decision at Minnesota on Wednesday night.

So while the 6-foot-3 Tanana stands lean and mean on the pitcher's mound, he loves to throw writers big, fat gopher balls to see what they'll do with them.

FRANK TANANA

Ask Tanana what it means to have his best stuff and he says, "Well, I'll tell you. Having your stuff means whether you have one or three names in the stands. If you've got three, that would be my description of having your staff together."

Ask Tanana how it feels to throw a strikeout or 17 of them, as he did in a game in 1975, and he will tell you explicitly enough to make Angels Manager Norm Sherry put his head in his hands, laugh and say, "Well, sometimes he just forgets where he is. And besides that, he's a left-hander."

But maybe Tanana has a right to feel that good on the mound. And so what if people call him cocky, flamboyant and a hotdog?

The Yankees' Reggie Jackson, who knows about these things, explains, "Frank Tanana to me is a legitimate hotdog. He's got a right to be a hotdog because he can back it up. He's one of the five best pitchers in baseball."

"People call Frank Tanana hot dog to knock him, say that he's cocky, a show-off. Well, show off if you can do it."

"It's easy for people to get on me because I'm cocky," he says. "If I've done good, I'll get that cocky kid look about me. I'll prance on the mound sometimes.

"But my reactions are strictly spontaneous. I might flip somebody off, I might tip my hat, I might start yelling at people. I give them reason. But at least you know they're there, they're in the ballgame with you."

Tanana freely admits he plays a different ball game than most athletes who are interviewed.

"When people come to me they realize I'm not too big on giving the standard answers. 'Hey Frank, how'd you feel out there today?' they ask. 'Well, I had good rhythm.' Whoopdeedoo! I'd just as soon tell 'em what really perked me up was a good-looking chick in the third row or something ridiculous like that."

Tanana picks his spots for those remarks, just as he does with a baseball. He calls himself a control pitcher, meaning he can put the ball exactly where he wants it as fast as he can throw it. He's averaged only 2.2 walks per nine innings this year.

As for hitting anyone intentionally, he says, "I think, yeah, there were times when there were people who just had to be thrown at. For one, you have to protect your own players. I don't mind knocking people back and brushing them, but I won't hit anyone intentionally."

What Tanana is trying to hit is a 20-victory season—"If I don't do that I guess I'll have to tone down a bit". But he thinks he can do much better.

Net 'whiz kid' is for real

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The youngest woman to compete in the Wimbledon Tennis Championships since 1887 is more of a little girl than anything else— except when she steps on the court.

Tracy Austin is 14 years old, a shy 5-foot-1, 90-pounder. But her opponents are no longer fooled by her small stature and quiet demeanor.

How good is Tracy Austin?

In a two-month stretch last winter, she knocked off a number of world-class players during her first venture on the pro tour. She turned back more than $12,000 in prize money.

Among her startled victims were Dianne Fromholtz, No.1 in Australia and No.8 in the world, and Greer Stevens, No.1 in South Africa.

"She's a sweet girl," said Chris Evert, with whom Tracy has been compared. "We'll know just how good she is by the time she is 17. By 17 or 18, if you haven't broken into the top three, you never will."

The youngster, an eighth-grade student at the Dapplegray Intermediate School in the wealthy Los Angeles suburb of Rolling Hills Estates, plans to continue competing in junior tournaments and selected tour events until she finishes high school. Then she wants to turn pro.

Her daily routine hasn't changed much in recent years. Tracy was born into a tennis family and was given her first racquet at age 2. She started lessons at 7 with her present coach, Bob Landsdorp, and "when I was 9, I started liking tennis a lot."

She has dominated the national junior ranks since then and spends most of her waking hours at the Jack Kramer Tennis Club near her Rolling Hills home.

Tracy accompanied by her mother will warm up for Wimbledon, the most prestigious event in tennis, in a grass courts tournament in Edinburgh starting Monday. Wimbledon begins June 20.

The youngster is more apprehensive about starting high school in September than about her debut at Wimbledon. "When I think about high school, I think of big people. I think it should start in the 10th grade instead of the ninth. I'm too small."

Tracy's mother, Jeanne, and father, George, a nuclear physicist, took up tennis for fun when they moved to California in 1955.

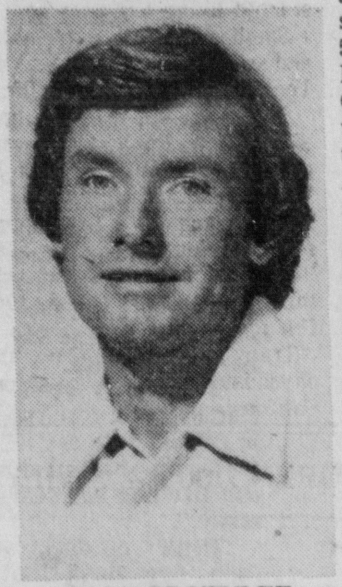
Valley golfer joins PGA Tour

By PHIL ROCHE
PB Staff Writer



DAVE BROWNLEE

The sandy-haired, 27-year-old Dave Brownlee of La Verne still can't believe he's joining the PGA Tour. He's in Chicago today walking Butler National, where the Western Open will be played later this week.

Brownlee, the former Claremont and Citrus star, is a full-fledged member of the PGA Tour. He recently fired his way through the PGA Qualifying School at Pinehurst, N.C. with rounds of 71-71-65-75-73-72 — 427.

Four hundred and fourteen top golfers came to the Spring Qualifying School, but only 26 left with their cards in hand. One of them is the indomitable Brownlee, who admits he's putting and chipping better now than ever before.

"I don't think I'm hitting the ball any better or any different," Brownlee said Friday, "but I know where my shots are going now and my mental attitude is much better than it has ever been."

Brownlee in his six rounds at Pinehurst did not hit one ball out of bounds. "I missed only 10 fairways in six days," he says. Brownlee averaged "about 245-250" with a borrowed driver after the shaft on his own driver was broken.

"I can't even believe that I made it," said Brownlee, who had said this would be his last try. "I had tried the school four times before, and I made up my mind that I was going to make it this time or else."

Veteran golfers in the valley know that Dave has worked hard on his game, but few know just how hard. In a Washington Post interview recently, Brownlee says he devoted 15 hours a day to golf before joining the American Golfers Association tour

He would putt for hours, play 36 holes, hit hundreds of practice shots, lift weights, and run — always with that PGA Tour card in mind.

Brownlee's game is sharp these days. Teamed with one his biggest boosters, Bill Hanks, assistant pro at Marshall Canyon, Dave is nearly unbeatable.

On Monday he fired a neat 69 at Corona National as he got ready for his qualifying round tomorrow (Monday) in the Butler Open. Dave plans to play in six straight tournaments, and he is optimistic about his chances in all of them. "I feel that I can win on the Tour," says Brownlee. "I was really helped by playing on the AGA Tour (American Golfers Association) where we played with fine players on all kinds of courses in all kinds of conditions."

The 5-8, 150-pound pro says he once played in 14 degree weather in Albuquerque amid snow flurries. "We played in the rain, in heat, everything."

On the AGA Tour with Brownlee was his buddy Jon Fiedler of Claremont, a former USC star.

Asked about training methods, Brownlee says there's nothing more important than building up the left arm and wrist. He uses the left hand to wield a tennis racket backhandedly, banging ball after ball over the net or against a wall. "Keep your left wrist firm when you exercise and you'll build up that arm and wrist in no time," he says.

So, Brownsee takes to the road now. On his way to Pinehurst he drove from El Paso to North Carolina in 36 hours, catching a little sleep in the front seat of his car from time to time. He climbed out of his car and went to work at Pinehurst a short time later.

Dave boarded a jet last night, travelling in style. And when he gets to Chicago, a courtesy car will be ready for him, compliments of the PGA Tour.

Dave Brownlee has arrived — what do you know. Hard work and dedication do pay off after all.

Marie Commor and Mary Picou of Pomona National have both qualified at the club level for the third annual Silver Circle Senior Women's Golf championship of Southern California. The better ball partners tournament will be held Oct. 17 at Los Coyotes C.C. in Buena Park.

Marie, who carries a 19 handicap, carded low gross of 93 to win the qualifying round at Pomona National, and Mary Picou became her winning partner with a low net of 70.

Among recent celebrity entries in the Norm Crosby — Hope for Hearing Celebrity-Amateur tournament are George (Goober) Lindsey, David Doyle of Charlie's Angels, Dennis James of The Price is Right, Jim Backus, the voice of Mr. Magoo and one of the stars of Gilligan's Island, Jim Rissmiller, concert promoter, and Fred Robledo of the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner.

The scramble tournament will be played Sunday, July 17 at Horse Thief C.C. in the Stallion Springs mountain community near Tehachapi.

Last year's tournament raised $10,000 for research and training by the Hope for Hearing Foundation and Oral Education Center at UCLA.

Amateur entry fee is $200. The package includes a pair of high quality FootJoy golf or street shoes, a cardigan golf sweater and shirt, deerskin golf glove, golf balls, towel, green fees, and a steak dinner with celebrity entertainment.

Those desiring to enter should contact Charles Bobo, tournament coordinator, 6648 Sheltondale Ave., Canoga Park.

Cross country tournament winners at Ontario National are Vicki Raddi, Mary Macioge and Maxine Reihsen. Maxine also won low putt honors.

Mike Bellmar has won all kinds of amateur golf titles in the last six years, but until last Monday he had been mostly a bridesmaid in the Confidence Western Amateur Tour.

Bellmar, who has won two consecutive Southern California Public Links titles, kicked off the third WAGA season with a 1-over-par 73 at the tough Mission Viejo C.C. He promptly left for work hoping his 73 would hold up. Had he tied, he would not have been available for a playoff.

The 26-year-old Long Beach resident is a computer operator.

At least a half dozen in the field of 167 had chances to overtake the former UCLA golfer, but the 6,800-yard course, nicknamed Mission Impossible, proved too much. The closest anyone came was a 74 by Alan Demarest, 18, of Palos Verdes who birdied the 18th.

The 11-week tour shifts to Canyon Crest in Riverside on Monday, but Bellmar won't be there. He and 27 other WAGA players will be competing in the California State Amateur at Pebble Beach.

At least three tour regulars didn't even attempt the long qualifying process for the National Open: Dave Hill, Homero Blancas and Fred Marti. Don January was exempt from qualifying but declined to enter.

Barbara Nicklaus forwarded to the PGA Tour three letters from Ghana, West Africa, that had been sent to this country in care of Jack Nicklaus. One was addressed to Arnold Palmer. One was addressed to Johnny Miller.

Citrus trainer is real globetrotter

AZUSA — Citrus College athletic trainer Tony Russo will be celebrating his 50th birthday in Moscow, Russia this summer. Guests at his celebration will include the finest track and field athletes in America, as well as Russia's top athletes.

Russo, U.S.A. head trainer for the 1968 Olympic Games in Mexico City, was selected to accompany America's track and field team on its European tour this summer.

The team left the states last Sunday and is scheduled to return July 5. Meets in France, Germany, Italy and Russia are slated.

Russo will be turning 50 on July 3, when the American team will be in Moscow.

The Owl trainer has a most impressive list of accomplishments to his credit.

He has served as the head trainer for the L.A. Times Charity Games, the Sunkist Games, and for America's National track and field squad for several years. He was selected for that position on the basis of his outstanding work with athletes and his demonstrated excellence in the training field, according to Dr. Anthony F. Daly, Jr., MD, the team physician for the European tour.

The Glendora resident and former New Yorker began his Citrus College training career in 1958 as the school's first official trainer. He has received numerous awards and commendations from the world's greatest athletes and coaches for his work.

Russo served as the head trainer for the National AAU track and field finals at UCLA prior to leaving for Europe. He was assisted at that meet by his Citrus College assistant, Paul Pucciarelli. Pucciarelli has worked many of the big track meets in the Southland along with Russo.

Russo will be back on the Azusa school's campus in August, just in time for the beginning of the Owls' fall football drills.

Medalists enter meet

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) — Olympic gold medalists Brian Goodell, Tim Shaw and Bruce Furniss are the top entrants in an open swimming meet, scheduled Friday-Sunday. A total of 20 defending champions return.

Swimmers on 44 teams from 15 states, plus eight Canadian teams and others from Brazil, Israel, Puerto Rico, Sweden and The Netherlands are entered in 30 events.

Carlsbad motocross is today

CARLSBAD, Calif. (AP) — Gerrit Wolsink, who has won the race the past three years, will be back to try again today in the United States Motocross Grand Prix at Carlsbad Raceway.

But the flying Dutchman will have to contend with the best riders in the world, including Belgium's Roy DeCoster and Finland's Hekki Mikkola.

Going into the race, Wolsink ranks third in the world championship riding standings, 43 points back of Mikkola and 10 behind DeCoster.

Wolsink said he expects this race to be an especially close one.

"This year the battle for the world championship has been tougher than ever," he said. "Roger and I have had to work harder on the Suzuki team because the new bikes from Yamaha and Honda are so fast.

"There are 14 regular grand prix competitors coming to Carlsbad and every one of them is capable of winning.

"Then if you add to that the number of Americans who have the potential to beat the best in the world," Wolsink continued, "you can see that this grand prix is going to be the toughest of them all."

The Carlsbad event, cosponsored by Hang Ten and Belray Oil, gets under way with practice runs at 9:30 a.m. PDT. The championship event, two races, will be held in the afternoon.

Badminton booming in the U.S.

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Badminton, or a variation thereof, has been popular in China, India and other Eastern nations for 2,000 years, but the game's just beginning to join the ranks of professionalism.

Chris Kinard, a 26-year-old star from Pasadena, has traveled the world because of his proficiency at this racquet game. He was doing so well that he delayed finishing his college education at UCLA until this year.

Chris won the U.S. Open singles title in 1972, 1973, 1974, 1976 and 1977. This spring he also won the collegiate crown—the only player to be both open and collegiate badminton singles champion.

"I think I got a very good education from the traveling and always felt I would finish school," explained Kinard, who will graduate in September with a major in history. He had attended college for three years immediately on graduation from high school.

"I just want to graduate and then I may go into the sporting goods business.

"Badminton is now starting to go professional and starting to open up to professionals. There is endorsement of products and we can play for a limited amount of prize money. That's the first step toward professionalism.

"There is a ready-made market in the Asian countries and also in Europe. Badminton is an out-and-out national sport in Asian nations. It is not uncommon for 20,000 people to watch a match."

The Thomas Cup in badminton is similar to the Davis Cup in tennis as an international team competition.

Kinard, who stands 5-foot-11 and weighs 165, has been playing badminton 15 years. He chose it over tennis, he says, "Because I think it is the fastest racquet sport in the world and it takes the most physical conditioning to play the game."

Badminton players use racquets weighing 3½-4½ ounces and the court measures 44 by 20 feet. The players hit a shuttlecock over a net. As in volleyball, points count only when a player or doubles team is on offense.

The sport gained early popularity because it could be played on backyard courts, but Kinard maintains that has hurt the competitive aspect of the game on an expert category.

"The drawback in this country has been the backyard stigma," he explains. "I've never played once in the backyard. That's like playing tennis on an ice skating rink."

On the other hand, the availability of playing areas has helped the sport mushroom in recent years and enhanced the professional possibilities.

"Two million players in the United States are on the competitive level now," Kinard estimates. "The sport is in the high school level and some colleges offer scholarships."

To prove his contention that tremendous physical training is necessary to play competitive badminton on an international scale, Kinard said:

"During the season starting three months before the national championships, I work 1½ hours every morning. I run 10 100-yard wind sprints and several 50-yard sprints back-pedaling. I skip rope with 2,500 single skips and then, in the evening, play badminton three hours and finish with 500 to 1,000 double jumps with the rope.

"To increase speed, I sometimes play against two opponents."

The last time the United States reached the final round of the Thomas Cup was a quarter century ago, but Kinard believes the increased number of competitive players in this country will lead to better efforts in the international competition.

"I think you'll find the U.S. has a good chance to reach that final round again before long," he says.

The badminton champion attended college from 1968-72 but after making his first national team in 1970, he concentrated more on the the sport and has been on the national team ever since. A total of 12 players annually composes that squad with six on the international competitive team.

Montclair swimmers impress

The Monte Vista Swim Club of Montclair had several swimmers place in the recent AAU meet at Palm Springs.

Jim Schiller of the club brought home a third place finish in the 13-14 boys 200 fly, a 4th in the 100 fly, 5th's in the 200 individual medley and 200 freestyle, and a 6th in the 50 free.

In the 15-18 boys division, Tom Maples came back with a first in the 100 backstroke, a 2nd in the 200 fly and a 3rd in the 100 fly. Jeff Palmer placed 2nd in the 200 fly, 4th in the 100 free and 50 free, and 5th in the 100 backstroke. Lou Dudash brought back a first in the 100 breaststroke.

Monte Vista swimmers also did well at a recent Rosemead Novice Invitational Novice meet, as Rick Price, Ricky Coes and Tina Schiller were winners.

Other M.V. swimmers placed at the Chino Rotary Novice Invitational.

Nabbing firsts in that competition were Jess Adams in the 9-10 boys breaststroke and freestyle, Tina Schiller in the 13-14 girls backstroke and fly, Rick Price in the 15-18 boys 70 freestyle, and Jim Reed in the 15-18 boys 70 breaststroke.

The club is now conducting tryouts for its summer swim program. Tryouts are open to all youths five years of age and up. For further information, call 626-9848 or 624-0791.

Bengals sign fourth choice

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Bengals of the National Football League have signed their fourth-round draft choice, Jerry Anderson.

Anderson, a defensive back from the University of Oklahoma, suffered a separated right shoulder in the fourth game last year and missed the rest of the season.

At 7-foot-6, he's worth a gamble

ATLANTA (AP) — Morris Brown College is gambling that a huge teenager who hasn't played organized ball in years, will turn its basketball program around.

George Bell, a 7-foot-6 center from Portsmouth, Va., has signed a national letter of intent to play at Morris Brown, Atheltic Director Charles Hardnett said today.

Hardnett said in an interview that the 19-year-old schoolboy was no star, but "all the people I've talked with say he has a good hook shot, and of course, he's pretty big. He goes about 270 pounds."

"I haven't seen him play," Hardnett said, "The people I've been in contact with say he's not ready" for big time basketball yet, "but they say give him two years and he'll be ready."

"There's no doubt about it, he'll turn our basketball program around," Hardnett said. His team finished with an 8-17 overall record and 3-9 in the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference.

He said he found out about Bell through friends and through "letting people know you need ball players."

'Moral equivalent of war' raging in Washington

Victories, defeats listed in President's energy battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders never said getting President Carter's energy program through Congress would be easy. Judging from recent votes, it hasn't been.

Two months after the President urged Congress to join him in waging what he termed the "moral equivalent of war" against the energy crisis, many of the key components of his plan have suffered setbacks at the hands of congressional committees.

However, there also have been some offsetting victories for the plan, such as the House Ways and Means Committee's decision last week to back the President's proposed tax on oil at the wellhead.

Administration officials and Democratic leaders of Congress claim many of the defeats may only be temporary.

Here is a rundown on what has happened to the major parts of that plan and their prospects:

STANDBY GASOLINE TAX. The House Ways and Means Committee's vote rejecting the tax, which could add up to 50 cents-per-gallon to gas prices in yearly nickel increments if gasoline consumption continued to rise rapidly, will likely stand.

Although Rep. Thomas Ashley, D-Ohio, chairman of a special House committee overseeing the energy legislation, vowed to try to revive the tax on the House floor, many congressional leaders claim the committee vote effectively killed the proposal. And it is unlikely that the Senate will even seriously consider the tax, the most controversial item of the energy package.

WELLHEAD OIL TAX. Handing the administration its first major victory, the Ways and Means Committee voted 21 to 16 to approve the President's proposal for a tax on domestic oil production that would bring the price of oil up to world-market levels over a three-year period.

This proposal would add between seven and eight cents a gallon to the price of gasoline.

Administration officials and congressional allies viewed the vote as an indication that the energy plan is gaining steam, despite earlier defeats.

However, it seemed too early to tell what the ultimate fate of the proposed wellhead tax would be. Both sides are predicting a close fight.

GAS-GUZZLER TAX AND SMALL-CAR REBATES. The rebate plan, widely criticized in both House and Senate as a potential subsidy to manufacturers of small, fuel-efficent imported cars, also was rejected by the Ways and Means panel. There appears to be no major effort to revive it.

That same House committee, where most of the early action on the energy plan has centered, also voted to put off any penalty tax on gas guzzlers until 1979 and to apply it only to cars getting less than 15 miles per gallon.

Carter wanted the tax to begin with 1978 models and to include a greater number of fuel-inefficient cars. House and Senate leaders say chances seem good that Congress will approve some form of gas-guzzler tax.

NATURAL GAS PRICING. A House Commerce subcommittee substituted a proposal to deregulate the price of newly drilled natural gas for the administration plan. Administration lobbyists hope the full Commerce Committee will reverse this vote. But support for deregulation exists in both the House and Senate.

Under the administration plan, natural gas prices in the interstate market would be allowed to rise by about 20 per cent while remaining under federal control. These controls would be extended to the now-unregulated markets within gas-producing states.

Fierce floor fights are expected over this one.

HOME INSULATION. On a close vote, the Ways and Means Committee approved the President's plan to give tax breaks for home insulation, solar energy and other energy conservation measures. This part of the energy plan is expected to be enacted.

But rival committees have disagreed over whether the insulation program should be mandatory. A Commerce subcommittee voted to bar financing of home mortgages by federally insured lending institutions unless the homes to be sold were properly insulated. However, a Banking subcommittee on housing backed the President's voluntary approach. The dispute will be resolved on the House floor, with the voluntary program seemingly having the upper hand.

COAL CONVERSION. The President asked Congress to ban new power plants from using oil or natural gas under their burners and to encourage conversion to coal by imposing a tax on existing utilities and industries that still use these fuels.

House and Senate committees are considering this program. The Senate Energy Committee soon will approve a program similar to what Carter recommended, predicts its chairman, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D.Wash.

In a related issue, backers of the coal-conversion plan see a victory in the Senate vote to impose tough new auto-exhaust beginning in 1980. They claim this would allow more conversions to coal than the House-passed bill, which gives the auto industry two additional years to meet less stringent pollution standards.

The more that auto pollution is cleaned up, the more coal that can be burned, backers of the administration plan maintain.

NUCLEAR. Although Congress seems ready to go along with the President's call for expanded use of conventional reactors, his recommendation to cancel the plutonium breeder reactor project at Clinch River, Tenn., has been rejected by a House committee. Sources say they expect Congress to vote to continue work on the project.

Carter urged phasing down nuclear systems using plutonium, claiming the material could be diverted too easily to use in atomic weapons.

DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY. Both the House and Senate passed Carter's proposal for a new cabinet-level energy department to carry out a national energy policy. Both chambers, however, voted to give energy pricing powers to a commission within the new department — not the new energy secretary. The administration favors the Senate-passed bill because it gives the President veto power over the commission's decisions. The legislation now is in a conference committee.

Gooey, oozy drippy . . .

'Slime' is proving a toy bonanza

HAWTHORNE, Calif. — (BW) — It's gooey, oozy, drippy — you can squeeze it, stretch it, squish it, snap it and drip it — it's "Slime," one of the top selling novelty toy products in the United States today.

Slime compound, which comes in its own miniature, 6-ounce garbage can, is a water-based, greenish gummy substance that's delighting millions of children from coast to coast, as the Slime craze oozes across the country.

Michael W. Arthur, vice president, marketing of Mattel Toys, the world's largest toymaker and the manufacturer of Slime, "We will sell all the Slime we can make this year. It will be one of the most successful novelty toy items introduced into the marketplace in 1977?"

Arthur said the Slime compound has tremendous appeal to adults as well as youngsters. "It's just great fun to hold a handful of Slime and massage it into a variety of shapes, and then let it ooze through your fingers. It's kind of therapeutic play."

Word of mouth has accounted for the great demand for Slime since the product has not been supported by T.V. advertising as is the case with most successful toy products. Children are intrigued by the play experience with Slime.

Children have commented that they can do anything they want with Slime, as there are no instructions, no rules, and a youngster's play involvement with Slime is limited only by his imagination.

Arthur went on to say, "The demand for Slime has been unique in the fact that the company has been receiving phone calls from all over the country, mostly from adults, asking where they can buy Slime — and they want it for themselves and not for a youngster."

Slime is a non-toxic, water soluble gel. It was developed in 1974 by Mattel's inventive preliminary design department, and introduction into the marketplace in the spring of 1977.

Slime is fine — for fun.

How to master office politics

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — If the boss plays golf, don't take up tennis.

If you're a woman, look feminine but not provocative in most organizations.

In an ad agency, dress far out but expensive.

If you're a bank employe, wear traditional, conservative clothing.

Those are some of the tips given by Blaine Cooke, professor of management at the University of Minnesota, on how to make the most of office politics.

He and a colleague, Prof. Bruce Erickson, have designed an experimental night course for masters of business administration students and may offer it to day students later.

Cooke, a former vice president for marketing with Trans World Airlines, says that sometimes the infighting can cost a person a job. For instance, he said, one executive for a major national corporation was credited with much of the firm's success.

When a new president arrived, the top man sized up the vice president as a threat to himself and bluntly fired him.

"Everybody knows things like this go on," said Cooke.

Cooke said the richest, largest companies often are more political because there is more money and power tied to advancement. He also gave these views:

—Companies involved in reorganization and those regulated by government are apt to be intensively political.

—Universities, hospitals, schools and government agencies usually have more politics than businesses.

—Highly competitive businesses are less political because energies must be focused on earning money.

He also advises, if the boss is a "winner," stay in your job for a while, then transfer to another area if there's more room for advancement.

Cooke feels that teaching students about political behavior as a morally neutral tool may help them use their skills both for the benefit of the organization and their own gain.

"But political behavior involves getting along with everybody — up, down and sideways from your position," concludes Cooke.

Color Tile opens new supermart

FORTH WORTH — Color Tile Supermarts, a Tandycrafts, Inc. (NYSE) company and do-it-yourself home improvement and decorating retail chain, has announced the opening of its 250th supermart nationwide. The new supermart, which marks a milestone in Color Tile's growth and expansion, is located in Wenonah, N.J.

The first Color Tile store opened in Joliet, Ill., in 1953. In 1968, when acquired by Tandy Corp., Color Tile consisted of some 15 stores. In the nine years since the acquisition by Tandy, Color Tile has grown approximately 190 per cent per year to its present 250 supermarts in 35 states.

"Our goal," Simon stated, "is to open as many supermarts nationwide as to meet the increasing demand for do-it-yourself home improvement and decorating products."

Building permit values and jobless rates drop seen

LOS ANGELES — Building permit values for April in California dropped slightly over the previous month's all-time record total while the jobless rate among the state's construction workers fell, too.

Slightly more than $1.26 billion worth of residential and non-residential permits were issued in April, a 10.5 per cent drop from March's record breaking total. However, April's total was still the second highest ever in the state, according to researchers at the Security Pacific National Bank.

Engineering contract awards for April dropped by more than sixty per cent from the previous month's total. However, industry analysts pointed out the March's $168 million total was an "aberration" and was due to the awarding of a 100 million dollar contract for construction of an electrical generating plant in Carlsbad. Separating that award from March's total, analysts noted, and then comparing the remainder with April's total revealed there was only a drop of about 13 per cent over the "adjusted" total for the previous month.

The unemployment rate among California's 403,000 construction workers dropped from a revised March estimate of 15 per cent to 12.9 per cent in April. These estimates were derived by industry analysts based on state and federal labor data.

"In spite of recent record building permit levels more than one in eight construction workers are still unemployed," added Ben Bartolotto, director of the Construction Industry Research Board. "This persistently high level of unemployment is partly due to the still depressed road building and heavy construction activity. In Los Angeles County, for example, employment in these activities dropped by 13 per cent over the same month last year. Another problem has been the generally sluggish recovery in the northern half of the state. While construction employment statewide increased by 41,100 over April of last year, less than 13 per cent of this increase occured in the north. This is less than one-third of the expected 40 per cent northern share."

In noting the slight drop in overall permit values issued in the state in April, industry leaders felt that a "certain moderating force" was bound to take hold in the market, particularly in the residential area of new construction. While opinions varied, most felt the mild slowdown was attributable to the recent increase in mortgage rates, the mounting shortages of waste water treatment capacities in a number of areas in the state and pockets of resistance to further growth in other communities. However, they also felt that non-residential permit values, while also down over the previous month, were "still holding their own" and reflected "a basically sound economic thrust" in the state which most industry leaders felt will continue in the months ahead.

April was a mixed month for Los Angeles County builders with the value of residential permits granted up slightly while non-residential permit values fell.

The value of residential permits granted in the county advanced by 4 per cent over the previous month. The biggest boost within this area came from a 13 per cent increase in the value of permits granted for new single dwellings. For instance, there was a $2 million permit granted for a 37-unit tract development in Covina, and six major permits granted for tract developments in the San Fernando Valley, the largest valued at just over $2 million.

Within the non-residential sector, which was off 13 per cent from March's total, there was still a strong surge of permits issued in the county for new industrial complexes. In El Segundo, for example, a $2.8 million permit was granted for a new "accoustical facility" for an aircraft company and in Long Beach there was a permit issued valued at nearly $6 million for a new shipping and receiving facility which was also the third highest valued permit issued in the state in April.

"Overall, the level of activity in the county ran counter to the statewide moderating trend seen in April," said J.W. "Jack" Bernard, president of the W.J. Moran Company in Alhambra. "I think this probably reflects a respectable and healthy economic climate in Los Angeles County right now and we may see this continuing into the summer months at least," Bernard added.

April brought a slight dampening in the total value of both the residential and non-residential permits issued in Orange County.

The value of residential permits granted in the county during April was 6 per cent lower than March's total. The big drop came in the value of permits issued for new multi-dwelling units which was about one-third lower than the previous month. However, the value of permits issued for new single dwelling units edged slightly higher and was fixed at just over $96 million for the month. In Fullerton, for instance, a $2.4 million permit was granted for a 44-unit tract development; in Garden Grove there was a $3.4 million permit issued for a new 44-unit tract development; and there were between 15 and 20 major permits issued for new tract developments in the unincorporated portions of Orange County, the largest one being valued at $3.9 million for a 69-unit tract complex.

Within the non-residential sector, April's total permit value for Orange County dropped 13 per cent over March's total. However, there were three "commercial" permits issued in Newport Beach for some new office buildings which ranged in value from $1.2 million to $2.7 million.

"You've got to remember that the recent level of activity in Orange County has been unusually high, to say the least," commented Kenneth Agid, vice president of the Irvine Pacific Development Company. "For a number of reasons — higher mortgage rates, some saturation in certain areas and others — there had to be some slowdown coming and I think that's what we're seeing. Still, Agid said, "the figures show that once again there were over 1,000 new residential units approved for construction in Orange County during April and, by any bench mark, that's very respectable indeed."

Riverside Coutny had a 38 per cent increase over the month before in the value of residential permits issued there and more than 1,000 new housing units were approved during April. Also, Ventura County's April total value of residential permits granted advanced by 6 per cent over March's tally.

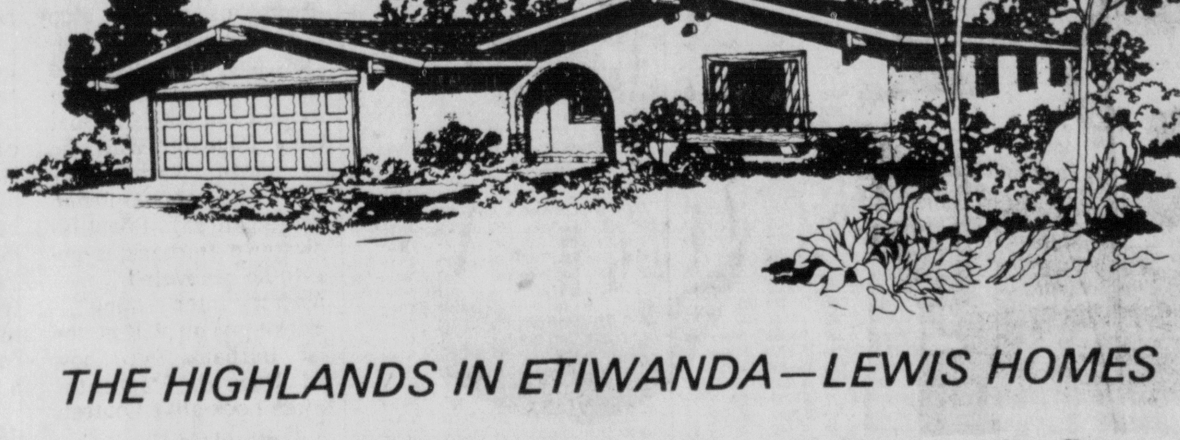
To view Highlands homes

Area home seekers may head for Etiwanda



THE HIGHLANDS IN ETIWANDA—LEWIS HOMES

Etiwanda is expected to be a popular meeting place for this weekend's home seekers, attracted by Lewis Homes' announcement that a limited number of residences in it's Highlands development are now ready for occupancy.

The single-family homes center at Rochester Avenue and Church Street. The community's Phase II, nearing completion, is already two-thirds sold out, according to building company vice-president Roger Lewis.

One reason for the strong advance sales, Lewis notes, is The Highlands' price scale, which he says buyers who have scouted the Southland housing market find realistic. Three and four-bedroom homes are priced from $40,650 to $44,450.

"Being a company that has built thousands of residences in the prestige category, we pride ourselves on being able to bring in a community of homes at Highlands prices without compromising a bit on quality of construction," he said.

"Each home has been given a 7,200-square-foot lot site," he added. "We were able to do that because land costs in Etiwanda have not yet climbed to the price levels of residential property in nearby areas."

Financing is on VA, FHA and Cal-Vet terms.

All homes at The Highlands feature a private master bedroom bath as well as a second bathroom serving other members of the family. Pullman cabinets are constructed with cultured marble tops. Kitchens are equipped with continuous-cleaning oven, dishwasher.

Living rooms, hallways and master bedrooms are carpeted from wall to wall. Window drapes in living room and all bedrooms are also supplied by the builder.

The Highlands may be reached from the San Bernardino Freeway by exiting at Haven Avenue at the Ontario Motor Speedway in Ontario. The route continues north on Haven to Foothill Boulevard, east (right) 1¾ miles to Rochester Avenue, then north (left) to Church Street. Models are open daily from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

For neighborhood revitalization program

Realtors form steering committee

Real estate

Formation of a steering committee for the Realtors Neighborhood Revitalization Program of the National Association of Realtors was announced by Harry G. Elmstram, president of the association.

"The goal of the program is preservation of as much as possible of the nation's housing stock in every community of the nation," Elmstrom said. "We want our members to help restore the vitality of neighborhoods where decay has resulted after decades of neglect.

"We want them to work at the grass roots level with neighborhood organizations to promote a healthy economic development in the neighborhoods."

The Ballston Spa, N.Y., Realtor said members of the steering committee, which will hold its organizational meeting June 28 in Chicago, are:

Albert N. Justice, chairman, Clearwater, Fla.; Richard A. Rauch, vice chairman, Chicago; Roger Blackwood, Birmingham, Mich.; Horace J. (Jack) Boesch, Dayton, Ohio; Donald C. Dolben, Boston; Donald I. Hovde, Madison, Wis.; E. Thronton Ibbetson, Bellflower, Calif.; Alice Lyczkowski, Toledo, Ohio; Donald H. Mason, Amarillo, Tex.; James P. O'Conor, Baltimore; Patricia A. Richards, Denver.

Elmstrom said a full committee also is being formed. It will consist of representatives from the 50 Realtor state associations and the National Association's nine affiliated institutes.

"This is an ongoing program which we hope will involve all our 1,735 local member boards," he said. "The most effective force we have in the preservation of existing housing in the neighborhoods is the concentrated effort made by the individual Realtor or Realtor-Associate.

"Our program will encourage our members to become involved with the work of neighborhood organizations. Their contributions can be highly essential to the success of the local programs."

Elmstrom said that in a few weeks he will be calling a news conference to list the communities in which local boards of Realtors will develop a series of "startup" programs. Further information on the organization procedures, policies, goals and objectives relating to the Realtors' role in revitalizing neighborhood housing also will be released.

He said the full committee will meet soon to develop educational materials "for our moving forward as expeditiously as possible with individual members who are dedicated in helping neighborhood groups work to preserve or restore sorely needed housing."

And increase mortgage limits

Legislation would 'reduce' downpayment requirement

Legislation that would reduce downpayment requirements and increase mortgage limits under the Federal Housing Administration's mortgage insurance programs was endorsed today by the National Association of Home Builders (NAHB).

Testifying before the Senate Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs Committee, NAHB Vice President-Treasurer Vondal Gravlee said that the changes were necessary because the sales price of newly constructed FHA insured homes has increased 41 per cent since 1973 while the mortgage limits and downpayment requirements have remained the same.

Under the housing authorization legislation being considered by the committee, mortgage limits under a number of FHA insurance programs for single family homes would be hiked to $60,000 from $45,000. Downpayment requirements would remain at 3 per cent on the first $25,000 of value, but would be reduced to 5 per cent on the value in excess of $25,000. For instance, under the proposed rules a qualified borrower could obtain an 8 per cent FHA insured mortgage loan on a $60,000 home with a $2,500 downpayment.

The proposed changes in the FHA programs are supported by the Carter Administration.

NAHB also endorsed a proposal that would increase mortgage limits under the Section 235 homeownership program to $31,000 ($36,000 for four bedroom or larger homes). In high cost areas the mortgage limit would jump to $36,000 ($42,000 for four bedroom or larger homes).

Under this program, the government subsidizes mortgage interest rates as low as 5 per cent. "Section 235 is probably the best tool that HUD possesses for extending the benefits of homeownership to low and moderate income families," Gravlee said.

NAHB also supported legislation that would extend through fiscal 1978 and provide additional funding for the Brooke-Cranston mortgage purchase program. As it is presently written, the program provides 7½ per cent mortgage money to middle and moderate income home buyers.

However, NAHB opposed proposals that would increase the interest rate under the Brooke-Cranston program from 7½ per cent to the FHA rate (presently 8 per cent) and would impose income limits, thus reducing the number of people who could qualify for the program.

NAHB also supported the Administration's request for an additional $1.2 billion in funding for the public housing and Section 8 rental assistance programs for fiscal 1978. Gravlee urged the lawmakers to direct the Section 8 program more towards new construction instead of relying on existing housing. He said that with the Administration's commitment in this area he expects to see the production of "at least 172,000 new or substantially rehabilitated Section 8 units in fiscal 1978." Less than 41,000 new Section 8 units have been started in the programs first 2½ years.

LAST LAUGH(IN) — Producer George Schlatter displays a poster of his new Laugh-In show which NBC/TV will present next season. He says the new series will have to be better than the old one to last.

Ready for another?

Producer plans new Laugh-In

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — We are at the Burbank Press Club, next to the grease rack at the service station.

From his podium atop the Nehi cooler, a city official has just disclosed plans for the annual Dust Festival and Miss Dust Bunny Pageant. Wait, he has another announcement. It's about urban renewal. He says Beautiful Downtown Burbank is going to be renovated.

Veerrry inter-resting.

Kicking it off will be the first Burbank Pet Show and Farrah Fawcett-Majors Look-alike Contest.

I didn't know that.

Translated, it all means that "Laugh-In" is returning with its electronic tomfoolery and outrageous, topsy-turvy view of the world. Sock it to me!

NBC will present six "Laugh'In" specials in the new season — that breezy, brash, rapid-fire montage of one-liners, two-liners, verbal graffiti, sight gags and nonsense that wowed America for five years.

Actually, we are in producer George Schlatter's office, where he leans back in his black leather chair and props his sneaker-clad feet on his desk. Schlatter is a big, bearded man, and as he discusses "Laugh-In" — "my first love" — his frequent bursts of laughter shake the pink plastic cow's udder hanging from a ceiling air vent.

"Nothing much is happening in humor now," he says. "That's the problem. When we started in the 1960s there was the Vietnam War, the civil rights movement, campus unrest, political protests, and Lyndon Johnson and Richard Nixon.

"People are not as vitally interested now. There's an apathy. It's to the credit of Jerry Ford, who came in when the country was split and bored us back to stability. If it wasn't for Billy Carter, Farrah Fawcett and Anita Bryant, I don't know what we'd do."

"Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In" landed in January 1968 and immediately began to shake things up. It had all the subtlety of a hotfoot. Nothing was sacred. Even presidential candidate Nixon appeared and asked the nation to "sock it to me." "Laugh-In" changed viewing habits and it changed television, paving the way for such adult comedies as "All in the Family" and "M-A-S-H."

It made stars of Dan Rowan, Dick Martin, Goldie Hawn, Lily Tomlin and many others.

Once "Laugh-In" became a hit, a lot of people claimed credit for its creation. As the frictions developed, Schlatter left the show.

Pressures also mounted to both tone the show down and preserve its winning formula. Schlatter said, "The demise of 'Laugh-In' came when they locked us in. It was being copied. You've got to change."

Everyone connected with the show later agreed that it had outlived its popularity when it died in 1973 and should have been canceled a year earlier.

Besides the six "Laugh-In" specials, Schlatter is developing six specials called "Just For Laughs" with writer-producer Hal Kanter, a special for Goldi Hawn, a 90-minute special of young comics, an ethnic version of "Laugh-In" and a kids' version.

The new "Laugh-In" will not have stars, as it had earlier with Rowan and Martin. It will have a new resident company, with guest stars and cameo stars. Bette Davis will be the guest star on the first show.

"It'll be a cast of unknowns," Schlatter says. "But so was the original cast — and look at the stars who came out of it."

BARRY NELSON, last seen in Los Angeles in "The Norman Conquests," will star with Liza Minnelli in "Shine It On," a new musical which was formerly called "In Person." The show will open Aug. 30 at the Pavilion of the Los Angeles Music Center.

"The Betrothed," written by Alessandro Manzoni (1785-1873), is considered by many to be the greatest of Italian novels.

Ebsen says he'll never retire

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The other night Buddy Ebsen used the Tony Awards show and words from a Broadway melody to tell why he will never retire.

The theme of the annual Broadway Tony awards was survival, something Ebsen, "Barnaby Jones" on the CBS detective series, knows a lot about. He first started out as a dancer in in 1928 in Ziegfield's "Whoopee."

Ebsen's song was "September Song" from "Knickerbocker Holiday."

"I don't consider 'September Song' a survivor song, but there is one line which expresses why I'll never retire," he said. "That's 'these few golden days I'll spend with you.'

The 69-year-old Ebsen, about to enter his sixth season as the foxy grandpa detective, said, "After this I'll just get into something else. Some other job. I can't do nothing."

Ebsen said he would like to write. "I have about six plays and I want to write 'My First 50 Years in Show Business,'" Ebsen said. "My mother, God bless her, saved every letter from 1928 on. Every clipping, pictures. She squirreled it all away."

He's already written at least one play, "The Champagne General," about Civil War general George McClellan, and he is working with his daughter, Bonnie, on a script for "Barnaby Jones."

He said he has more time for writing since the addition of Mark Shera as his partner. "I said we have two clever people on the show, Lee Meriwether and Mark Shera. I said why don't you do a number of shows in which they carry the load. They agreed to that and it gives me more time to do the things I want to do."

One of the things he devotes his time to is building catamaran boats. After finishing last season he helped deliver two boats to Florida. They had to take the boats through the Gulf of Mexico area he called "the hijacking triangle" because of the disappearance of boats in the area. Many sources believe the yachts were hijacked by drug smugglers.

When they got to that area one boat was taken overland and Ebsen helped sail the other to Sarasota, Fla.

Marriage requires counseling

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Marriage is difficult when a person is not prepared for it and today too many people are not ready when they marry, says Dr. Graham B. Spanier, assistant professor of human development at Pennsylvania State University.

There are two ways in which people can become better prepared for marriage, advises Dr. Spanier, who has done extensive research in family relations and is a member of the American Association of Marriage and Family Counselors and the National Council on Family Relations.

The first is through marriage education, especially at the high school level where, he claims, not enough is being done; the second is premarital counseling. Dr. Spanier also advises counseling to save a faltering marriage.

CHRISTINA REYES

RHONDA JACOBSON

The couple will be married Oct. 1 at Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic Church in Montclair.

Wedding, betrothal forms here

The Progress Bulletin Family Section is happy to run the stories of engagements and weddings for residents of the valley.

Engagement and wedding forms are available at the newspaper office and are to be filled out for each announcement. The stories may be accompanied by a picture, at least wallet size of the bride-elect only for the engagement and a black and white picture of the bride only for the wedding story.

Engagement announcements are not run if the wedding is within six weeks. Wedding stories must be returned to the Family Section editor not later than two weeks after the wedding. Polaroid pictures and snapshots are not acceptable.

Honeymoon trip takes planning

After the minister says "I now pronounce you husband and wife," perhaps the most pleasant sound to newlyweds is the hum of a smoothrunning engine as they take off on a motoring honeymoon trip.

Yet even in the idyllic euphoria of such a situation there are automotive realities to be faced. Accordingly, the Mobil Travel editors have prepared these honeymoon travel tips:

First of all, they urge that car registration certificates and driver's license should not be forgotten, and that dequate automobile insurance covereage has been bought and paid for.

Honeymoon trip harmony and safety will be more assured, they say, if certain details have been anticipated. For example, if you're driving a new car, allow for an advance break-in period to acquaint yourself with its handling under varied road conditions. If the new car is smaller than your old one, pack your bags with care to avoid last-minute disappointments due to smaller trunk space.

An older car should undergo a pre-trip examination by a professional mechanic who will check steering and suspension, tires and wheels, exhaust systems, brakes, lights, windshield wipers and other visual accessories.

Every car's trunk and/or glove compartment should contain a spare tire, jack, lug wrench, first-aid kit, emergency tools, flashlight, road flares, spare fan belt, hoses, fuses, windshield wipers, jumper cable and fire extinguisher.

Planning a honeymoon motor trip can be an enjoyable experience in itself. The Mobil Travel Guide can add to the fun. It includes information on 20,000 quality rated hotels, motels, resorts and restaurants; a regional road atlas and mileage maps; maps of major cities and scenic motor tours; listings of tourist attractions, sports facilities, local celebrations and events; historical, educational and recreational facts about each state and city. The 1977 Guide, published in seven regional editions, is available at Mobil service stations and bookstores for $3.95 each.

All motorists, Mobil says, are well advised to heed these eight travel tips:

1. After driving a long period, check water in the radiator after allowing the engine to cool. Also check the hoses and radiator cap for cracks.

2. It's a good idea to check the oil level at the same time.

3. Before entering a desert area, check the air conditioner to insure continuing comfort and passenger alertness.

4. Carry a pencil-type tire pressure tester and use it regularly.

5. When parking, be sure to turn off lights, and any other drainage on the battery.

6. Brakes should be in good order at all times. If the pedal is low, or they seem to be slipping or pulling to one side, have the brakes checked primptly.

7. On extended trips, check the fan belt at intervals.

Couple wed in San Dimas

Newly wed Mr. and Mrs. James Russell Bender have established a home in Mt. Baldy Village following their marriage at San Dimas Community Church.

The former Miss Judith Lynn Marquis is the daughter of Mrs. Frances Marquis of Claremont and James Marquis of Los Osos.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Bender of Cucamonga.

Honor attendant was Miss Laurie Finnegan of Cucamonga.

Best man was William Bender of Cucamonga, brother of the bridegroom.

Other attendants were Miss Katharine Sawyer of Claremont, Miss Becky Bender of Claremont who is the sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Susan Cohn of Costa Mesa.

Ushers were James Marquis, brother of the bride, of Honolulu, and Tom Welsh of Riverside and Danny East of Fontana.

The bride is a graduate of San Antonio High School and the groom graduated from Montclair High School and attended Chaffey College.

June is the month for weddings but what is stimulating factor?

Have you ever wondered why June is the month for weddings? Is it because the weather is warm and sunny, the flowers are in bloomed splendor and vacation time is right around the corner? Is it because tradition just makes it so?

According to Bride's Magazine, an average 11 per cent of all couples saying "I do" do so during the month of June. Any mathematician can conclude from this statistic that June's brides far outweigh the other months in the year but, what is the stimulating factor?

As surrounds most ancient rituals, superstition is the original reason behind all the nuptial activity in the sixth month. It seems that in early Roman times, Juno, the goddess of marriage, considered June to be the most sacred time of the year, especially at the time of a full moon. So, to remain in the good graces of this ceremonial goddess, the Roman people wed in June. And superstitious people being what they are have carried this belief through the ages.

If a couple cannot make arrangements to be married during Juno's sacred month, it will prove fortunate for the groom to be married on the day of his birth. If the bride's birthday happens to be on the same day as the groom's, the couple will have to make their first marital compromise, for a marriage on the bride's day of birth is as inappropriate (giftwise) as a child's birthday on December 25th. If choosing a day becomes a problem for the couple, here's a little ditty that may be helpful:

Monday for wealth,
Tuesday for health,
Wednesday for best day of all;
Thursday for crosses,
Friday for losses,
Saturday no luck at all.

Today's dismally high divorce rates reveal that marriage has become riskier these days than ever before. Consequently, people undoubtedly need to see an auspicious omen or two on their wedding day to put them at rest that the union will be a happy and prosperous one. If Juno can't shine her graces upon the marriage, a shower of rain or flurry of snow will fare just as well. The inclement weather, in this case, is a foreshadowing of marital bliss.

Everyone knows that it is bad luck for the bride to try on her dress or veil for her prospective husband to see before the big day. It is also said to be unlucky for the couple to even meet before they see one another at the altar at the ceremony. And let the bride beware who sees her reflection in a glass by candlelight on the day of her marriage. Luckily, candlelight has given way to more practical lighting devices.

For those future grooms who have already spent a small fortune on a diamond ring, take note that it is bad luck to present future bride with pearls before marriage. It is equally ill-fated, so they say, for the bride to wear pearls or opals on her wedding day.

On the way to the nuptials, be it a large Church wedding or a small gathering at City Hall, if either the bride or groom should spot a funeral procession, they can be assured of a hasty separation. On the other hand, if a flight of birds is sighted on the way to the "union hall," the couple can consider themselves foretold of a life filled with children. (Speak with your nearest aviary to see if this can be arranged.)

An old Scottish wedding superstition has the mother of the groom preparing a batch of small cakes which are to be consumed by the bride and her wedding party on the morning of the ceremony. These cakes, originating in the northeastern county of Aberdeen, are called "Bounty Cakes." Made from butter, sugar, flour, Drambuie (a Scottish liqueur) and, in the original recipe, crushed heather buds, the flower plentiful in Scotland, these cakes bring good luck and fertility.

Having made it, undaunted, through the ceremony, the couple is not yet safe from bad omen. An American bride, according to superstition, must not allow anyone to walk between her and her new husband immediately following the wedding, implying separation of the newlyweds. An Englishwoman will not take the ring off her finger once it has been placed there by her husband. To remove it breaks the bonds of marriage.

If the bride has an unmarried elder sister, she is subject to an unwedded future unless she dances barefoot at the reception. She certainly will be unlucky if she slips while dancing shoeless but, her newly married sister or her husband will be more unfortunate if either one stumbles or falls. It will prove detrimental to their future as man and wife.

And, of course, everyone knows all about bouquet tossing — one of the oldest of indoor competitive sports. The girl to catch the flying bouquet is next to marry.

For Wishing the bride and groom every happiness and good fortune that life can bestow, the best man says an appropriate word or two at the reception as the rest of the party toasts the newly married couple with traditional wine. In Spain the custom is to serve a sangria beverage to which fresh fruits have been added, the fruits signifying life.

PROJECTION EQUIPMENT

Donations are presented by MOT for children at center

Pomona Valley Mothers of Twins Club recently presented funds to the Lincoln Development Center, Ontario.

The center is a special federally-funded program to provide educational opportunities for the multiple handicapped from infancy to age 21 who reside in the West End of San Bernardino County.

The $250 gift is going to the Babies Push Toward Care program to help the youngest of those enrolled at the center. The term "youngest" is not determined by age, but by individual ability. Projection equipment for visual aids will be purchased.

The center is administered through the Ontario-Montclair School District. The center was designed to accommodate 200 children, their teachers, aides and support personnel. At that enrollment, Lincoln would be the largest development center in the state.

The Mothers of Twins Club is also donating $100 to the Sick Baby Fund at Pomona Valley Community Hospital and is contributing $250 to the Developmental Services at Casa Colina in Pomona. The latter donation will help with an electronic communications board used for severely handicapped children with cerebral palsy.

The donations are made possibly from the proceeds from the Mothers of Twins Club annual spring fashion show.

Counter tops

Laminated plastic surfaces are as common in kitchens as salt and pepper, and while they're more durable than most table and counter top materials, they can become dull and shabby from excessive wear or when abused by harsh, abrasive cleaners.

Leslie Wood, Johnson Wax consumer information specialist, recommends daily maintenance, made easier with an application of cleaner-wax, such as Jubilee, to help maintain original good looks.

Joyce Brothers

Male insecurity

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: There's a singles bar in our town, a hangout for most everyone I know. The problem is that every time I go, there's a guy who tries to pick me up. He wants to go to bed and then that's it. It's like he's just adding every woman in town to his list and then once they're checked off, I guess he'll move on. I don't like being in this position. Sex means more to me than a few minutes in a motel or at some guy's apartment. On the other hand, I hate staying home at night, especially on weekends. It depresses me to be alone and I feel as if the world has already rejected me. What's the answer? — D.R.

DEAR D.R.: It's not easy, but I'd rule out the singles bars even if everyone you know does go there. That may be the problem. You may need to meet some new faces attached to people who are interested in more than instant sex. You'd be much more apt to meet the kind of person you're looking for if you'd interest yourself in a hobby or sport such as photography, tennis — anything where interest is focused on something other than a glass and a bed.

The kind of male you describe usually needs to accumulate conquests to compensate for his uncertain view of his own potency. When his goal is to win, whether he gets to bed or not, he must accumulate statistics to prove his potency. According to Dr. Leon Salzman, this type may even sidestep the ultimate test by avoiding actual coitus, and thereby maintain the fiction of potency without actual trial.

The environment of the singles bar also makes some men feel they're being pressured to perform even when they may not feel like it.

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: Inflation has really hit me where it hurts because, I have to confess, I love to spend and could always be quite free with my money. Now, my wife keeps bugging me, reminding me that groceries cost more and I've got to cut back. I get in a store on Saturday and I can easily spend practically all the money I made during the previous week. The dumb thing is that I can spend it on things we don't need, or could do without. Why do I do this? I keep asking myself and I come up with no answers. — J.P.

DEAR J.P.: I suspect you use spending as a way of avoiding or escaping deeper emotional problems. This is not uncommon. Everyone knows about the woman who rushes out to buy a new hat or dress when she's upset or angry. The danger there is that the basic problems remain unexplored and unsolved. This kind of person never comes to grips with his inner termoil. He just runs away or brushes it under some new item of clothing.

Sometimes overspending can be a cry for help, in much the same way overeating, overdrinking, or gambling can be. You get your high from buying sprees. According to psychiatrist Dr. Charles Wahl, family background is the key to understanding overspenders.

Parental, emotional and personal economic deprivation can cause an individual to equate a rich, full life with having possessions, so he overspends. People who were deprived early in life, tend to constantly compare themselves with more fortunate peers. They carry over into their adult lives a feeling of psychological emptiness. When they overspend, this feeling of deprivation and emptiness is relieved. These people are mature in many ways, but not in relation to money. Their lack of discipline can be the most striking feature of their neurosis, De. Wahl says.

Consumer not given egg info

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — A lack of basic information prevents consumers from using poultry products most effectively, says Robert C. Baker, professor of food science at the New York State College of Agriculture and Life Sciences, Cornell.

"There is nothing dangerous about eating cracked eggs," he points out. "Eggs are mainly protected from infection by their membranes. If an egg's shell is cracked but the membrane remains intact, there is no reason to discard it."

Another common misconception, he adds, is that the milky cord in eggs is a fault. "The cord is not an indication of bacterial infection or fertilization," he says. "It is a normal, safe component of eggs and, indeed, is necessary to keep the yolk centered in the egg.

Club sets meeting

The Chino Valley Woman's Club will have a brown-bag card party for their first summer event at noon, Monday, in Room 4 of the Chino Community Building.

Each member and prospective member will bring lunch in a decorated bag and awards will be presented for the bags.

Cards will be available for bridge, canasta, pinochle and other games. Reservations are being taken by Mrs. Merle Worthy, 628-2804.

Garage sale hints

Problems with plastics? Chances are your upcoming garage sale will feature lots of plastic items — many of them used and worn. Leslie Wood, Johnson Wax consumer information specialist, suggests a multi-surface cleaner-polish. Clean, attractive items fetch a better price, says Mrs. Wood. More tips for both garage sale buyers and sellers are contained in a new how-to booklet entitled "A Garage Full of Fun and Profit." READY FOR THE SHOW

Mrs. Peggy Jankowski, Mrs. Nell Ensor and Mrs. JoAnne Mix pose in ensembles they will wear for the Emblem Club fashion show.

Dinner set Saturday

"Fun Fashions for the Family" is the theme for the 26th annual Emblem Club fashion show and dinner to be held Saturday.

A spaghetti dinner will be served at the Elks Club at 6:30 p.m.

According to Mrs. Paul Serna, chairman, proceeds will be used for various club philanthropies.

Polynesian fashions will be furnished by Kimo's, Puente Hills Plaza. There will also be "sew and model" fashions worn by club members.

Couples modeling will be the Dale Haywoods, the Ray Mixes, the Jim Smiths and the Bob Weddles. Other models will be Mmes. Frank Deards, Richard Dempsey, Judy Dempsey, Jack Edwards, Homer Pattie, Harold Stott and Fred Van Der Linde. In addition, children and grandchildren of members will participate in the modeling.

Emblem Club members working on the event are: Mmes. Daniel Romero, Ron Teeters and Edward Jankowski, cochairmen; Buelah Vaughn, wardrobe; Lee Anderle, music; Lyle Kendall, commentator; Nell Fnsor, publicity.

Added entertainment will be a program presented by Hawaiian dancers. Reservations may be made by calling Eunice Parsonage. Tickets will also be sold at the door.

OES unit meeting scheduled

Star of the West Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, will meet at 8 p.m., Monday, in the Masonic Temple.

Odessa Worstine, deputy grand matron of the 59th district, Grand Chapter, State of California, OES, will make her official visit. She is a past matron of Euclid Chapter, Ontario.

The ceremony of initiation will be conferred on two candidates.

In charge of the evening activities are Marie Lewis, chairman, Herbert Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Allen and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Shumaker.

Luncheon planned Tuesday

Mary Ellen Kilsby, president of the Claremont Board of Education, will speak at the Women's Association luncheon of Claremont Presbyterian Church on Tuesday. Her subject will be "Education in Claremont: Problems and Possibilities."

The luncheon and program will begin in Fellowship Hall at noon and will be preceded by a meditation period in the sanctuary at 11:30 a.m.

Mrs. Kilsby, minister of Christian Education at the United Church of Christ, Claremont, is the mother of four children and a graduate of Pomona College. She has an M. A. from the School of Theology.

The luncheon will be served by Circle 5 with Mrs. Lee Harlan in charge of arrangements. Child care is available and reservations may be made by calling the church office.

Parodies of contemporary life

Carnivals garish wellsprings of stories about America

EDITOR'S NOTE: Tom Robbins writes of the superficial. Yet he's a literary guru of sorts among some college kids. His success lies in parodies of contemporary life and an upbeat philosophy.

LACONNER, Wash. (AP) — When he's not rooting around Pacific Northwest woods for mushrooms, author Tom Robbins stalks carnivals and circuses — the garish wellsprings of his stories about America.

Robbins, 40, says a girl with a snappish snake writhing on her arm unfolded the fascination of the universe to him when he was a boy near Richmond, Va.

"I love the superficial aspects of circuses. Even when you get up close and see how tawdry it is, the mystery lingers on," says Robbins, whose novels, "Another Roadside Attraction" and "Even Cowgirls Get The Blues," parody contemporary life and have made him a literary guru of sorts on many college campuses.

"When I was growing up in a small town in the South, there was this vacant lot next door. Then one day, you come home and there are all these tents, flags and banners, strange people. It's truly magic. It was an act of transformation.

"There was a little girl — I think I was 13 and she was 11. She had long black patent leather boots and blonde hair and she had a black snake that she carried with her all the time. She had scars all over her arm where the snake had bitten her. I thought she was the most exostic creature on the face of this earth and I fell hopelessly in love with her.

"From that time, I have believed that a woman in pink circus tights contained all the secrets of the universe."

"Another Roadside Attraction," tells what happens when the body of Christ is brought to the United States and displayed at a highway zoo in Skagit County, where Robbins lives. "Cowgirls" describes how heroine Sissy Hankshaw turns her liability — giant thumbs — into an asset by becoming a hitchhiking champion. "Cowgirls,"published in paperback in April, is into its fourth printing with 590,000 copies.

Robbins says he hitchhiked around the eastern United States after he was kicked out of a fraternity at Washington and Lee University for throwing a biscuit at the housemother. Thereby, he turned his liability — unruliness — into an asset.

"I was flipping peas with my knife," he recalled. "She was quite a buxom southern lady of later years and one of the peas went down her cleage. Some of my fraternity brothers berated me so violently that I just said I might as well get hung for a biscuit as a pea. I threw the biscuit and it hit her by accident. It was a defiant gesture."

Despite his defiance, Robbins says, "I'm a real fan of the human race. No other animal even cares about ecology. No deer in the woods gives a damn about other deer. A killer whale would eat all the salmon in sight.

"No other animal has a sense of humor, the highest wisdom in the world. And we're the only animal that falls in love. The absurd extent to which human beings go when they're in love justifies their existence.

Robbins' novels are rich in color and description, paupers in plot. A panorama of Americans parade past. They flow from his pen in a backyard house trailer. His "muse," a plaster Felix The Cat which was a carnival prize, broods with a painted grin above his desk. Books and papers teeter in stacks along the walls.

"I'm attempting not to abandon plot but to relegate it to second place behind an accumulation of literary effects like jokes, nuances, descriptive passages, vignettes and puns.

"If you had to pick one cumulative effect, it would be the theme of joy in spite of everything — that no matter how bad things are, it's possible to lead a joyful life.

"Loneliness, alienation, despair, sexual frustration, failed technology and bad government, which today is all government, all these things can be overcome. My characters overcome them in exemplary fashion."

His characters — like giant-thumbed Sissy, frog skin-clad John Paul Ziller and dozens more — are bigger than life. Robbins says they are of "heroic proportions, like Greek heroes, but people identify with them."

Muhammad Ali is a personal, bigger-than-life hero.

"I consider Ali a hero ... Ali dancing in his shorts and socks in the Houston induction center when he was about to lose the world championship and millions of dollars. It was an act of extreme moral courage done with humor and style that gave it that extra dimension."

Robbins dresses casually around home — one dark green sock, one light green sock, an old blue sweater under a limp black vest. Rumpled tennis shoes. Blue jeans. His scraggly moustache looks like an innocent bystander caught in a cat fight.

He bought his four-room house for $7,000 several years ago in this quiet town of 640 people, best-known for its annual smelt-fishing derby. The gray wood house is a gallery of circus posters. "Big Otto — Blood-sweating Hippopotamus!" is tacked to the bathroom door.

By design, there are no numbers on the house, a few doors down from LaConner's Methodist Church. Robbins says he prefers solitude. He has been married but now lives alone.

He says the publicity of a best-selling author interferes with work on his next novel, for which he has received a $165,000 advance.

SAND PAINTER — Artist David Villasenor works on sand paintings that are on exhibit this month at the Pomona Public Library. The exhibition is titled, "Rain Birds, Thunderbirds and Flying Serpents."

Sandpainting exhibit now at Pomona library

An art exhibit titled "Rain Birds, Thunderbirds and Flying Serpents" by David Villasenor is being held this month at the Pomona Public Library. Admission is free.

Villasenor's works are drawn from the primitive, symbollic characters of the mythology of North, Center and South American Indians. The series consists of Rain Birds (primarily from the pueblos of Arizona and New Mexico); Thunderbirds (from Navajo, Plains Indians and Eskimo cultures), and Flying Serpents (Kukulcan of the Maya and Quetzalcoatl of the Aztecs).

Because the impermanence of the folk art of sandpainting makes the works difficult to preserve, Villasenor perfected a way to make the paintings permanent.

Villasenor has lectured on sandpainting, Indian mythology and folk art at many colleges and universities. He has exhibited throughout the United States and his works are in the permanent collections of many museums and galleries.

THE FINE ARTS GALLERY in San Diego's Balboa Park is showing an exhibit titled "Masters of the Camera: Stieglitz, Steichen and Their Successors." The show surveys American photography from 1900 to the present. It includes 167 black-and-white and 19 color photos by 33 photographers. The exhibit was organized by the American Federation of the Arts in New York.

FIRST PRIZE IN COMPETITION of the International Double Reed Society went to Los Angeles composer George Heussenstam for his "Alchemy" for solo oboe and tape.

Poly offers resource classes

The Office of Continuing Education at Cal Poly this summer will offer a new class aimed at exploring a wide range of arts and the human potential movement, and finding many resources for creativity in the classroom, community and oneself.

According to Cal Poly instructor Sunnie Johnson, students will have the opportunity to see live presentations of the performing arts, view films and exhibits and participate in symposiums focusing on the human potential movement.

Students are required to attend 2 class meetings on campus, in Building 41, Room 10, Tuesday, 5-10 p.m., July 12 and Aug. 9 and to attend portions of the Garden Theater Festival at Barnsdall Park to earn optional 2, 3, or 4 units of university credit.

Citrus shows prints

The nationally acclaimed Bruce Douglas Beal American Revolution Bicentennial Print Show will be on display in the Citrus College art gallery next Sunday through July 24.

Hours for the special exhibit, which is open to the public without charge, are noon to 4 p.m. on Sunday and Thursday, and 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Tuesday.

Beal, a contemporary American artist and a printmaker of national reputation, has captured the Bicentennial experience in a series of 24 diozalid prints, combining the imagery of an artist with the technology of today in a unique process. Beal photographs collages (groups) of American scenes and symbols and prints the negatives in sepia ink. The bronze tones and rounded corners of the prints are reminiscent of early photographic techniques. Beal combines familiar patriotic symbols such as the American Eagle, George Washington and the Stars and Stripes with scenes from the western movement and college campus events to present a lighthearted interpretation of America's past and present.

Art class slated

The Chino Adult Education Department will offer a class in painting with oils and acrylics at Lake Los Serranos Mobile Home Park starting Monday.

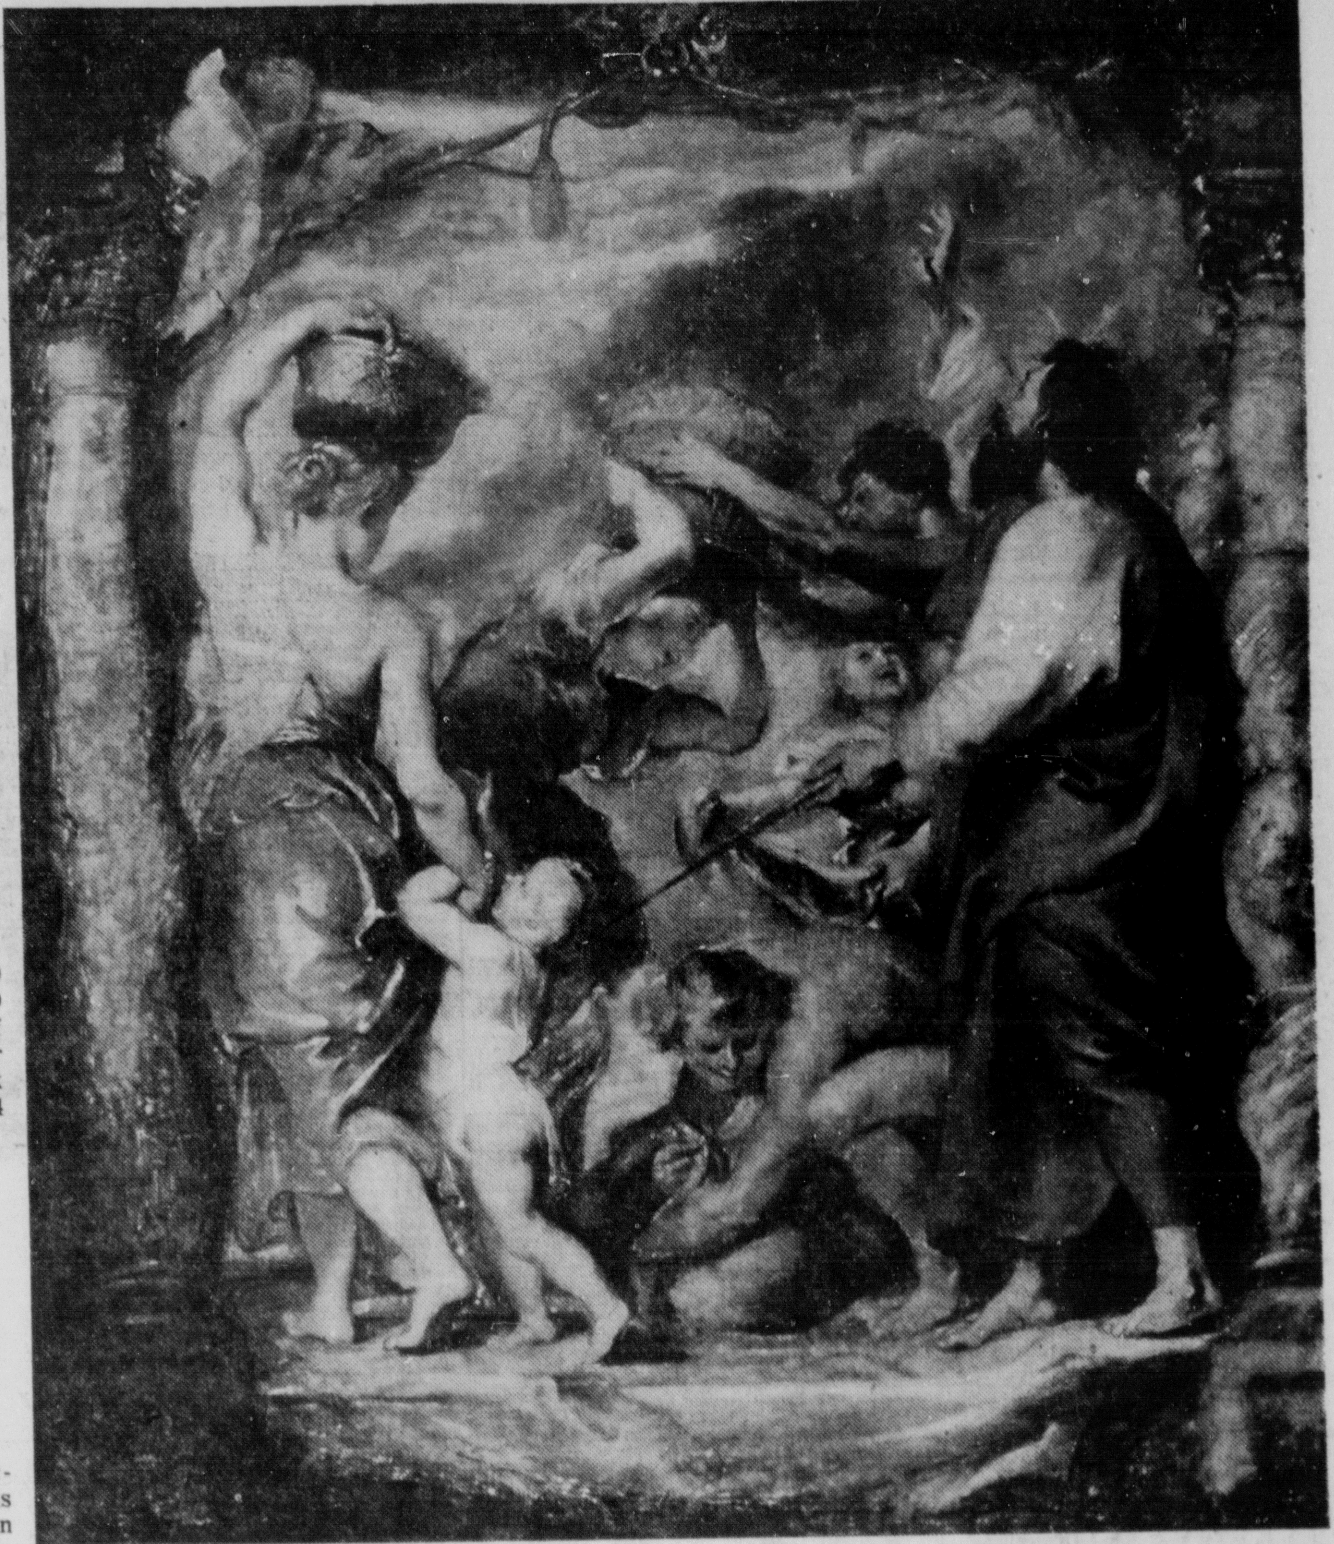
Information on the class can be obtained from Florence Clark at 597-2025.

Paintings by students of the class are on exhibit now at the Chino Branch Library, students of Geneva Oster. A member of Women Painters of the West, Mrs. Oster has won numerous prizes for her paintings throughout Southern California.

Students who are exhibiting are Nona Harrington, Welthea Camp, Nancy MacKay, Fran Grove, Dorothy Lest, Lucille Griffith and Florence Clark.

Wells' classic to be filmed

NEW YORK (AP) — Roger Lewis will produce the H.G. Wells 1938 classic, "The Man Who Could Work Miracles," Paramount Pictures reported.



RUBENS MASTERPIECE — "The Israelites Gathering Manna in the Desert," an oil on panel by Peter Paul Rubens, is one of the religious paintings in the permanent collection of the county Museum of Art. The work was obtained through the Frances and Armand Hammer Fund.

Center Theater Group plans 11th season

The Tony Award-winning Center Theater Group of the Forum of the Los Angeles Music Center will present two world premieres and two West Coast premieres during its 1977-78 season.

"For Colored Girls Who Have Considered Suicide/When the Rainbow Is Enuf," a choreo-poem by Ntozake Shange, will play from Aug. 11 through Sept. 25, with Oz Scott, who staged the Broadway version, directing the West Coast premiere. Described by United Press International as "hitting the heart, the mind and the funnybone with sledgehammer blows and lighting bolts of insight," "For Colored Girls . . ." is still playing to capacity audiences in New York where it received a Tony nomination for Best Play.

For its second presentation, the Taper will offer "Comedians" by British playwright Trevor Griffiths, playing Nov. 3 through Dec. 18. Hailed first in London and then in New York, "Comedians" will be given its West Coast premiere under the direction of Edward Parone, associate director of the Forum. The ingenious and theatrical theme about variations of comic art caused Martin Gottfried of the New York Post to comment that "Comedians" is "as funny and painful as a play about comedians should be."

From Feb. 16, 1978 through April 2, 1978, the Forum will mount the world premiere of Robert Alan Arthur's "Attica," directed by Edwin Sherin. The drama deals with the social and moral controversies surrounding the 1971 prison riot in the same tradition in which the Forum previously presented "In the Matter of J. Robert Oppenheimer," "The Trial of the Catonsville Nine" and "Savages."

The final presentation of the 11th Season will be another world premiere, "Black Angel," by Pulitzer Prize-winner Michael Christofer, opening May 18 and playing through July 2. "Black Angel" will be the third play by Cristofer to have received its world premiere at the Forum.

In addition to the four plays scheduled, New Theater For Now will be reactivated, presenting provocative new works from Sept. 29 through Oct. 16 and from April 6 through 30, 1978.

14th state

Vermont was the 14th state admitted to the Union.

Writing club to meet

The Pomona Valley Writer's Club will have its final meeting of the season at the Ontario Public Library at 7 p.m. Tuesday. Meetings will resume in September.

"Summer Vacation" by Elizabeth Doidge won first prize in the May writing competition. Other winners were "The Wind Chimes Answered" by Florence Swanson, second; "Meditation for Better Living" by Freda Foxley, third; and "Persistence" by Dorcas Neigh and "Hopeless Marvel" by Eva Martin, honorable mention.

Information on the club can be obtained at 628-8222 or 987-5735.

Bowl to offer July 4 concert

Music, fireworks and an appearance by Big Bird of Sesame Street will be offered July 4 by the Hollywood Bowl in the annual Fireworks Family Picnic Concert.

In keeping with a holiday tradition, the program's grand finale will be devoted to a trio of patriotic Sousa marches played by the superb Los Angeles Philharmonic, while all around (and over) the outdoor concert center a profusion of sparkling fireworks will light up the sky.

Favorite works by Aaron Copland, Morton Gould, Ferde Grofe, as well as Sousa and others will round out the program, and one of the most unusual guest stars ever to perform on the Bowl Stage — Big Bird — will make several appearances throughout the evening. Sidney Harth, associate conductor, will be on the podium.

Picnickers are encouraged to take advantage of the bowl's facilities for pre-concert dining to make their holiday celebration complete.

Box seats at $5 and $4 and reserved seats at $3 and $2 (children under 12 are ½ price) are available now by mail and may be purchased at the Hollywood Bowl box office and at all Mutual Ticket agencies.

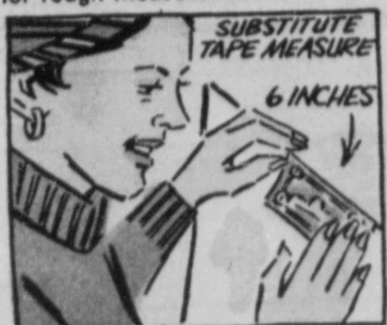
Polly's Pointers

The following Pointers are some that readers have shared with us in years past and that still linger with us:

If you are ever caught without a ruler, you will find a passable substitute in your wallet. A dollar bill is just a fraction over six inches long and can substitute as a tape to use for rough measurements.



SUBSTITUTE TAPE MEASURE
6 INCHES

The proverbial fine-toothed comb is a quick and easy tool to use when spreading paste or glue over a large surface you are going to cover with decorative paper.

Send your helpful hints to Polly's Pointers in care of this newspaper.

If you have open basement steps, wrap a washable rug around the next to top step, pin it snugly underneath with safety pins and prevent dirt being tracked into the main part of the house. Pins make the rug easy to remove for washing.

Use the cardboard rolls that come in waxed paper and foil boxes for storing electric cords to small appliances. Cut the rolls into pieces six to eight inches long and write on the outside what the cord is for. Fold each cord in long, looplike lengths and push into the tube from one end. They do not get tangled and take up less drawer space.

Use wet string to tie tight and secure packages to be mailed. The string shrinks as it dries and thus gets tighter.

Ladies who do their own painting should wear a shower cap so there will be no paint on their hair.

SHOWER CAP

Take that broom you were about to throw away, cut the bristles off short and then tie an old felt hat, scrap of flannel or carpet around the "business" end and have a wonderful floor polisher.

E.H.

When moving to a new home pack a suitcase or carton with just enough sheets, pillowcases, towels and wash cloths to take care of that first night. Mark this container so it is easily found on arrival. This will save going through several boxes to assemble all the things needed.

Before moving day arrives, start readying a large shopping bag with strong handles and in it put paper towels, several face towels and wash cloths, soap, detergent, cleanser, facial tissues, bathroom tissue, light bulbs, safety matches, flashlight, hammer, screw driver and old newspaper. Other things may be added but these are a MUST. Grab the handles, put the bag in the car and be on your way on moving day.

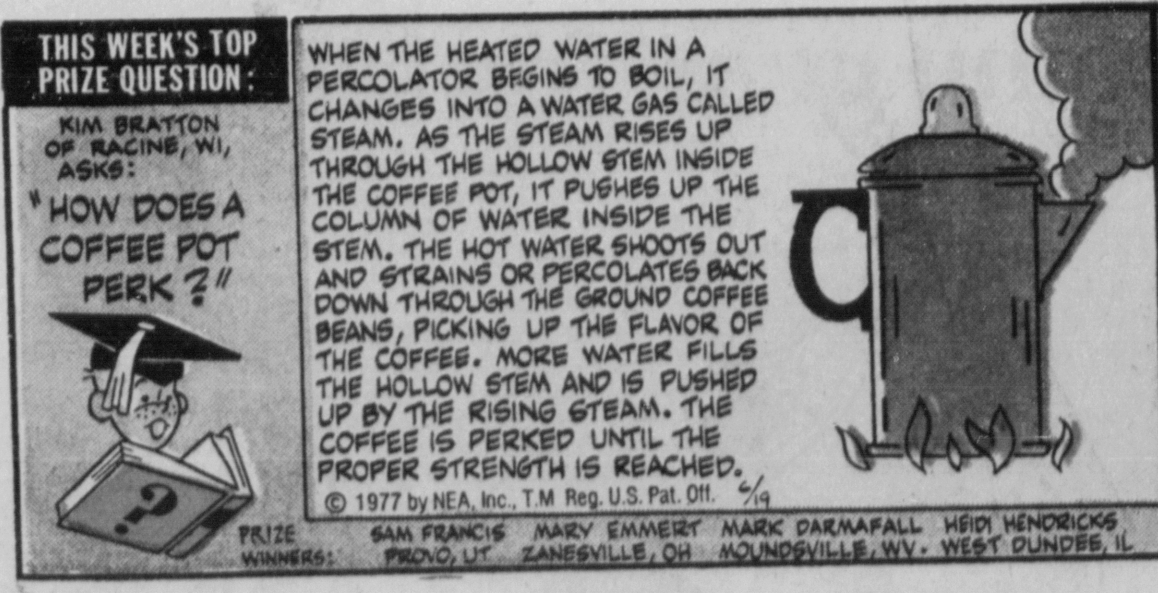
ONCE UPON A TIME...

THE PRETZEL'S NAME COMES FROM A LATIN WORD MEANING "A LITTLE REWARD." LONG AGO, PRETZELS WERE GIVEN TO CHILDREN AS A REWARD FOR LEARNING THEIR PRAYERS. THE PRETZEL WAS SHAPED TO REPRESENT THE CROSSED ARMS OF A CHILD PRAYING.



THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

KIM BRATTON OF RACINE, WI, ASKS:

"HOW DOES A COFFEE POT PERK ?"

WHEN THE HEATED WATER IN A PERCOLATOR BEGINS TO BOIL, IT CHANGES INTO A WATER GAS CALLED STEAM. AS THE STEAM RISES UP THROUGH THE HOLLOW STEM INSIDE THE COFFEE POT, IT PUSHES UP THE COLUMN OF WATER INSIDE THE STEM. THE HOT WATER SHOOTS OUT AND STRAINS OR PERCOLATES BACK DOWN THROUGH THE GROUND COFFEE BEANS, PICKING UP THE FLAVOR OF THE COFFEE. MORE WATER FILLS THE HOLLOW STEM AND IS PUSHED UP BY THE RISING STEAM. THE COFFEE IS PERKED UNTIL THE PROPER STRENGTH IS REACHED. 6/19

Chiquita camp gear for kids.

Chiquita® Banana Pup Tent

Now, that's a tent with appeal! It's 5" x 6" x 36" high center. Made of durable water repellent canvas treated with flame retardant materials to CPAI 84 specifications. Easy to assemble, it comes complete with aluminum poles, stake, guy lines and some very simple instructions. Not to mention the giant bananas printed on both sides.

Chiquita Banana Windbreaker

Wear what the well dressed banana is wearing, the blue Chiquita Sticker. Our 100% high count nylon windbreaker is windproof, water repellent, and spot resistant. Special flap pockets are featured to keep out rain. With extra large set in sleeves, it's double stitched, washable, and bright banana yellow, so it's easy to see at night. It's available in youth sizes: Small (6-8) Medium (10-12) and Large (14-16).

Chiquita Banana Sleeping Bag-Comforter

Now you can sleep like a Chiquita in its peel. This 34" x 69" quilted sleeping bag weighing only 2 pounds unzips into a 68" x 69" comforter. Fully reversible, one side is water repellent nylon taffeta for outdoors. The other is 100% cotton sheeting for indoors. Filled with soft 100% virgin polyester, it's washable and comes in a reusable vinyl tote bag.

Chiquita Banana Backpack

Perfect for hauling school books, camp supplies, and plenty of delicious Chiquita bananas. There's plenty of room in this sturdy 13" x 15" cotton duck backpack. It's light weight (just 10 ounces) and has adjustable shoulder straps.

STARS REFLECT ON FATHER'S DAY

With Father's Day (June 19) upon us, several Hollywood stars took time out from busy schedules to consider the question: "What do you think is the most important thing you can give your children?"

Their Answers:

Don Rickles, CPO Sharkey: "I think the most important things you can give a child are a lot of love and a sense of values. My only objective for my children (Mindy Beth, 11, and Lawrence Corey, 7) is for both of them to be happy. Barbara and I will support them when they make up their minds as to what they want to do—even if it's acting. We're certainly not pushing them into a show business career, but if either shows inclinations in that direction, they'll get our help."

Jack Klugman, of Quincy: "Love. That's the most important word in any language. Then I've tried to impress on my kids (David, 18, and Adam, 14) that growth is important. David plays the piano. He took a speed reading course. He writes poetry. If I grow in my profession as an actor, I feel I'm growing yet I feel younger. At least I know I'm not going to be a victim of senility."

Patrick Duffy, star of Man From Atlantis: "The most important thing I can give my son Padraic (cq) is to let him see my own day-to-day growth, and let him choose whatever path he wants to follow. He will see the example I set, and then one day will mature and choose to follow—or to avoid—that example. I have complete faith in him as a person to let him follow his own direction. If he wanted to be an actor, for instance, I'd encourage him to go for it." (Padraic is 2½ years old.)

Chuck Barris, host of The Gong Show: "The most important things I feel I can give my daughter are love and discipline. With those, she'll be able to achieve anything else. I guide her toward being a self-sufficient, happy and healthy person. If she wants to 'grow up and be an actress,' I'll encourage her. If she never expresses such an interest, neither will I." Chuck's daughter, Della, is 14 years old and appears frequently on the Gong Show as a model.

Jack Albertson, of Chico and the Man: "I think the most important thing a person can give a child is character. Honesty, integrity, ability—all the things that help develop character. I will provide education, encouragement and sympathy. After that, it should be up to the child to select his or her own goals. (Albertson has a married daughter, Maura.)

Bobby Troup of Emergency: "I think it's important to make it possible for children to do the things they want and like to do." Troup is both father and grandfather. The youngest of his seven are twins Reese and Jody, 14. Their mother is Bobby's co-star on Emergency, Julie London. "I don't believe," says Troup, "in fathers using their children as extensions of themselves, channeling them into things in which they, the fathers, are interested. I wouldn't discourage my child from doing anything he wanted to in life, as long as he doesn't hurt himself or anyone else."

Robert Shields and Lorene Yarnell, the performing couple whose creative mime impressions have stirred new interest in the art, are displaying their wide range of comedic and musical talents on their new half-hour comedy-variety series on CBS, Mondays at 8:30PM. The series presents the couple in solo and tandem performances as singers, dancers and comedians.

Shields and Yarnell appeared regularly on the Mac Davis Show and the Sonny & Cher Show as well as nearly 50 other variety and talk shows. Lorene is the daughter of a Los Angeles police detective, and began performing at the age of four. At 15 she joined the Los Angeles Civic Light Opera where she performed in various productions over the next three years. She was also a regular dancer on Shindig and The Carol Burnett Show.

Robert Shields says he was "born to mime," because he didn't speak a word until he was almost five years old. He made his mime "premiere" in front of the Hollywood Wax Museum, doing his motionless, unblinking impressions of the figures within. After performing with a rock band as a teenager and working in a circus, Shields became one of San Francisco's best-known tourist attractions—performing mime regularly in Union Square.

TALENTED QUINTET

Debbie Allen, Ellen Foley and Mimi Kennedy are back in the mini-series, 3 Girls 3, on NBC, Wednesdays at 9PM. The multi-talented trio are equally skilled at singing, dancing and doing comedy. The format of the series allows the girls to move back and forth between actual on-stage variety performances and backstage vignettes about three unknowns who have been given starring roles in a network variety series.

Debbie Allen, a native of Houston, Tex., was a dancer in "Purlie," and was featured in the role of Beneatha in "Raisin," both on Broadway. A graduate of Howard University in Washington, D.C., she has also made several TV commercials and taught at Washington's Duke Ellington School of Performing Arts.

Ellen Foley began her professional career in "The Borscht Review" in New York's Catskill hotel resorts. A native of St. Louis, Mo., she performed in the national tour of "The National Lampoon Show," and in the Off-Broadway plays "The Company Stow" and "Boy Meets Boy."

Mimi Kennedy, from Rochester, New York, always wanted to be an actress. She played Jan in Broadway's long-running musical hit "Grease," and the roles of Sybil and Millie in "All Over Town," also on Broadway.

YOUNG SLEUTHS

Pamela Sue Martin (right) stars as Nancy Drew, resourceful young amateur sleuth, and Jean Rasey co-stars as her friend and aide, George Fayne.

Nancy Drew, the All-American girl detective and one of the first liberated young ladies of American literature, shares her adventures on alternate Sunday evenings (ABC at 7PM) with The Hardy Boys, a team of teenage detectives.

Pamela Sue Martin stars as eighteen-year-old Nancy Drew, who resides in River Heights with her widowed father whom she adores. She is intelligent, courageous and self reliant, with a talent for solving mysteries. William Schallert co-stars as Carson Drew, Nancy's father, and one of the best criminal lawyers in the country. He is assisted in his office by law student Ned Nickerson (George O'Hanlon Jr.) who is always around when Nancy needs him and also gets involved in her capers. Accompanying Nancy on her adventures is her closest female friend and cousin, George Fayne (played by Jean Rasey).

Pamela Sue Martin was born in Westport, Conn., and has an older sister living in San Francisco. While she was attending Staples High School in Westport, a friend suggested she try modeling in New York. Pam took her friend's advice and was soon earning a good living as a teenage model in magazine advertisements and television commercials. While still active as a model, she tried out for a part in the Ray Stark film, "To Find A Man," and wound up playing the lead role. After the film was completed, Pamela returned to Westport to finish her last year of high school.

Because of favorable critical notices for her performance in "To Find A Man," she was called to California to co-star in "The Poseidon Adventure." She has also starred in "Buster & Billie," and "Our Time." When not before the cameras, Pamela enjoys athletic pursuits, especially scuba diving, tennis and skiing.

The Hardy Boys (Parker Stevenson as Frank and Shaun Cassidy as Joe), like their world-famous investigator father, Fenton Hardy (portrayed by Edmund Gilbert), cannot resist an exciting case with elusive clues. In addition to being brothers, the boys are the best of friends—working together and enjoying themselves while hotly pursuing clues that lead to ultimate resolutions of the mysterious cases despite their very different personalities.

Frank lives for the moment, never planning ahead and rushing headlong into the fray. Like his father, he is a natural detective and enthusiastic crime fighter, perceiving everything about him in terms of clues.

He is counter-balanced by brother Joe—the steady and methodical one who provides checks and balances for Frank's unbridled enthusiasm. The boys live with their father and their Aunt Gertrude (Edith Atwater). Working part-time for Mr. Hardy in his thriving detective agency is Callie Shaw (Lisa Eilbacher), a bright and pretty girl who shares Joe and Frank's adventures.

Parker Stevenson entered the world of show business via commercials which came about because his mother, actress Sarah Meade, was also in that field in New York. This led to a successful audition at Paramount for a leading role in the motion picture "A Separate Peace." Parker has also appeared in "Our Time" and "Lifeguard." Born in Philadelphia, Parker has an older sister, Sarah, and a younger brother, Hutch. He graduated from Princeton University where he majored in art and architectural history. He plans to go to graduate school for his M.A. A bachelor, he maintains residences in both New York and Hollywood.

Parker Stevenson (left stars as Frank Hardy, and Shaun Cassidy co-stars as his younger brother Joe.

Shaun Cassidy was born in Los Angeles and is a member of a show business family. He is the son of Shirley Jones and the late Jack Cassidy and a half-brother to pop-rock star David Cassidy. Shaun organized his first band while still in grammar school, performing both as the singer and guitar player at local high school functions and parties. After graduation from Beverly Hills High School, Shaun—in coordination with the release of his first single recording—toured several European cities and was well received in concert. He was presented his first gold record for the album "That's Rock." In the summer of 1975, he toured the United States with his mother in the musical "On A Clear Day," and has also appeared on stage in "The Sound of Music," "High Button Shoes," and "Oliver." According to Shaun, "writing and performing music is my love and acting is my hobby—although I do like baseball."

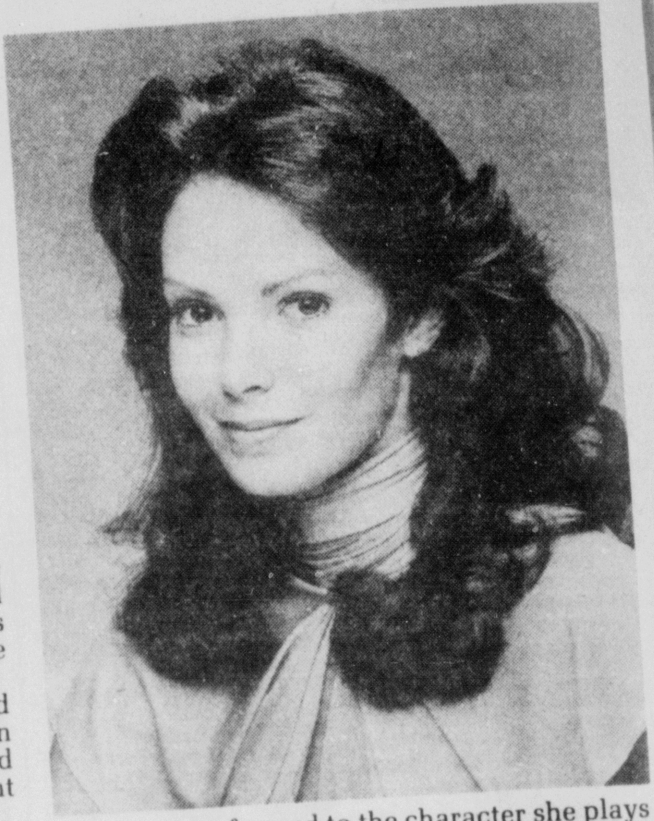
TEXAS BEAUTY



Beautiful, poised and sensitive not only describes Kelly Garrett but Jaclyn Smith, who plays the role of Kelly in ABC's Charlie's Angels series, Wednesdays at 10PM. Like the character she plays, Jaclyn was born in Houston, Texas. She is the daughter of Jack and Margaret Ellen Smith and is the youngest of two children. Her father is a dentist.

Jaclyn started her career in the performing arts by studying ballet at the age of three.

While attending Pershing Junior High School, she began performing at Houston Community Playhouse. She continued acting there until she graduated from Lamar High School. Jaclyn then studied drama and psychology at Trinity University at San Antonio, Texas.

After returning home for a short time, Jaclyn tried working in New York. While there, she conducted a ballet class for underprivileged children in the Head Start program. Then as opportunities opened up for her there, she moved to the West Coast.

Among the films in which she has appeared are "Bootleggers" and "The Adventurers." In great demand as a model, Jaclyn has appeared in some 75 commercials during the past eight years.

Her television roles include appearances in two McClouds, Get Christy Love, The Rookies, a film for the World of Disney and a recurrent role in Switch.

Jaclyn loves children and plans to work in a project involving younger children when she has more time available. Her love of animals has been transformed to the character she plays in the series. Her French poodle, Albert, has become a member of the cast of the series.

Water skiing, swimming and horseback riding are among her hobbies. She also skis and plays a little tennis. She enjoys reading and listening to music, principally classical.

COMEDY IS HER FORTE

Nancy Walker, star of Blansky's Beauties on ABC, was pursuing a career as a serious vocalist when she auditioned for the Broadway production, "Best Foot Forward" and producer George Abbott realized her true forte was comedy. He not only advised the teenager to try for a different role in "Blind Date," but also expanded it from five lines to a lead for Nancy, who was then "discovered" overnight. She then went to Hollywood to repeat her Broadway stage role in MGM's screen version of the musical. Signed to a long-term contract, she appeared in such box-office successes as "Girl Crazy," "Broadway Rhythm" and "Meet the People."

She then returned to Broadway to star as the lady cab driver in "On the Town." Following five years with MGM, her later Broadway hits included "Barefoot in the Park," "Phoenix '55," "Fallen Angels," "Copper and Brass," "Pal Joey," "Wonderful Town," "Girls Against the Boys," "Look Ma, I'm Dancing," "Along Fifth Avenue" and "Lucky Me."

A native of Philadelphia, Nancy, as a child, toured throughout Europe with her parents, Dewey and Myrtle Barto of the famous Barto and Mann vaudeville team. Her major schooling was in New York's Professional Children's School. As actress, comedienne, singer and dancer, Miss Walker has appeared on virtually every major television show. She won five Emmy nominations while starring in the McMillan & Wife and Rhoda series.

In 1973, she became a member of the Directors Guild after directing two segments of The Mary Tyler Moore Show, and a Rhoda episode. She also directed three stage plays by Saul Bellow which led to her Broadway directorial bow with "UTBU."

As a performer, her more recent stage credits include APA productions of "The Cocktail Party," "The Cherry Orchard" and "The Show-Off" in which she took over Helen Hayes' role; and the Los Angeles CTG-Ahmanson Theatre's presentation of "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum."

TELE-TALK

Monte Landis, who co-stars as the resourceful Michael on ABC's Feather and Father Gang, is a man of many parts—some of them way out. The singer-actor-comic sidelines as a top-flight astrologer, and claims to be the world's highest-paid practitioner of that ancient trade. Monte says his own innate abilities, plus wide-ranging studies in the occult and parapsychology, have enabled him to devise a system of personality analysis based solely on an individual's name.

The Happy Days softball team (comprised of cast and crew) has made a reputation around Los Angeles as the "dreaded nine." Now their fame has reached San Francisco, and the gauntlet has been thrown down by a group of Bay area celebrities challenging the ABC series team to a showdown contest prior to a San Francisco Giants game in Candlestick Park. Fireballing Henry Winkler and golden glover Ron Howard (stars of the series) are mulling over dates offered by the cocky aggregation from up north. A highlight for the team last season was a game played before 50,000 people in Dodger Stadium.

Carroll O'Connor is starring in his own teleplay, the two-hour NBC World Premiere Movie, "The Last Hurrah," the story of a big city politician running for office one last time.

O'Connor's script is based on the 1956 best-seller by the late Edwin O'Connor (no relation).It is an updated version of the novel and not a remake of the 1958 movie starring Spencer Tracy. Co-starring are Mariette Hartley, Patrick Wayne, Jack Carter, Arthur Franz, Robert Brown and Kitty Winn.

Vincent Sherman is directing and Frank Levy and Mike Wise are producing for O'Connor's production company, Carna-Becker, in association with Columbia Pictures Television and NBC.

The search is on. The search for young people who have done something positive in their lives or in their communities. The young achievers who are chosen will be honored in the "NBC Junior Hall of Fame," a series of 90-second presentations to be telecast each Saturday morning beginning in the Fall.

Organizations, community leaders and NBC-affiliated stations across the country have been invited to submit names of young people—15 years of age and under—in their areas who have accomplished something worthy of recognition in any of the following ways: volunteer work; bravery; overcoming a handicap; achievement in the arts, sciences or sports.

The young people who are chosen to be honored will be filmed in the environment where they have made their contribution. Names of candidates to be honored in the "NBC Junior Hall of Fame," should be submitted to Alan Landsburg Productions, 110 North Doheny Drive, Beverly Hills, Cal.

"Murder in Peyton Place" is a two-hour movie special set for Fall airing on NBC. The drama is being produced by Peter Katz and directed by Robert Hartford-Davis from a screenplay by Richard DeRoy.

Gabriel Kaplan, who stars as Gabe Kotter in the popular ABC series Welcome Back Kotter, is sporting a new look these days. With the program currently out of production, Kaplan has taken the opportunity to grow his first beard. "I've had my moustache a long time," he remarked, "but this is the first time I've ever grown a full beard."

A picture of Abe Vigoda hangs on the wall of the Beverly Hills Police Station—but it's not a "wanted" poster. A senior detective prevailed upon Vigoda—who stars in his own series, Fish, and co-stars in Barney Miller—to pose with some of the real officers who are fans of the popular television actor. Abe recalls, "All the guys in the station were working the phones, filling out reports and generally looking too busy to be bothered. But the second the police photographer began to snap, I was surrounded by eight officers."

Doc Severinsen (left)—who leads NBC's Tonight Show orchestra—and one of the band's trumpet players, Snooky Young, recently reversed roles. During one of the nightly telecasts of The Tonight Show (NBC, 11:30PM), Doc asked Snooky to solo in front of the band and then Doc took Snooky's place in the trumpet section. Snooky, a former musician with many of the top orchestras of the 1940s and 1950s, is a long-time member of The Tonight Show orchestra.

Merit Breakthrough Remains Unduplicated.

'Enriched Flavor'™ tobacco makes MERIT unique among low tar cigarettes.

Since the introduction of MERIT, a number of other low tar brands have come along. But MERIT remains unique—the only low tar cigarette with 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco.

MERIT delivers what others can only promise: the flavor of higher tar cigarettes. The kind of flavor made possible by a breakthrough in tobacco technology.

Here's how it was done:

By cracking cigarette smoke down into separate elements, researchers were able to isolate certain flavor-rich ingredients that delivered taste way out of proportion to tar.

These flavor essentials were then packed into MERIT, giving it extraordinary flavor.

Taste tests against a number of higher tar cigarettes proved it.

Overall, smokers reported they liked the taste of MERIT and MERIT 100's as much as the taste of the higher tar cigarettes tested.

Cigarettes with up to 60% more tar!

Only one cigarette has 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco.

And you can taste it.

FOR
DAY

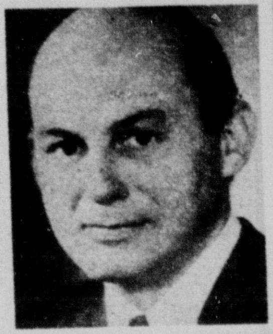
Send the question, on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022.
We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.



FOR SEN. ADLAI STEVENSON (D.-Ill.)

What's the most valuable lesson you learned from your father? —K.G., Galveston, Texas

● To trust the people with the truth, all the truth. If those who know the truth, and those who control its communication, were all committed to that proposition, we could as a people recover confidence in ourselves and act upon the truth decisively.

FOR JOAN BAEZ, folk singer

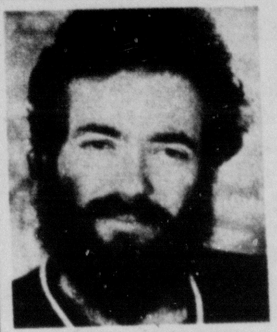
Of all the gifts you gave your father, which one did he like most of all? —A.M., Eau Claire, Wis.

● A secondhand motor scooter. Dad used it to get to and from work when he taught science at MIT. That was during the '60's. It held up very well. Dad loved the bike and hated to part with it — even when it started falling apart two years ago.

FOR MARLO THOMAS, actress

Did your father want you to follow in his footsteps? —B.K., Dover, Del.

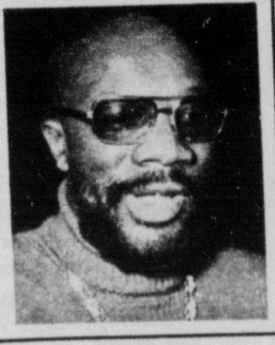
● No. He was against it because he'd worked very hard to get where he was, and he didn't want me to go through all that. He wanted me to go into something secure, such as teaching, which is what I did when I graduated from college. He knew I'd have to start at the bottom in show business and he didn't want to "relive" all that anguish. Talent isn't handed down, like a title. Dad kept asking me, "Do you really think lightning will strike twice in the same family?"



FOR DAVID WALLECHINSKY, writer and son of Irving Wallace

How come your last name is different from your father's? —S.G., Grand Junction, Colo.

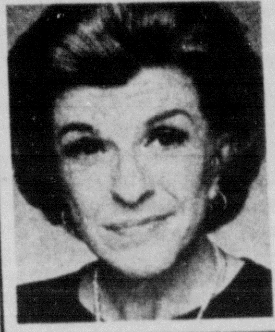
● When my grandfather arrived in this country as an immigrant, an immigration clerk, without consulting Grandpa, changed the name to Wallace. So both Dad and I were born as Wallace. I never gave the matter too much thought until I began writing myself. Then I got annoyed at the high-handed treatment shown Grandpa and, just to put the record straight and to make amends, decided to adopt his name.



FOR ISAAC HAYES, composer

I get the feeling you're a very lenient father. Are you? —K.B., Miami Beach, Fla.

● No, I'm middle of the road. I try not to spoil the kids, and, although they're well provided for, they don't live in luxury. I want to make sure they understand the value of a dollar and learn to appreciate things, just the way I did. Sometimes my kids go on tour with me. (You should see the looks I get in restaurants when I march in with my retinue of eight.) Sometimes to "punish" them I play my records, and they'll yell, "No, not that. Let's hear Elton John."



FOR NANCY WALKER, actress

Were you a real "Daddy's girl" as a child? —J.R., Pomona, Calif.

● Yes, because my mom died when I was eight. I lacked what most kids take for granted — a mother and roots. Dad never remarried, and I grew up in theaters and music halls. He was in vaudeville, and traveling with him was an educational experience — I learned independence, but it was also very lonely. Dad was a mom and dad rolled into one, but there are things a girl can't tell her father.

FOR JANE PAULEY, co-host of NBC-TV's Today show

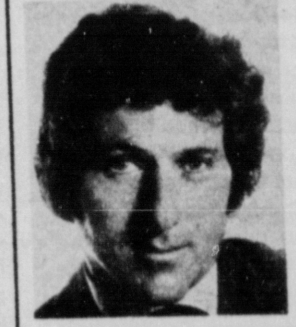
Does your father watch you on TV every day? —Elaine Denta, Merrillville, Ind.

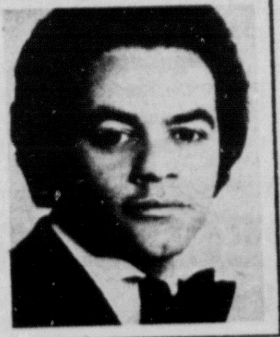
● He probably did at the beginning, but the novelty might have worn off a bit now. But even at the start, he and Mom were quite unruffled at turning on the tube and seeing me. In fact, their attitude toward me hasn't changed at all. They still offer advice and counsel and remind me to take my vitamins, to eat square meals and to pick up after myself. They don't think of me as a newscaster, but as their youngest daughter.



FOR BARRY NEWMAN, actor

Was your father an actor, too? —P.M., Lake Charles, La.

● He was a jack-of-all trades and very complex. He had a million businesses (owned trucks, a liquor store, home improvements), all of which failed. Mom worked hard to keep the family together, financially and emotionally. Things started to pick up when I was nine. Dad became manager and part owner of Boston's Latin Quarter, and I loved to go there and see all the Damon Runyon type characters and watch the stars and chorus girls rehearse. Big names appeared there: Sinatra, Sammy Davis, Danny Thomas, Nat King Cole.



FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

What's the most touching Father's Day gift story you've heard —L.E., Eastchester, N.Y.

● One told to FAMILY WEEKLY recently by singer Johnny Mathis (right). He bought an organ for a Baptist church in San Francisco, where his parents worshipped and where he went regularly as a kid, and donated it on Father's Day. The sad part, however, is that this happened a couple of years after Johnny's father had passed away. "Wish I had thought of doing that during Dad's lifetime," said Johnny. "It would have made him very proud."

FOR DON STEWART, star of TV's The Guiding Light

What do you remember most of the times you spent alone with your father? —M.H., Kingsport, Tenn.

● The hours we were up in the clouds. Dad was a doctor, but I think he enjoyed his hobby more — he was a licensed pilot. Whenever he could, he'd take me up with him. Every month, we went to Fly-In breakfasts (an air carnival, with pilots from all over Nebraska flying in, in their own planes.) That's where I formed my love for flying.

PRO AND CON

Are Too Many Baseball Players Being Overpaid?

PRO Bobby Bragan, president, National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues (minor leagues)

Yes. The re-entry draft, whereby major league players can become free agents, is by far the most detrimental of baseball's recent innovations. It has changed the game's "team" concept to one of individual acclaim. Instead of pride in team colors, the only color today is green. That the players' economic position has been upgraded no one questions. However, justification of $100,000 salaries to utility infielders everyone questions. The fact that some egocentric, power-hungry club owners will flex their money muscles to acquire multimillion-dollar athletes has a dramatic effect on all players — the whole bunch thinks big.

CON Marvin Miller, executive director, Major League Player's Association

No. Owners are businessmen, and except for an occasional error, no prudent businessman ever pays a salaried employee more than he is worth to his organization. Second, the percentage of revenue that goes to salaries is one of the smallest of any industry in the country. Third, salaries for all players in the major leagues plus the cost of their pension plan come to less than 25 percent of baseball's total revenues. Twenty-five years ago that total was 35 percent. Finally, baseball's TV revenues alone — not parking, tickets or concession sales — exceed the combined cost of player salaries and the player pension plan.

BEVERLY SILLS, SUPERSTAR

Her debut came at age 3, and ever since, despite a life underlined by personal tragedy, she has been singing, dancing and talking her way to the top.

"Art is the signature of a civilization," says Beverly, a tireless worker for the arts.

By Luisa Kreisberg

When Beverly Sills did a soft-shoe with Danny Kaye on his TV special, Look In at the Met, she astonished everyone with the snap she put into the act. When she tap-danced with Carol Burnett on a TV special entitled Sills and Burnett at the Met, she again stopped the show with her flashy footwork.

But it's not what Beverly Sills does with her feet that makes her one of the highest-paid performers in the world. It's what she does with her voice. Known as "America's Queen of Opera," she is celebrated for her flawless coloratura, which in Italian means "coloring" and in music means the florid trills, scales and runs used to display a singer's skills.

The Brooklyn-born diva sings operatic arias the way an acrobat turns somersaults. When Time did a cover story on her in 1971, the headline read: "The Fastest Voice Alive." Her recordings are perennial best sellers, and in New York she is so popular that one critic has placed her at the top of the city's tourist attractions — way ahead of such things as the Statue of Liberty or the Empire State Building.

"I was 48 on May 26, and I've been in the public eye all my life," she says with an exuberant smile that fills the room with sunshine. She is talking in the living room of her spacious apartment overlooking New York's Central Park. It is decorated in colors that complement her flaming red hair. The phone rings constantly, and her husband, retired newspaper executive Peter Greenough, stalks the foyer, awaiting the morning mail that averages 500 letters a week from her adoring fans..

"I started singing at age three on a radio show called Uncle Bob's Rainbow Hour, and I've been singing ever since," she recalls. "It's going to be very difficult to know when to quit. It's like hitting a home run and hearing all those cheers from the crowd — it gets in your blood. I've hit a lot of home runs, and when the cheering stops, it won't be easy to give it up."

The cheers from the crowd show no signs of stopping. Her calendar is solidly booked through 1980, and she expects to do 100 performances a year over the next three years. In 1978 she will sing in world premieres of operas written by American composers in San Diego, Houston and New York. "Everything about them will be American," she says. "The cast, the crew, the composers — everything. There's a tremendous interest in opera in this country. I haven't sung to anything less than a soldout house in six years. And that's not just in the big cities. I'm talking about places like Orlando, Fla., and Topeka, Kan., where 4,500 people jammed in for my last concert."

One reason for her enormous success is that she is a rare combination of a singer who can act and an actress who can sing. A Broadway or Hollywood star could learn a lot from her about what inflection to put into a lyric or a dramatic line from a script. She's a perfect showwoman whose roots in the business go 45 years deep. Her weekly appearances at age three on that kiddie radio show were followed by regular appearances on the popular Major Bowes Family Hour. At age seven, in an era of Wunderkinder like Shirley Temple and Judy Garland, 20th Century-Fox tried to make a movie star out of her, and she sang in a film called Uncle Sol Solves It, starring Willy Howard. By age 12 she had a continuous role in a soap opera called Our Gal Sunday.

"I was also known for my singing of the Rinso White commercial jingle — 'Rinso White, Rinso Bright, Happy Little Wash Day Song'" — she confesses with a laugh.

But her dream, she insists, was always to be an opera star, and her career got under way officially when she was 17, in 1945, via a debut with the Philadelphia Civic Opera in Carmen. For the next two years she toured the country with the Charles Wagner Opera Company (singing 63 Micaelas, a leading role in Carmen, and 54 Violettas in Traviata). In October 1955, after nine auditions with the New York City Opera, she made her debut with that company. The rest is history. She has since triumphed in all the major opera houses of the world and with all the major symphonies of this country and many in Europe.

But music is only one side of Beverly Sills' public profile. On the other side is Beverly Sills the author and Beverly Sills the television personality. Her first book, a self-portrait entitled Bubbles, was recently published and is enjoying brisk sales. "The title comes from an endearment my mother and two brothers forced on me at birth because I was born with an enormous bubble of spit in my mouth," she says. "The doctor said it was an omen, and they had to call me 'Bubbles.' The name has stuck."

Her television show, Lifestyles with Beverly Sills, is telecast by WNBC-TV once a week in the metropolitan New York area and will be syndicated in 40 cities in the U.S. and Canada next fall. "It's a topical show with celebrities," she explains. "I've had wonderful chats with Zero Mostel, Lily Tomlin and many other celebrities. I've also talked with the sons of two Presidents — Jack Carter and Jack Ford — about the problems of growing up in a political family.

"The show's main emphasis," she says "is on public affairs." Specifically, that means such controversial topics as alcoholism, the problems of single parents and homosexuality, all of which Beverly has discussed unflinchingly with her guests. One broadcast,

TO MY VERY SPECIAL FRIEND

By Carol Burnett

Working with Beverly Sills wasn't work — it was a picnic. No matter how tired I got, I always looked forward to rehearsals. We laughed and giggled all the time. She's such a joyful lady; she certainly explodes the myth that opera stars have to be temperamental. We got along so fabulously, in fact, that after the taping, when I had to fly back to California, we both started crying. I felt like I was graduating from high school and we were going off to different colleges. As a result, we now see each other every chance we get.

It's very strange how we met. I had a spe[illegible] to do for CBS, and Ken and Mitzie Welch — they wrote all the musical material for the show — and I were mulling over who'd be marvelous to team with. They suggested Beverly. I didn't think she could do it, not with her busy schedule. Ken said, "Call her anyway. All she can do is say no." But she said yes. My husband [producer Joe Hamilton] called her first, and then she and I had a long talk over the phone before we actually met, but I knew right off I would love her. She was coming out to play the title role in Donizetti's Lucrezia Borgia and was going to stay at the Beverly Hills Hotel — we now call it the Beverly Sills — so I picked her up at the hotel one afternoon to get acquainted, and we never stopped talking.

She's a remarkable person and very versatile. You remember those old Betty Grable movies in which she'd pick up a sheet of music, take one look at it, throw it down and know it letter-perfect? Well, that's Beverly. She sang everything. We wailed together and had a great time. She even tap-danced, and we did a sketch together. To my knowledge, she'd never done a comedy sketch in her life.

There's something unique about Beverly, I feel. It's her humanness. Fans worship her, and I'm sure they put her on a pedestal, but she refuses to accept any adulation. She possesses a down-to-earth quality. You feel you really know her. Her giggle, her laugh, comes from her belly and her toes. It's sincere. Beverly was staying in Los Angeles recently and was my husband's date to see Same Time Next Year, the play I am currently doing.

One of the nicest things Beverly did for me was get me started on a new custom. Last year, we spent Thanksgiving together, and after dinner, while we sat there, all nervous, waiting to see the airing of our special, Sills and Burnett at the Met, she hauled out a huge book she'd brought along. It must have dated back over 200 years, full of all their Thanksgivings. Each year they take pictures and everyone writes comments. So we added ours, too. And then she gave me a book so I could start one for my family. I think it's a marvelous custom. I'm such a copycat. ■

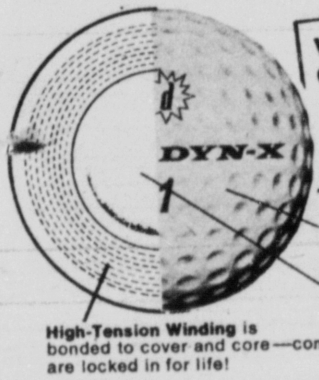
The Golf Hustler's Secret Weapon

(Now revealed . . . how he adds 20-30 yards to his drive . . . cuts 3 to 5 strokes off his score.)



WHY THE DYN-X OUTDISTANCES AND OUTPLAYS ALL OTHER GOLF BALLS!

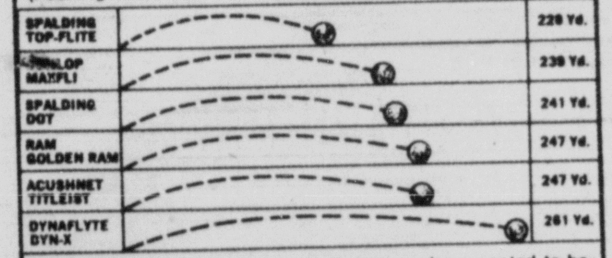
Cut-Proof Dynalon Cover (based on DuPont SURLYN research)

Polydyne VII Core Out-rebounds any other center by 19 to 51%!

High-Tension Winding is bonded to cover and core—compression and roundness are locked in for life!

LABORATORY TEST RESULTS CONFIRM DYN-X OUTDISTANCES TOP-SELLING PRO BALLS!

Random samples of each ball were purchased from golf course pro shops with fast product turnover to assure balls were new and full-compression. Testing method used standard mechanical driving machine assuring that each ball was struck in identical position with identical force. Distance was measured from "tee" to point where each ball struck ground. (Post-flight roll was not included in measurements.)



IMPORTANT: Differences in actual play may be expected to be notably greater than those revealed by any test made under controlled laboratory conditions.

Guaranteed to Cut 3 to 5 Strokes Off Your Score Or Your Money Refunded

GUARANTEE NO. 1: Your must consistently drive longer and straighter . . . putt with greater accuracy . . . and lower your average score by at least 3 to 5 strokes—or we'll refund your full purchase price! Use your DYN-X balls and enjoy them for up to 30 days at our risk: then, if not completely satisfied, return them for your money back!
GUARANTEE NO 2: We will immediately replace FREE (for 25¢ postage and handling) any DYN-X ball which cuts, goes out of round, or loses its perfect inbuilt balance at any time!

HERE'S WHAT IT CAN MEAN TO YOU!

- Add 20 to 30 yards to every drive!
- Cut 3 to 5 strokes off your score!
- Cure your hook or slice!
- Lifetime Guaranteed not to cut, chip, or lose perfect roundness and balance!
- Putt truer and more consistently!

By regulation, no U.S.G.A.-approved golf ball can come off the club head at a velocity of more than 250 feet per second. But our DYN-X golf ball can . . . and does! (It's made to British regulations.) In fact, DYN-X is the world's fastest golf ball off the club head. So it's no wonder it gets out there faster . . . and keeps on traveling further—with more roll and less bounce! "They'd have to make every course in America 2,000 yards longer if this ball was ever legalized" one hustler commented.

Goes 30 Yards Further

DYN-X balls conform completely to British (R&A) international specifications . . . are 1.62" in diameter, and weigh 1.62 oz. Top American pros change to this British-size ball, any time it's legal—because they know it handles better in a wind . . . goes farther and straighter! 30 yards farther! And the DYN-X ball cuts down on the cause of hooks and slices—because you have much more margin for error with the smaller ball . . . and are much more likely to make contact with the "sweet spot" on the club head! No wonder one of America's top pros stated point-blank that, any time you have the choice, it's silly to play the big ball.

Drive One Club Longer

Use the DYN-X ball—and you'll be driving at least one club longer than you ever did before. So you'll be able to hit one club less on your short irons . . . to hold the green better and end up closer to the pin! On those long par 5's, you'll have an easier shot to reach the green in 3 (or even 2, if you're already a long hitter). You'll find yourself in position to birdie those shorter par 4's. Even if you're a duffer, you'll find yourself shanking fewer shots, because you can hit this ball off-center and it'll still go straighter! And, on the green, you'll find yourself sinking more short putts and leaving those long putts closer to the hole—because the DYN-X ball starts off faster and runs truer . . . so you have less worries about the way the putt will break! With all this going for you . . . if you don't cut at least 3 to 5 strokes off your score every round—you aren't really trying!

FREE BONUS!

3 EXTRA BALLS FREE WHEN YOU ORDER 12 FOR $15!
1 EXTRA BALL FREE WHEN YOU ORDER 3 FOR $5!

The Dyn-X Balls must add 20 to 30 yards to your drive, cut 3 to 5 strokes off your score, or return them for full refund of purchase price. In any case Free Bonus balls are yours to keep without any obligation.

BEVERLY SILLS Continued

which focused on living with a handicapped child, hit particularly close to home: her daughter Muffy, 18, was born deaf, and her son Peter Jr., 16, is mentally retarded and is in a special school in Massachussetts, where one of her three stepdaughters (by Mr. Greenough's first marriage) has been since 1959.

"The discovery of my children's problems seriously altered my life," she observes. "The first questions I asked when I learned of their tragedies was a self-pitying 'Why me?' Then, gradually, it changed to a much more important 'Why them?' Despite their handicaps, they have shown enormous strength in continuing to live as normal lives as possible. How could I show any less strength?"

She derives a great deal of that strength, she believes, from "the act of giving." She takes particular pride in her activities as national chairman of the March of Dimes' Mothers' March on Birth Defects, which has helped to raise close to $50 million for that organization in the years since she became associated with it in 1971, and she has heartened and encouraged the parents of birth-defected children through meetings with them at Mothers' March chapters all over the country, wherever her schedule takes her.

"I've traveled hundreds of thousands of miles and made hundreds of speeches on behalf of birth-defected children. My husband and I felt that we wanted to concentrate all our efforts in the area where we had been most seriously and most tragically affected."

The discovery of her children's problems was also a turning point in her singing career because it triggered a lightning-swift insight into her life and brought about "a kind of serenity and a new maturity," Beverly points out. "Instead of using my singing just to build a career, which is what I had been doing up to that time, I began singing for pure pleasure.

"I was singing not because I wanted to be Beverly Sills Superstar but because I needed to sing — desperately. My voice poured out more easily because it no longer seemed important whether everyone loved me or not — more important now was for me to love them. Feeling that way turns your whole life around — living becomes the act of giving. When I do a performance now, I still need and like the adulation of an audience, but my real satisfaction comes from what I have given myself."

After a long pause, she adds, "The stage has always been a great escape for me. I get to the theater and can be somebody else for three hours. What other profession can offer as much?"

In the fall she will tape a one-act opera for television to be broadcast nationwide early next year. Television, she feels, is a marvelous outlet for opera and increasingly a lure for her talents. She has been a frequent guest on late-night talk shows and was invited to take over from Barbara Walters when she left the Not For Women Only show. "If I wanted to let it, a career in television could blossom," she says. "But right now I don't want to tie myself down to any one thing. I can afford to play it cool. I can do what I want, unlike a great many singers who have reached the stage in life that I have. I feel much more secure and much easier than those ladies do."

Beverly is an outspoken advocate of government aid to the arts, and her efforts on behalf of American artists and American music have been legion — and effective. In a speech to the National Press Club in Washington, she stressed the desirability and need for government aid to the arts, dismissing the question of where the funds were to come from with the statement: "I have never heard of a war going out of business for lack of funds." And when she went to Albany with the Concerned Citizens for the Arts in New York State to urge passage of the $30.5 million requested for the arts in the governor's budget, she addressed a group of legislators in a committee room prior to the budget hearing, declaring, "Art is the signature of a civilization." The amount allotted to the arts in the final vote was $32 million.

"A recent Harris poll taken nationally found that over 60 percent of those polled would be willing to give $5 above their income tax if it were to go to the arts," she says. "I think that's remarkable. I wonder if they took a poll of the same group, asking if they would give $5 to support the next war, what the result would be. Politicians talk about the people's will. Well, the will of the people is to beautify their lives. People would rather make art. . .than war."

BLUE RIBBON RECIPES FROM COUNTRY FAIRS

Is there anything in the world better than good, old-fashioned American cooking? And these recipes represent the pick of the crop.

By Marilyn Hansen

HINT O' HONEY LOAVES

½ cup warm water (105° to 115°F.)
2 pkgs. active dry yeast
2¼ cups milk, scalded
⅓ cup honey
¼ cup plus 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2½ teaspoons salt
6 to 6½ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
2 cups quick or old-fashioned oats, uncooked

1. Measure warm water into small warm bowl. Sprinkle in yeast; stir until dissolved.

2. In large bowl, pour scalded milk over honey, 1/4 cup butter and salt, stirring until butter melts; cool to lukewarm.

3. Add 2 cups flour, oats and dissolved yeast; mix well. Stir in enough additional flour to make soft dough.

4. Turn dough out onto lightly floured surface; knead about 8 to 10 minutes or until smooth and elastic.

5. Shape dough into ball and place into large greased bowl, turning to coat surface of dough. Cover; let rise in warm place about one hour or until double in size.

6. Punch dough down. Cover; let rest 10 minutes. Shape to form 2 loaves; place into 2 greased 9 x 5-inch loaf pans. Brush with melted butter. Cover; let rise about 45 minutes or until nearly doubled in size or dough comes up to the tops of the pans. Just before rising time is up, preheat oven to 350°F.

7. Bake loaves about 45 minutes or until they sound hollow when rapped with knuckles. Turn out of pans and let cool on wire rack. Makes 2 loaves

ENERGY SAVER BARS

2 cups quick or old-fashioned oats, uncooked
3 cups miniature marshmallows
½ cup chunk-style peanut butter
¼ cup honey
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 cup raisins

1. Toast oats in shallow baking pan in preheated 350°F. oven about 15 minutes or until golden brown. Line 9-inch square baking pan with aluminum foil; grease.

2. Melt marshmallows with peanut butter, honey and butter in medium-sized saucepan over low heat, stirring constantly; remove from heat.

3. Stir in toasted oats and raisins. Place into prepared pan, spreading evenly. Chill until firm. To serve, remove foil; cut into squares. Makes 9-inch square pan of bars

AUNT MATTIE'S MAPLE JOYS

½ cup butter or margarine
1¼ cups firmly packed light brown sugar
2 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
¾ cup quick or old-fashioned oats, uncooked
1 egg, beaten
2 tablespoons milk
1 teaspoon maple flavoring
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon ground ginger

1. In large bowl with electric mixer at medium speed, beat together butter and sugar until light and fluffy.

2. At low speed, add flour, mixing well. Set aside ⅓ cup flour mixture.

3. Add oats, egg, milk, maple flavoring, baking soda and salt; mix well.

4. Shape to form 1-inch balls. Stir ginger into ⅓ cup reserved flour mixture. Roll balls in reserved flour mixture; place on ungreased cookie sheet.

5. Bake in preheated 375°F. oven·10 to 12 minutes.

Makes about 6 dozen cookies

CHOCOLATE SURPRISE SQUARES

Cake:

½ cup butter or margarine
1½ cups sugar
3 eggs
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
1½ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
½ cup quick or old-fashioned oats, uncooked
½ cup cocoa
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup water
1 can (8 ozs.) sauerkraut, drained and chopped

Frosting:

½ cup butter or margarine, softened
2 cups confectioners' sugar
¼ cup cocoa
2 tablespoons milk
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
½ cup chopped walnuts

1. Preheat oven to 350°F. Make cake first: Beat together butter and sugar until light and fluffy; blend in eggs and vanilla.

2. Combine flour, oats, cocoa, baking powder, baking soda and salt. Add flour mixture to butter mixture alternately with water, mixing well after each addition; fold in sauerkraut.

3. Pour batter into greased and floured 13 x 9 x 2-inch baking pan. Bake for about 40 minutes or until a wooden pick inserted into center comes out clean; cool completely.

4. Make frosting: In medium bowl with electric mixer, beat together butter, sugar and cocoa. Blend in milk and vanilla; beat well. Spread over top of cake. Garnish with chopped walnuts. Cut into squares.

Makes 13 x 9-inch cake

SWEET CHERRY MARMALADE

4 cups fresh sweet Bing cherries
2 oranges
3 cups water
3½ cups sugar
⅓ cup lemon juice

1. Pit and chop cherries. Remove peel from oranges in quarters and cut into fine slivers. Chop pulp.

2. Place slivered orange peel and pulp in large saucepan. Cover with 3 cups water and cook until tender.

3. Add cherries, sugar and lemon juice. Cook rapidly to jelly stage, about 25 to 30 minutes, stirring occasionally.

4. Pour into sterilized jars, filling to within ⅛ inch of top. Wipe top and threads of jars with clean damp cloth. Cover with 2-piece lids, following manufacturer's directions.

5. Process in boiling-water bath 5 minutes, timing when water returns to boil.

6. Cool, test for seal and store.

Makes about 3 pints

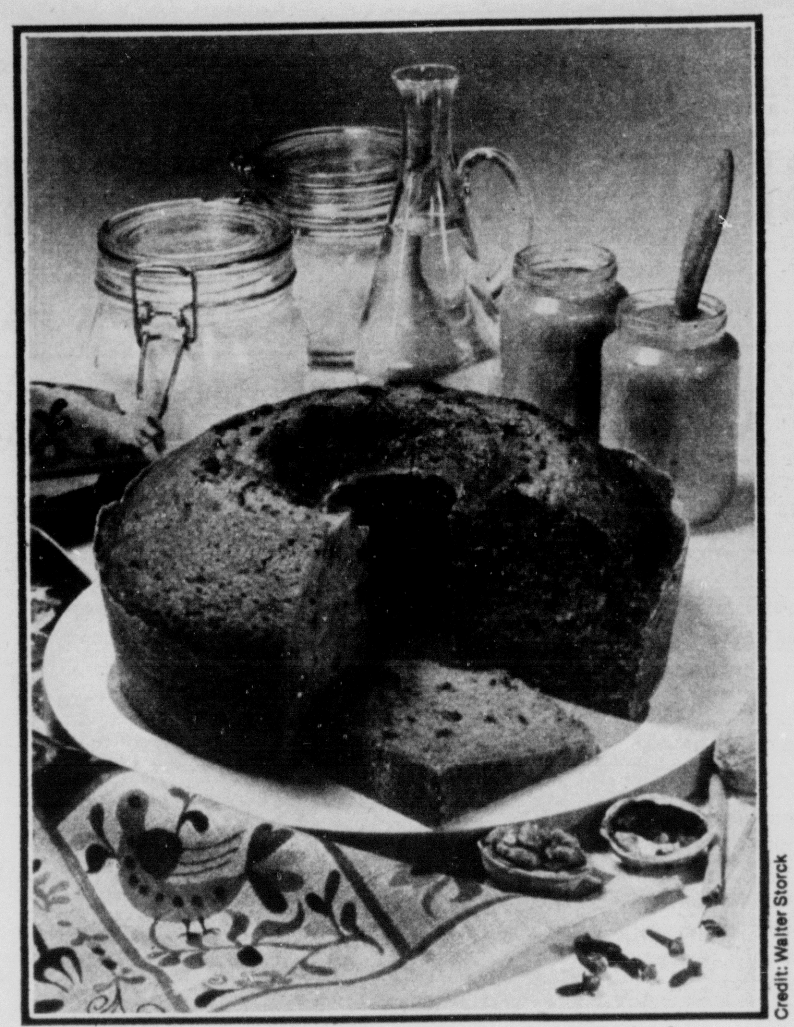
GENUINE DILL PICKLES

18 to 20 lbs. pickling cucumbers, 3 to 5 inches long
1¾ cups granulated pickling or dairy salt
1½ cups vinegar
3 or 4 tablespoons mixed pickling spice
¼ cup sugar
10 qts. water
2 or 3 bunches dill with fully developed seed
8 to 10 fresh grape leaves, if available*
Fresh garlic cloves and onion, optional

1. Wash, rinse and drain cucumbers. Make brine by combining salt, vinegar, spice and sugar with water. Stir to dissolve salt.

2. Put 1 or 2 layers of cucumbers in a glass jar, stoneware crock or tight, well-sealed, odorless wooden keg.

3. Add some of the dill and, if you have them, 3 or 4 fresh grape leaves. Continue in this manner until all cucumbers are in container. Leave 3 or more inches headroom.



You'll want to make this easy, moist Spicy Carrot Cake for your family frequently.

Credit: Walter Storck

4. Add brine to cover cucumbers. (They will spoil if not completely covered.) Use glass or ceramic plate that will fit inside container to hold cucumbers under brine. Fill a fruit jar with water and use as a weight to hold down plate.

5. Cover container with a thin cloth and put in a dry, well-ventilated place. Check container every day and remove scum which forms on top of brine.

6. Watch depth of brine; if it appears to be evaporating rapidly, add more to keep cucumbers well covered. Pickle usually takes 3 to 4 weeks to develop even color and good flavor.

7. Prepare quart-size canning jars. If desired, a small red pepper or a piece of a large one, a few sprigs of dill and a teaspoon or more of light mustard seed may be added to each quart jar of pickle. Do not add garlic or onion without boiling it 5 minutes.

8. Pack pickle to ½ inch of top of jar. Strain brine; boil it 5 minutes and pour over pickles. Brine should end about ¼ inch from top of jar.

9. Wipe off anything spilled on top or threads of jar. Put dome lid on jar; screw band tight.

10. Prepare to process. Have water in canner at the just-beginning-to-boil point. Slowly lower jar straight down so the entire bottom of the jar touches the water at the same instant. (That reduces the chance of breakage from thermal shock.)

11. Star counting processing time as soon as jars have been put into the canner of boiling water. Allow to boil gently for 15 minutes.

12. Remove jars from canner at end of processing time and let them stand several inches apart, out of a draft, to cool.

Makes 8 to 10 quarts

*Grape leaves contain a natural substance that helps prevent pickles from softening.

If preferred, fresh brine may be substituted for that used to cure the cucumbers.

BASHFUL BANANA'S COFFEECAKE

⅓ cup milk
⅓ cup mashed ripe banana
1 egg
¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
⅛ teaspoon ground cloves
1 pkg. (10½ ozs.) easy coffee-cake mix
2 tablespoons chopped walnuts

1. Place milk, banana, egg, nutmeg and cloves into large bag of mix. Squeeze upper part of bag to force out air. Close top of bag by holding tightly between thumb and index finger.

2. With bag resting on table, mix by working bag vigorously with fingers (about 40 seconds or until egg is completely blended).

3. Empty batter into special aluminum-foil pan contained in package. (Do not grease pan.) Sprinkle walnuts and topping contained in small bag evenly over batter.

4. Bake in preheated moderate oven, 375°F., about 25 minutes.

Makes 1 coffeecake

BILLY BOY'S APPLE PIE

Crust:

1½ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup vegetable shortening
¾ cup quick or old-fashioned oats, uncooked
7 or 8 tablespoons cold water

Filling:

¾ cup sugar
¼ cup unsifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
½ teaspoon ground nutmeg
¼ teaspoon salt
4 medium-sized cooking apples, peeled, cored and sliced (about 4 cups)
1 1-lb. can tart, pitted cherries, drained
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon butter or margarine

1. For crust, combine flour and salt; cut mixture into shortening until it resembles coarse crumbs. Stir in oats. Sprinkle with water by tablespoonsful, mixing until dry ingredients are moistened. Form into ball.

2. Roll out half of dough on lightly floured surface to form 13-inch circle. Fit loosely into 9-inch pie plate; trim.

3. For filling, combine sugar, flour, cinnamon, nutmeg and salt. Arrange one-third of apple slices over bottom of pie crust; sprinkle with one-fourth of sugar mixture, apples and cherries.

4. Sprinkle with lemon juice; dot with butter. Roll out second half of dough to form 12-inch circle; cut slits for steam to escape. Place over filling; trim. Turn edges under; flute.

5. Bake in preheated hot oven, 450°F., 35 to 40 minutes or until golden brown. Makes 9-inch pie

Blueberry-Strawberry Jam

3 cups crushed blueberries (about 2 pints)
3 cups crushed strawberries (about 3 pints)
3 cups sugar
1½ cups KARO Light Corn Syrup
⅓ cup lemon juice

In 6-qt. saucepot mix all ingredients. Stirring constantly, bring to full boil over high heat. Reduce heat; stirring frequently, boil rapidly 40 to 50 min., or until small amount cooled in freezer 5 min. gels. Remove from heat; skim. Ladle into clean hot ½-pt. jars leaving ⅛" headspace. Seal as directed by jar manufacturer. Process in boiling water bath 5 min. Makes 6 jars.

Spiced Peach Jam

5 to 6 pounds firm peaches
⅓ cup lemon juice
3 cups sugar
1½ cups KARO Light Corn Syrup
3 sticks (3 inches each) cinnamon
2 teaspoons whole cloves

Peel peaches; chop or grind enough to measure 6 cups. Stir in juice. In 6-qt. saucepot mix fruit, sugar, corn syrup and spices tied in cheesecloth. Stirring constantly, bring to full boil over high heat. Reduce heat; stirring frequently, boil rapidly 30 to 40 min., or until small amount cooled in freezer 5 min. gels. Remove from heat. Skim; discard spice-bag. Ladle into clean hot ½-pt. jars leaving ⅛" head-space. Seal as directed by jar manufacturer. Process in boiling water bath 5 min. Makes 6 jars.

Dear Debbera,
I want to tell you about my study. At the end of last year I was announced as best student. My school report is very satisfactory. I got a present from school. How about you, Debbera? Are you still studying? I hope you are successful in your studies. I stop my letter now. I give you all my love. From your sponsored child,
Tristaca

Dear Tristaca,
I was so pleased to get your letter. That's quite an honor to be first in your class. I'm very proud of you. I'm still teaching, but the only classes I'm taking now are ballet. Did you get all the postcards I sent? It was a great trip. I'm looking forward to the holidays now—hope to do a lot of skiing this winter. Take care now and write soon.
Debbera

P.S. I love you.

Tristaca and Debbera, though they've never even met, share a very special love. Tristaca lived in extreme poverty. Her mother has tried to support her family herself, but she can only get menial jobs that pay almost nothing.

Tristaca was a girl without any hopes, without any dreams. Then Debbera Drake came into her life.

Debbera sponsors her through the Christian Children's Fund for $15 a month. Her money gives Tristaca food and clothing and a chance to go to school. It gives her hopes and dreams once more.

You can give a child hope. Become a sponsor. You needn't send any money now—you can "meet" the child assigned to your care first. Just mail the coupon. You'll receive the child's photograph and background information. If you wish to sponsor the child, simply send in your first monthly check or money order for $15 within 10 days. If not, return the photo and other materials so we may ask someone else to help.

We have thousands of children like Tristaca on our waiting list right now who desperately need sponsors. Let one of them share something special with you. Love.

For the love of a hungry child.

The juicy goodness of fresh fruit baked to perfection in an open-faced Kuchen cake.

2. With electric mixer, beat eggs until light and fluffy; stir in oil, sugar and junior carrots.

3. Combine flour, baking soda, cinnamon and salt with walnuts. Gradually add dry ingredients to egg mixture; mix well.

4. Pour batter into prepared pan. Bake 60 to 70 minutes or until cake tests done. Cool in pan 10 minutes; remove from pan and cool on wire rack.

Makes 1 (10-inch) cake

FRESH FRUIT KUCHEN

2 to 2½ cups unsifted flour*
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 package active dry yeast
½ cup milk
¼ cup water
½ cup (½ stick) margarine
1 egg at room temperature
4 cups sliced fresh apples, nectarines, peaches or plums
⅔ cup sugar
1½ teaspoons ground cinnamon
2 tablespoons margarine

1. In a large bowl, thoroughly mix ¾ cup flour, 2 tablespoons sugar, salt and undissolved active dry yeast.

2. Combine milk, water and ¼ cup margarine in a saucepan. Heat over low heat until liquids are very warm (120°-130°F.). Margarine does not need to melt. Gradually add to dry ingredients and beat 2 minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally.

3. Add egg and ¼ cup flour. Beat at high speed 2 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Stir in enough additional flour to make a stiff batter.

4. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour. If desired, let dough rise in refrigerator. Cover tightly and refrigerate 2 hours or overnight.

5. Stir batter down. Turn into any 2 of the following greased pans: 9-inch square, 9-inch round, 2-quart shallow baking dish, 12-inch pizza pan or 9-inch ovenproof skillet. Use lightly floured fingers to spread batter to edge of pans.

6. Arrange fruit slices evenly over batter. Combine ⅔ cup sugar, cinnamon and 2 tablespoons margarine; mix until crumbly. Sprinkle over fruit. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

7. Just before rising time is up preheat oven to 375°F. Bake about 25 to 30 minutes or until done. Makes 2 cakes

*Whole Wheat Fruit Kuchen: Prepare as above, except after beating at high speed for 2 minutes, stir in 1 to 1½ cups unsifted whole wheat flour to make a stiff batter.

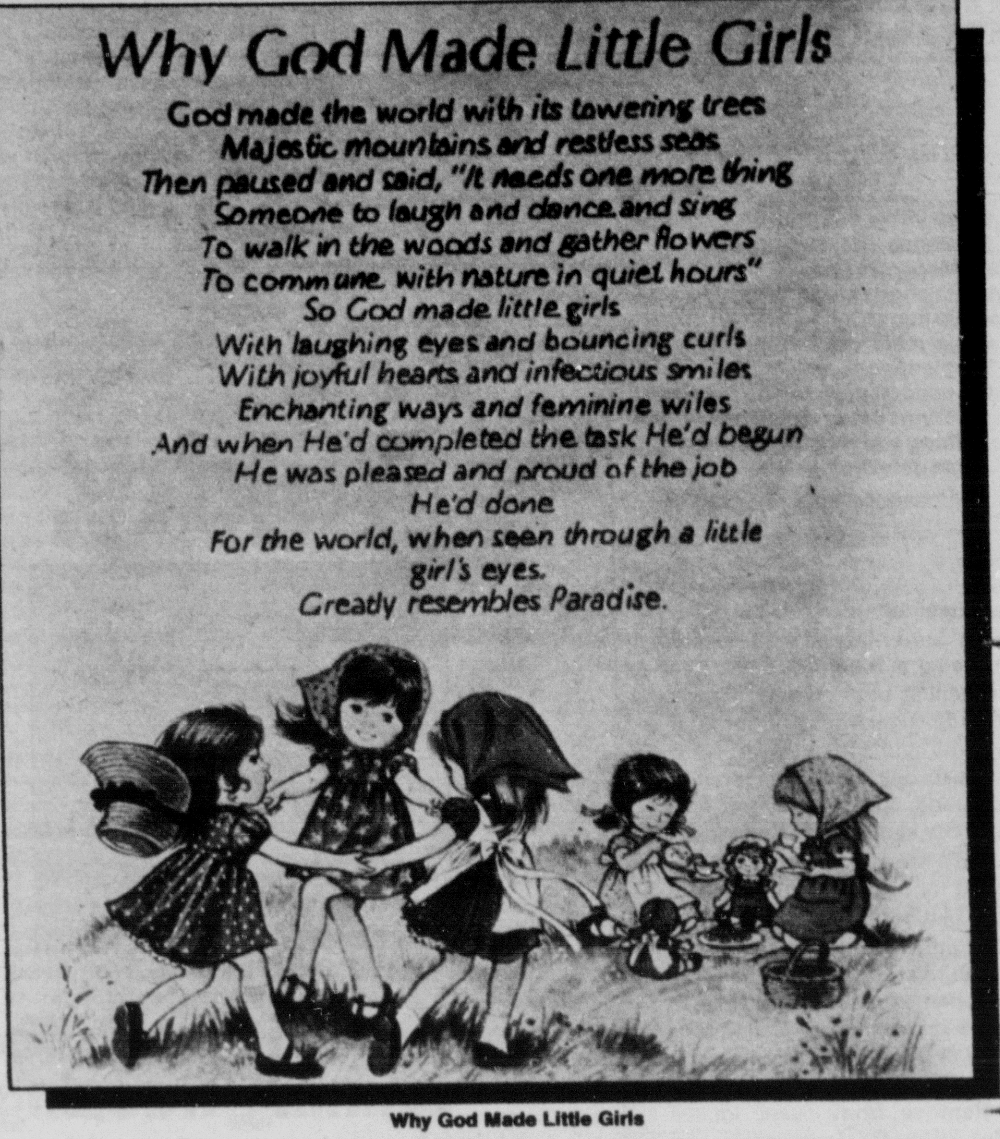
Why God Made Little Boys

God made a world out of his dreams,
Of magic mountains oceans and streams.
Prairies and plains and wooded land,
Then paused and thought. "I need someone to stand
On top of the mountains, to conquer the seas.
Explore the plains and climb the trees.
Someone to start out small and grow
Sturdy strong like a tree and so...
He created boys, full of spirit and fun,
To explore and conquer, to romp and run,
With dirty faces banged up chins,
With courageous hearts and boyish grins.
When He had completed the task He'd begun
He surely said "That's a job well done."

Why God Made Little Boys



Why God Made Little Girls

God made the world with its towering trees
Majestic mountains and restless seas
Then paused and said, "It needs one more thing
Someone to laugh and dance and sing
To walk in the woods and gather flowers
To commune with nature in quiet hours"
So God made little girls
With laughing eyes and bouncing curls
With joyful hearts and infectious smiles
Enchanting ways and feminine wiles
And when He'd completed the task He'd begun
He was pleased and proud of the job
He'd done
For the world, when seen through a little girl's eyes.
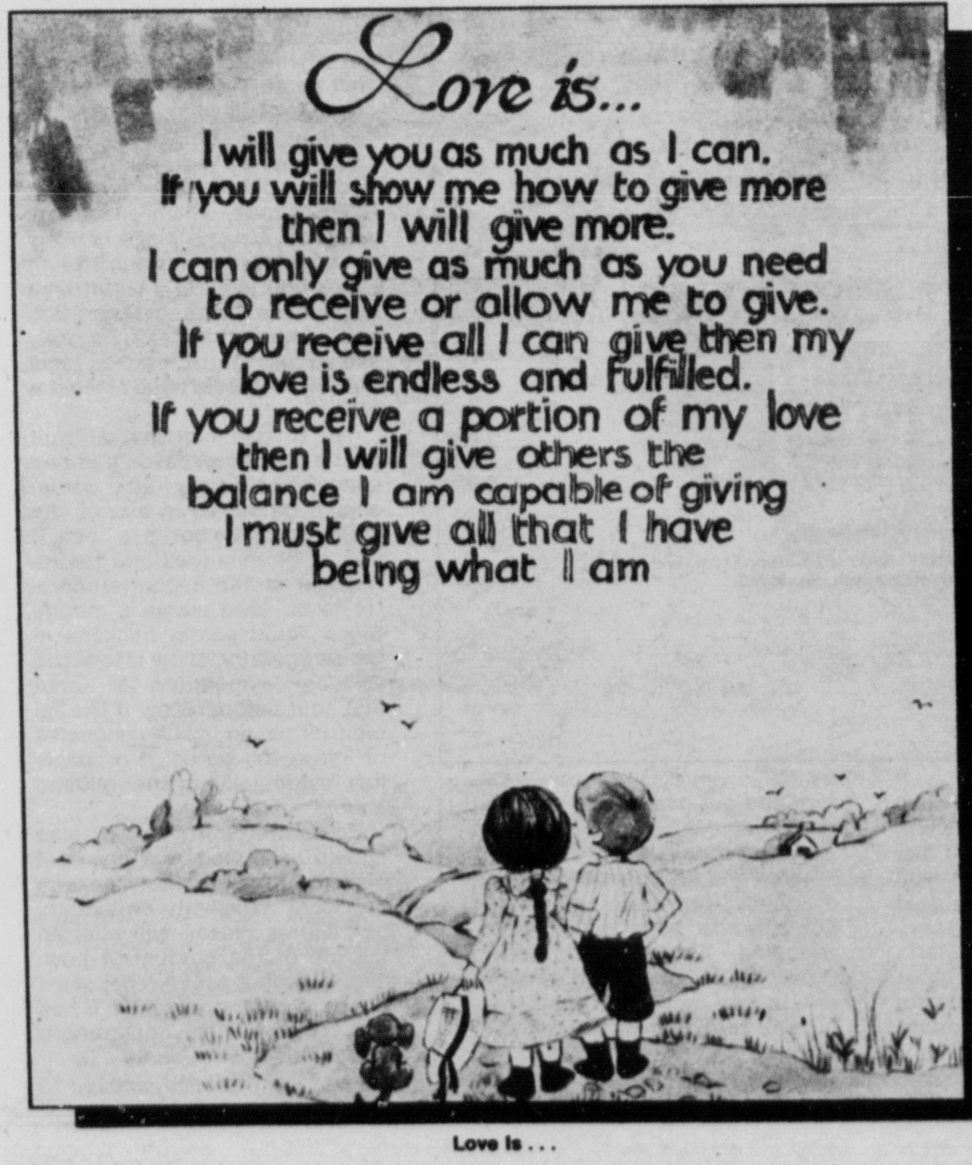
Greatly resembles Paradise.

Why God Made Little Girls



Love is...

I will give you as much as I can.
If you will show me how to give more
then I will give more.
I can only give as much as you need
to receive or allow me to give.
If you receive all I can give then my
love is endless and fulfilled.
If you receive a portion of my love
then I will give others the
balance I am capable of giving
I must give all that I have
being what I am

STRAWBERRY BLITZ TORTE*

1 cup sifted cake flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup shortening
½ cup sugar
4 egg yolks
3 tablespoons milk
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
Meringue (see recipe below)
Filling and topping (see recipe below)

1. Preheat oven to 350°F. Grease two 8-inch layer-cake pans.

2. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together.

3. In large bowl, with electric mixer set at medium speed, beat shortening until creamy. Gradually add sugar and continue beating until light and fluffy.

4. Beat egg yolks in separate bowl and add to creamed mixture. Stir in milk and vanilla.

5. Add dry ingredients at low speed and beat until smooth. Pour batter into cake pans.

6. Lightly pile half of the meringue mixture over the batter in each pan; spread evenly. Bake in 350°F. oven until cake tests done and meringue is pale gold, about 35 minutes.

7. Remove from oven, loosen sides of tortes from pans and place tortes on wire racks, keeping the meringue side up. Add filling and topping.

Makes 8 to 10 servings

Meringue

4 egg whites
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cream of tartar
1 cup sugar
½ teaspoon pure vanilla extract

1. Beat egg whites, salt and cream of tartar until they stand in soft peaks.

2. Gradually add sugar, beating well after each addition. Then add vanilla.

Strawberry Filling and Topping

1 cup heavy cream, whipped
4 tablespoons confectioners' sugar
2 cups sliced strawberries
8 strawberries for garnish

1. Combine whipped cream and confectioners' sugar. Fold in sliced strawberries.

2. Spread half between layers of Blitz Torte (meringue side up) and use remaining as topping. Decorate with whole berries. Refrigerate if not serving immediately.

*We've published this recipe before, but because it's June and strawberry time, and because so many readers have asked for it, we present it again.

HOW TO CAPTURE FRESH FRUITS FOR JAMS AND JELLIES

Jam-and jelly-making can be a highly rewarding experience. What could be more pleasurable than sun-soaked fruits throughout the year? Of course, the successful jam and jelly maker thoroughly understands the basics of the procedure.

Be guided by reliable rules developed as a result of extensive research and testing. Three essential ingredients — sugar, acid and pectin — are necessary for any fruit to jell. The proper proportion of these elements is what makes the jelly "jell' and the jam really "jam."

Don't underestimate the importance of pectin in assuring a good "set." A natural substance found in fruits, it acts as a binder for cells of the fruit. As fruit ripens, however, the amount of pectin decreases. Consequently, when fruit is at the peak of flavor and ideally suited for jam-and jelly-making, commercial pectin often must be added to ensure a successful "set."

Commercial pectin offers other advantages. By adding a controlled amount of liquid or powdered fruit pectin to the fruit along with sugar, and acid if necessary, cooking time is reduced to mere minutes. This short-boil method helps to retain more of the fresh fruit flavor and color that might be lost with the old-fashioned long-boil method. Time and energy are saved, too, with the short-boil method. Note even though the two commercial pectin products — liquid and powdered fruit pectins — create the same end result, their recipes are not interchangeable.

If you prefer to eliminate most of the top-of-the range cooking, try a good freezer jam. These jams are easy to prepare, and there's no need to cook the fruit or to purchase special containers. Containers (no larger than a pint) originally designed to hold food, with smooth sides and tight-fitting lids, are excellent. Glass containers should be heatproof or freezerproof. Consider using glass jars that once held jam, jelly, instant coffee, baby food or pickles. Use dishwasher-safe plastic containers, such as those used for storing margarine and frozen whipped topping. Wash and scald the containers according to recipe instructions.

Freezer jams may be stored in the freezer or refrigerator. Recommended freezer storage time is about six months. Jam either freshly made or thawed from freezer storage can be kept in the refrigerator up to three weeks. As with cooked jams and jellies, recipes for freezer jams often can be found under the label of the bottle holding liquid fruit pectin or inside the 1¾-oz. package of powdered fruit pectin.

Choose a cool, dry place to store cooked jams and jellies. Avoid a place with fluctuating temperatures, which encourage weeping. A damp place is likely to cause mold or mildew. Storing jellies and jams in a warm area may cause flavor deterioration and color changes. Properly sealed and stored, cooked jams and jellies should keep at least a year.

Try to use commercial fruit pectin the same season it is purchased. Liquid fruit pectin should be stored in a cool, dry place. Once the bottle is open, it should be recapped and the remainder stored in the refrigerator to be used within a month. Since liquid pectin thickens in the refrigerator, allow it to stand at room temperature for about one hour before using. If the liquid fruit pectin is still congealed or set in the bottle, it probably has lost its jellying strength and should not be used.

Powdered fruit pectin also should be stored in a dry, cool place. Although the package provides excellent protection, hot, humid places will shorten the life of the product. If powdered fruit pectin becomes brown in color and caked, it has lost some of its jellying strength and should not be used.

Without Fruit-Fresh.

With Fruit-Fresh.

Peaches preserved in ordinary canning syrup for 12 hours.

Fruit-Fresh®. You need it for canning, freezing, and fresh fruit.

If you want all the fruit you serve to look and taste its freshest, what you really need is Fruit-Fresh. Because Fruit-Fresh contains a special ingredient that locks in the natural, "just-picked" color and flavor. Which means no more brown, mushy-looking peaches.

Fruit-Fresh is economical, too. A 5-oz. can will preserve up to 75 lbs. of peaches. Here's how: For Canning: simply add Fruit-Fresh to the regular syrup. For Freezing: add Fruit-Fresh to the syrup or dry sugar. For Fresh Fruit: sprinkle Fruit-Fresh on your just-sliced fruit before refrigerating. Sound good? It tastes delicious.

Keeps fruit looking and tasting fresher.

Free Offer: For free Fruit-Fresh dessert recipe booklet, send self-addressed stamped envelope to: Fruit-Fresh Recipe Offer, Dept. FF475, Box 1467, Pittsburgh, Pa. 15230.

FREEZE SANDWICHES FOR LUNCH

If you bring your lunch from home, consider packing frozen sandwiches as a convenience as well as a safety measure. Harmful bacteria grow easily in sandwich fillings made with protein foods like meat, especially when the sandwich remains in a warm room for several hours. If the sandwich is frozen when you leave home, it will remain cold through most of the holding period before lunch, and bacteria will have little chance to grow.

Suitable types of fillings for freezing include meat, poultry, cheese spreads, egg-yolk mixture and nut pastes. Do not use raw vegetables, hard-cooked egg whites or fruit jellies.

Wrap and seal sandwiches individually for freezing, using polyethylene bags or a sheet wrapping, like aluminum foil. Frozen sandwiches keep well for one to two months at temperatures of zero degrees Fahrenheit or lower.

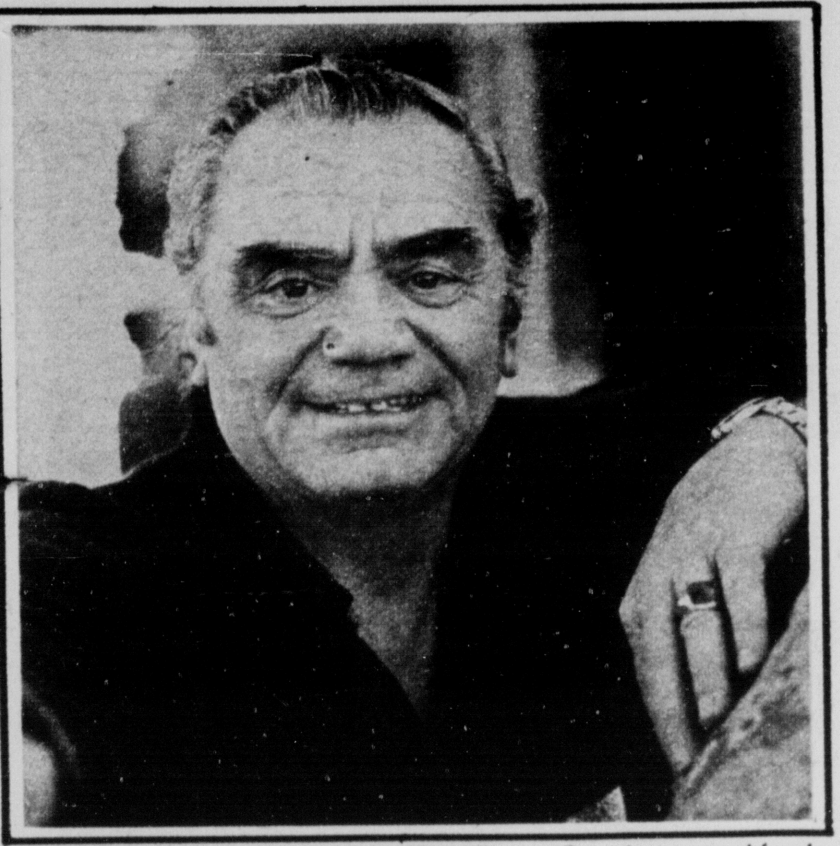
ERNEST BORGNINE'S FOOD IS SO GOOD HE MAY WRITE A COOKBOOK



Our chef, who can be seen on TV in Future Cop, loves good food.

By Ernest Borgnine
As told to Helen Dorsey

I'm a good cook. My parents were both good cooks. In fact, my father was even better than my mother. At one time he was assistant to Oscar of the Waldorf. He could have had the job after Oscar, but he was frivolous and lost the opportunity.

When you have Italian parents, I think you inherit a discrimination for good food. I have definite likes and dislikes, but my wife says I'm easy to please. Actually, I do most of the cooking.

My food tastes are diverse, and I love to sample the local food wherever I travel. Actors make good ambassadors. We get to know the people, work with them, see how they live and work and how they eat. I'm particularly fond of Mexican food because I'm a lover of rice, especially when good Mexican beans are served over it. I love good frijoles, made by soaking the beans overnight and simmering them in a huge pot. They are best made a day in advance and allowed to remain in the cazula, a clay pot that's been fired and treated. They say the beans take on the essence of the onions and the salt pork.

Mexicans use a lot of peppers, but you'll seldom find pepper in Spain. The food there is quite bland in comparison to Mexican food. So is much of the Italian fare in comparison to American-Italian food. Americans introduced red pepperoni over the top of spaghetti; you never will find that in Italy. If you ask for it, the Italians will look at you with a blank look as if to say, "What's wrong with you, are you mad?"

I cook almost anything. Tove, my wife, and I love to entertain at Sunday brunch. I start with chicken livers, green peppers and mushrooms and create the sauce from tomato paste, soy sauce and wine. I simmer the dish and serve it over rice. It's delicious. Or I create a "Hot" beef stew. Tove and I are thinking of writing a cookbook together — some recipes from our travels, others from family favorites.

Listen, I'm a simple guy. My friends are not in show business. I like to watch the boob tube and run down to my boat or play a little golf. My philosophy is that I deserve my comforts because I've worked hard to achieve them. I own a 14-room house, but you can put your feet on the coffee table.

My idea of a good scene is a beautiful sunset, the ocean, a work of art, holding hands with my lovely wife, reading a good book, browsing in antique shops or looking at a piece of rock.

Ernie likes to serve his Livers and Wine Sauce dish over rice and with a tossed green salad.

2 small cans tomato sauce
¾ cup Chianti wine
3 to 4 tablespoons soy sauce
½ teaspoon salt
Freshly ground black pepper to taste
½ teaspoon crumbled dried oregano
3 cups hot cooked rice

Sauté onion in oil until light brown. Add livers; cook until light in color. Wash, pat dry mushrooms on paper towels, slice. Add mushrooms and peppers to pan. Add tomato sauce, wine and soy sauce. Season to taste, add oregano, simmer about ½ hour over low heat, stirring occasionally. Spoon over hot cooked rice. Serves 6

Afterthought: Delicious, fast and inexpensive to serve for main dish or Sunday brunch. Serve with scrambled eggs, hot buttered English muffins and tossed green salad.

"HOT" BEEF PEPPERY SPECIAL

1½ to 2 lbs. lean boneless beef, cut into ½-inch cubes
½ teaspoon salt
Few gratings black pepper
1 teaspoon vegetable oil or butter
1 large yellow onion, peeled, chopped
1 garlic clove, pressed, optional
¼ cup finely minced salt pork
4 large bell peppers
2 small hot chili peppers
½ can tomato paste
2 large tomatoes, peeled, chopped
½ teaspoon cumin

Season beef sparingly with salt and pepper. Rub heavy skillet with vegetable oil or butter. Brown beef quickly and set aside. In separate skillet, brown onion, garlic and salt pork. Remove stems and veins from bell peppers; chop. Chop hot chili peppers. Add both kinds of peppers to browned onion mixture. Cover loosely, cook closely, let steam come up, discard liquid. Add cooked pepper mixture to meat. Add tomato paste, chopped tomatoes and cumin. Cover loosely; let slowly simmer about 1 hour or until sauce has reduced in volume by one-half. Stir several times to prevent burning. Correct seasonings. Spoon over hot cooked rice and serve with tossed green salad. Terrific with dry red Italian wine. Serves 4

Afterthought: Works as well when made with chopped cooked chicken or leftover pork.

BLUE RIBBON RECIPES

Continued

Spring Potpourri Freezer Jam is a cinch to make with either fresh raspberries or strawberries.

SPRING POTPOURRI JAM

2 quarts raspberries or strawberries
1 qt. crushed blueberries
5½ cups sugar
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon ascorbic acid powder*
2 pkgs. (1 ¾ ozs. each) powdered pectin
1 cup water

1. In a medium saucepan, combine raspberries, blueberries, sugar, cinnamon, lemon juice and ascorbic acid powder. Allow mixture to stand for 20 minutes.
2. Bring raspberry mixture to a boil long enough to dissolve the sugar. The raspberry mixture will become transparent when the sugar is dissolved.
3. In a small saucepan, combine pectin and water; bring the mixture to a boil for 1 minute, stirring constantly.
4. Pour hot pectin into raspberry mixture, stirring constantly for 2 minutes. Ladle quickly into clean freezer jars or containers.
5. Let stand at room temperature about an hour or until fruit has set. (May take up to 24 hours.)
6. Jam will keep well for a few weeks in the refrigerator; freezer jams will keep for long-term storage in the freezer. Makes 5 (8-oz.) jars

*Commercially known as Fruit Fresh.

Containers should have tight-fitting lids and be no larger than 1 pint. Wash, scald and drain containers and lids or use automatic dishwasher with very hot rinse water.

TIPSY STRAWBERRY JAM
(Easy Freezer Jam)

4 cups hulled, crushed strawberries
1 pkg. (1 ¾ ozs.) powdered pectin
½ cup light corn syrup
½ cup claret, port or sherry wine
5½ cups granulated sugar
3 tablespoons lemon juice

1. Place crushed strawberries in a large kettle. Sift powdered pectin over strawberries and allow to stand for 20 minutes.
2. Occasionally stir strawberries so pectin will thoroughly dissolve. Add corn syrup, wine and mix well.
3. Gradually add sugar and stir briskly. When sugar is thoroughly dissolved and liquid is thoroughly dissolved, stir in lemon juice.
4. Ladle quickly into clean freezer jars or containers.* Cover at once with tight lids. Let stand at room temperature until set (may take up to 24 hours); then store in freezer.
5. If jam will be used within 3 weeks, it may be stored in the refrigerator.
Makes about 8 (½-pt.) jars

*Containers should have tight-fitting lids and be no larger than 1 pint. Wash, scald and drain containers and lids or use automatic dishwasher with very hot rinse water.

RASPBERRY ALMOND TORTE

1 pkg. (18½ ozs.) yellow cake mix
1 pkg. (3½ ozs.) vanilla instant pudding and pie filling
4 eggs
1 cup water
¼ cup oil
1 teaspoon almond extract
½ cup chopped toasted almonds
2 cups red raspberry preserves
1 cup slivered almonds
Confectioners' sugar

1. Preheat oven to 350°F. Grease and flour two 9-inch layer pans.
2. In large mixer bowl, combine cake mix, pudding mix, eggs, water, oil and almond extract.
3. Blend; then beat at medium speed of electric mixer for 2 minutes. Stir in chopped almonds.
4. Pour batter into prepared pans. Bake 30 to 35 minutes or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean and cake begins to pull away from sides of pan. Do not underbake.
5. Cool in pans 15 minutes. Remove from pans and finish cooling on racks.
6. Split each layer horizontally with serrated knife, making 4 layers.
7. For each torte, spread ⅔ cup of the preserves on top of one layer and top with second layer. Spread second layer with ⅓ cup of the preserves. Sprinkle with slivered almonds. Shake on generous coat of confectioners' sugar.
8. For our picture, we cut out a 3-inch circle from center of top layers before assembling tortes. One of the layers may be frozen and used at another time. Makes 2 tortes

SOUR CREAM PUDDING CAKE

1 pkg. (18½ ozs.) chocolate cake mix
1 pkg. (3½ ozs.) chocolate or chocolate nut instant pudding and pie filling
4 eggs
¾ cup water
½ cup sour cream
¼ cup oil
Confectioners' sugar

1. Preheat oven to 350°F. Grease and flour a 10-inch fluted tube pan.
2. Combine all ingredients in large mixer bowl. Blend; then beat at medium speed of electric mixer for 4 minutes.
3. Pour batter into prepared pan. Bake for 55 to 60 minutes or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean and cake begins to pull away from sides of pan. Do not underbake.
4. Cool in pan for 15 minutes. Remove from pan and finish cooling on rack. Sift with confectioners' sugar if desired. Makes 1 large cake

SWEET CHOCOLATE GLAZE

3 squares sweet chocolate
1 teaspoon butter or vegetable shortening
1 tablespoon water
⅔ cup unsifted confectioners' sugar
Dash salt
Few drops vanilla extract

1. Melt chocolate and butter in water in small saucepan over low heat.
2. Combine sugar and salt in bowl. Gradually stir in chocolate mixture; blend well. Add vanilla.
3. If glaze is too thick for easy spreading and "running," add a little hot water.
Makes about ⅓ cup glaze

MINT CHIPPERS

½ cup butter or margarine
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
1½ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 or 3 drops green food coloring, optional
1 cup quick or old-fashioned oats, uncooked
1 pkg. (6 ozs.) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
½ cup shredded or flaked coconut
¼ cup milk
¼ teaspoon mint extract

1. Beat together butter and sugar until light and fluffy; stir in egg and vanilla.
2. Gradually add flour, baking powder and salt;

BILLY BOY'S APPLE PIE

Crust:

1½ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup vegetable shortening
¾ cup quick or old-fashioned oats, uncooked
7 or 8 tablespoons cold water

Filling:

¾ cup sugar
¼ cup unsifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
½ teaspoon ground nutmeg
¼ teaspoon salt
4 medium-sized cooking apples, peeled, cored and sliced (about 4 cups)
1 1-lb. can tart,pitted cherries, drained
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon butter or margarine

1. For crust, combine flour and salt; cut mixture into shortening until it resembles coarse crumbs. Stir in oats. Sprinkle water by tablespoonfuls over mixture, mixing lightly until dry ingredients are moistened. Form into ball.

2. Roll out half of dough on lightly floured surface to form 13-inch circle. Fit loosely into 9-inch pie plate; trim.

3. For filling, combine sugar, flour, cinnamon, nutmeg and salt. Arrange one-third of apple slices over bottom of pie crust; sprinkle with one-fourth of sugar mixture, apples and cherries.

4. Sprinkle with lemon juice; dot with butter. Roll out second-half of dough to form 12-inch circle; cut slits for steam to escape. Place over filling; trim. Turn edges under; flute.

5. Bake in preheated hot oven, 450°F., 35 to 40 minutes or until golden brown.

Makes 9-inch pie

CRUNCHY CORN DOGS

1 cup pancake mix
1 cup milk
¼ cup enriched corn meal
2 teaspoons chili powder
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
12 wooden skewers, 5 or 6 inches long
12 frankfurters
Vegetable oil

1. Combine pancake mix, milk, corn meal, chili powder, salt and pepper; mix until batter is fairly smooth.

2. Insert wooden skewers into frankfurters. Dip into batter; drain.

3. Fry in deep hot oil (375°F.), 1 or 2 minutes or until golden brown; drain on absorbent paper. Serve with mustard. Makes 12 servings

The favorite flavors of peaches and raspberries combine in this recipe for Peach Melba Jam.

PEACH MELBA JAM

2 lbs. medium-ripe peaches
2 cups raspberries
¼ cup lemon juice
7 cups sugar
½ of 6-oz. bottle liquid pectin

1. Peel and slice peaches. Crush with potato masher. Measure 3 cups.

2. Wash and crush raspberries. Combine fruits and stir in lemon juice. Add sugar and mix well.

3. Place in 3-qt. saucepan. Place over high heat and bring to a full rolling boil. Boil hard for 1 minute, stirring constantly.

4. Remove from heat; stir in liquid pectin. Skim foam from top. Stir and skim for 5 minutes.

5. Ladle quickly into sterilized jars,* filling to within ⅛ inch of top. Wipe top and threads of jars with clean damp cloth. Seal according to manufacturer's directions. Process 10 minutes in boiling-water bath, timing when water returns to boil.

Makes 4½ pints

*Wash, scald and drain jars and lids or use automatic dishwasher with very hot rinse water.

MISSISSIPPI MUD CAKE*

1 cup butter or margarine
4 eggs
1 cup flaked coconut
2 cups sugar
1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
⅓ cup cocoa
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
1 cup coarsely chopped walnuts
1 jar (13 ozs.) marshmallow crème

Frosting:

½ cup butter or margarine, softened
6 tablespoons milk
⅓ cup cocoa
1 box (1 lb.) confectioners' sugar
1 cup coarsely chopped walnuts

1. In large bowl with electric mixer at medium-high speed, beat butter until creamy. Add eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition.

2. Add coconut, sugar, flour, cocoa, vanilla and walnuts. Stir with large spoon until well mixed. This is a heavy batter. Don't beat.

3. Spread batter in greased 9 x 13 x 2-inch pan. Bake in preheated 350°F. oven for 45 minutes.

4. As soon as cake is taken from oven, spread marshmallow crème over hot cake. Let cool 20 minutes.

5. Meanwhile, make frosting: In large bowl, mix together all frosting ingredients except walnuts. Blend at low speed of electric mixer; gradually increase speed and blend together until smooth. Stir in half of walnuts.

6. With large spoon, spread frosting on top of cake; swirl through marshmallow crème. Sprinkle top with remaining walnuts.

Makes one 9 x 13 x 2-inch cake

Rye bread in a roll form — just the thing for you bread bakers to try.

RIBBON RYE ROLLS

½ cup warm water (105° to 115°F.)
2 packages active dry yeast
1½ cups warm milk (105° to 115°F.)
1 tablespoon sugar
1 tablespoon salt
¼ cup molasses
2 tablespoons margarine
3 to 3½ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
2½ cups unsifted rye flour
Melted margarine
1 egg white, beaten
2 teaspoons caraway seed
1 teaspoon salt, preferably coarsely ground

1. Measure warm water into large, warm bowl. Sprinkle in yeast; stir until dissolved. Add warm milk, sugar, 1 tablespoon salt, molasses and 2 tablespoons margarine.

2. Add 2 cups all-purpose flour. Beat with rotary beater or wire whisk until smooth (about 1 minute). Add 1 cup rye flour. Beat vigorously with a wooden spoon until smooth, about 150 strokes.

3. Stir in remaining rye flour and enough additional all-purpose flour to make a soft dough.

4. Turn out onto lightly floured board and knead until smooth and elastic, about 8 to 10 minutes. Cover with plastic wrap, then a towel. Let rest 20 minutes.

5. Divide dough into 4 equal portions. Roll each portion into a 6 x14-inch rectangle on a lightly floured board. Brush with melted margarine.

6. Crease dough at 2-inch intervals with blunt edge of knife, beginning at 6-inch edge. Fold dough back and forth on crease lines, accordion fashion. Cut folded dough into 1-inch pieces. Place cut side down in greased muffin cups. Brush rolls with oil. Cover pans loosely with plastic wrap. Refrigerate 2 to 24 hours.

7. When ready to bake, remove from refrigerator. Uncover dough carefully. Let stand, uncovered, 10 minutes at room temperature.

8. Preheat oven to 375°F. Brush rolls with beaten egg white and sprinkle with caraway seed and 1 teaspoon salt. Bake at 375°F. 20 to 25 minutes or until done.

Makes 2 dozen rolls

SPECIAL SAVINGS OFFER: 2 telescopes sent for only $7—rushed to you postpaid. You save $1.80. Spy-Scopes make wonderful gifts!

S&W's first annual old-fangled recipe contest.

Your best recipe could win you a glorious treasure from our warm, old-timey kitchen and an honored place in the S&W Old-Fangled Recipe Book. Just send us a favorite recipe that's been passed down in your family, or one you've worked out yourself, featuring any of S&W's fancy-quality foods.

Choose what you'd like to win.

Each of the best 25 recipes will win one of the wonderful prizes on the right. So go picture-shopping in our kitchen and pick out the item you'd most like to have in your kitchen. Then mark its number on your entry. (See column right of illustrations.)

Enter anything from soup to dessert.

S&W puts its labels on more than 300 varieties of fruits, vegetables, and specialty items. So your recipe could be for any part of the menu—for any meal of the day. Just be sure that one of our fine S&W products has a leading role.

All recipes will be judged by our food experts in the S&W kitchens.

A taste of the good old days.

Since 1896, we've been going to unusual lengths to select only the finest foods the earth provides for the S&W label. We know that the people who buy S&W foods are the kind who can taste the old-fashioned, fancy quality. So the recipes we get from S&W cooks should really be something exceptional!

75 runners-up will win old-fashioned market baskets, full of S&W Fine Foods.

If your recipe is one of the 75 runners-up, you'll receive a basketful of fancy foods from S&W. The basket is rustic-textured willow, sturdy enough to hold the kindling on your hearth, big enough to use as a double planter, light enough to use as a picnic basket.

1. An old-fashioned wall clock, with an 8-day wind and soft, resonant chimes. Handcrafted case in native pine, with a warm, antique finish. Hand-painted dial. The clock is 25 inches high, with a full-length glass door.

2. Give a sparkling warmth to your kitchen, with an array of hand-hammered copper. The set includes two skillets, three saucepans with lids, and a huge copper bowl for whipping egg whites. All in heavy French copper.

3. A 16-piece set of ovenproof serving dishes. They're gleaming, porcelain-white, decorated with colorful game birds. Set includes a 2-quart souffle dish; 10-inch quiche dish; four 5-inch quiche dishes; two pots de creme with saucers and lids; a 2-quart and a 1-quart covered casserole.

4. A heavy-topped kitchen table. It's a wonderful work table and a hearty kitchen dining table. 30 inches high, the top is 36 x 50 inches. And it's a full 2 inches thick! Solid, hardrock maple, in the old-time, butcher-block style.

5. A set of six ladder-back chairs. It's just possible that chairs like these were your grandmother's pride and joy. The chairs are 42½ inches high, and they have graceful, old-fashioned spindled detail. Your choice of maple, walnut or pine finish. The seats are hand-woven fiber rush.

6. A hefty butcher block table 36 inches high, 24 inches square. The top is a foot thick, and the whole thing weighs a hunky 93 pounds!

This is a contest where everyone wins.

The 100 best recipes will be published, along with the names of their authors, in S&W's Old-Fangled Recipe Book. And everyone who enters an original recipe will automatically receive a free copy when it is published. It will be a treasure-trove of bright, new tastes and menu ideas.

CHOCOLATE CHIP COFFEECAKE

2 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup chopped walnuts
¼ cup light brown sugar, firmly packed
2 tablespoons butter, melted
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 package (6 ozs.) chocolate morsels
½ cup butter or margarine, softened
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
2 eggs
1 cup dairy sour cream

1. Preheat oven to 375°F. Grease a 10-inch tube pan. Stir together flour, baking powder and salt. In separate bowl, combine walnuts, brown sugar, melted butter, cinnamon and chocolate chips; set aside.

2. With electric mixer, beat ½ cup butter, sugar and vanilla until fluffy.

3. Add eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. At low speed, add flour mixture alternately with sour cream to creamed mixture, beginning and ending with flour.

4. Spoon ½ batter into greased 10-inch tube pan. Sprinkle with half chocolate-chip mixture. Cover with remaining batter and remaining chocolate-chip mixture. Bake in preheated 375°F. oven 35 to 40 minutes or until browned. Cool 10 minutes before removing from pan.

CINNAMON BREAKFAST PUFFS

⅓ cup shortening
½ cup sugar
1 egg
1½ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
½ cup milk
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
6 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted

1. Preheat oven to 375°F. Grease muffin-pan cups.

2. In medium bowl with electric mixer at medium speed, beat together shortening and sugar, add egg, beat until very smooth.

3. On sheet of waxed paper stir together flour, baking powder, salt and nutmeg.

4. At low speed, stir flour mixture into sugar and egg mixture alternately with milk. Clean beaters, scrape sides of bowl, beat again just until blended.

5. Spoon batter into prepared muffin pans, filling ⅔ full. Bake 20 to 25 minutes until edges are lightly browned. Remove hot puffs from pans with spatula.

6. Mix sugar and cinnamon in small bowl. Dip tops of puffs into melted butter, brushing all sides with butter, then roll in sugar and cinnamon. Quickly continue with remaining puffs. Serve hot. Makes about 1 dozen

Make-ahead-note: May be frozen and then reheated (while still frozen) in 400°F. oven for about 10 minutes in dampened brown paper bag.

Whole Wheat Potato Bread is perfect alone and makes super sandwiches.

WHOLE WHEAT POTATO BREAD

1¾ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
2 packages active dry yeast
1 cup milk
½ cup water
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon salt
1½ cups mashed potatoes
½ cup dairy sour cream
½ cup minced onion
2 teaspoons tarragon
1 teaspoon garlic powder
5 to 6 cups whole wheat flour
Oil

1. Stir together enriched white flour and yeast. Heat milk, water, butter, sugar and salt until very warm (120°-130°F.), stirring to blend. Add liquid ingredients to flour-yeast mixture and beat until smooth, about 2 minutes on medium speed of electric mixer.

2. Add potatoes, sour cream, onion, tarragon and garlic powder. Beat until smooth, about 1 minute on medium speed.

3. Stir in enough whole wheat flour to make a moderately stiff dough. Turn out onto floured surface; let rest 5 minutes. Knead until smooth, 5 to 8 minutes.

4. Place dough in greased bowl, turning to grease top. Let rise in warm place (80°-85°F.) until doubled, about 45 to 50 minutes.

5. Punch down; divide dough in half. Roll out each half to 7x14-inch rectangle. Roll up from narrow side, pressing dough into roll at each turn. Press ends to seal and fold under loaf.

6. Place in two greased 4½ x 8½-inch loaf pans. Let rise in warm place until almost doubled, about 30 minutes. Bake in preheated 375°F. oven 35 to 40 minutes. Remove immediately from pans and brush with oil.

FOOD PRESERVATION PROGRAM BRINGS CANNING CENTERS TO COMMUNITIES

An unusual food preservation system developed by a major United States producer of canning equipment is bringing self-help canning centers to communities across the country.

The focus of the system is a miniature cannery that can produce more than 1,000 quarts of tomatoes a day. It is a small-staffed, do-it-yourself operation that can be installed in almost any kind of building.

More than 140 units are currently operating across the country. Most have been purchased by nonprofit groups, such as community-action programs, church groups and local town governments.

The idea behind the centers is to bring a safe, affordable and relatively easy method of high-volume home-canning into the community.

If you are looking for a bonanza year with your home vegetable and fruit gardening, you might inquire whether your neighborhood has such a food preservation center. For further information, write: Mr. David Meeks, Ball Corporation, Consumer Products Division, Dept. FW, 1509 South High Street, Muncie, Ind. 47302.

WALNUT JUMBOS

1¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour
¾ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
½ teaspoon ground ginger
½ cup butter or margarine, softened
1 cup light or dark brown sugar, packed
1 large egg
⅓ cup light molasses
2 cups uncooked quick oats
1 cup chopped walnuts

1. Preheat oven to 350°F. Lightly grease cookie sheets. Resift flour with salt, baking powder, soda and spices.

2. In large bowl with electric mixer, beat butter, sugar and egg together well.

3. Blend in molasses, then flour mixture and oats. Stir in ¾ cup walnuts.

4. Drop by quarter cupfuls onto lightly greased baking sheets, allowing room for spreading, and flatten slightly. Sprinkle top with remaining walnuts.

5. Bake above oven center for 13 to 15 minutes, until lightly browned. Let stand on sheets about 5 minutes, then use broad spatula to lift onto wire racks to cool. Makes 12 (5-inch) cookies

Crispy, crunchy, fun-to-eat Walnut Jumbos are great with a glass of milk.

CANTALOUPE CHUTNEY

2 teaspoons hot red-pepper flakes
6 whole cloves
13 -inch stick cinnamon, broken
3 cups cantaloupe, peeled, seeded and cut into 1½-inch chunks
¼ cup ascorbic acid powder*
2¼ cups light brown sugar, packed
1⅓ cups cider vinegar
1 cup lime juice
¾ cup fresh ginger slivers or ¾ cup thinly sliced celery, plus 2 teaspoons ginger
1 tablespoon celery seed
1 cup chopped onion
3 tablespoons mustard seed
1 tablespoon salt
2 large garlic cloves, crushed

1. Tie up in a little cheesecloth bag hot pepper flakes, whole cloves and cinnamon stick.

2. Place cheesecloth bag and all remaining ingredients in a large saucepan or Dutch oven and heat to boiling. Reduce heat and simmer for 15 minutes, covered.

3. Cool and let stand, covered, overnight to plump up the fruit.

4. Next day, return to Dutch oven and heat to boiling; reduce heat and simmer, uncovered, for 15 minutes. Cool, stirring occasionally.

5. Heat to boiling once again. Discard cheesecloth bag.

6. Ladle boiling hot chutney into hot sterilized jars; wipe top of jar free of juice and seal immediately with hot, sterilized lids, following manufacturer's directions.

7. Process in boiling-water bath 10 minutes, timing when water returns to boil. Makes 4 half pints

*Commercially known as Fruit Fresh.

Wash, scald and drain jars and lids or use automatic dishwasher with very hot rinse water.

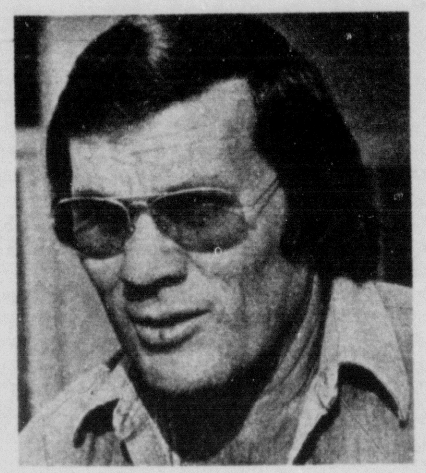
THE WORLD'S GREATEST STUNTMAN

For Hal Needham, leaping from the tops of buildings and engulfing himself in flames are part of a routine day.



By Mary Long

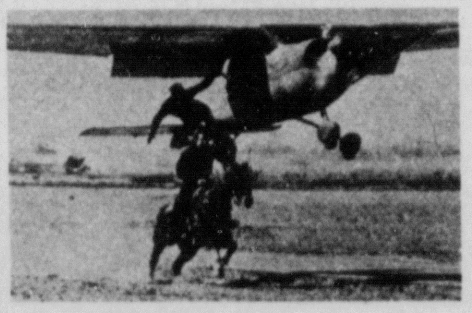
Hal Needham is a high roller. He'll roll through a building window 20 stories above the ground or off a horse going nearly 50 miles per hour or out of an airplane while attached to a parachute that has been tied together at the top. As the world's best stuntman, Needham thinks his working day has been easy if he doesn't break his back (for the third time) or his leg (for the 43rd).

Needham is the only stuntman good enough to work every day. He's seen constantly on TV (Charlie's Angels, The Six Million Dollar Man, Baretta, Mannix) and in films (Lucky Lady, Gable and Lombard, Gator, Nickelodeon) and makes a six-figure income for his efforts.

Most stuntmen only have two or three areas of specialization. Needham is an expert in a wide variety of stunt categories: he's considered the best at Western stunts (horse falls, stunt rides, saddle falls, stagecoach and wagon wrecks), fist fights, high falls, fire stunts (he's one of the few who will work fully engulfed in flames) and aerial stunts. He also can do anything with a car, truck, motorcycle or boat.

For example, he recently jumped a truck across a 112-foot drainage ditch with only a seat belt and a harness for protection. The truck landed 120 feet from the launch point and reached a height of 23 feet. Needham broke his back, and the truck was totally destroyed, but 25 of his fellow stuntmen turned out to see if he could make the jump.

He recently set a boat-jumping record as he sent a boat 138 feet through the air in the middle of a Georgia swamp while making a Burt Reynolds film. Soon afterwards, he enjoyed jumping out of an airplane to knock a guy off a horse. The plane soared down, and Needham launched himself at a horseman who was clocked doing more than 35 m.p.h.



Needham ready to fell a horseman

Needham likes to add what he calls a "little personal ingenuity" to those tried-and-true stunts you see on the screen. Almost every Western film ever made includes the stunt where the Indian or outlaw jumps from his horse to the stagecoach and then leaps onto the lead horses. "I find that easy and kinda boring," says Needham. So, he prefers to jump onto the backs of the last pair of a team of eight horses and leap from one pair to the next until he reaches the two lead horses.

"It's the little added bonus of realism that makes the difference between an adequately done stunt and a really convincing one," he says.

Needham is a country boy, and you can't miss it. The great-grandson of a Black Foot Indian and the son of Missouri sharecroppers, he spent much of his early life doing "stunts" without his realizing it. He grew up around horses and livestock and became a strong and daring rider. He left school early to earn a living and got his first work as a "treetopper" (climbing and cutting trees for lumbermen). When he joined the Army a few years later, they made him a parachute tester.

After the service, he returned to "treetopping" but took a day off to try his luck when he heard Warner Bros. needed parachutists and wing jumpers for The Spirit of St. Louis. Needham found his niche diving out of planes for that film, but the real kickoff for his career came when a director spotted the ruggedly handsome kid on the movie set and made him a "double" for actor Richard Boone in the old TV show Have Gun, Will Travel.

What makes a man risk life and limb day after day? Needham says he does stunts primarily because he is a natural athlete and they come easily to him.

He also is one of Hollywood's favorite characters. When he recently celebrated his 40th birthday — and his 20th year in the business — everyone from John Wayne to Gregory Peck turned up for the party. Needham attended the gala in his customized pickup truck, dressed head to toe in denim, an outfit known in Hollywood as "Needham's Tuxedo." He lives in a big Hollywood Hills mansion with his roommate, actor Burt Reynolds.

Needham works out every day and follows a rigorous exercise regimen. He says he probably could continue his career for another decade or more with no problem. But he won't. "I've got four — maybe five — years left to be the very best stuntman in the business," he says. "So four or five years is all I've got to go."

ANNOUNCING DOCTOR'S TURN-OFF FORMULA IN NO-HUNGER REDUCING PROGRAM.

Now! THE DOCTOR'S PILL THAT HELPS CONQUER FAT AUTOMATICALLY!

Called the "Total Contentment" pill — it's safe as a cough drop, gentle as a vitamin pill . . . yet so effective it helps shut off your appetite for hours at a time. Meaning: instead of gorging yourself at mealtimes . . . instead of yielding to between meal hunger . . . instead of battling that nighttime urge for snacks . . . you simply reach for a pill instead of fattening foods, and lose up to 6 pounds of fluid and fat the very first weekend alone.

Even more significant as long as you follow this medically proven lifetime slimness program, you'll never again suffer embarrassing fat build-up for the rest of your life — even if you've been hopelessly overweight all your adult life.

YES! NOW LOSE 20, 30, EVEN 40—OR MORE POUNDS, AND KEEP IT OFF!

Yes, just 60 seconds from now you're going to discover how one of America's leading medical specialists in obesity now makes it possible for you to lose 10, 20, 30, even 40 pounds — or more AND NEVER GAIN IT BACK FOR THE REST OF YOUR LIFE as long as you follow this medically proven LIFETIME SLIMNESS program. That's right! Lose up to 12 pounds in just 14 days . . . shrink your waistline up to 3 inches in a mere 2 weeks' time . . . and even more important, discover the way to make yourself ENJOY PERMANENT SLIMNESS FOR THE REST OF YOUR LIFE! IN OTHER WORDS, PERMANENT LIFETIME SLIMNESS — FINALLY YOURS. THANKS TO THIS DOCTOR'S PROGRAM AND THE TOTAL CONTENTMENT PILL.

NOW! A LIFETIME OF SLIMNESS WITHOUT THE TORTURE OF HUNGER

How can medical science make this lifelong dream come true? It's simple. Because doctors have developed a remarkably easy way for you to SHUT-OFF YOUR APPETITE — SHUT-OFF THAT DRIVING URGE FOR FOOD — SHUT-OFF GNAWING HUNGER FOR HOURS AT A TIME. Yes, actually command hunger to STOP in just minutes . . . and make excess pounds and inches disappear from sight so fast . . . that in a matter of weeks you may actually need a brand new wardrobe.

NOW COMES MEDICAL SCIENCE'S "CONTENTMENT-IN-A-PILL"

The secret is a new development called the TOTAL CONTENTMENT PILL — that according to medical experts is so effective, just one pill has the same hunger-satisfying potential as a serving of bread, mashed potatoes, or any of these filling foods you would normally heap on your plate. Yes, one single pill that gives you a fully satisfied feeling, leaves you . . . calm, happy, totally content.

In other words, even before you have those first pangs of hunger . . . that maddening urge for food . . . you simply put your appetite to sleep with this doctor's pill. Just like water turns off thirst, this TOTAL CONTENTMENT PILL turns off hunger AUTOMATICALLY . . . in just minutes!

LIFETIME SLIMNESS—FINALLY A REALITY.

Best of all, the TOTAL CONTENTMENT PILL is not only as safe and mild as a vitamin pill, but so gentle that the only sensation you experience is that of total satisfaction. And the only change you'll feel or see is in the smaller size of your clothing!

YOUR TUMMY FEELS LIKE YOU FEASTED—BUT, YOUR WAISTLINE LOOKS LIKE YOU FASTED!

What does this mean? Simply that from this day on, depending on how overweight you are, anytime you want to melt away 10, 20, 30 — or even more pounds . . . anytime you want to . . .

LOSE up to 4 to 6 inches off your waistline
LOSE up to 3 to 4 inches off your hips
LOSE up to 3 inches off your thighs
LOSE up to 4 inches off your buttocks
LOSE up to 4 inches off your stomach . . .

instead of torturous diet . . . instead of brutal exercise . . . instead of battling your willpower . . . you just take medical science's new TOTAL CONTENTMENT PILL as part of this "LIFETIME SLIMNESS PROGRAM" and SHUT DOWN YOUR OLD ENEMY, HUNGER — SHUT OUT FAT-BUILDING CALORIES . . . actually make yourself DEFEAT FAT BUILD-UP FOR THE REST OF YOUR LIFE — as long as you take an oath to faithfully follow this proven program to LIFETIME SLIMNESS!

PROVE EVERY LOST OUNCE ENTIRELY AT OUR RISK!

So . . . if you want to see pounds and inches vanish from sight faster than you ever dreamed possible . . . act now on guarantee of full satisfaction or money refunded in full (except postage & handling), simply return within 10 days.

Remember no one ever again need be even a single pound overweight! Why not take THE FINAL STEP and get rid of all those excess pounds, excess inches FOR THE REST OF YOUR LIFE. Act now.

VITAL NOTICE:

Even though the TOTAL CONTENTMENT PILL turns off your appetite for hours at a time YOU CANNOT GO ON FOR LONG PERIODS EATING NOTHING. You must eat at least two meals a day . . . even if you have to force yourself. And the doctor provides you with an array of delicious foods to perk up and maintain your interest so you have a balanced caloric intake . . . even though you may not care to eat. We urge you to show this entire program to your own family physician and see if he doesn't agree that this Lifetime Road to Slimness including the few minutes of nightly toneup the doctor highly recommends is by far one of the most medically sound, fully sensible approaches to the problem of obesity.

12 Ways To Save Money On Health Care

1. Make a money-management plan for health. Know where your money goes. It's your first step toward expert money management.

2. Have regular checkups. Catch problems before they get serious.

3. Prevent home accidents. Do periodic maintenance and repair checks. Keep poisons, flammables and medicines away from children.

4. Learn first-aid basics. Be prepared for emergencies with an adequate first-aid kit in home and car.

5. Learn about low-cost or free health care. These should include well-baby clinics, free immunizations and tests. Also check community services offered by state agencies and medical schools.

6. Compare insurance plans and the coverages they offer. Group insurance usually costs less than individual policies.

7. Insure adequately. Particularly important for major expenses — long illnesses, severe accidents, etc., that could be real economic hardships.

8. Update insurance coverage. Insurance should be adapted to fit changing needs, such as bigger responsibilities and new children.

9. Buy drugs by generic name. It's much cheaper if someone needs a prescription drug regularly. Ask your doctor about the least expensive way to purchase drugs.

10. Update immunizations for communicable diseases.

11. Keep careful records of medical and health-related expenses. It can save you dollars at tax time.

12. Stay fit. That means a good diet, adequate rest and healthy, active exercise. It's your best "no-cost" health care.

If Shoes Are Made For Jogging Don't Wear Them For Tennis

Jogging may be good for you, but jogging shoes are not if they are used for the wrong sport, says Dr. John Billings, a physiologist from the Univ. of Connecticut. Wearing jogging shoes for tennis and other court games could result in ankle strains, sprains and breaks because of the jogging-shoe design — a built-up heel tapering to a thin sole at the toe. "This design is excellent for facilitating weight transfer from heel to toe during jogging," says Dr. Billings. The hazard comes when the shoes are worn for sports in which quick stops and turns are required. The person's toes become jammed, and when he tries to turn quickly, the ankle is likely to turn over. Is there a shoe to wear for just about anything? Dr. Billings says the best "general athletic shoe" has a flat sole so the heel and toe remain parallel to the ground.

All About Leases (How To Protect Your Rights)

A lease is a written contract between the owner of a home (landlord) and the renter of his home (tenant). It usually fixes all terms so no changes can be made for a year. Can you rent a home without a lease? Yes — but without a lease terms can change with 30 days' (or less) notice.

Your lease should contain the following information:

- Names. You, landlord, your addresses.
- Description. Of the building or the apartment you are renting.
- Dates. Of your rental.
- Renewal. Can the lease be renewed, and when?
- Rent. Amount and due date. When can it be raised? Penalty for late payment?
- Moving. When can the lease be terminated and how?
- Deposit. Do you have to make a deposit? How much? What does it cover? Will it be returned if you move?
- Maintenance and repairs. Who is responsible for what?
- Tenant's Responsibilities. Can you sublet? Can you decorate?
- Landlord's Responsibilities. When can he enter your home? Does he have a lien on your property?

Positive Vibes

Listening to rock music while studying doesn't hurt teenagers' concentration a bit, says Ohio Univ. researcher James L. Franklin. "Teenagers are using rock music to accompany many activities. In fact, many feel incomplete without the ever-present beat of this music." Franklin gave reading comprehension tests to three groups of 8th-graders. One group took the test with loud rock 'n' roll playing, another with music at low volume and the third with no music. He found no difference in their scores. From his experiment he also found that teens prefer to study with music playing at 80 to 90 decibels — the level of sound from a diesel truck traveling 40 m.p.h., 50 feet away.

Prolong The Life Of Cut Flowers

Keep flowers longer by giving them the proper kind of care.

1. Cut or buy flowers in the bud stage.

2. Flowers should be hardened as soon as they are brought into the home. To harden, cut about 1/4 inch off the stem on an angle and insert into a bucket of warm water (75°-95° F.) for four hours. (Since daffodils emit a fluid when cut, they should not be combined with other flowers during the hardening process.) Recut stems and add fresh water every two days.

3. The most important thing for long life of cut flowers is a flower preservative. Research at Michigan State Univ. showed that sugared, citrus-flavored, carbonated soft drinks make effective preservatives. The experts recommend mixing one part water with each part soft drink and adding 1/2 teaspoon of chlorine bleach to each quart of the solution.

4. Cut flowers early in the morning or late in the afternoon. They should be cut several hours before they are to be used to allow for conditioning (hardening). Cut flowers with a sharp knife. (Dull shears or scissors will crush the stem and partially close some of the tubes that are needed to absorb and transmit water.) Strip off lower leaves that will be covered by water and thereby will encourage bacterial growth. Keep flowers in a cool place at night.

Keep Your Rings Looking Great

You can keep your rings — old or new — at their prettiest with regular care. Clean them once a month with hot water and detergent or cold water and ammonia. (Pearls, opals, and turquoise are exceptions and should be polished with a dry cloth.) Soak, scrub them with a toothbrush, rinse, then dry. Be sure to check the stones often to see that they're secure. If loose, return the ring to your jeweler. In any case, take your rings to your jeweler every year or two for a professional mounting inspection and a cleaning. Remove rings for heavy housework, swimming and gardening. Store in a cloth-lined jewelry box. Keep diamonds separate; since they're the hardest substance known to man, they're bound to scratch softer stones and metals.

Quick Takes

The meat on your table may have a new partner soon. A cousin of the squash and the cucumber, the mirliton, will be showing up in the fresh-produce and frozen-food sections of your supermarket shortly. The mirliton, also called a vegetable pear, is a good source of vitamins and most food nutrients except protein.... Chronic use of sleeping pills by persons suffering from insomnia may hinder rather than help sleep patterns, according to studies conducted at Boston's Peter Bent Brigham Hospital. Dr. Quentin Regestein says chronic use of drugs often increases nightly awakenings and abolishes deep sleep instead of getting a person to sleep faster.... Women who buy U.S. Savings Bonds will no longer have to indicate whether they are "Miss" or "Mrs." on the bond, according to a new regulation issued at the direction of Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal. The change was announced after Blumenthal received a letter from the National Organization of Women (NOW), requesting an explanation of the practice.... The dogs of Paris won a victory recently when Mayor Jacques Chirac decreed that they will have their own special toilet space on every street. The victory was not complete, however, since this plan is a far cry from an expensive 1975 project to set up flower-decorated private flush toilets for the four-footed — an idea that never got off the ground.... Dr. William Dunlap of Baton Rouge, La., told the Academy of Pediatrics that the common cold is a problem that just won't go away. There's no cure or vaccine in sight. Furthermore, says Dunlap, the common cold can't wait to get at us. There are instances in which a child is born with a cold, and most adults are destined for at least 140 colds in a lifetime.

WHY PLANT A GROUND COVER?

In many areas and situations, ground covers are more appropriate and more satisfactory than turf. They are able to grow and thrive in sun OR shade, and in poor soil.

On steep slopes where mowing is difficult, ground cover is much more effective and much less laborious to maintain than grass. Ground covers hold the soil as well as turf and the textures are far more interesting.

Small areas of grass are a continual chore to keep mown and trimmed but ground covers require almost no care. They are excellent protection and soil conditioners. They hold the fallen leaves from blowing away, thus helping to add annually to the humus content.

WHY CREEPING RED SEDUM?

One of Sedum's most valuable assets is its full time beauty. Lush foliage begins in early spring, and star-shaped wine red flowers delight the viewer from late June through September. The attractive semi-evergreen foliage lasts well into winter, maintaining its rich green and bronze color nearly all year round.

Besides being one of the loveliest of the ground covers, Sedum also rates high on the other requirements. It is hardy, grows well in sun or partial shade, in sandy soil, clay soil, or good soil.

Its thick foliage and root system hold the soil on slopes or banks. The neat 3-4" cover forms a dense perennial mat to bring green and wine red beauty to slopes, borders, rocky areas, anywhere beauty and durability are needed.

Each plant will easily and quickly spread to fill one sq. ft. Sedum spreads evenly, maintains its uniform smooth beauty at all stages of growth. Unlike some other ground covers, Sedum, also called "Dragon's Blood," stays where you put it — does not straggle out into places where it doesn't belong. Sedum is almost indestructible, enduring and persisting against heavy climatic and nutritional odds.

FULLY GUARANTEED

All items guaranteed to be of high quality, exactly as advertised and to arrive in good healthy condition or purchase price will be refunded. RETURN SHIPPING LABEL ONLY —you may keep the plants. (One year limit).

Now is a Good Time to Order RED SEDUM!

Your young Sedum plants will establish themselves and begin to spread a few days after planting. In a month or so they will already be 3-4 inches in diameter. They may lose their foliage as the first winter progresses but will leaf out again in early spring. During a long growing season they may reach 12" in diameter, always maintaining their neat regulated shape.
